ISSUES/PROGRAM REPORT - THIRD QUARTER 2015

WCAX-TV

I. Programs

ACROSS THE FENCE: M-F, 12:10-12:30PM. Produced by the University of Vermont Extension Service, Across the Fence treats a wide variety of subjects ranging from agricultural and horticultural topics through health, environmental and social issues. It utilizes a variety of formats, including interviews, discussions, and demonstrations and produced on-site packages. Hosted by Judy Simpson.

YOU CAN QUOTE ME: Newsmakers and Neighbors in the News: Sunday, 7:30-8:00AM. An interview public affairs program, You Can Quote Me is moderated by Darren Perron and Kristin Carlson. They interview public figures on matters of current interest or controversy.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS SEGMENTS IN THE NEWS: M-F, 5:00-7:00PM. Public Affairs Segments may vary in length from three to seven minutes. They treat subjects in depth, often in multi-part series. They are produced by the WCAX-TV News Department and appear irregularly. Transcripts, when available, are attached.

PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENTS: M-Su, throughout the schedule. Public Service Announcements are aired on behalf of local and national agencies. A complete list of public service announcements and the number of times they ran is attached. In 2011 WCAX-TV ran 9509 PSA's on its primary channel and 43,348 on its secondary channel equaling $2,118,540.00 in airtime.

CBS NEWS SUNDAY MORNING: Sunday, 9:00-10:30AM. News and information program hosted by Charles Osgood with news and public affairs segments produced by various CBS reporters. Profiles sports, arts, music, and special issues.

60 MINUTES: Sunday, 7:00-8:00PM. News and information program co-hosted by Leslie Stahl, Steve Kroft, Morley Safer, Ed Bradley, and Mike Wallace. Segments deal with current news topics.

FACE THE NATION: Sunday, 10:30-11:30AM. An interview and discussion broadcast with the topic determined by the news events of the week.

48 HOURS: Saturday, 10:00-11:00PM. Correspondents delve into a single subject, examining it from multiple angles with its saturation coverage and action driven style.

THE :30: M-F, 5:30 – 6:00 PM. Local interview style news show, produced by the WCAX-TV News Department. Guests range from politicians to local celebrities. Public Affairs Segments may vary in length and appear irregularly.

II. PROBLEMS/PROGRAMS

AGRICULTURE

ACROSS THE FENCE	7/6	Terry Bradshaw of the UVM Plant and Soil Science Department talks about the growing demand for hard cider.
ACROSS THE FENCE	7/9	UVM Extension Farm Management educator Tony Kitsos talks the 2015 Vermont Dairy Farm of the Year.
ACROSS THE FENCE	7/13	A screening of a documentary on the Montpelier Farmers' Market filmed by U-32 high school students.
ACROSS THE FENCE	7/16	A presentation on farmer and student pen-pals learning about life and work on the farm through the farmer correspondence program of NOFA Vermont.
ACROSS THE FENCE	7/20	Betsy Greene of UVM Extension and Ann Swinker of Penn State Extension discuss new water quality certification requirements for small farms.
ACROSS THE FENCE	7/21	Vicky Drew of the USDA Natural Resource Conservation Service and Dan Lerner of UVM Extension discuss the agricultural water quality partnership plan for Lake Champlain.
ACROSS THE FENCE	7/28	Dairy stockmanship expert Don Hoglund talks about understanding how cows learn.
ACROSS THE FENCE	7/29	A visit to a 4-H sheep camp to discuss raising sheep and learning science with Wendy Sorrell, 4-H livestock educator and Bekah and Kathleen Parent, 4-H member and leader.
ACROSS THE FENCE	8/24	George Cook of the UVM AgrAbility Project talks about farming successfully and living independently.
ACROSS THE FENCE	9/8	Two separate segments aired: Understanding and speaking dog and a look at Greenfield Highland Beef in Greensboro, VT.
ACROSS THE FENCE	9/9	UVM Extension good agricultural practices coordinator Ginger Nickerson talked about food safety from the farm to your plate.
ACROSS THE FENCE	9/28	UVM Extension agricultural economist Bob Parsons and USDA Farm Service Agency Paul Remillard talked about enrolling in the 2016 Dairy Margin Protection Program.

HEALTH CARE

ACROSS THE FENCE	7/7	Guests Martha Richardson of the VT Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association and Dr. Walter Gundel of the Governor's Commission on Alzheimer's Disease discussed early detection of the disease and related disorders.
ACROSS THE FENCE	8/5	Robin Edelman of the Vermont Department of Health and Jeanne Hutchins of the UVM Center on Aging presented an educational episode on Diabetes education.
ACROSS THE FENCE	8/18	An encore episode of Leslie Parker and Tanya Jenkins of the VNA of Chittenden and Grand Isle Counties talking about career opportunities in home-based care giving. (originally aired 4/21/15)
ACROSS THE FENCE	9/1	Dr.'s Allyson Bolduc and Patti O'Brien discuss the role of primary care providers in cancer care and survivorship.
ACROSS THE FENCE	9/21	Today's episode was a discussion on breast density and cancer screening with Dr. Sally Herschorn of the UVM Cancer Center.
YOU CAN QUOTE ME	8/2	Today's guest Lauren Bailey, a UVM Medical Center Palliative Care Nurse Practitioner discusses ovarian cancer, end-of-life choices and palliative care with Darren Perron and Kristin Kelly. The show also aired "Barb's Story" – a news special report on a woman who made the choice to end her life but then was unable to carry out her own wishes.
YOU CAN QUOTE ME	8/16	Governor Peter Shumlin gave an update on Vermont Health Connect with Kyle Midura and Jennifer Costa.
CHANNEL 3 NEWS AT 6	7/27-28	Kristin Kelly and Shelly Holt-Allen followed Barb Bardin through the last months of her life as she struggled with navigating the end of her life and the decisions she made. A complete transcript is attached.
CHANNEL 3 NEWS AT 6	7/6	Darren Perron gave a special follow up report on Vermont's National Guardsmen who were deployed to Afghanistan five years ago and how they are handling being back. Some are suffering from PTSD and are receiving treatment. A complete transcript is attached.

ENVIRONMENT

ACROSS THE FENCE	7/14	Kent McFarland of the Vermont Center for Ecostudies talks about the Vermont Atlas of Life Project and documenting biodiversity in Vermont.
------------------	------	--

ACROSS THE FENCE	7/20	Betsy Greene of UVM Extension and Ann Swinker of Penn State Extension discuss new water quality certification requirements for small farms.
ACROSS THE FENCE	7/21	Vicky Drew of the USDA Natural Resource Conservation Service and Dan Lerner of UVM Extension discuss the agricultural water quality partnership plan for Lake Champlain.
ACROSS THE FENCE	8/12	An encore episode of Vermont's universal recycling law and food recovery and compost with Rachel Carter of the VT Farm to Plate and Pat Sagui of the Composting Association of Vermont. (originally aired 5/15/15)
ACROSS THE FENCE	8/13	Al Averill and Amy Overstreet of the Natural Resources Conservation Service of Vermont talk about the International Year of Soils.
ACROSS THE FENCE	8/17	Two segments on monitoring Lake Champlain for blue-green algae and the Natural Resources Conservation Service's rainfall simulator.
ACROSS THE FENCE	9/22	Stephanie Hurley and Holly Greenleaf of the UVM Plant and Soil science department talk about landscape visualizations of climate change best management practices.
ACROSS THE FENCE	9/24	Encore episode of Vermont's Loon Conservation project with director Eric Hanson of the VT Center for Ecostudies. (originally aired 6/19/15)
YOU CAN QUOTE ME	7/5	Today's guests were Sharon Meyer of WCAX Weather and Gregory Hanson of the National Weather Service discussing the wettest June on record and predictions for the rest of the summer with panelists Darren Perron and Cat Viglienzoni.
CHANNEL 3 NEWS AT 6	7/29	Judy Simpson gave a special report on the recent diseases and parasites that are endangering the multibillion dollar bee industry in the United States. A complete transcript is attached.
CHANNEL 3 NEWS AT 6	7/13	Alexei Rubenstein gave a special report on Vermont Town Forests, which are turning 100 years old this year. What began as a way to provide land to manager for timber revenue has become a visionary forest conservation effort. A complete transcript is attached.

EDUCATION

ACROSS THE FENCE	8/3	Jenn Karson of the UVM College of Engineering and Mathematical Studies and Joe Chase of Essex High School discuss the Fab Lab Technology in Education project.
------------------	-----	--

YOU CAN QUOTE ME	8/23	Today's guest was Castleton University President Dave Wolk talking about the school's name change and the costs associated with switching the name. Panelists were Darren Perron and Cat Viglienzoni.
YOU CAN QUOTE ME	8/30	Today's guest was Chancellor of Vermont State Colleges Jeb Spaulding discussing Castleton's name change, UVM and its impact on smaller colleges and the possible consolidations of some schools. Panelists were Darren Perron and Keith McGilvery.
CHANNEL 3 NEWS AT 6	7/23	Jennifer Costa reported on a new universal Pre-K law in Vermont, Act 166, that seems to be increasing the costs of pre-school care, instead of bringing it down, as was the intention. A complete transcript is attached.

Panelists were Darren Perron and Jennifer Costa.

YOU CAN QUOTE ME 8/16 Today's guest was Governor Peter Shumlin discussing the recent murder of DCF worker Lara Sobel with Kyle Midura and Jennifer Costa. He also gave an update of Health Connect.

POLITICS

YOU CAN QUOTE ME 9/6 Today's guest was Matt Dunne, Democratic candidate for Vermont Governor. Panelist was Darren Perron.

YOU CAN QUOTE ME 9/20 Today's show was a recap of Democrat for President Hillary Clinton's recent trip to New Hampshire and Governor Peter Shumlin's endorsement of her. Panelists were Anson Tebbetts and Kyle Midura.

Barb's Story: Aired July 27 on the Channel 3 News at 6 PM

BURLINGTON, Vt. -

Patients reaching the end of life face many choices about how they want to live their final days. A Burlington woman wanted to share her story of trying to navigate those decisions hoping it could help others.

Barb Bardin reached out to us knowing her story is unique. Her choices may not be ones others would make, but she also knew what she was going through is all too common, a terminal diagnosis with time running out.

"I always ask the question how long? And it was three to five years," said Barb.

It wasn't supposed to be this way.

"Going into year 3, I really don't think I'll make it to the end of year 3," said Barb.

Barb knew ovarian cancer was going to kill her. How soon was the question?

When the Burlington business owner invited us to follow her through the end of her life, she had thought she had a few months to live. But suddenly the timeframe was cut to weeks. She rushed to UVM Medical Center April 1.

"Just couldn't breathe, so obviously I can't keep anything down and it's just more of the symptoms of getting closer to what's coming," said Barb.

What's coming is what the 63-year-old fought since her diagnosis with surgery and several rounds of chemo. But the prognosis for stage 3 ovarian cancer patients is not good and Barb's cancer had advanced.

"I tell patients with stage 3 ovarian cancer that they are treatable but not curable," said Dr. Cheung Wong, UVM Medical Center gynecologic oncology director.

Wong says the symptoms that first led to Barb's diagnosis are classic and frustratingly vague.

Feeling bloated, feeling pelvic pressure only eating a little but feeling full. Some women have urinary symptoms. Dr. Wong says about 80 percent of patients are first diagnosed already at stage 3, meaning the cancer spread out of the ovaries and into the abdomen. According to the American Cancer Institute, just 45 percent of women survive five years past diagnosis. It is the fifth most deadly cancer for women killing about 14,000 in the U.S. each year according to Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

For Barb, chemo offered hope at first. But the cancer kept coming back and she stopped. Now, she gets sick every time she eats or drinks despite being hungry and thirsty. And there's a lot of pain from fluid building up in her mid-section.

Palliative Care Nurse Practitioner Lauren Bailey: How's your nausea now?

Barb: It's fine, she gave me some meds.

Wong ordered a cat scan to see how the cancer had grown and how much time is left.

Barb: I was pushing and asking what does this mean? Is this truly the beginning?

Bailey: Yeah.

Barb: That's what they see.

Barb had already been busy planning for her death. A stay in the hospital this winter convinced her.

"I have my trust in order. I have my little, my little ashes box made. I have my party planned," said Barb.

A post death celebration and she arrived at the hospital this time making progress on another plan to end her own life. Work she started during that earlier stay with questions for the hospital's palliative care team.

"You were getting info on physician aid in dying," said Bailey.

Barb had decided to take a lethal dose of medication when the time seemed right.

Barb: Just to be able to make the decision yourself, you know?

Reporter Kristin Kelly: And that doesn't scare you?

Barb: Ohhh, it certainly does. But i have to be brave about it. I mean I don't really have a lot of options. And this is a good option.

