Dear Ardelle:

Wayne & Simonne Hewett

On behalf of Special Olympics New York, thank you for your support of the 2007 Satins, Silks & Stars Weekend to benefit Special Olympics New York. Your generous support, involvement and contribution will assist us in our continued quest to provide the year-round athletic training and competition for people with intellectual disabilities, at no charge to the athletes or their families.

Satins, Silks & Stars Gala
Honored Guests

This Saratoga tradition was an exciting and moving weekend; many individuals, companies, and organizations contributed to its success in a multitude of diverse ways to make it a tremendous show of generosity and kindness. Ardelle, it was a pleasure working with you- the PSA's FOX23 provided were an amazing help in getting the word out about our event. We look forward to working with you in the future!

The Silks & Satins 5K Run kicked off the weekend festivities and the rain did not dampen the enthusiasm of almost 1,200 participating runners. The beautiful Satins "Fire & Ice" Gala held Saturday night received very generous silent and live auction pledges exceeding $20,000. The Sponsor an Athlete campaign received an astonishing $53,100 in pledges! Additionally, many guests extended their Satins, Silks & Stars Weekend by enjoying a beautiful Sunday afternoon at the Saratoga Race Track relishing in a gourmet luncheon in the shade of the "At the Rail" pavilion. As a whole, the weekend raised over $150,000! An astounding success!

Dear Ardelle,

Thank you for your generous sponsorship of Albany's Alive at Five Concert Series. The 2007 season (our 18 year!) hosted a record number of attendees, and I know I owe a lot of that success to the wonderful promotional spots on Fox 23!

Your personality at the event is priceless. All of us appreciate the effort and creativity your team brings to Alive at Five. CAUGHT LIVE is one of the best ideas a sponsor has brought to us for this event (thanks Artie)! It was also wonderful to have John Gray, Mark and Diane and even Rich Becker on stage for some of our nights!

Having you and your staff on site was great – I hope the exposure was successful for you. We value the relationship between the City of Albany and Fox 23. I look forward to collaborating on many more events in the future. Thanks for making my first season a good one!

Thank you once again.

Sincerely,

Dear Ardelle,

On behalf of the American Diabetes Association I would like to thank you for your support of the 2007 Tour de Cure. We appreciate your generosity and commitment to helping people with diabetes.

Together we have raised over $510,000, ranking the Capital District third in the country. These funds will be used for research, education, advocacy, and Camp Sunshine. Your involvement in the Tour de Cure has made an impact in the community bringing us closer to fulfilling our mission; to prevent and cure diabetes and to improve the lives of all people affected by diabetes.

Enclosed is a t-shirt as a token of our appreciation. I hope you will continue to support us in our efforts for the Capital District Region...thank you for making a difference!

Very truly yours,

Amy R. Young

Applied Materials, Inc.

Tease:

He is president and CEO of the world's largest tool maker for the nanoelectronics industry...and a key partner at the UAlbany NanoCollege. An exclusive conversation with Michael Splinter of Applied Materials is coming up. Also, learn how nanotechnology is being used to keep food fresh in your refrigerator...and students get an inside look at the UAlbany NanoCollege. It's all next, on NanoNow.

Hello:

Hello, and welcome to NanoNow, a presentation of UAlbany's College of Nanoscale Science and Engineering. I'm your host, Steve Janack, pleased that you've joined us for our weekly look inside the pioneering world of nanotechnology. NanoNow is made possible with exclusive corporate support from Berkshire Bank and help from our media partner, Fox 23. In a moment, we'll speak with Michael Splinter, president and CEO of Applied Materials. But first, let's get you up to date with our weekly check of NanoNews...

Teases:

It is the global leader in making tools for the nanoelectronics industry: Applied Materials, headquartered in Silicon Valley, but with a significant presence at the UAlbany NanoCollege. After four decades in business, it's also a company that is entering new markets, thanks to the emergence of nanotechnology. We had a chance to speak with Applied Materials' President and CEO, Michael Splinter...

