Trump's Republican bona fides, Sanders & Clinton trade jabs and Supreme Court's second tie after Scalia's death: Republican frontrunner Donald Trump was the driving force in the presidential race this week, facing criticism for comments on abortion, foreign policy and nuclear weapons. Will his latest comments slow his momentum ahead of the Wisconsin primary? In the Democratic race, Bernie Sanders and Hillary Clinton traded attacks on campaign financing, trade and abortion. Can Clinton maintain her lead in the delegate race? And the Supreme Court justices were evenly divided on a case involving union dues. Reuter's Joan Biskupic explains how the death of Justice Antonin Scalia is impacting the Supreme Court. Meanwhile, President Obama's nominee Merrick Garland is meeting with senators on Capitol Hill.

SHOULD ORGANS BE SOLD? Each day, twenty-two people in the US die waiting for an organ. Although a majority of Americans support organ donation, only a fraction are registered as organ donors. The introduction of a market for organs would probably decrease waiting lists and decrease deaths, but it a market could also incentivize dangerous behavior from both buyers and sellers and result in a drop in the number of altruistic donations. With so many lives at stake, we must ask: should organs be sold?

IS COLLEGE WORTH THE PRICE TAG? We've all heard the advice: If you want more opportunity, go to college. But today, that advice is seriously expensive. America's student debt is more than a trillion dollars. And a lot of Americans ask if there might not be better, more affordable options. Some point to technical or trade schools. But for many others, the higher pay and job satisfaction that often come with a degree are still unbeatable. It makes you wonder: Can we still afford to send our kids to college? Or in today's job market, can we afford not to?

Chicago Gun Violence: The poorest parts of Chicago have become deadly war zones, with armed gangs enabling hundreds of shootings so far this year. But in the first of two reports, correspondent Judy Valente discovers church and community leaders, teachers, and judges doing all they can to stem the gun violence that prompted Catholic Archbishop Blase Cupich to say to the city's children, "The adult world has failed you."