Two years ago, Act 39 made it legal for terminally ill Vermont residents to get a prescription.

Wong had already signed off agreeing Barb was within six months of death and that she was of sound mind. Barb had filled out a written request signed by two witnesses agreeing her choice is voluntary. Under law she cannot have help taking the medication. But the law also requires an independent consultation with a second doctor at least 15 days after the first.

She's supposed to go to his office the next day, now she hopes he can make a house call to the hospital.

"In this situation I want to take care of myself, and just be with my family, and my dear sweet brother. This is the hardest, the biggest challenge, I've ever had to face," said Barb.

The next day, friends are gathering and Barb is working on her obituary.

"Just take care of my loose ends," said Barb.

The scan found cancer is covering her intestine, that's what's preventing her from keeping food or water down. And doctors say that and the fluid buildup will only get worse.

"It is very Barb to want to be in control or take control of herself," said Teresa Pete, Barb's friend.

Barb built her career on being in charge and having a good time. She owned the catering company, "Let's Pretend," arranging lavish spreads, creative themes or just political ones.

"When the sun is out we're styling," said Barb back in June 2003.

She sold that business after launching another 12 years ago, the restaurant Splash at the Burlington boathouse.

"Somebody who is so full of life and here we are," said Andi Higbee, Barb's friend.

Talking about how she wants to say goodbye.

"When you're in rough shape and you have no recourse and you know you're going to go, why not go out on top," said Barb.

That was the plan. Physically she was in a downward spiral, but she still didn't have the prescription and she worried about Montpelier.

"I want to get my hot little paws on this before the legislature changes anything," said Barb.

This session lawmakers were weighing whether to let some patient protections in Act 39 expire or take action to essentially maintain the law as is.

"What hope is there that all at risk Vermonters will be protected," said Guy Page from the Vermont Alliance for Ethical health care.

But opponents wanted to revisit the law in its entirety. Raising concerns about vulnerable patients potentially getting pushed into taking their own lives and about the lack of data tracked by the state.

The Health Department only knows that 11 patients have gotten approval for lethal prescriptions over the last two years. Not whether they've actually taken the meds or what happened to the pills if they chose not to use them. Anecdotally, people involved in end of life care believe four people have died using Act 39.

"The only purpose of this law is to end in someone's death. To not know any of the circumstances of that death is frightening," said Lynne Cleveland Vitzthum from the Vermont Center for Independent Living.

But lawmakers voted to keep Act 39 as an option for patients.

"It does give them control and she can say enough is enough," said Wong.

Wong is used to tough conversations with patients and working with them through end stage cancer. But Barb was the first patient to ask him about Act 39.

"It does surprise me because I think there are a lot of patients who think about it. And a lot of patients who will actually make comments like 'if I'm going to go I'll just use x or y.' I think that this story and Barb's story will actually bring this to light and maybe this topic will be less tabooed," said Wong. In part it is our fault as physicians, because many of us may not feel comfortable talking about it, because you're right, we are told we need to treat the patient, but death and dying is a part of life.

Kelly: Sounds like the weekend wasn't so great?

Barb No not at all, nope. I'm having a real hard time.

Six days into her hospital stay, Barb's symptoms have gone from bad, to better to much much worse. It's a common collision of advancing cancer, painkillers, anti-nausea meds and their side effects. For her care team it's a complex balancing act. And for Barb, it's a rough ride.

"I'm suffering, I've got to go, I want to go. I can't live like this, it's just, it's I look at the clock and I go, another day, of what? Being absolutely miserable and in pain. I don't want to be this, I don't want to be this," said Barb.

That second doctor gave Barb the lethal prescription. Her brother Dave found a single pharmacy in the state able to fill it and he paid the $5,000 for the pills. Vermont law requires private insurance to cover end of life medication like any other drug.

But Barb needs to get home to take the capsules. No hospital or hospice care facility in the state allows patients to use Act 39 on-site. And the dose of barbiturates prescribed is so large, she must take 100 capsules. She says even if she mixed the powder inside with liquid, she couldn't keep it down. For weeks, Barb hasn't been able to eat or drink without vomiting.

"I go to have a bit of water and I can't keep it down, nothing, and what am I going to do? Starve to death," said Barb.

Barb resisted at first, but then agreed to a procedure to drain fluid from her abdomen. It could provide pain and nausea relief for a while.

"She's at a crossroads because she may believe she may not have a choice to act upon her plan," said Dave Bardin, Barb's brother.

The hope is it works and buys her time to go home.

We will continue Barb's Story Tuesday night at 6 p.m. Another reason Barb asked us to follow her was to raise awareness about ovarian cancer. The symptoms are vague, but Barb's doctor says women often notice them for a while before getting checked out. He says if your symptoms persist for three months, see a doctor. He also said it's important for doctors to listen to their patients and take those vague symptoms seriously.

BURLINGTON, Vt. -

What would you do if you had cancer and just a few weeks to live? Patients here have a choice not available in most other states; they can get a prescription to end their own lives. It is not a choice many Vermonters have made. It's believed that four people have ended their lives this way since the law, Act 39, went into effect two years ago.

We continue Barb's Story. The Burlington business owner wants to end her own life. But she is stuck in the hospital and patients using Act 39 can't take the pills there or at hospice facility.

"It's something I feel strongly about sharing," said Barb.

Barb is in the last weeks of a three-year fight with ovarian cancer. It is early April and the 63-year-old is getting fluid drained from her midsection. It's a procedure she resisted, but Barb hopes it eases the increasing pain and nausea that sent her to the UVM Medical Center the week before. She wants to be able to go home to die.

"The cancer is taking me over and the anguish is just so powerful," said Barb.

Barb already worked through the forms and doctor consultations required by Vermont's Act 39, and has a lethal dose of medication to end her life. But she cannot be in the hospital when she takes the prescription and worries she won't be able to keep it down even with anti-nausea meds.

"How am I going to do that," said Barb.

The relief is almost instantaneous, 12-pounds of fluid siphoned from her abdomen. Fluid her doctor says is likely caused by leaky blood vessels fueled by proteins in her cancer.

"I feel like I could do the city marathon. Like a gazelle," said Barb.

Her plan is to go home within a day or so.

The hospital's palliative care team has been working with Barb throughout to help her manage symptoms and make her plans.

"We focus on quality of life and living," said Lauren Bailey, UVM Medical Center palliative care nurse practitioner.

Palliative care practitioners help patients cope with any serious condition be it a stroke, car crash or terminal diagnosis like Barb's.

"We help people when they try to navigate through this. Because it's not a straight line. There are lots of things, lots of options that are presented to them, treatments are presented, taken, can cause side effects, so it's just kind of a moving target," said Bailey.

It's an approach focusing on the whole person, not just the cancer patient.

"The mind is often the last thing to catch up, right? The body is doing one thing, but the mind is going, 'Wait a minute, I'm not prepared to die. I don't want to die. I'm not ready, it's not my time,'" said Bailey.

Barb is not wasting any time. Her home is ready with round-the-clock VNA hospice care set up for her arrival.

And she's saying goodbye.

"Oh, this means a lot to me," said Barb.

Dozens of friends now know time is running out.

"Make sure you get checked out there sweetie, don't let any rumblings in your tummy go undetected. Serious business this ovarian cancer stuff," said Barb to one of her friends.

Barb's been bracing for her farewell since her diagnosis. The restaurant owner and party planner has been ticking items off her bucket list, including a luxurious vacation in Italy with a big group of friends.

"We were going to try to make one more trip to Italy, that will just be in our minds now," said Barb.

Preparation helps, but doesn't make some decisions less daunting.

The fluid draining procedure gave some relief, but Barb's nausea was stubborn. She did not go home the next day. Or the next, or the next.

As her condition declined, working with the palliative care team and her loved ones, Barb changed her plan.

"What I got from her was, when I feel well, I don't want to die. When I feel sick, I'm too sick to take the medication," said Bailey.

She was not going home and no longer planned to end her own life.

"In my situation now, Kristin, I don't want to miss a beat. I don't want to miss something to my passing in a, in a genteel way," said Barb.

Too fearful about trying to keep down the lethal dose-- that under law she must take herself-- or manage constantly changing pain and nausea at home even with round-the-clock nurses, Barb decided on hospice care at the Vermont Respite House in Williston.

"But I still believe in Act 39. It's not that I have changed my mind about that piece, because I haven't. I just, things have changed a bit, I have a clearer understanding of my timeframe and how it's all going to come together," said Barb.

"They were just terrific," said Barb to her brother on moving day, as he wiped her tears.

Barb knew she was never going to see her home again.

"Bye Milner," said Barb as she blew a kiss while the ambulance door closed.

Barb's brother, Dave Bardin, had toured the Respite House in advance.

"I was just hoping it would be acceptable to her," said Dave. "Knowing she wanted to come home."

Part of the Vermont Respite House mission is to make the 13 patients and their loved ones as comfortable as possible. Patients are called residents and the facility is called their home.

"To have it be homelike is a feeling that, OK, this is a transition I'm making, but it's not so stark as to be a clinical environment," said Sharon Keegan, Vermont Respite House administrator.

Helping to create that warmer feeling like a living room and kitchen and smells of baking. Volunteers keep the place filled with treats and good cheer.

"Hospice is about living and so the environment that you're living in is very important," said Keegan.

"This is not an institution, this is a home," said Barb.

Barb settled in quickly and began what Respite House staff calls the "work of saying goodbye."

"The ambulance ride over here was, I mean, I was looking at the cars behind me, the scenery, thinking I took all this for granted," said Barb.

Barb: This is another stage of life that is, whoa, just so different.

Reporter Kristen Kelly: How?

Barb: I won't be doing those things ever again, I won't have that independence, I won't be able to take advantage of driving my car and putting the top down on those sunny days, and just thinking, ah this is the cat's ass!

"Now I'm looking at a, looking at a very serious reality, and that's death. And until that comes about, I, I just have to live with as much grace as I can possibly muster up," said Barb.

"A lot of things that happen at the end of life are multiple losses," said Nancy Carlson, Vermont Respite House clinical director.

Residents here have been as young as 16 and old as 104. They lose independence as their bodies shut down. Caregivers say each person handles it differently. But they do see some of the same behaviors over and over.

Carlson: The circle of people that they interact with becomes smaller and smaller and smaller as they require more and more energy to do the internal work at the end of life that they need to accomplish of saying goodbye.

Kelly: And what is this internal work?

Carlson: I think a lot of it is coming to peace with what's happening.

The staff is trained to help patients work through their grief along with easing their symptoms and there are family supports like social workers because the loss hits loved ones, too.

"Very hard, and I think it is for anyone who goes through this process," said Dave.

Despite all the expertise, most Vermonters are not choosing hospice care like this at the end of life. The national average is 47 percent while Vermont is just over 28 percent, one of the lowest rates in the country. The VNA is running a study to find out why.

For more than two weeks, Barb's family and friends camped out and she closed her circle smaller and smaller, too.

"She is on her back, eyes closed, looks horrible, she is whispering, 'I want to go, is it OK,'" said Dave. "What she's feeling is she's ready to go."

A few days later, Barb slipped into a coma and passed away. It was April 26, her brother Dave still by her side.

"It was hard to see her like that," said Dave.

Barb's death was not the one she originally planned. Up until the end she called her lethal prescription her security blanket.

"She wanted that tool in her toolbox as she would say," said Dave.

But she never left the Respite House to use it.

"I don't know when you pull that trigger, you pull the trigger when you're able to pull the trigger, but you're not ready to pull that trigger," said Dave.

Kelly: When she left was it how she wanted?

Dave: I think it was as best as could possibly be.

A couple of months after she passed, there was a professional party planner's last event at one of her favorite spots in Burlington.

"It's tough because we all miss her, but we feel like this is what she wants," said Teresa Pete, Barb's friend.

Barb had organized every detail.

"Her fingerprints are all over this," said Andi Higbee, Barb's friend.

The food, the flowers, the free-flowing Veuve Clicquot, Barb's favorite Champagne.

"It's overwhelming to hear the corks popping, makes thumbs-up smiling, it's just like, 'Yeah, Barb is really here,'" said Pete.

One last thank you to her family and friends.

Bees Under Siege- aired July 29th on the Channel 3 News at 6 PM

CHARLOTTE, Vt. -

Bees are a multibillion dollar industry in the United States, responsible for pollinating millions of acres of crop lands. But in recent years, bees have been under siege by a variety of diseases and parasites.

There are about 8,000 registered honeybee colonies in Vermont. But there has been no way for beekeepers in Vermont to track just how healthy the hives are in comparison to other states. That is, until now.

Samantha Alger is working on her Ph.D. in biology at the University of Vermont. She is spearheading a survey of commercial honeybee producers in Vermont. It is the first-of-its-kind study for the state.