Michael Splinter, president and CEO of Applied Materials. We're back in a moment to talk about the cutting-edge research Applied Materials is conducting at the UAlbany NanoCollege. Also on the way, a check of NanoStox, and Ann Hughes explains how nanotechnology in your refrigerator is helping to keep food fresh. Stay with us, on NanoNow.

Welcome back. One of the key corporate partners at the College of Nanoscale Science and Engineering is Applied Materials, the world's largest maker of tools for the nanoelectronics industry. Hello, and welcome to NanoNow, a presentation of UAlbany's College of Nanoscale Science and Engineering. I'm your host, Steve Janack, pleased that you've joined us for our weekly look inside the pioneering world of nanotechnology. NanoNow is made possible with exclusive corporate support from Berkshire Bank, and help from our media partner, Fox 23. In a moment, your backstage pass to CNSE's Albany NanoTech complex. But first, let's get you up to date with our weekly check of NanoNews...

Teases:

Thanks. You've driven by, or perhaps flown over, CNSE's Albany NanoTech complex... admired the funky, high-tech look...but always wondered exactly what's going on inside. Today, we have the answer to that question, as we take you on a first-ever video tour of the UAlbany NanoCollege...Michael Fancher starts the tour in a building called NanoFab 300 North...

Michael Fancher, assistant professor of nanoeconomics and director of economic outreach. Up next, a look at NanoFab 300 South and the location of CNSE's newest building, NanoFab 300 East. We'll also check NanoStox, and Ann Hughes reports on how nanotechnology is helping to put a shine on jewelry. First we'll take a break...stay with us, on NanoNow.

Welcome back to NanoNow. It's part two of our inside look ... literally ... at the UAlbany NanoCollege and its Albany NanoTech complex. Back with Michael Fancher inside NanoFab 300 South...

Michael Fancher, assistant professor of nanoeconomics and director of economic outreach. We're back in a moment to take you inside NanoFab 200, but first, here's Ann Hughes with Nano & You...

Welcome back. NanoNow is a presentation of the College of Nanoscale Science and Engineering, with exclusive corporate support from Berkshire Bank. I'm your host, Steve Janack. The third existing building at CNSE's Albany NanoTech complex is known as CESTM, or NanoFab 200...Michael Fancher takes you inside this familiar site at the corner of Washington Avenue Extension and Fuller Road...

Michael Fancher, assistant professor of nanoeconomics and director of economic outreach. When we come back, we'll take you "Inside CNSE," and show you some cutting-edge research that is aimed at helping to reduce emissions from large turbines. When we return, on NanoNow...

Wrap:

We close today with our "Inside CNSE" segment, and Professor Michael Carpenter, who's using a scanning electron microscope to further research that will help to improve our environment ...

Close:

Again, thanks to our exclusive corporate sponsor, Berkshire Bank, and media partner, Fox 23. I'm Steve Janack of the College of Nanoscale Science and Engineering, thanks for watching and we'll see you next time, on NanoNow.

"NanoNow" – Joseph

8/19/07

Dr. Eva Joseph
Superintendent
City School District of Albany

Tease:

As superintendent of the City School District of Albany, she is charting a new course for public education...and a partnership with the UAlbany NanoCollege is putting nanotechnology on the front burner. A conversation with Dr. Eva Joseph is on the way next. Also, a tool at CNSE that's doing some high-tech polishing...and nanotechnology is now improving pregnancy tests. It's all next, on NanoNow.

Teases:

Dr. Eva Joseph, Superintendent of the City School District of Albany. We're back in a moment to talk about a cutting-edge pilot program that puts Albany High School students on site at the UAlbany NanoCollege. Also on the way, a check of NanoStox, and Ann Hughes explains how nanotechnology has made its way into early result pregnancy tests. Stay with us, on NanoNow.

Dr. Eva Joseph, Superintendent of the City School District of Albany. Coming up next, we'll talk about the emerging trends for public education. But first, here's Ann Hughes with Nano & You...

