Big changes are coming to this year's Chemung County Fair...including the price of admission and how long the fair will run. This year's Fair will run from July 31st to August 3rd. Volunteers say it's easier to help make the fair come alive in four days instead of six. Another change is the cost of admission, from 5 dollars per person, to 2 dollars per person and kids under 16 are free. A volunteer with the Chemung County Agricultural Society said while the fair will only be four days - they're going to make sure there's a lot to do - and that there's something for everyone.

There are a few ways to protect yourself from a QR scam. First, if you see a code in an unexpected place inspect the URL before you open it. Secondly, don't scan a QR code in an email or text message you weren't expecting. Thirdly protect your phone and accounts by updating your phone's operating system to protect against hackers and online accounts with strong passwords.

The Transportation Security Administration has stated across the nation airports of all sizes are seeing a general increase in firearm catches at security checkpoints -- however airports in Upstate New York have gone against the trends. Incidents involving guns in carry-on bags aren't very common in Upstate New York airports, but larger airports are dealing with more issues. Nationwide TSA caught 6,737 firearms at airports in 2023 -- the top three airports were Atlanta's Hartsfield-Jackson, Dallas-Fort Worth, and Houston's George Bush Intercontinental. In Upstate New York it's a much different story, airports including Elmira-Corning, Binghamton, Ithaca, Rochester, Syracuse, Buffalo, and Albany saw a combined 20 firearm catches last year - a decrease from 2023 in 2022.

Ice fishing is popular in Upstate New York but you have to be extremely careful. The conditions need to be just right to do it safely. Last week, two brothers plunged into a pond while ice fishing in Otsego County, which is just about two hours from here. One of them died while rescuers were able to save the other. Now the DEC is shedding light on this incident and how to enjoy ice fishing safely. D.E.C. Forest Ranger Ashly Carabetta says people should be aware of ice thickness, color, and if there is a lot of animal activity in the area. If you're interested in heading out on the ice when it's cold enough and safe enough you need to make sure that you have a valid fishing license.

And, remember typically, four inches is a safe ice thickness for ice fishing

Criminals are turning handguns into mini machine guns. A national trend that's rearing its ugly head, right here in the Twin Tiers. They're using something that's known as a glock switch. These modified guns can spray bullets extremely fast, at a rate of more than a thousand bullets a min. This means, a criminal can empty a mag with just one pull of a trigger, and it happens in just sec. Investigator Hillman with the Elmira Police Department says, it's bad enough when they encounter criminals with guns. But, it's even worse when that criminal has a weapon that's modified to shoot fully automatic. And, it creates a very dangerous situation innocent bystanders as well.

The Chemung County Industrial Development Agency performed their first ever audit on Elmira’s First Arena. According to Agency Chair Mark Margeson there's never been an audit done on the facility. The audit looked at the arena's finances, and the record keeping of income and other expenses. Margeson said one thing the audit revealed was a lack of controls for a debit card for the arena, and that's being addressed. He said the IDA wants to streamline things and help keep costs down, delegating tasks and spreading duties among another person or two. He also adds this would help create a checks and balance system for better record keeping. The chairman said they want to stabilize the facility, bring it back functionally, so it could be sold in the future to a potential buyer. Margeson said while the Arena may not be turning a profit, people coming to hockey games and events is still a benefit to the community.

The schools that won a landmark school funding court case in Pennsylvania last year are prepared to go back to court if the Legislature and governor don't adequately address shortfalls in the coming months. Lawyers for the schools and advocates called for an extra $2 billion to public education funds in this budget. That would be followed by $1 billion a year for each of the next four years to address shortfalls by the 2029-30 school year. It comes as two critical junctures are approaching a new report recommending how to distribute state aid to schools and Democratic Gov. Josh Shapiro's second budget proposal.

On Saturday, many people from the community and different organizations attended the annual LECOM Casino Night at the Arnot Mall. The event is a way to raise money to help students with the costs of medical school. LECOM students can get scholarships worth anywhere from $3,000 to $5,000 per semester. The scholarship can be used for things like tuition, textbooks, and living expenses. One first year student said receiving a scholarship helps give her a peace of mind. Govindi said with the scholarship, her dreams and aspirations can become a reality... and it helps build a future beyond the textbooks. Govindi said once she gets her education, she wants to go back to NYC and possibly back to her home country to help provide medical care there. To help fundraise, there was a silent auction and raffles. Dr. Richard Terry, the Associate Dean of Academic Affairs at LECOM Elmira said they raised roughly $220,000.

The Horseheads Village board passed the "sign law" the purpose of the sign law in The Village of Horseheads is to protect the appearance of all signs even digital signs- that are on public display. This law is in effect for every person in the village that displays a sign on their property, it doesn't matter if it's political or purely advertising... the sign law has been around for many years - and Horseheads Mayor Kevin Adams says it needed updates. The law now applies to all temporary signs of all shapes and sizes, additionally to murals throughout the village.

Voters in the Tompkins County Village elections will be the first to use all new voting machines. The County Board of Elections say the machines are smaller, faster and hold more ballots. The technology made by the Clear Ballot Group was a $600,000 investment by the county. The new machines are ADA compliant and take about 3min to cast a vote. The old machines took about 30min to process a ballot. Polls are open from 12 p.m. to 9 p.m. The voting machines will be used county-wide in the April 2nd Presidential Primary.

Early voting is already underway for the Presidential Primary and in Steuben County, voters can use brand new machines to cast their ballot. Veronica Olin, the Republican Commissioner of the Steuben County Board of Elections says it's been 14 years since they've gotten new voting machines. Olin says the machines can scan the ballots faster, and the A-D-A machines have a larger touch screen which can help someone who has trouble filling in the bubbles. The ADA machines also have an arrow pad with braille on it and there's headphones to use so voters can have the candidates' names read aloud to them. Olin says the only change to this voting process - is the way people cast their ballot.

For some people getting together with family and friends for the holidays is fun - but after the festivities are over - some people are often sad and not themselves. Winter can be dark, gloomy, and the sun doesn't come out much, and it affects our mood. Therapist Johanna Webster said during the winter it's easier for people to isolate themselves from family and friends. Webster said there are a couple of things you can do to help boost your mood, like exercising and giving back to those in need. She said everyone handles depression differently but it's important to know when to ask for help.

We all know by now that you need special eclipse glasses to safely watch the event that's happening on April 8th. And how to check for the correct ISO logo. But, you'll still need to check something else to make sure they're not fake. According to the American Astronomical Society, dishonest vendors can grab the ISO logo off the internet, even if their eclipse glasses haven't been properly tested. The proper eclipse glasses should be pitch black when you put them on, and you shouldn't be able to see anything, except the sun or something else that's bright like the sunlight reflecting off a mirror. If the glasses are fake, even with the ISO logos, you'll be able to see through them like a pair of sunglasses. It's important to mention eclipse glasses aren't safe to use after three years. So if you held on to your eclipse glasses from the 2017 event, don't use them. Also, be sure to check your glasses for any damage before you view the eclipse as well.

The future facility will house three new Casa-Trinity programs in one location. CEO Ann Domingos said the mental health clinic will help support people with mental health and substance use crisis symptoms... In the same building there would be an intensive crisis stabilization program. There will also be a residential center with 24 beds and a residential program for anyone who is struggling with substance abuse. The program can care for people for up to three months and there are three levels of care. The program can help stabilize people, give them rehabilitation, and help them reintegrate into the community. It's estimated the facility will open in about 18 months.