"So this year is the first year Vermont is involved in the National Honey Bee Survey, which is an attempt to collect baseline data on honeybee disease and pathogens nationwide. So this is really exciting; this is the first year of Vermont's involvement. There has been 28 states involved in the past," Alger said.

The bee population nationwide has been under attack by bugs and diseases, like colony collapse disorder, the varroa mite and pesticides to a certain extent.

Mike Willard is president of the Vermont Beekeepers Association. He says the nationwide average for beehive losses has been 30 percent each year for the past eight years. Which is critical, because bees contribute a tremendous amount to the food supply and the economy.

"The pollination services that honeybees provide is that without pollination, you wouldn't be able to have fruits and nuts. We would have basically a wheat- and grain-based diet. So it's really important that the honeybees are out there to advance our food crops," Willard said.

Alger will visit the handful of commercial beeyards across the state.

"So we are going to collect a composite sample from eight hives of honeybees. We are going to ship some honeybees live to the lab in Maryland to get tested for a number of viruses. And we are also going to collect bees and preserve them in alcohol where they are going to get tested for nosema. And we are also going to be collecting mites to look for varroa mites and also Tropilaelaps mites, which are an exotic species that isn't known to be here yet," Alger explained.

The survey is being funded by the USDA and the Vermont Beekeepers Association. It will help the keepers keep track of what's happening in the hives, which the keepers say is critical.

"Well, one of the things she is doing is collecting data, and it's part of a program that is national and becoming international; Canada is involved now and I think some of the European countries are getting involved now," said Chas Mraz of Champlain Valley Apiaries. "With all the problems with bees, data is king. We need to collect data."

So far this year, the bees look pretty good. The wet spring that kept farmers out of the fields was a bonanza for the bees.

"The farmers weren't able to cut hay until the beginning of July because of all the rain in June, and a lot of that hay bloomed out and the bees have taken great advantage of it, have really brought in a lot of honey and they are looking pretty healthy," Mraz said.

Alger will take samples from eight hives in each beeyard she visits.

"What we are doing here, these are supers full of honey, what we want to do is get down to the brood chamber because that is where we will be sampling the bees and that is where the mites usually reside," Alger said.

But she has to be careful not to disturb the queen.

"So before we shake the bees off, we spend a lot of time looking for the queen so we make sure we don't get her. Because if you kill the queen, you kill the whole colony," Alger explained.

It is careful work that needs a sharp eye.

"This is where we bang the frame onto this metal pan to knock out any mites that might be in those cells," Alger said.

This study is set for this year and the Vermont Beekeepers Association is hoping to support Alger for at least another year, to build on the information gathered in this maiden survey.

July 23 BURLINGTON, Vt. -

Act 166 is pitting some parents against child care providers in a battle over tuition and the interpretation of a hotly debated law.

"It is a huge part of families' budgets," said Tara Sharkey, Shelburne parent.

Sharkey spends thousands of dollars on day care every year. With her older child about to turn 3, she was looking forward to a break on preschool tuition.

"These types of things can be really challenging when they don't go the way you're anticipating," said Sharkey.

A new law in Vermont called Act 166 is supposed to provide parents of 3- to 5-year-olds with 10 hours of free prekindergarten classes 35 weeks of the year. Kids must be enrolled in a prequalified program run by a public school district or a privately operated center. The idea is to give more children access to high quality early childhood education.

"It should really sort of be a mutually beneficial arrangement for the provider and for the families," said Jill Remick from the Vermont Agency of Education.

Remick says the universal pre-K law went into effect July 1, but the state is still working out the kinks.

"This is new territory for a lot of places," said Remick.

"Families, like us, can't just send for 10 hours," said Sharkey.

Sharkey's daughter attended Carolyn's Red Balloon in Colchester full time. Under Act 166, her child would still be entitled to the publicly funded 10 hours, but it would come in the form of a $3,000 discount on her total child care bill, or so she thought.

"It's just to us seemed like a very large sum of money," said Sharkey.

Sharkey says she was hit with sticker shock when she received the center's 2015 tuition rates.

The cost of preschool care at Carolyn's Red Balloon increased from $910 per month during the 2014 academic year to $1,172 for 2015, a $262 monthly hike.

"That was something we couldn't afford," said Sharkey.

Sharkey says at the same time, tuition for other age groups only increased by $5 a month. So she emailed the center's director to ask why, saying she was "appalled" with the way preschool tuition was increasing "to basically negate the $3,000 subsidy parents would receive under Act 166."

In response, the center's director, Carolyn Riley, called it a "business decision" and said she would have to make changes to meet mandated requirements, then kicked Sharkey's daughter and infant son out of the program.

"No one else got their child care terminated. So I think we were the first ones to speak up, so maybe that was detrimental to us," said Sharkey.

We reached out to Riley. She did not want to speak to us on camera, but sent us a statement, saying, "Part of the reason for our need for an increase in fees is the increased cost of providing the high quality care expected in Act 166 ... while Act 62/166 is a step in the right direction for early education it is not a solution for the high cost of child care."

"This is something we're starting to see. Different providers are handling this potential tuition funding very differently," said Remick.

Remick says the goal of the bill is to provide access and make care more affordable, not to increase the financial burden on parents or providers. But Act 166 does require participating centers to:

- Be accredited by the National Association for Education of Young Children (NAEYC)
- Have at least a 3 STAR rating by DCF with an approved plan to reach 4 STARS
- Employ at least one licensed early childhood educator

All these mandates cost money. But centers like Carolyn's Red Balloon which already received Act 62 funding or the precursor to universal pre-K should have those big expenses covered.

"Our attorneys and DCF are definitely looking into the interpretation of the law," said Remick.

Remick says the state has received a handful of complaints about at least two child care centers jacking up rates in advance of Act 166. But charging more is not illegal. There is nothing in the 16-page bill that prevents or even discourages child care centers from raising their rates. It's a free market and Vermont cannot regulate tuition.

Reporter Jennifer Costa: Could this be a loophole of how providers could line their own pockets?

Remick: If it is, I think that would come back this legislative session. I know that was not the intent of lawmakers.

Rep. Sarah Buxton, D-Royalton, who sponsored the bill, says she's "committed to ensuring that private child care providers are not using a public tuition payment to fund anything other than 10 hours of prekindergarten education."

Research shows kids who get access to quality pre-K classes perform better in school and later in life. The state says investing in early childhood education now will pay off in the long run.

There are currently 104 prequalified pre-K programs run by public school districts and 150 privately operated centers in Vermont that qualify for Act 166. Many are still struggling to navigate the changes and what that will mean for their bottom lines.

"I think there are still a lot of unknowns as far as the agreements between the districts and the providers. The rules are still being developed," said Remick.

The Agency of Education plans to work with school districts to ensure their contracts with providers demonstrate why tuition rates may be changing.

"This is public education dollars and so it's totally appropriate for the district to ask those questions," said Remick.

In the meantime, frustrated parents like Sharkey hope they're not left footing the bill while the state and providers work it out.

"We're hoping that other private centers throughout the state don't do this because I think that would be detrimental to Act 166," said Sharkey.

WCAX News heard from other parents at Carolyn's Red Balloon. They did not want to go on camera fearing if they spoke up, they too would lose their child care.

The Agency of Education admits parents and providers are living in a gray area right now. Although Act 166 is law, the rules don't go before the board of education until August.

Next week, WCAX is taking a deeper look at Act 166 and its impact on child care centers, small and large.

BARRE, Vt. -

Vermont this year is celebrating the centennial of the law that created Town Forests. What initially began as a way to provide towns with land to manage for timber revenue, has become a visionary forest conservation effort that protects and manages thousands of acres across the state.

From the hot, traffic-crowded streets of downtown Barre, to the forest preserve nestled on a northern hillside above the city, most people aren't aware of the Cow Pasture, Barre's own community Town Forest.

"There's mountain biking, there's walking dogs and it's a green space so it's cooler than downtown in the city. It's close to downtown, yet far enough away that you don't really hear traffic, so it's like a haven," said Alex Pastor, a member of the city's Cow Pasture Committee.

The Cow Pasture is one of 349 municipally-owned town forests across the state; they total nearly 70-thousand acres. The land designation was made possible by the Municipal Forest Act of 1915. After the major de-forestation of the state in the late 1800's from sheep farming, the new law was an effort to encourage towns to buy land for growing wood and timber production.

"It's got an interesting history and I think it really connects people if you know a little bit about the history and why it is here today," Pastor said.

On this day, a six-member Vermont Youth Conservation Corps crew is busy pulling invasive plants next to one of the Cow Pasture's trails, and making repairs to a rock structure surrounding a natural spring. The local high school kids are part of a new VYCC pilot project to get crews working in their own communities. "It's a great opportunity to help them get out here, to get to engage with the community, get to know the land that they grew up on and that they're sitting on and really take ownership in taking part in taking care of it," said Amanda Marquis, a VYCC Crew Leader.

The Cow pasture -- all 67 acres of it -- has been owned by the City of Barre since 1895. It was originally used to pasture city work horses. Back in the 1930's it was later leased to a golf course, and today it's used for a variety of recreational uses including dog walking, hiking and sledding. A VAST trail also runs through it. While many Town Forests are still managed for timber, The Cow Pasture is an example of how many are increasingly focused on recreation and conservation. The trail crew this summer has fixed up hiking paths and cleared trails for mountain bikers.

"I think more and more towns are looking to them and saying, hey we've got this tremendous resource," said Vermont Dept. of Forest Parks and Recreation Commissioner Mike Snyder.

A state study last year found that for the first time in nearly a century, Vermont is losing forest land. With large tracts being split up for development -- making it more difficult to manage for forest land and wildlife. Snyder says it creates further incentive to protect -- and even add to -- the state's Town Forests. "It's the natural infrastructure for our outdoor and recreation economy. It's the scenic backdrop for our world class tourism economy -- not to mention $1.5 billion dollars in annual economic output from forest products industry," he said. "It's really important to Vermont, and it's worth tracking, and we've just signaled we ought to start making sure we have forests that can continue to benefit the way we've enjoyed from them for so long."

In addition to a good, paid summer job that lets you dig around in the dirt, VYCC crew members like Jacob Roy say it also comes with another kind of satisfaction. "We've gotten a lot of compliments from people that have come up here so far, and they've told us we've done a nice job with the trail -- I guess that feels pretty good," he said.

The Battle After the War – aired on July 6, 2015 on the Channel 3 News at 6 PM

BURLINGTON, Vt. -

Five years ago Vermont saw the largest call-up of the National Guard since World War Two, when our troops deployed to Afghanistan. Thirty-five Vermont servicemen died in the war on terror, fighting in that country and in Iraq. Most who made it home transitioned back into their old lives successfully. But for some it's been tough, and those military members who worked so hard and gave so much now worry their efforts there could be lost.

"We in the National Guard have really distinguished ourselves for our work," said Vermont National Guard Staff Sgt. Itzia Hemmingway. Hemmingway and nearly 1,500 other Vermont Guard soldiers deployed to Afghanistan in 2010. They spent about a year building infrastructure -- roads, schools, police stations -- and relationships with village elders there, trying to win the hearts and minds of the Afghan people as part of the War on Terror.

"Our mission in Afghanistan was exceptional," Sgt. Hemmingway said. "As hard as it was, and all the losses we had, we did a lot of great work. We took pride in taking care of ourselves and other people. We had a mission, and I think we exceeded what we were there to do."

But the loss of six Vermont servicemen in Afghanistan, and the separation from family was almost too much for Hemmingway to take. "I just want to hold my kids and tell them that I love them," She said in August 2010.

When we embedded with the Guard in Afghanistan that summer, Hemmingway told us just how much she missed home. "It has gotten pretty lonely here. Very lonely," she said.

"The transition back home was not easy at all for me. It was very very difficult," Sgt. Hemmingway said. And trying to work through it is her new battle. "I am a dedicated, hardworking and loving mom. I'm a baby with babies," she said. "It was hard leaving them... ..my kids always made me laugh, and I missed out, and that hurt very, very much."

"People deal with things differently and we are all different and the separation from your normal life and family -- it does wear on you," said Vermont National Guard Major Rick Trayah. Trayah knows. He's deployed four times. Missing milestones in his childrens' lives. He says it took a while, but he's transitioned back to home life more easily than some. "Understanding where they have been and what they've gone through, I can see why people have a hard time sometimes, given the circumstances they are put in," he said.

Fifty-one Vermont Guard soldiers were wounded in the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan and 463 have suffered from post traumatic stress disorder, or PTSD, so far. Nine have taken their own lives, though the Guard says that some of those were not combat related.

