The Taylorville City Council voted and passed a motion to adopt proposed ordinances amending the city code pertaining to Video Gaming and Liquor License Classifications at Monday nights Taylorville City Council meeting. In the ordinance, a business who wants video gaming has to have a certain percentage of their business come from a particular revenue stream. City Alderman Ernie Dorchinecz (Dor-Shin-Ez) asked the council, who exactly monitors those revenue streams?

TUE 4 Gaming1 :34

Alderman Bruce Jones explained that the businesses when they report their quarterly numbers will give that information to the mayor, who will then monitor the figures.

TUE 5 Gaming2 :33

Taylorville Mayor Greg Brotherton said the businesses will sign something saying the numbers they're reporting are true, and the Mayor's office won't look further into the matter unless it's brought to the city's attention.

TUE 6 Gaming3 :25

Mayor Brotherton said most cases are no-brainers, and there is only a handful of businesses who's numbers may need closer attention.

TUE 7 Gaming4 :23

The motion to adopt the proposed ordinances passed 6-2, with the motions to accept the changes to the ordinances passing 7-2.

The Taylorville City Council met in their regularly scheduled meeting on Monday night at the Taylorville Municipal Building. The council approved Police Chief Brian Hile's appointment of Vince Childers as his Deputy Police Chief, in a unanimous vote. Childers took his oath of office, and shook hands with the council.

Another item on the agenda regarded a resolution for maintenance to city streets. The resolution got tricky when it came to where the funds will come from for the projects. Alderman Larry Budd was against the resolution, saying how money the city would get for projects such as this through the motor fuel tax funds the city receives from the state, would not reimburse funds used from the city's general fund on the projects.

TUE 3 council1 :33

Alderman Rob Heberling said how funding projects the way the resolution funded them was simply allowing the city to skip a step of transferring funds across various city bank accounts.

TUE 4 council4 :33

City Attorney Rocci Romano attempted to explain the resolution in further detail.

TUE 5 council2 :28

Romano went on to say that if funds are used out of the general fund for projects that could use motor fuel tax money, the general fund can be reimbursed through money from the motor fuel tax.

TUE 6 council3 :31

Ultimately the resolution passed by a vote of 5 to 2 with 1 abstain.

The Taylorville City Council have approved the mayor's recommendation to appoint Brian Hile as Chief of Police for the city of Taylorville. Hile said that he had spoken with several of the aldermen before the meeting so they could better judge whether or not they felt he was a good fit. Hile said many of those conversations revolved around things the Taylorville Police Department can continue to do and improve in the future.

TUE 5 CCouncil4 :25

Taylorville Mayor Greg Brotherton shared why he recommended Hile for the position.

TUE 6 CCouncil1 :24

The Council also voted on a trio of motions on Monday night regarding several properties around the city. The properties are all heavily damaged, and a cause of blight for Taylorville. Mayor Brotherton said the ordinances are part of a movement from the city council to get problem properties torn down.

TUE 7 CCouncil2 :37

Mayor Brotherton explained that the ordinances will mean that the city will reimburse the property owners the initial costs of tearing the properties down.

TUE 8 CCouncil3 :41

After approving the payment of bills, Monday nights meeting of the Taylorville City Council adjourned at 7:48 pm.

The Christian County Board has a new chairman. Tim Carlson was voted unanimously Monday night by the new Christian County Board to serve as Chairman of the Board. Carlson said it's an honor to be voted Chairman, and he felt it was the right time to throw his name in for the position.

FRI 1 Carlson1 :27

One issue Carlson hopes to tackle is the current deficit the county has. He says it will take some hard work, but has some ideas to help eliminate expenses.

FRI 2 Carlson2 :32

Carlson said his time already serving on the county board gave him a better understanding of the various cuts that could be made to county spending to help fight the budget deficit.

The Christian County Board held their final meeting of 2016 Tuesday Night at the Christian County Courthouse. It was the first meeting for the newly elected board, and first meeting chaired by the newly appointed County Board Chairman Tim Carlson. Carlson spoke with WTIMTV after the meeting, and shared his thoughts on how the meeting went.

MON 1 Tim1 :13

One of the issues discussed was motions voted on at the meeting was a motion to appropriate money from the Motor Fuel Tax Fund for payment of the salary and expenses of the County Engineer for the 2017 fiscal year. Per County Board resolution the salary for the position is set at the state recommended amount of $108,500. Although the motion had to be done due to it being a county board resolution, it did draw a no vote during roll call. Carlson commented on the salary, saying it was a reasonable increase.

MON 2 Tim3 :13

Another issue to generate discussion surrounded new pictometry imaging equipment for the County Assessor. The new process would involve a county land fly-over, that would then take those images and put them in a GIS system for county assessment. Carlson said he voted no to the flyover process, due to privacy concerns from his constituents.

The votes have been counted and with absentee and mail in ballots counted, one race for a Christian County Board seat can be finalized. Christian County Clerk Laurie Mense explained how in one county board district, only three people ran for office instead of the usual four.

THU 3 Election1 :24

Mense said as of election night, Mike McClure and Jack Pearce Jr were only separated by a handful of votes, with enough absentee ballots still needing to be counted that the unofficial results could have been altered.

THU 4 Election2 :35

Once the votes that were received were counted, no gains were made by Pearce, which meant that the unofficial results, became the official results of the race.

Taylorville Community Credit Union's Scholarship Program is back for its third year, and has also expanded. This year the awards for students have increased from $500 to $1000, and will be presented to six graduates from Taylorville, Litchfield, and Hillsboro High Schools. Several new businesses have also come on board for the program.

From November 9th through February 28th, tri-county residents are encouraged to "stop, shop, and vote", in participating businesses. For every $10 a shopper spends in a participating business, they can cast one vote for any of the registered students featured on the posters on the store's windows.

