Management Training for Anti-Harassment February 2022 for Current Associates

Annually, all associates, including management receive online Anti-harassment training. The training is provided by a benefits firm, Benetech that has a platform of online training tools for a variety of benefits and employment subjects. This training is required for all new hires as well as once during the calendar year. The training encompasses federal and statutory provisions concerning sexual harassment and harassment based on disability, age, gender, religion, pregnancy and sexual orientation and provides available remedies as well as our compliant procedure. The online training is approximately one hour and is interactive throughout the presentation requiring the associate to engage by answering questions to gauge their understanding of the material being presented.

In-House Mentoring

The station employment unit has an on-going mentoring program for all new employees which is designed to further new salespeople as well as inspiring on-air personalities to further their careers in broadcasting.

For sales, senior managers conduct scheduled trainings and engage in individualized follow-up pods for every new salesperson. These pods are designed to teach new employees all aspects of radio sales as well as teach them about the company's culture. The program also includes recorded sales and digital training webinars, as well as one on one in-person training and sales calls out in the field with local sellers and managers.

For on-air, senior managers as well as many of the on-air personalities mentor new employees through a series of in-studio and in-production, one on one trainings. These trainings are designed to allow new employees to learn techniques as well as all aspects of the board and recording options to increase their on-air skills. These one-on-one meetings are on-going, as studio time is available. New employees are provided with opportunities to practice recording spots with direct help as well as learn the skills needed to succeed in a four-to five-hour studio shift.