"Soldiers deal with that reintegration in many different ways," said Vermont National Guard Major General Steven Cray. Cray took the helm of the Vermont National Guard after the homecomings were over. His mission -- to get help for returning war vets. He recently cut the ribbon on a new vet center, offering counseling and other services in White River Junction. "Not one solution will work for everybody," he said. "Ask those questions to really find out how they are doing and it's those interactions that make it successful to get them the help they need."

"You're hyper-sensitive to everything going on," said Vermont National Guard Sgt. First Class Steve Jennings. Jennings considers himself lucky. His assignment kept him in the Panjshir Valley, a more secured part of the war-torn country. Even so, being on constant alert for a year left him on edge. "Always looking left and right -- and that eases over time, but when you initially get back, any loud noise or sudden gesture can cause you to react. And you think, why did I do that? And you realize, I just got back from an area where a lot of people didn't like me, and that's not something you can turn on and off," he said.

But like a switch, the Guard gained significant ground on veteran unemployment numbers. "They are highly desirable employees, so I think we are making real progress there," Gen. Cray said. After the war, the unemployment rate for returning vets was about 30-percent. Last year it had dropped to 10-percent, and today it's at 5-percent. Job fairs and Guard teams who link unemployed vets with potential employers has been another top priority -- and it's working.

"The blessing is the amount of resources available for us to tap into for any issues that do come up," said Vermont National Guard Lt. Colonel John Guyette, who leads the Guard's mountain training school, preparing troops for high elevation warfare.

In Afghanistan he led troops during surprise inspections of the Salang Tunnel in Afghanistan. "If you can imagine I-89 being significant to Vermont. This route and this tunnel is significant to Afghanistan on a daily and hourly basis," Guyette told us during a mission in 2010. His role -- a dangerous one -- getting a convoy up the winding, narrow, and potentially deadly path through the Hindu Kush Mountains. The threat of roadside bombs and snipers was never far away. He hopes the hard work done by his soldiers remains -- five years later. "You do the mission when you are there and do your best to insure that it stays as long as possible, and you hope the government maintains -- that the government of Afghanistan or Iraq, where these guys have served -- you hope that they continue your efforts in the future," he said.

Major General Cray says intel suggests many Vermont Guard projects are still in place, but security issues put them in jeopardy. Such is the case in Ramadi, Iraq, where the terror group ISIS now controls the city once occupied by the U.S. -- and Vermont troops. "They are gaining leaps and bounds in the area," Sgt. Jennings said.

Vermont Judge Howard VanBenthuyzen presides over criminal and family court cases in St. Albans. He rules from the bench -- and throws in advice. In Afghanistan and Iraq, the Lieutenant Colonel served with the Guard. He offered legal advice and training to judges there, trying to create effective judicial systems. "For some of these folks, it's the first time they have gotten a comprehensive set of their own laws," VanBenthuisen said. "I think we helped the Iraqis to the extent we could." He fought in Ramadi, and worries ISIS could continue to gain ground if the Iraqi government and military doesn't act quickly.

Twenty-nine servicemen with Vermont ties died in the Iraq war zone. Judge VanBenthuisen doesn't think more U.S. troops in Iraq is the right move. "We shouldn't be putting troops on the ground. And I think this battle is one that has to be won by folks who are in that neighborhood," he said. "American boots on the ground would only give, not only ISIS, but other groups there, an excuse to turn their wrath and turn their attention and turn their aggression to the infidels who are invading their lands... ..This is an existential threat, I think, to places like Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, and until they step up to the plate and say, 'yeah, we recognize this and we're gonna put our own soldiers in harms way to deal with this problem,' it isn't going away."

Reporter Darren Perron: Given the situation with ISIS in Iraq, do you anticipate another deployment for the Vermont Guard?

Major General Steven Cray: So we don't have any deployments planned right now, and no one has given any indication that we will be called, but again, our job is to be ready.

Through training like this at Fort Drum in New York. Recent mock missions just in case there's another call to duty.

"Nobody wants another long term war in that area, but a hands-off policy will not get the results we want either," Sgt. Jennings said.

"The deaths we had -- those casualties -- that's something I keep very very private," Sgt. Hemmingway said.

Like many Vermont Guard troops, Hemmingway got help to cope with life after war, and she says it's made her a stronger, better person -- and mom. "Loving my family more, appreciating those people who really care about me," she said.

She's still in the Guard and has no regrets about her time at war, but hopes her focus can now be on family, not future deployments. "It has taken a long time. It took about two years for me before I finally learned how to live with the new me. I'm not the same person I was before," she said.

HYDE PARK, Vt. -

He came bearing bad news to a town set for solar.

"We have to abandon the project," said Dave Hallquist, CEO of the Vermont Electric Cooperative.

South Hero pledged support for a 15-acre, 1.5-megawatt solar project. But now VEC can't do it. A wetland at the site raised environmental concerns.

Hallquist pitched another plan: a bigger, 50-acre project in a different location. VEC would partner with a big developer.

"There are large solar developers who do a good job who can afford to take that kind of risk," he said.

Hallquist is known for striking deals, a smart businessman at the forefront of innovative energy projects. He's a respected leader, pitching in when the lights go out. He's also the town moderator in Hyde Park. And now he wants to be known as someone else.

"Christine Hallquist is who I really am," he said.

Dave Hallquist is transgender-- basically born with a male body and a female mind.

"I would never want to go to my grave knowing I didn't tell the world about this," he said.

Dave says the need to finally live the truth stems from a dark place, a place of suffering. He was bullied and beaten as a child by classmates and by nuns, who he says demanded an exorcism on the eighth-grader because he was different from the other boys.

"I learned early on that it would not be acceptable to be Christine," he said.

To survive, he toughened up, started playing sports and hid what was happening in his head.

"I learned to play the role well and I've been playing it ever since," Dave said.

It worked. He fooled everyone in high school and college. And then he met Pat, the love of his life. The pair married two years later, though Dave kept the painful secret.

"She's been amazingly supportive, but I'm not the person she married," he said.

Several years after the wedding, Pat discovered Dave's hidden wardrobe of women's clothing. She was confused, confronted him and considered leaving. But eventually she chalked it up to a phase or a fetish, like cross-dressing just for fun, hoping it would pass. She stayed so long as no one else knew.

"We were going to keep this secret to our grave," he said.

She allowed Dave to dress as Christine in private. Christine usually did so while playing the piano-- alone. Pat didn't want to see it. Then came three kids: two girls and a boy.

"It's incredibly painful not to be your authentic self," Dave said.

"I don't believe at all that transgender men and women have mental illness as a result of being transgender," Dr. Rachel Inker said.

Inker is a medical doctor running the transgender care clinic at Burlington's Community Health Center. Three-hundred trans patients have come here over the last 10 years, people in their late teens to senior citizens.

"People will often talk about years as early as childhood of feeling that they are not in the body they were intended to, that people don't see who they are," Inker said. "It can be a difficult process for people filled with loss, rejection, harassment."

Counting the transgender population is challenging. The U.S. Census Bureau doesn't ask if someone is trans and the number isn't tracked by the CDC. And not everyone is out. But experts working with the trans community in Vermont estimate the population to be around 1,400. That means for every 440 people you pass on the street, one of them identifies as transgender.

"There's so much shame, a lifetime of shame, lifetime of embarrassment, a lifetime of trying," Dave said.

After years of hiding, even thoughts of suicide and periodic purging, tossing out his women's clothes, Dave couldn't live like that any longer.

"You try and you try and you try, and at some point you realize, I can't fight this," he said.

About five years ago, he told his kids.

"At first there's obvious personal shock," son Derek said.

"This is a person we've been around for 30 years of my life... who is completely changing into a different person and that's hard, and recognizing it's hard. But we keep coming back to the fact that we really love each other," daughter Kiersten said.

The family stuck together. And Derek is documenting his father's transformation. But they all admit it's been tough and still is, especially now that Dave's transition is further along. He's taking estrogen and testosterone blockers. He's changing and going public with his new identity.

On this night-- a first outing for Christine with a group of trans women she met through the advocacy group Pride Center of Vermont. There's a new outfit for the occasion, makeup, hair and jewelry. And there's a bit of fashion advice from Pat, who's working to make peace with what's happening and still support the person she's loved for so long.

No nerves, just excitement for Christine during the hourlong ride from her Hyde Park home to Splash on the Burlington waterfront.

"I feel happy," she said.

Quickly, Christine found new friendships. Drinks turned into dinner and an invite for two of Christine's kids to join.

"In fact, I prefer being out and hanging with Christine now. Because I can tell she's happy," Derek said.

But their hearts go out to their mom, Pat, back at home, who's struggling with the public revelation.

"We all agreed we are super worried about mom," Derek said.

The whole family is in group therapy. The marriage, though, is in question.

"We are very lucky in that we have had each other in this," Kiersten said.

Reporter Darren Perron: What's your biggest fear in coming out publicly?

Christine Hallquist: My biggest fear now is for my wife and family and how they adjust... When you've loved and lived with someone for 35 plus years, forgive me, I'm going to cry... I love my wife dearly. Of course this is a struggle for transgender folks.

"Deciding to transition takes an enormous amount of courage. It is not something that people do impulsively. It's often many years of struggling with gender dysphoria, a depression and discomfort from a body that they don't feel like is their own," Inker said.

"Now I've allowed myself to be who I really am," Christine said.

Hormone therapy, surgeries to look more feminine or complete sexual reassignment surgery are options during transition.

"Will I ever go all the way? I don't know," she said.

Christine is not sure how far into her transition she'll go.

"My brain believes I am a woman. I'm a woman. And I know that's really hard when you stare at someone like myself who has all the physical body parts of a man. You say, 'How can you be a woman? Get that out of your head! Get over it.' A lot of people say that. Sorry, I can't," Christine said. "It's who I am. I can't get over this."

At 59, that once scared little boy is becoming the woman she hoped and prayed to be.

Christine Hallquist: Now that it's no longer a secret, it's incredibly peaceful.

Darren Perron: So will we see Dave Hallquist in a suit and tie again?

Christine Hallquist: Unfortunately, yes. Ha. That's my costume... Do I see someday walking into the Legislature as a woman? Maybe. I'd love to see that day.

Christine Hallquist has now informed her board of directors at Vermont Electric Co-op and her employees. And it's gone well. She no longer worries about losing her job. However, she is concerned about some national utility boards she sits on and whether she'll be squeezed out because she's transgender.

She will send out a statewide press release Friday about her transition. And on Sunday, she will take part in Burlington's Pride Celebration as Christine.

60 MINUTES

07/05/15

“Dead or Alive” – a report on the errors of the Social Security Administration’s Death Master File. Those who are alive and mistakenly put onto the list, can be cut out of existence by banks, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), Medicare, credit agencies and the like. On the other hand, there have been continued payments to deceased citizens whose names were never put on the list. To combat these errors, the Social Security Administration has started cross-checking with a Medicare list to see who is using Medicare, and if a citizen has been off the list for three years, they gather more information to see if they are dead or alive. Includes interviews with: living Americans declared dead by the Social Security Administration: Don Pilger, Kristina Pace, Betty Denault, and Judy Rivers; Patrick O’Carroll, Social Security Administration’s inspector general; and Sandra Kimbro, who pleaded guilty to accepting her mother’s Social Security benefits, but says it was done so unknowingly. (C: Scott Pelley – P: Patricia Shevlin, Gabrielle Schonder) (OAD: 03/15/15 - includes an update)

“Breeding Out Disease” - a report on how advances in the science and technology of reproductive genetics and in vitro fertilization are allowing scientists to weed out many dangerous diseases -- such as breast cancer, muscular dystrophy, and hemophilia -- from the gene pool. Includes interviews with: Dr. Mark Hughes, geneticist and founder of Genesis Genetics, who pioneered the technique of preimplantation genetic diagnosis (PGD), an embryo screening procedure; Melinda (no last name given), breast cancer victim and mother; Anne Morriss, mother and co-founder of GenePeeks, a computerized technique which uses DNA information from the saliva of prospective parents to create a thousand digital/virtual embryos; Lee Silver, molecular biologist, Princeton University, and co-founder of GenePeeks. (C: Norah O’Donnell - P: Tanya Simon) (OAD: 10/26/14)

“Steve Carell” – an interview / profile of Steve Carell, the Hollywood actor. He discusses his past career and his performance in the soon-to-be released psychodrama “Foxcatcher”. Carell has long been known for his roles in comedic movies and his hit TV series “The Office”, which concluded last year. Includes comments from Carell’s wife, Nancy Carell. (C: Steve Kroft – P: Michael Karzis) (OAD: 11/09/14)