The program is designed to benefit both area students as well as businesses. A list of businesses that are participating in the Scholarship Program can be found online at TaylorvilleDailyNews.com.

A local business in Taylorville celebrated their grand opening with a ribbon cutting ceremony on Friday (today). Rebecca's Antiques on the southeast corner of the Taylorville Square recently moved to the new location on the square, and renovated the location. Rebecca Steiner, owner of Rebecca's Antiques told a crowd of local officials how the renovation process wasn't easy, especially when it came to the original tin ceilings.

WKN 1 Rebeccas1 :35

The store also received some help from the City of Taylorville due to Steiner's decision to renovate the location inside and out.

WKN 2 Rebeccas2 :21

It was a community effort to get the new location up and running. Steiner said how even the local Taylorville Tornado football team helped with the move.

WKN 3 Rebeccas3 :29

Rebecca's Antiques can be found on the southeast corner of the Taylorville Square at 100 West Market Street, and is open Monday through Saturday.

The Taylorville School Board heard about repairs that are needed at the Taylorville High School West Gym at last weeks meeting of the Taylorville School Board. School Board Member Seth McMillan shared how the issues with the gym were discovered, and what the issue is.

MON 3 Gym1 :34

McMillan said the issues with the gym were unexpected, and how hopefully no additional problems with the gym are discovered once the repairs are being made.

MON 4 Gym2 :25

Taylorville Superintendent Dr. Greg Fuerstenau assured the school board that the gym is safe to use however, and said how design flaws with the building when it was built lead to the issue.

MON 5 Gym3 :35

Dr. Fuerstenau shared how some issues with the windows in the gym will also need to be addressed once the repairs to the gym are made.

The Taylorville School Board met for their monthly session on Monday Night at the Administration Education Center in Taylorville. The meeting started off on a light and positive note, with discussion on the Taylorville FFA Chapter and their accomplishments. The Taylorville FFA Chapter just recently attended the National FFA Convention. A Taylorville FFA Administrator as well as several Taylorville FFA students thanked the school board for the opportunities they've had this year.

TUE 1 SchoolB1 :30

The discussion turned towards more serious matters, with the School Board reviewing the proposed 2016 Tax Levy for local funding. School Board Superintendent Dr. Gregg Fuerstenau laid out the proposed Tax Levy, and said under the current tax formula and rates, and with uncertain state funding, the school district cannot sustain itself.

TUE 2 SchoolB2 :25

One proposed solution to this problem that has come from both the suggestions from the School Board as well as the local Citizens for Education group is an increase in the property tax rate, with the money going to fund the education system in Taylorville. The board had to come up with a suggestion on how many cents on the dollar that increase would be, so they can put together a proposal to be placed on the April election ballot. Board member Bruce Barry said he disagreed with the proposed rate from Citizens for Education.

TUE 3 SchoolB3 :34

Board Member Dennis Atteberry pointed out that even at the suggested rate from Citizens for Education of 85 cents, Taylorville residents would only see a minor per month increase in their taxes. Atteberry also said he thinks the citizens of Taylorville would vote for or against the increase regardless of how much the increase was.

TUE 4 SchoolB4 :29

A motion for a proposal to be written for a limiting rate increase based on the 85 cent rate increase passed with only one no vote. The school board also said to members of Citizens for Education in the crowd that the task is now on them to get the citizens of Taylorville behind the rate increase.

The Taylorville School Board reviewed their Illinois District Report Card at their monthly meeting on Monday night. Although much of the report card showed the effects of things like budget cuts that the district has underwent, there were positive areas where Taylorville Schools have done well. One of those areas was in teacher attendance, where Taylorville far exceeds the state averages.

WED

Another area where Taylorville Schools have done well is in state PARCC (Park) testing, showing increases in test scores over the past two years in several different grades. That progress however didn't carry to the high school students who took the PARCC test, where scores were abysmal. Taylorville School District Superintendent Dr. Gregg Fuerstenau explained why that was.

The Taylorville School District met in their regular session Monday night at the Taylorville School Administration building. An issue the school district is facing is the lack of categorical payments to the school district from the state. Dr. Gregg Fuerstenau spoke with WTIMTV after the meeting, and said the school district was short one categorical payment from the state for the FY16 financial year.

WED 1 Sboard1 :28

Dr. Fuerstenau said the missing payment from FY16 would become the first categorical payment for FY17. However the alarming thing is that the school district has yet to receive that payment.

WED 2 Sboard2 :25

Dr. Fuerstenau mentioned that the district has always budgeted conservatively when it comes to categorical payments, however the current situation is still concerning.

WED 3 Sboard3 :33

The Taylorville School District may also have to dip into their cash reserves to help offset the hit the district would take should they not receive any categorical payments.

WED 4 Sboard4 :13

Monday nights Taylorville School Board meeting adjourned just past 8 pm.

SHSH St. Johns Hospital in Springfield is participating in Breast Cancer Awareness Month by providing pink blankets for October babies. All babies born in October are receiving pink blankets as a way to help increase awareness of the disease. More than 9,000 women in Illinois are diagnosed with breast cancer each year.

St. Johns Hospital also encourages women to take proper precautions to prevent breast cancer, and catch it early. Mammograms are recommended biennially after the age of 50. Doctors use a mammogram to look for the early stages of breast cancer, and regular mammograms can help find breast cancer early.

You can also lower your risk of breast cancer by keeping a healthy weight, exercising regularly, getting a full nights rest, and limiting your alcohol consumption. Sharing your family history with your doctor also helps with early detection. St. Johns Hospital urges those at risk of breast cancer to talk with their doctor about breast health, and breast cancer screenings.
