In accordance with Section 73.3526(a) (9) of Federal Communications Commission Rules, WKBT-DT 8.2 has determined the following as the most significant problems and needs of the community for the fourth quarter of 2011. There is no particular order of importance regarding this list. On the following pages we identify programming providing the station's most significant treatment of these community issues. This list was determined by contact with community leaders, and with input from viewers in the various communities we serve.

Special Note: In the following report, certain items may be listed with indeterminate duration times where it is not possible to ascertain exact timings. In the case of public service campaigns, each spot is given strong support during the campaign dates, with numerous on-air exposures.

1. Economy
2. Education
3. Health/Safety
4. Environment
5. Crime
6. Government

1. Economy

One of the biggest concerns of our viewers is the economy. The collapse of the housing market and the bailout of the financial and automobile industries had people worrying about their 401(k) retirement accounts. But just as stock markets were recovering from these scares, global concerns about the European debt situation and the political stalemate in Washington over the debt ceiling and other issues again had an adverse effect on the stock market. The job drain overseas continues to wipe out well-paid jobs in several different economic sectors. Government cutbacks and business downsizing have contributed to the bleak unemployment situation in this country, even though there has been some slight improvement. Jobs are still extremely hard to find, and many people have given up looking for work. The wars in Iraq and Afghanistan continued to contribute to concern over the economy. The tremendous costs involved in military operations and the rebuilding of Iraq are contributing to a large drain on the economic health of the country. The rising costs associated with health care are affecting all Americans, particularly those on limited incomes. Many people are concerned about the costs involved in the new health care reform bill. Large state and local budget deficits are adding to the concern over how to pay for essential services and properly fund new and existing projects without raising taxes. One of the biggest areas of concern in Wisconsin has been Governor Scott Walker's budget repair bill. It was pushed through by Republican majorities in both the Assembly and Senate over strong opposition from Democratic members of the State Legislature. The measure increases pension and health care contributions by state workers, and strips collective bargaining rights from most state employees.

2. Education

Education is a prime concern of many people. On one hand, they want the best possible education for young people, but at the same time are concerned about the costs. Education is one of the highest priced items on the local tax bill, and declining state aid is contributing to worries over how to pay the bill for today's schools. Republican Governor Scott Walker's budget repair bill strips millions of dollars of state aid from schools. The bill was passed by Republican majorities in both the assembly and senate over the strong opposition of Democrats. It requires that workers contribute more toward the costs of their retirement pension plan and health insurance. The bill also strips collective bargaining rights from most state workers, including teachers. Republicans say the measures included in the new law will more than offset cuts in state aid, but many educators are doubtful they will come out ahead. As a result of the bill's passage, many teachers have been taking early retirements in an effort to protect their existing pension benefits. This could result in a massive loss of experienced educators. As a result of the state budget cuts, tuition is likely to rise at state-supported universities and technical colleges. Limits to enrollment are also a possibility as schools struggle to maintain quality programs in the wake of dire budgetary cuts.

3. Health/Safety

Health and safety concerns are an important priority for many people in the communities we serve. Here in the La Crosse area residents have access to two top medical centers, in addition to Mayo Clinic in nearby Rochester, Minnesota. The question is not one of quality of care, but the expense involved in seeking medical treatment. Many people go without health insurance, either because it's not available to them or the cost is prohibitively high. State programs have been instituted in order to make sure children and some low-income people have access to health care. However, severe budget cuts in Wisconsin Governor Scott Walker's budget repair bill threaten many state health programs. Many people in the state could be dropped from programs designed for senior citizens and the poor. The new federal health care reform bill continues to generate controversy, particularly along party lines. Republicans in Congress are attempting to repeal the law, or strip funding that will be needed to institute many of the health care reforms. Court challenges to the constitutionality of the bill could also delay implementation of the insurance reforms and coverage aspects of the health law. One of the major health care costs, particularly for older Americans, is the high cost of prescription drugs. One part of the health care reform law will eventually close the so-called doughnut hole in the Medicare prescription drug plan if it's allowed to stand. Many people are worried about the future of entitlement programs such as Medicare and Social Security. They fear many changes may be in store as federal and state governments struggle with rising deficits and declining revenues.

4. Environment

Environmental concerns are on the minds of many people in our viewing area. Global climate change is one of the most important items that people feel needs to be addressed. There is an increasing awareness of the role nature plays in our lives, and the importance of being good stewards of our natural resources and wildlife. Some of the problems being addressed include air and water pollution, waste disposal, agricultural pollution, destruction of wildlife habitat, and many other environmental matters. More attention is being given to the many different items that affect the quality of our lives. People are beginning to realize that environmental problems must be solved if we are to maintain the lifestyles we enjoy in this country. Energy production is at the forefront of much discussion. A big challenge for the future will be the reduction in greenhouse gases that accompany the burning of fossil fuels for energy production. An increased reliance on solar energy and wind power could help reduce pollution levels and help alleviate the factors involved in climate change. But all proposed changes to our energy emphasis will come with a huge price tag at a time when state and federal budgets are at the breaking point. Energy conservation measures could play a big part in the nation's energy future. The fate of nuclear power in this country is extremely uncertain in the wake of the nuclear disaster in Japan following a huge earthquake and devastating tsunami. Many people and government officials are calling for a moratorium on nuclear development until safety issues are examined and resolved. On the local front, the increasing intrusion of emerald ash borers into our area could mean the loss of thousands of ash trees. Invasive species of carp threaten the viability of fisheries and habitat in area rivers and the Great Lakes.

5. Crime

Viewers consistently indicate a strong concern about crime. Even though some crime statistics are down, many people have the impression that more crime is occurring. Residents of rural areas report they are seeing more drug-related and property crimes. Several high-profile crimes, including murder, have taken place throughout our area. The rapid introduction of methamphetamine and other new drugs into the La Crosse and Western Wisconsin area is causing considerable concern among law enforcement agencies. One of the main issues being considered by law enforcement agencies and government officials is lack of jail space. La Crosse County has completed an addition to its newly constructed law enforcement center because of an increased demand for jail space. Monroe County had put construction of a new law enforcement center on hold because of economic concerns, but now is considering new alternatives to solving jail crowding. Many law enforcement and court officials are investigating the increased use of probation, supervision and electronic monitoring as an alternative to jail and prison for nonviolent offenders.

6. Government

Government is a category that includes many different concerns, ranging from national politics to local government. It encompasses a broad area of interest on the part of local residents as to what their representatives are doing with their tax dollars. Recent interest has focused on the collapse of the housing industry and the government's bailout of the financial and automobile sectors. Congressional infighting over the nation's debt ceiling and spending cuts has focused attention on the inability of our representatives to make the tough decisions necessary for the nation to move forward. The new health care reform law is a top item of interest for most people. Many people are frustrated with the continuing terrorist resistance in Iraq and Afghanistan. Most people's interest is focused on how Barack Obama has handled his role as President of the United States, and on the growing opposition to his programs and big government in general. The quest for the Republican nomination for the 2012 Presidential Election has brought forth many conservative candidates, all of whom are blasting President Obama on everything from jobs to health care. Mid-term elections put Republicans in control of the House of Representatives and many state legislatures and governor's offices. In Wisconsin, Republican Governor Scott Walker's budget repair bill has been under heated debate. The bill increased state worker's contributions to their pension and health care plans. It also stripped collective bargaining rights from many state workers. These measures, along with massive cuts in state aid to local governments and school districts, have brought forth a stream of protests and demonstrations against the governor, who is now facing a recall election. The reliance on property taxes to fund local government comes under constant criticism, with detractors saying high property taxes are harmful to the retired and people on limited incomes.