“The Swiss Leaks” – an investigation conducted by 60 MINUTES and the International Consortium of Investigative Journalists into the biggest leak in Swiss banking history. Herve Falciani, a former HSBC computer security specialist in Switzerland, stole -- with questionable motives -- computer files with over one hundred thousand names tied to Swiss bank accounts in 2007 and gave it to the French government. The list is being used to go after tax cheats, arms dealers, and drug smugglers around the world. HSBC declined to respond on camera about the files, but acknowledged the bank had been used to evade taxes in the past and says it will no longer engage in those activities with future clients. Falciani is now a fugitive living in France because Swiss authorities charged him with industrial espionage. Includes interviews with: Jack Blum, former U.S. Senate staff investigator; Herve Falciani, former HSBC computer security specialist; Christian Eckert (through translator), France’s Secretary of State for the Budget; and Serge Michel, editor of French newspaper Le Monde. (C: Bill Whitaker – P: Ira Rosen, Habiba Nosheen) (OAD: 02/08/15 - includes an update)

“Alive and Kickin’” – a report on the musical, "Alive: 55+ and Kickin'," conceived and written by Vy Higginsen, founder of the Mama Foundation for the Arts in Harlem, New York and her husband, Ken Wydro, creative director at the Mama Foundation and a playwright. “Rare Earth Elements” – a report on how China has become the world leader of rare earth metals, essential ingredients used in everything from smart phones and computers, to cars and missiles. The U.S. began the cultivation of these materials at Molycorp, Inc.’s mine in Mountain Pass, California after geologists identified rare earth elements in the Mojave Desert, but it was shut down in 1998 due to environmental concerns. Meanwhile, China took over the industry since they have less environmental constraints around mining and lower labor costs, which translates into lower pricing. Molycorp Inc.’s Mountain Pass mine reopened in 2010. Includes interviews with: Constantine Karayannopoulos, chairman of Molycorp, Inc.; Daniel McGroarty, principal of Carmot Strategic Group; and Ed Richardson, president of the U.S. Magnetic Materials Association. (C: Lesley Stahl – P: Graham Messick, Kevin Livelli) (OAD: 03/22/15 - includes an update)

“Ending Life” - a report on the ongoing state-by-state battle over assisted suicide, focusing on an interview with Barbara Mancini of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, who was arrested and accused of helping her 93-year-old terminally ill father, Joe Yourshaw, to kill himself. Also interviewed: Barbara Coombs Lee, president, Compassion & Choices, an advocacy group on end-of-life issues; Dr. Ira Byock, professor, Dartmouth College, and head of the Providence Health System’s Institute for Human Caring. (C: Anderson Cooper - P: Andy Court) (OAD: 10/19/14)

“All-American” – an interview / profile of "patriotic philanthropist" David Rubenstein, billionaire co-founder of the Carlyle Group -- one of the world’s largest private equity firms, who is giving away most of his money to support the preservation of some of America’s most iconic monuments and documents. Among his recipients: The Washington Monument; Thomas Jefferson’s home, Monticello; the Declaration of Independence; the Iwo Jima Memorial; and the National Zoological Park’s Giant Panda Habitat. Also includes interviews with: Warren Buffett, billionaire philanthropist and investor; and Jonathan Jarvis, director of the National Park Service; and comments from Bettie Rubenstein, David’s mother. “The Gaskos” – a report on the capture of the FBI’s most wanted man, Boston mobster James “Whitey” Bulger, and his girlfriend, Catherine Greig. For over 14 years the couple avoided an international manhunt by living a quiet, secluded life in Santa Monica, California posing as “Charley and Carol Gasko”. Federal law enforcement trackers explain how a breast augmentation by Greig and the couple’s shared love for animals led to their arrest. Includes interviews with Josh Bond, manager of the Princess Eugenia Apartments; Janus Goodwin and Barbara Gluck, tenants of the Princess Eugenia Apartments; Scott Garriola, Rich Teahan, Tommy MacDonald and Phil Torsney (Ret.), FBI Special Agents; and Neil Sullivan, Deputy U.S. Marshall. (C: Steve Kroft – P: Tanya Simon) (OAD: 11/24/13 - includes an update)

“Wikimania” – a report on Wikipedia, the free Internet encyclopedia, and how the non-profit Wikimedia Foundation has kept the website among the ten most popular advertisement-free sites. Jimmy Wales, founder of Wikimedia Foundation and co-founder of Wikipedia, discusses his vision of this charity and how he’s trying to get more women involved as Wikipedians, the volunteers who write and edit Wikipedia’s articles. Includes interviews with: Jimmy Wales; Sue Gardner, former executive director of the Wikimedia Foundation; Lila Tretikov, executive director of the Wikimedia Foundation; Amanda Levendowski, Wikipedian; and Dumi Ndubane, engineer and Wikipedian. 48 HOURS PRESENTS: “Murder At Sea?” – an updated rebroadcast of a report on the disappearance of newlywed George Smith, who vanished in 2005 from a cruise ship in the Mediterranean while on his honeymoon, as first reported in “Love Lost” (OAD: 04/08/06) and mentioned in “Dark Voyage” (OAD: 09/23/06). This report uncovers the questionable alibis, failed polygraphs and a provocative video that involves the three men who last saw Smith alive. In the years since Smith went missing, his family has been seeking answers to what happened to him after a night of heavy drinking and gambling in the ship’s casino. His disappearance was ruled a likely accident and the case has gone nowhere, despite reports of arguments on the stateroom balcony, furniture being moved and a bloodstain on the overhang of the lifeboats. Mike Jones, an attorney for the Smith family, is now trying to get the case moving again. He has gained access to Royal Caribbean’s internal investigation and has learned about the existence of a videotape in the possession of the FBI, which was recorded just hours after Smith went missing by three of the four men to last see Smith alive: cousins Zach Rozenberg and Greg Rozenberg and their friend Rusty Kofman. The other passenger, Josh Askin, is not on the video. Attorneys for Rusty Kofman and Zach Rozenberg have declined to comment. Greg Rozenberg’s attorney says his client just made stupid comments. While initially cooperating, Askin’s attorney has now told him to take the Fifth Amendment in all questioning. All four men say they had nothing to do with Smith’s death but the men are still on the FBI’s radar in this cold case. Mike Jones believes that Josh Askin knows what happened. He continues to prod the FBI to re-open the case. On-screen text graphic: The FBI’s field office has agreed to review the George Smith case.

EPILOGUE: On January 9, 2015, the FBI announced the closing of the case. His family stands by the reward offer and still believes it was murder. They are hoping the FBI will re-open the investigation.

On-screen text graphic introduction for the 07/05/14 rebroadcast: “9 years ago today George Smith disappeared from his honeymoon cruise. This week, his family announced a $100,000 reward for information leading “to the arrest and conviction of the person (s) responsible.” On-screen text graphic for 07/05/14 rebroadcast: Anyone with information should call 1-844-651-1936. On-screen text graphic for the 07/04/15 rebroadcast: Anyone with information should call 1-844-651-1936. The Smith family is pushing for a bill to require cruise ships to be equipped with man overboard technology. Interviewed: George Smith’s parents, George Smith III and Maureen Smith; his sister Bree Smith; cruise ship passengers Paul and Galina Kvitnisky; Emilie Rausch; Clete Hyman; Greg and Pat Lawyer; Christian Ruiz; Keith Greer, attorney for Josh Askin; Albert Dayan, attorney for Rusty Kofman; Phil Houston, an expert in detecting deception; Mike Jones, Smith family investigator/attorney. NOTE: In this broadcast, Zach Rozenberg, Greg Rozenberg, and Josh Askin all appear in interrogation videos. They are not specifically interviewed for this report. Rusty Kofman appears saying no comment. - 07/11/15 48 HOURS: "The Hit" - a report on the death of colorful entrepreneur and Las Vegas gambler Gary Triano, who was blown up in his car after finishing a round of golf at the exclusive La Paloma Country Club in Tucson, Arizona in 1996. His ex-wife, socialite Pamela Phillips, speaks out for the first time and proclaims her innocence. The Trianos were a power couple who were part of the local social set and hobnobbed with Donald Trump. Triano had made a fortune in the tribal gaming business, but the bottom fell out and he was pushed out of the business. The income loss put a strain on the couple. He owed millions of dollars to creditors. The Trianos separated in 1993 and eventually divorced. He was killed in 1996. Was it a mob hit? Were friends or family involved? Investigation led to endless leads, curious characters and many theories. Eventually the investigation led to the involvement of Ron Young, once an acquaintance and possible lover of Pamela Phillips. He was arrested along with Pamela Phillips on charges of conspiracy and murder. In separate trials, Young denied everything, and was found guilty. Pamela Phillips was portrayed as a desperate woman out for life insurance at her trial. Her attorneys said that someone else was responsible. She too was found guilty. On-screen text graphic: Gary Triano's family sued Pam Phillips and Ron Young for wrongful death. They were awarded $10 million dollars. Interviewed: Pamela Phillips; one-time friend of the couple Laura Chapman; Pima County Investigator Gene Reedy; ATF Special Agents Tom Mangan and Tony May; Detective James Gamber; Triano friend Dr. Lawrence D'Antonio; defense attorney Paul Edkerstrom. - 07/18/15 48 HOURS: "Blaming Melissa" (9:00 - 10:00p) – an updated rebroadcast, after new evidence from the coroner's office is brought to light, detailing the investigation into the case of Melissa Calusinski, a young woman who claims she did not murder 16-month-old Ben Kingan in 2009, while working at a day care center in Lake County, Illinois, despite having confessed to the crime. Also examined are police interrogations, what happens after a confession, and what can happen when a key player in the investigation admits he made a life-altering mistake. Two days after Ben Kingan's death, Calusinski was brought in for questioning; police told her Ben died from a blunt-force trauma to the head and that she was the last adult to have seen him alive. She was interrogated for nine hours, never asked for a lawyer, and eventually confessed to dropping the child in a way that may have led to a head injury. She was convicted of murder, largely on the fact that she had confessed and that the Medical Examiner's report said that the child suffered from fresh injuries to his head. Her family persuaded a newly-elected coroner, Dr. Thomas Rudd, to re-examine the evidence. His findings revealed an older head injury -- a significant discovery. Eventually, state pathologist Dr. Eupil Choi, admitted to missing the old injury in his report. With this information, attorney Kathleen Zellner, who specializes in cases pertaining to false confessions, says that Melissa Calusinski did not receive a fair trial. Advocates say that, under extreme conditions, 60% of people confess to crimes they did not commit. The police say they played by the rules. Two courts have allowed the conviction to stand. Attorney Zellner believes the medical evidence needs to be re-examined, but the State Attorney will not pass it on. Family and friends vow not to give up. Update for the 07/18/15 rebroadcast: after a phone call suggesting x-ray images from the autopsy existed that contradicted testimony, Melissa's lawyer petitioned to void her conviction. The cause of death was changed from homicide to undetermined. In September, the trial judge will decide whether to hold a new hearing that could be a first step to a new trial. On-screen text graphic: Melissa lost her first appeal. She plant to try again based on the new medical evidence. On-screen text graphic for the 07/18/15 rebroadcast: Melissa's parents visit her often. They are confident they'll bring her home one day. Interviewed: Melissa Calusinski; Paul and Cheryl Calusinski (parents); Crystal Calusinski (sister); Ruth Fuller (journalist); Dr. Thomas Rudd (Lake County coroner); Kathleen Zellner (attorney); Deborah Teurkheimer (law professor); Michael Nerheim (States Attorney). 07/18/15

48 HOURS: “The Girl Next Door” (10:00 – 11:00p) - a report featuring an exclusive interview with Tracey Grissom, who is on trial for the murder of her former husband, Hunter Grissom. Tracey details the abuse she claims to have suffered and the events that led her to shoot and kill him, in an Alabama parking lot in 2012. A young mother herself, Tracey and Hunter Grissom had eloped in 2004. Theirs was a troubled relationship from the beginning. In 2010 Tracey filed for divorce; she then says Hunter became abusive and in November, after she spent the night at a boyfriend’s house, Hunter raped her. He was arrested. Soon after, Hunter stopped paying spousal support and child support for his daughter, Anna Grace, claiming he was not working. One day, Tracey noticed his truck and wanted to take a picture to disprove his claim. She claims that he approached her car, intending to hurt her. She then shot six times. She was arrested on murder charges. The hour includes interviews with: Tracey Grissom’s friends; her attorney; Hunter’s mother and aunt; two of the employees who witnessed the incident that took Hunter’s life; and Hunter’s lawyer, who uncovered some damaging information about Tracey. The trial lasted two days, but before the case went to jury, the judge made a stunning reversal: he said it was a manslaughter case and if both sides could agree, he would let the jury consider manslaughter. They did, but Tracey did not agree and decided to take her chances of not being convicted of murder. The verdict: guilty. At sentencing, her lawyer argued that she was a battered woman, hoping to receive a lighter sentence. The judge gave her twenty-five years, neither the minimum, nor the maximum sentence. On-screen text graphic: Tracey Grissom must serve at least fifteen years of her sentence. She will be eligible for parole in 2029. Anna Grace will be twenty years old. On-screen text graphic for the 07/18/15 rebroadcast: On July 2, the Alabama court of criminal appeals unanimously upheld Tracey Grissom’s murder conviction. Her defense has files for another hearing. Tracey will be eligible for parole in 2029. She’ll be 47. Interviewed: Tracey Grissom; her attorney, Warren Freeman; her friend Loren Richards; her brother Travis Waters; Hunter Grissom’s mother Melanie Garner and his aunt, Gina Prisock; Tuscaloosa Times journalist Stephanie Taylor; Hunter Grissom’s employees William Dockery and Dale Dockery (brothers); Hunter Grissom’s attorney Shelly Standridge; social worker Marian Waters; and juror Janice Kelly. 07/25/15