Dr. Eva Joseph, Superintendent of the City School District of Albany. When we come back, we'll give you an up-close-and-personal look at a tool that does its polishing atom-by-atom. When we return, on NanoNow...

Wrap:

Back with Eva Joseph, a great conversation, thanks for being here. We close today with our "Inside CNSE" segment, and Professor Robert Geer, who shows us a high-tech polishing process called Chemical Mechanical Planarization...

Close:

Again, our thanks to Albany School Superintendent Dr. Eva Joseph, to our exclusive corporate sponsor, Berkshire Bank, and our media partner, Fox 23. I'm Steve Janack of the College of Nanoscale Science and Engineering, thanks for watching and we'll see you next time, on NanoNow.

"NanoNow" – Daly

8/26/07

Michael P. Daly
President and CEO
Berkshire Bank

Tease:

We are on location in Pittsfield, Massachusetts... home base for Tech Valley's fastest-growing financial institution... as we chat with Michael Daly, President and CEO of Berkshire Bank, who sees nanotechnology as a critical driver for the region's economic growth. That's next. Also, a faculty member at the UAlbany NanoCollege is playing a key role in the development of electron-beam lithography... and no more cold feet – literally – thanks to nano. It's all next, on NanoNow.

But first, let's get you up to date with our weekly check of NanoNews...

Teases:

Thanks. Established more than 160 years ago, right here in Pittsfield, Berkshire Bank is one of Massachusetts' oldest and largest independent banks. It's also Tech Valley's fastest-growing financial institution, making major inroads in the Capital Region and New York State, due in part to the economic growth driven by an expanding nanotechnology sector, centered in Albany. We had a chance to speak with Berkshire Bank's President and CEO, Michael Daly...

Michael Daly, president and CEO of Berkshire Bank. We're back in a moment to talk about Berkshire's partnership with the UAlbany NanoCollege. Also on the way, a check of NanoStox, and Ann Hughes explains how nanotechnology is being used to keep your feet warm. Stay with us, on NanoNow.

Welcome back to NanoNow, coming to you today from Pittsfield, Massachusetts. We're speaking with Michael Daly, president and CEO of Berkshire Bank, which is our exclusive corporate sponsor... and for good reason... he says the economic growth being driven by the nanotechnology sector in Albany and New York State is good for everyone...

Michael Daly, president and CEO of Berkshire Bank. Coming up next, we'll talk about future trends in banking... driven, not surprisingly, by nanotechnology. But first, here's Ann Hughes with Nano & You...

Welcome back. NanoNow is a presentation of UAlbany's College of Nanoscale Science and Engineering, with exclusive corporate support from Berkshire Bank. I'm your host, Steve Janack, coming to you from Pittsfield, Massachusetts, where we bring you more of our conversation with the president and CEO of Berkshire Bank, Michael Daly...

Michael Daly, president and CEO of Berkshire Bank. When we come back, we'll take you "Inside CNSE," and a discussion of e-beam lithography. When we return, on NanoNow...

Wrap:

We close today with our "Inside CNSE" segment, and professor John Hartley, who is helping to spearhead an area of research at the UAlbany NanoCollege called electron beam, or e-beam, lithography...

"NanoNow" – Herbst

9/2/07

Susan V. Herbst
Provost & Officer in Charge
University at Albany

Tease:

She is providing critical vision and leadership at the University at Albany...and sees the College of Nanoscale Science and Engineering as a key player. Meet UAlbany Provost and Officer in Charge Susan Herbst, on the way next. Also, a faculty member at the UAlbany NanoCollege is breaking new ground in the area of spintronics...and nanotechnology is improving your slapshot. It's all next, on NanoNow.

"NanoNow" – Grose

Douglas A. Grose
Senior Vice President of Technology Development, Manufacturing and Supply Chain
AMD

Tease:

His company has identified the Luther Forest Technology Campus as the best location for its newest computer-chip manufacturing facility...on the way, insight from AMD senior vice president Doug Grose. Also ahead, we'll explain exactly what's happening inside a cleanroom...and a nanosyringe makes its way into the laboratory. It's all next, on NanoNow.