48 HOURS: "Paradise Lost" - an updated report on the investigation into the 2010 shooting death of Wall Street millionaire John Bender, who was killed in his exotic home in Costa Rica. His wife, Ann, is charged with the crime, but she claims innocence. After making a $100 million fortune on Wall Street, Bender and his wife bought land in Costa Rica where they built a nature preserve, along with an elaborate, four-story hilltop home with no walls or windows as the centerpiece. The couple seemed to have everything; but both suffered from severe depression, became isolated, and were not entirely welcomed by the locals. They lived in fear after an abduction attempt and a break-in, and were forced to arm themselves and hire a security team. On January 8, 2010, John Bender died from a bullet wound to the back of the head. Was it murder, suicide or accident? Prosecutors say it was murder. Ann Bender says her husband was trying to kill himself and had been suicidal for some time. Other issues in the investigation include: allegations that the trustee of the Bender's $100 Million fortune siphoned money from the trust, and the Bender gem collection, which to the Costa Rican authorities, looked like it could have could be a smuggling operation. Nineteen months after the shooting, Ann Bender was charged with murder. At trial, Ann was found not guilty of murder; but in Costa Rica, there is no double jeopardy rule and Ann was brought up on the same charges again and this time was found guilty. 48 HOURS brought in the world-famous independent forensic team of Richard and Selma Eikelenboom, who, after examining all the evidence, say there were problems with the conclusion drawn by the prosecution. Today, Ann Bender is in prison continuing to fight for her innocence. Original On screen text graphic: The Bender gems, worth an estimated $20 million, were confiscated by the Costa Rican authorities. 07/25/15 EPILOGUE: Last February, nine months after Ann Bender was convicted, an appeals court overturned that decision. Its finding was that the prosecution's evidence was insufficient proof of murder. Ann was released from prison. The court has ordered a third trial. Her boyfriend, who fought to bring attention to her case, died while she was in prison. She must remain in Costa Rica, pending her next trial. On-screen text graphic for the 07/25/15 rebroadcast: The trial is scheduled to begin next month. Interviewed: Ann Bender; John Bender's friend Pete DeLisi; CBS News consultant/reporter Ned Zeman; prosecutor Edgar Ramirez; Ann's psychiatrist Dr. Carlos Lizano; Bender friend, Paul Meyer; Bender Trust administrator Juan Alvarez; Ann's current boyfriend Greg Fischer; Ann's attorney Fabio Oconitrillo; security guard Oswaldo Aguilar; Ann's brother Ken Patton; forensic experts Richard and Selma Eikelenboom. “Denied” – an investigation into the circumstances of long-term insurance coverage for the mentally ill in America. Long-term care for a mentally ill patient is often denied by insurance company doctors who never see the patient, resulting in some seriously ill patients being discharged from hospitals over the objections of psychiatrists, who warn that someone may die as a result. Included are recorded excerpts of Anthem Insurance-contracted psychiatrist Dr. Tim Jack, as he interacts with doctors during the claims process. Includes interviews with: Nancy West, whose daughter Katherine died after denied long-term care; Dr. Harold Koplewicz, psychiatrist and founder of the Child Mind Institute; Ashley, psychiatric patient with bipolar disorder, and her mother Maria (their last name is withheld by their request); Kathryn Trepinski, attorney; and Dr. Paul Keith, Anthem Insurance’s former California medical director. “The Battle Above” – a report on the US Air Force’s Space Command (AFSPC) and its task of launching and protecting the satellites in space on which our daily life and national security have come to depend. With no worldwide agreement regarding a code of conduct for space operations, the Chinese tested an anti-satellite weapon two years ago. Now AFSPC, with billions of dollars from the Pentagon, is making new satellites more maneuverable to evade attack and also more resistant to jamming. Includes interviews with: General John Hyten, Commander, AFSPC; Colonel Bill Cooley, Director of Global Positioning Systems (GPS) at the Space and Missile Systems Center; Lieutenant Colonel Todd Benson, Commander, 2nd Space Operations Squadron; Lieutenant General Jay Raymond, Commander, Joint Functional Component Command for Space; Brian Weeden, technical adviser to the Secure World Foundation; and Deborah Lee James, Air Force Secretary. Also includes an interview with TED Curator, Chris Anderson. (C: Charlie Rose – P: Henry Schuster, Rachael Morehouse) (OAD: 04/19/15)

“Back To The Wild” – a report on Damian Aspinall’s project to release once-captive gorillas back into the wild, specifically into a forest in Gabon, West Africa. The multimillionaire of Kent, England runs a conservation group, the Aspinall Foundation, and believes keeping animals locked up in a zoo is immoral. After attempting this experiment for a year, and just one month after placing the gorillas into the wild, they discovered five females and one child gorilla died, proving Aspinall’s critics correct: the wild is a not necessarily a place where it is safe for domesticated animals to roam. Includes interviews with: Damian Aspinall and Tara Stoinski, president of the Dian Fossey Gorilla Fund. (C: Lesley Stahl – P: Shachar Baron, Alexandra Poolos) (OAD: 03/15/15)

“The Spy Among Us” – an interview / profile of Jack Barsky, a former spy for the Soviet Union’s KGB, assigned to the United States during the last years of the Cold War, with the aim of infiltrating President Jimmy Carter’s White House. Barsky, born Albrecht Dittrich in East Germany, was recruited by a Russian KGB agent. Failing at his original mission, he then worked at MetLife in IT, where he stole IBM source code for the Soviets. He also led a double life, with a wife and son in Germany and a wife and daughter in the United States. Recalled by the KGB in 1988, he made the decision to stay in the U.S. with his daughter. He lied to the KGB by telling them that he was dying of AIDS. He had another child, a son, and settled down with his family in Mount Bethel, Pennsylvania. The FBI started observing Barsky, and in May of 1997 had gathered enough evidence to question him. After the interrogation, the FBI concluded that his spy days were over and that he would be most useful in supplying information as to how the KGB operated. He now lives in upstate New York as director of software development for an undisclosed company that manages New York’s high-voltage power grid. Also includes interviews with: Joe Reilly, former FBI agent; and Chelsea (last name not disclosed), Barsky’s daughter. (C: Steve Kroft – P: Draggan Mihailovich)

48 HOURS: “Murder in Pinyon Pines” (9:00 - 10:00p) - a report on the investigation into the triple murders and the long quest for justice for Vicki Friedli, her boyfriend Jon Hayward, and Vicki’s daughter Becky Friedli. In 2006, in Pinyon Pines, California, Friedli and her boyfriend were shot dead and their house set on fire. Outside the home, investigators found the charred remains of Becky Friedli, in a wheelbarrow. She was burned so badly, they could not determine how she died. Retired policeman Ron Friedli, Vicki’s ex-husband and Becky’s father, had a theory about what happened: Becky was deathly afraid of fire and he suspected she knew her killer. Police searched for clues but the case went cold. Years later, Luis Bolanos, a private investigator and a former colleague of Ron’s, asked if he could get involved; he said he could get the case back in the news. He did just that. Seven years after the murders, police arrested Becky’s ex-boyfriend Robert Pape and his best friend Christian Smith and charged them with murder. Their families say they are innocent. But an unexpected courtroom twist turned the case upside down. The District Attorney said there was an “issue” in the grand jury proceedings against Pape, and dropped the charges against them both. However, it may not be completely over; the investigation continues. On-screen text graphic: A new DA was sworn in last week. He says he will review the case “with an open mind”. Christian Smith has been honorably discharged from the Army. On-screen text graphic for the 08/01/15 rebroadcast: A new DA was sworn in in January. 48 HOURS: "Fall From Grace" (10:00 – 11:00p) - an investigation into the October 2012 death of Bethany Deaton -- whether her death was a suicide, the fundamentalist Christian religious group to which she belonged, her marriage to the group's leader, and the quest by her family for answers. Bethany Deaton was a young wife and nurse, whose lifeless body was found in the backseat of a minivan, in Grandview, Missouri -- a plastic bag over her head, a suicide note, and an empty pill bottle nearby. Deaton's mother believed it was not a suicide and that someone else had a hand in her daughter's death; possibly someone involved in the fundamentalist Christian religious group to which she belonged, and which some people likened to a cult. While in college, and devoted to religion, Bethany was drawn to Tyler Deaton, the leader of the group called "The Community", which was associated with the International House of Prayer (IHOP). Deaton told members what to wear, when to eat and even controlled their romantic relationships. One member says the group had become a full-blown cult. Bethany eventually married Tyler, but the marriage wasn't perfect. There were questions about Tyler's own sexuality; Bethany fell into a deep depression. Police did not believe Bethany killed herself. After the Medical Examiner ruled it a suicide, Micah Moore, another member of "The Community", told police that he had killed Bethany, and was subsequently charged with murder. The case was upended when he recanted his confession. Investigators were unable to substantiate his confession and just weeks before the trial was to begin, charges were dropped against Micah. Questions remained. Was Micah manipulated? Did Tyler have something to do with it? Tyler is ready to admit he played a role in her death, but to what end? Did Bethany really commit suicide, or was it murder, as her mother believes? On-screen text graphic: Tyler has filed a claim to Bethany's forty thousand dollar life insurance policy. He plans to pay back the Leidleins for the wedding. On-screen text graphic for the 08/01/15 rebroadcast: Bethany's parents are suing the DA for access to the evidence in her case. Tyler has said he planned to pay back the Leidleins for the wedding. 48 HOURS: "The Lost Daughter" (9:00 - 10:00p) - a report on the investigation into the 1989 disappearance of college student Tiffany Sessions, a case which at the time generated one of the largest manhunts in the history of Florida -- and whether the Alachua County Sheriff's office has solved the mystery. What is known is that Tiffany Sessions left her home for her daily walk and never returned. A massive search was launched, driven in part by her father Pat Sessions, a marketing executive. It turned up nothing. In 2013, Alachua County Sheriff Sadie Darnell charged Detective Kevin Allen with the cold case investigation. Allen learned that three years after Sessions disappeared, Elizabeth Foster, another student, was found murdered and buried less than a mile away from where Sessions lived. Paul Rowles, the man convicted of killing Foster, denied having anything to do with the Sessions case. After his death in 2014, police found a phone book among his belongings, which included enough cryptic references to Sessions to name him a suspect in her disappearance and presumed murder. The Alachua County Sheriff's Office excavated an area where Foster was found, hoping to find a clue to Sessions' fate, but it produced no results. The belief of both the family and the sheriff's office is that Rowles murdered Sessions, even though they have not found her remains. 48 HOURS: "The Ultimatum" (10:00 – 11:00p) - a report on the investigation into the murder of Vanessa Mintz, who was gunned down at the family-owned Saluda Mountain Lodge, in Saluda, North Carolina on Saturday, February 19, 2011. Mintz, whose family had long-standing ties to the area, had married early in life, divorced and raised two daughters, Jessica Freeman and Andrea Little Gray, as well as becoming a respected businesswoman, realtor and mentor to young girls. Police investigation at the lodge found a crucial piece of evidence only the killer could have left, but questions remained: did Mintz know her killer or was it a random robbery that went bad? The investigation took the case in another direction when police found out that her husband, Travis McGraw, was secretly dating Mary Beth Fisher. His cell phone records revealed he was sending intimate text messages to Fisher. Fisher claims McGraw had told her he wasn't married, and the relationship, though intimate, was not sexual. Fisher found out the truth and gave him an ultimatum -- make up your mind by Sunday. Mintz was shot dead on Saturday. Travis McGraw willingly turned over his cache of guns to police. One of his guns matched the cartridge found at the scene and he was arrested for murder. Mintz's daughters emerged as powerful advocates for their mother, and prosecutors, after consulting with them, offered a plea deal to McGraw: second-degree murder with a sentence of 16-20 years. He accepted, but at the last moment changed his mind about pleading guilty. Three years after the murder the trial began. McGraw was found guilty of first-degree murder. 48 HOURS: "A Daughter, a Mortgage and Two Murders" - a followup to "The Mortgage and the Murder" (OAD: 11/22/08), a report on the investigation into the murders of Greg and Bernadette Ohlemacher in 2005. The Albuquerque, New Mexico couple had been shot dead in their home. Police immediately suspected their daughter, Renee, was involved. Family members also believed she knew more than she was telling and she was after the $1 million insurance policy. The investigation stalled. In 2006, mortgage loan processor Ron Santiago turned himself in to the Secret Service for a crime unrelated to the murders. Investigation led to a connection between Santiago and the Ohlemachers. A search of his home led to shell casings that matched those found at the Ohlemacher crime scene. Eight years of legal wrangling followed. Before the trial, the District Attorney's office asked Renee to take a polygraph test; results were inconclusive. The test would haunt prosecutors at trial when the jury was allowed to hear the results when she testified. Santiago was found not guilty. Family members still believe both Ron Santiago and Renee Olchmacher were involved in the crime. On-screen text graphic: Renee is working as a dog walker. The family dog "Sammy Jo," passed away a year after the murders. Ron Santiago lives in Albuquerque with his parents and is looking for a job. On-screen text graphic for the 08/15/15 followup: Albuquerque police say the case is now closed. They have no other leads or suspects. Renee is working for a dog walking business. The family dog, "Sammy Jo," passed away a year after the murders. 48 HOURS: "Love, Hate & Obsession" (9:00 - 10:00p) – an updated rebroadcast on the investigation into the 2011 murder of one-time millionaire Lanny Horowitz, who was shot nine times while taking a shower in the bathroom of his upscale Jupiter, Florida home. Only three people were in the home at the time: Lanny Horowitz, his ex-wife Donna Horowitz, whom he had divorced twice, but had reconciled with, and his son, Radley, who also resided there. Both had strained relationships with Lanny. The investigation led investigators to the knowledge that theirs was a deeply troubled family. Both Radley, a former gun dealer, who also served a stint in prison, and his mother Donna, who was bothered by her ex-husband's close relationship with female business partner Francine Tice, were considered suspects. Eventually, Donna was arrested and charged with first-degree murder. At the trial, the defense ultimately blamed her son, Radley. The jury made a quick decision: Donna was guilty. Radley Horowitz has mixed feelings about her defense, but forgives her. On-screen text graphic: Lanny Horowitz had a $500,000 life insurance policy. He left $200,000 to Francine Tice. Radley sued Francine for her share of the insurance payout. Francine settled for $90,000. As part of the settlement, both have agreed never to speak badly about each other publicly. EPILOGUE: Two years after her conviction, Donna Horowitz won her appeal for a new trial. The appellate judges said the prosecutor had made a mistake in her closing arguments. However, the final decision as to whether or not Donna Horowitz gets a new trial now rests with the Florida Supreme Court. On-screen text graphic for the 12/13/14 original broadcast; the 06/28/14 rebroadcast; and the updated 08/22/15 rebroadcast: Lanny Horowitz had a $500,000 life insurance policy. 48 HOURS: "Decades of Deceit" (10:00 – 11:00p) - a report on the investigation into the 1989 murder of 16-year-old Amy Weidner, a young mother who was beaten, sexually assaulted and killed in the bedroom of her Indianapolis, Indiana home while she and Emily, her 2-year-old daughter, were home alone. Even though there was a bloody handprint on the bedroom wall, none of the leads led to an arrest and the case grew cold. In 2011, in response to a newspaper article about the case, the Indianapolis Metropolitan Police Cold Case Unit called upon Detective Sgt. William Carter, a nuisance abatement officer, to help them to print pages from the "Remembering Amy Weidner" Facebook page. Carter became obsessed with the case, and on his own time, found a lead others had missed. After 24 years, this led to the eventual arrest of someone the family was familiar with: Rodney Denk. In 2012, Denk accepted a plea bargain and pled guilty to the murder and rape of Amy Weidner during a robbery gone bad. On-screen text graphic for 04/19/14 original broadcast and 08/22/15 rebroadcast: In January 2014, Bill Carter received the Indianapolis Police Department Award of Merit. Carter was offered the opportunity to join the homicide unit. He has decided to remain a nuisance abatement officer. On his own time, he is looking into another cold case of a murdered nineteen-year-old woman. Interviewed: Emily Weidner (daughter); Gloria Weidner (mother); Cassie Gardner (sister); Taunya Strauss (sister); John-Paul Weidner (brother); Jody George, (Weidner's teacher); Amy Somers, Angie Moore, and Joy Haney (Weidner's friends); Captain Jack Geilker, (former Indianapolis Police Department member, now with the Marion County Sheriff's Office); Lt. 09/06/15

"The Attack on SONY" – a report on the cyberattack on Sony Pictures Entertainment's computer network by North Korea last November, and the cybersecurity questions for corporations going forward. The attack forced the company to immediately revert back to workplace practices used before the advent of the Internet. Sony declined 60 MINUTES request for interviews. Experts believe it will take a technological breakthrough in cyber warfare defense to fully secure computer networks. Includes interviews with: James Lewis, director at the Center for Strategic and International Studies; Kevin Mandia, president at FireEye, Inc.; Matt Zeitlin, business reporter at BuzzFeed.com; and Jon Miller, vice president at Cylance, Inc.. (C: Steve Kroft – P: Graham Messick) (OAD: 04/12/15)

"Cardinal Sean" – an interview / profile of Cardinal Seán O'Malley, Pope Francis' closest American advisor, Archbishop of Boston and the head of the Roman Catholic Church's new commission to fight child sex abuse. Topics include: his work with the poor, immigration, what roles are available to women in the church, and the church's mishandling of child sex abuse. (C: Norah O'Donnell – P: L. Franklin Devine) (OAD: 11/16/14 - includes an update)

"Mindfulness" – a report on "mindfulness", a self-awareness meditation practice stemming from Buddhist roots which scientists say is healthy, but rarely achieved in today's world of digital distractions. 60 MINUTES' Anderson Cooper participated in a three-day retreat in northern California led by the founder of Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction, Jon Kabat-Zinn. Includes interviews with: Jon Kabat-Zinn, founder of Mindfulness-Based Stress Reduction (MBSR); Representative Tim Ryan (D-OH); Dr. Judson Brewer, psychiatrist and neuroscientist; Karen May, Google vice president; and Chade-Meng Tan, software engineer and motivator at Google. 09/13/15

“Iraq’s Christians” – a report from Northern Iraq, where up to 125,000 Christians have been forced to flee from ISIS (ISIL) terrorist violence. Christian homes in Iraq’s second largest city, Mosul, have been marked by ISIS with the Arabic letter ‘N’ for Nasara, an Islamic term for Christians, forcing its residents to either convert to Islam, pay an extortion tax, or be killed. Inhabitants of surrounding villages and towns across the region, known as the Nineveh Plains, have fled the area and are living as refugees in Erbil. Includes interviews with: Father Joseph Ibrahim, monk at Monastery of St. Matthew; Archbishop Nicodemus Sharaf, Archbishop of the Syriac Orthodox Church in Mosul; Issah Al Qurain (through translator), resident who had his house marked; and Archbishop Bashar Warda, Archbishop of Erbil. Also includes comments/footage of Brett Felton, an American veteran of the Iraq War and a man only identified as Khamis - both there to train and assist Christian volunteers. (C: Lara Logan – P: Max McClellan, Jeff Newton, Richard Butler) (OAD: 03/22/15)

“The Shooting at Chardon High” – a report on the shooting on February 27, 2012 at Chardon High School in Chardon, Ohio that left three male students dead. The report focuses on Frank Hall, who was an assistant football coach at Chardon monitoring study hall that morning. Hall’s actions of running towards the shooter to chase him out of the building saved an untold number of young lives. (The shooter’s name is Thomas “T.J.” Lane but the Chardon community asked 60 MINUTES to keep his name and face out of the segment.) Includes interviews with: Tim Armelli, Chardon teacher; Frank Hall, former Chardon assistant football coach and current coach at Lakeside High School and Frank’s wife Ashley Hall; Chardon students Nick Walczak and Nate Mueller and Lakeside High School students Tyree Meeks and Damondre Haywood. (C: Scott Pelley – P: Robert G. Anderson) (OAD: 02/23/14 - includes an update)

“The King of CrossFit” – an interview / profile of Greg Glassman, the creator of the CrossFit workout, a physical fitness program that mixes elements of weightlifting, calisthenics, and gymnastics. CrossFit has become the largest chain of gyms in history and a leading athletic brand through their partnership with Reebok. (C: Sharyn Alfonsi – P: Keith Sharman) (OAD: 05/10/15 on a SPECIAL EDITION of “60 MINUTES”, 8:00 – 9:00p)

“President Rouhani” – an interview (through a translator) with the President of Iran, Hassan Rouhani. President Rouhani sat down with Steve Kroft in Tehran last week to discuss the controversial nuclear agreement between Iran and six countries: the United States, Russia, China, Britain, France, and Germany (P5 +1). Topics include: the years of mistrust between the U.S. and Iran that still exists; the prospects for a better relationship in the future, including economic cooperation; the possibility of a prisoner exchange for The Washington Post journalist Jason Rezaian; and Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei’s harsh statements about America. (C: Steve Kroft – P: Michael Karzis)

“Pope Francis” – a report on the security and logistics surrounding the pontiff’s first visit to the U.S. next week, where he will make appearances in Washington, D.C., New York, and Philadelphia. Scott Pelley got a preview of what Americans can expect as he attended the crowded General Audience, held on Wednesdays in St. Peter’s Square in Vatican City. Includes interviews with: Ken Hackett, U.S. Ambassador to the Holy See; David Yoder, photojournalist for National Geographic; Monsignor Guillermo Karcher, Argentinian priest and pontifical usher (through translator); Ignazio Marino, Mayor of Rome; Augusto Pellegrini, dean of papal ushers (through translator); and Urs Breitenmoser, sergeant in the Swiss Guard. Also includes comments by Pope Francis, some in English and some through a translator. (C: Scott Pelley – P: Nicole Young, Sabina Castelfranco)

“The Smartest Dog in the World” - a report on scientific investigation into the intelligence of dogs, focusing on John Pilley, a retired psychology professor, and his border collie, Chaser, who recognizes more than 1,000 words. Also interviewed are: Brian Hare, an evolutionary anthropologist at Duke University; Dr. Greg Berns, a physician and neuroscientist at Emory University, Atlanta, GA, who conducts brain scans on dogs. “President Putin” – an interview (through a translator) with the President of Russia, Vladimir Putin. President Putin invited Charlie Rose to meet him at his state residence outside of Moscow, ahead of his trip to the annual United Nations General Assembly this week. Topics include: Russia’s military presence in Syria and its support for President Bashar al-Assad; the battle against ISIS, al-Nusra, and other terrorist groups; conflict in Ukraine; and Putin’s feelings towards President Obama and the American people. Additionally, President Putin discusses being a former KGB agent and intelligence officer; his family; and the collapse of the USSR. (C: Charlie Rose – P: Andy Court) DOUBLE-LENGTH SEGMENT

“Trump” – an interview with billionaire real-estate mogul and Republican Presidential candidate Donald Trump, who sat down with Scott Pelley last Tuesday in Manhattan. Topics include: his plan for taxes; immigration and the creation of a wall on the U.S. - Mexico border; breaking up the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) as a strategy to create new jobs for the middle class; repealing and replacing Obamacare with a new form of universal health care; Social Security reform; the media; and his family. (C: Scott Pelley – Robert G. Anderson, Aaron Weisz)

“The Greatest Escape” – a report on how the world’s most wanted man, Mexican drug lord Joaquin “El Chapo” Guzman, escaped from Altiplano Prison in Mexico on July 11, 2015. A construction crew from El Chapo’s Sinaloa Cartel dug a nearly-mile-long tunnel directly into the shower stall of his cell to help the prisoner escape -- for a second time. Includes interviews with: Jim Dinkins, retired Homeland Security Investigations, Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA); Chuck Rosenberg, acting chief of the DEA; and Joe DiMeglio, chief of the San Diego Tunnel Task Force. (C: Bill Whitaker – P: Howard L. Rosenberg)

In addition, the following 2 segments were seen on a special WEST COAST ONLY 2-hour broadcast:

WEST COAST ONLY - “DARPA Dan” - a report on the U.S. military’s Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) and their efforts to maintain America’s military technological superiority, with the highest effort on securing the Internet, which they are credited with helping to create. Dan Kaufman, former video game developer and “Medal of Honor” series creator, heads its software unit and discussed: cyber warfare program Plan X; dark web navigator Memex and how it helps to combat terrorists like ISIS (ISIL); and the hacking vulnerability of devices (phones, cars, etc.) that are connected to the Internet of Things (IoT), with DARPA’s research focused on inventing unhackable code for military drones. Includes interviews with: Dan Kaufman, Director of the Information Innovation Office for DARPA; Christopher White, DARPA Program Manager/inventor of Memex; and Cyrus Vance Jr., Manhattan District Attorney. Also includes comments by: Kathleen Fisher, DARPA Project Manager; and DARPA researchers Carl and Patrick (last names not given). 48 HOURS: "Perilous Journey" (9:00 – 10:00p) - an investigation into the sometimes questionable practices in the business of international adoptions; the lengths some families will go to in order to bring children home to the United States; and how some overseas facilitators walk a fine line between adoption and child trafficking. This broadcast focuses on (1) Ryan and Jeri Lynn Owen's journey to the Democratic Republic of Congo, the questionable practices of the adoption agency Celebrate Children International (CCI), they had chosen, and their ultimate success in adopting their children Ava and Zoey. (2) The story of Betsy Emanuel and her attempt to adopt a child from Guatemala, through the same international adoption agency, CCI. This ultimately led to the discovery of Guatemalan children being in effect abducted for adoption. Emanuel travels to Guatemala to meet a mother whom Emanuel helped to reunite with the children who were taken from her and placed for adoption. (3) The practices of the international adoption agency Celebrate Children International, a small Florida agency, run by Sue Hedberg. Epilogue: Ava and Zoey have been here in the U.S. for two years now and are thriving. They remember Congo as a place of hurt and do not want to go back. On-Screen Text Graphic: 3 months after the Owens left Congo, local officials suspended all new adoptions. Just Last November Ava and Zoey's orphanage was destroyed in a fire. No children were injured. If CCI is not Hague-accredited by July, it will no longer be able to initiate international adoptions. On-screen text graphic for the 09/05/15 rebroadcast: Three months after the Owens Left Congo, local officials suspended all adoptions. CCI, denied accreditation, is no longer allowed to initiate international adoptions. They're permitted to finalize adoptions already in progress. Florida authorities say they do not plan to relicense CCI after June 2016. Interviewed: adoptive parents/CCI clients Ryan and Jeri Lynn Owen; adoptive parent/CCI client Betsy Emanuel; satisfied CCI client Sarah Grandstaff; Guatemalan mother Mildred Alvarado; investigative reporter/CBS News Consultant Erin Siegal; State Department Special Representative Susan Jacobs; adoption consultant Duni Zenaye; Congolese orphanage operator Elizabeth Fochive; Congolese attorney Jean-Baptiste Kombo; Sue Hedberg, operator of the agency Celebrate Children International. 48 HOURS (continued)

- 09/05/15 48 HOURS: “The Secret Life Of Paige Birgfeld” (10:00 – 11:00p) – An updated rebroadcast of the report on the June 28, 2007 disappearance of Paige Birgfeld, twice-divorced mother of three and a resident of Grand Junction, Colorado and the subsequent double-life uncovered by investigators following her disappearance. Following her divorce, Paige became the primary caregiver to her children and was described as such a devoted mother that the Mesa County Sheriff’s Department was convinced she would never have left on her own accord. As friends and family searched for her; her car was found abandoned and on fire in an empty lot. Her first husband, Ron Beigler became the focus of the investigation, when it was learned that the two had been on a date the day of her disappearance, but Paige’s friends and family were far more suspicious of the children’s father, Rob Dixon, as she had a troubled history with him. After a thorough inquiry, both men had solid alibis. As the investigation continued, it was discovered that Paige was also known as Carrie, a high-priced escort. Investigators then began to believe Paige was murdered by one of her clients. Using her cell phone records, police began carefully looking at all of her clients and eventually honed in on one man, Lester Ralph Jones, an ex-con who had served time for kidnapping and assault. Authorities searched his home, but will not discuss what evidence they uncovered. Search dogs led investigators from Paige’s car to an RV shop where Jones worked as a mechanic. Although authorities have zeroed in on Lester Ralph Jones, no charges have been filed and he denies any involvement. The lack of a body, coupled with Paige’s secret life, have made it that much harder to prove anything beyond a reasonable doubt. Her friends and family continue their search. On-screen text graphic: Paige Birgfeld’s parents sought custody of her children, but the courts ruled they would remain with their father, Rob Dixon. The investigation is continuing into the disappearance of Paige Birgfeld. 09/05/15 UPDATE: In 2007, five years after Paige went missing there was a break in the case: a hiker came across human remains which police eventually identified as Paige. Although the evidence is still circumstantial, Chief Deputy DA Dan Rubenstein, who is now heading the investigation, believes he has enough to make a case against Lester Ralph Jones. In 2014, Lester Ralph Jones was arrested and charged with her murder and kidnapping. Now, prosecutors must prove he killed her. On-screen text graphic for the 09/05/15 updated rebroadcast: Paige’s three children are living with their father on the east coast. Lester Ralph Jones’ trial is expected to begin in early 2016. - 09/12/15 48 HOURS: “Death on the Hudson” – a report on the case against Angelika Graswald, who has been charged with killing her fiancé Vincent Viafore, during a kayaking trip on the Hudson River in April 2015. New information and evidence may prove there was no murder. Ten days after Viafore’s death, Graswald was questioned by police for approximately 11 hours, then arrested for murder in the second degree. Investigators maintain Graswald killed Viafore for financial gain after their relationship soured. Her defense team argues his death was a boating accident. The case is examined through interviews with legal experts, friends of the couple and an examination of key evidence in the case. On-screen text graphic: Angelika has been in jail for more than four months. Her trial is expected in Spring 2016. Angelika’s family says they are giving their life savings to help pay for her defense. Interviewed: Amanda Hoysradt (Viafore’s former roommate); Sheri Parte (friend of Graswald’s); Monte Nesheiwat (Sheri Parte’s boyfriend); Michael Colin (Graswald’s former boyfriend); Buddy Behney (kayaker); Jeff Schaack (Cornwell Yacht Club Commodore); Michael Archer (defense expert); Jeff Chartier (defense attorney); Richard Portale (lead defense attorney); Jim Tranium (former detective/interrogation expert) (C: Peter Van Sant – P: Patti Aronofsky, Lourdes Aguiar, Elena DiFiore)

- 09/19/15 48 HOURS: "Dangerous Games" - a report on the events that led to the 2012 death of Lizzi Marriott, a 19-year-old New Hampshire woman lured into the dark world of BDSM (bondage, discipline, and sadomasochism) and who twice refused to take part in bondage and S&M sex with her co-worker Kat McDonough and her boyfriend Seth Mazzaglia. Marriott accepted an invitation from McDonough to hang out with her and her boyfriend and watch a movie – and she never returned home. Mazzaglia used McDonough to bring other women into their relationship for his pleasure -- and that, for him, involved ropes and bondage gear, a fantasy brought into the mainstream by the book series and current motion picture, "Fifty Shades of Grey". Police investigation led to Mazzaglia and McDonough. During interrogation, Mazzaglia said Marriott died accidentally during a BDSM encounter. McDonough told police Marriott was never there, but later, in a plea deal, changed her story. She said Mazzaglia killed Marriott when, after playing strip poker, she twice turned down his requests to initiate sex. After Marriott's death, they disposed of her body in the ocean. At Mazzaglia's 2014 trial, McDonough's testimony was critical. Ultimately, Mazzaglia was found guilty of first degree murder and sentenced to life without parole. On-screen text graphic: Lizzi's family has set up a scholarship in her memory, The Lizzi Marriott Intrepid Ocean Explorer Fund. Kat McDonough will be released from prison in July, 2016. Interviewed: Bob and Melissa Marriott (parents); Becki and Tony Hanna (Marriott's aunt and uncle); Nate McNeal (Marriott's friend); Catherine (no last name given, ex-girlfriend of Mazzaglia); Rod Doherty (former Foster Daily Democrat Executive Editor); Richard DiMario (McDonough friend); Andrew Cotrupi (McDonough attorney). (C: Troy Roberts - P: Sarah Prior, Sara Ely Hulse) (OAD: 02/14/15)
- 09/26/15 48 HOURS: "Hannah Graham: Deadly Connections" (9:00-10:00p) - the first hour of an investigation, told in back-to-back episodes ("Hannah Graham: Stalked by Evil", 10:00 - 11:00p), into the 2014 death of University of Virginia college student Hannah Graham. Included is evidence that links the alleged killer to other cases in Virginia involving unsolved attacks against young women; and a report on the life of Jesse Matthew, the man who is allegedly the last person to see Graham alive. This hour concentrates on Graham's disappearance, the national attention the case garnered, the social media aspects of the case and the subsequent connections between the disappearances and deaths of Morgan Harrington, Trina Murphy and an attempted rape of another young woman. Graham's mysterious disappearance spread far beyond the Charlottesville, Virginia area in the days following her disappearance, reminding people of the death five years earlier of Morgan Harrington, a Virginia Tech student in 2009. Her case became one of the first to use social media as a crime-fighting tool. After her body was found, clothing was recovered which contained unknown DNA which was eventually linked to the 2005 assault of another woman in Fairfax, Virginia. Still there were no answers. In 2013, when 17-year-old Alexis Murphy disappeared, Morgan Harrington's parents reached out to the family. Alexis Murphy's body was never found, but DNA evidence linked Randy Taylor to the crime; he was found guilty and sentenced to life in prison. Now, the families have joined together to help the Graham family through their ordeal and the search for Hannah. Ultimately, police think they have a suspect: Jesse Leroy Matthew, Jr.. (No on-screen text graphic.) Interviewed: Neal Augenstein (WTOP Radio reporter/48 HOURS consultant); Laura French (WTVR reporter/48 HOURS consultant); John Graham (father); Craig Maniglia (Graham's coach); Leila Nasser (Graham's friend); Lloyd Snook (attorney); Gil and Dan Harrington (Morgan Harrington's parents); Lindsey Crisp (Harrington's friend); Michael Boone (detective); Mark Castro (witness); Trina and Laura Murphy (mother and aunt of Alexis Murphy); William Haith (Jesse Matthew's acquaintance); Jesse Matthew, Sr. (father of suspect); Lee Vandell (Matthew's landlady). 48 HOURS (continued)

48 HOURS: “Hannah Graham: Stalked by Evil” (10:00-11:00p) - the second hour of an investigation, told in back-to-back episodes (“Hannah Graham: Deadly Connections”, 9:00-10:00p), detailing the 2014 death of University of Virginia college student Hannah Graham, and the evidence that linked the alleged killer to other cases in Virginia involving unsolved attacks against young women (Morgan Harrington, Alexis Murphy, and an unidentified rape victim). This hour concentrates on Jesse Matthew, the man who was allegedly the last person to see Graham alive. Other crimes in Virginia, in which he became a suspect, are also detailed. Matthew fled from police and was located in Galveston, Texas. He does not cooperate. Thirty-five days after Graham’s disappearance, her body was found. The site is close to where Morgan Harrington’s body was found, near Matthew’s childhood home. The challenge now is to build a case against Jesse Matthew. Meanwhile, a detective believes Matthew could be the suspect in an unsolved rape case in Fairfax, Virginia. A DNA test is taken; it is a match and that DNA is also a match to unknown DNA from the Morgan Harrington case. Matthew is indicted and will stand trial for attempted capital murder and sexual assault in the rape case. Prosecutors are still building the Graham case. Questions are also raised to a connection in the Alexis Murphy case; no link has been found. In early 2015, the rape trial begins. The victim (identified only as R.G.) returns from Asia to testify. As the defense portion of the trial is about to begin, Matthew takes an Alford plea (a kind of guilty plea where the defendant admits guilt, but does not admit to committing the crime). Then, Matthew is handed an indictment for first degree murder in the Morgan Harrington case. The Graham trial is scheduled to begin next summer. No date has been set for the Harrington trial. On-screen text graphic: Jesse Matthew will be sentenced in the Fairfax rape case on October 2, 2015. Matthew’s trial for the murder of Hannah Graham is scheduled for July 5, 2016. If alive today, Hannah Graham and Alexis Murphy would be 19 years old. Morgan Harrington would be 26. Interviewed: Neal Augenstein (WTOP Radio reporter/48 HOURS consultant); Laura French (WTVR reporter/48 HOURS consultant); John Graham (father); Craig Maniglia (Graham’s coach); Leila Nasser (Graham’s friend); Lloyd Snook (attorney); Gil and Dan Harrington (Morgan Harrington’s parents); Lindsey Crisp (Harrington’s friend); Michael Boone (detective); Mark Castro (witness); Trina Murphy (mother and aunt of Alexis Murphy); Roy Murrough (Commonwealth attorney); Allen Qiu (Graham’s friend).
