Quarterly Issues and Programs List

January 1, 2007 through March 31, 2007

1. Economy

One of the biggest concerns of our viewers continues to be the economy. The job drain overseas continues to wipe out well-paid jobs in several different economic sectors. The war in Iraq continues to contribute to concern over the economy. The tremendous costs involved in military operations and the rebuilding of Iraq are contributing to a large drain on the economic health of the country. High gas prices are having a negative effect on the economy and people's discretionary spending. The rising costs associated with health care are affecting all Americans, particularly those on limited incomes or retired. Large state and local budget deficits are adding to the concern over how to pay for essential services and properly fund new and existing projects without raising taxes.

An important area of economic concern continues to be agriculture. Some farm prices have risen for farmers, but expenses continue to increase. An economic crunch has forced many family farms out of business. The disappearance of the family farm is felt throughout the community, with many small town businesses threatened. Adding to the economic woes of small towns is the growing tendency of people to shop at core retail areas in larger cities. The appearance of "superstore" operations in some area cities is having a negative impact on other local businesses. Sometimes this is helpful by attracting more shoppers to a community. But many businesses suffer from the increased competition.

The tax situation is another important concern of people in our viewing area. The heavy reliance on property taxes is a burden--particularly on older people who may be living on restricted incomes. Although several attempts have been made to reduce property taxes by relying on other means of taxation, the tax bill is still very high for people with limited means.

2. Education

Education is a prime concern of many people. On one hand, they want the best possible education for our young people, but at the same time are concerned about the costs. Education is one of the highest priced items on the local tax bill, and declining state aid is contributing to worries over how to pay the bill for today's schools. This cost concern is evident when school districts go to the voters with referendums for building or remodeling projects. Many times the proposals are defeated, or pass by a very small vote margin.

Wisconsin and Minnesota are both facing budget deficits that are having an impact on education funding in the two states. Local school districts are examining ways to cut expenses without lowering the quality of the educational services they offer. Several area districts have seen teacher and support staff lay-offs.

3. Health

Health and safety concerns are an important priority for many people in the communities we serve. Here in the La Crosse area residents have access to two top medical centers, in addition to Mayo Clinic in nearby Rochester, Minnesota. The question is not one of quality of care, but the expense involved in seeking medical treatment. Many people go without health insurance, either because it's not available to them or the cost is prohibitively high. State programs have been instituted in order to make sure children have access to health care, particularly in the wake of Wisconsin's W-2 welfare reform program. Some people with limited incomes can access Wisconsin's BadgerCare prescription plan. But this program needs periodic funding approval from the State Legislature and permission from the federal government to operate in place of the Medicare drug program. This federal approval is apparently going to be rescinded.

The high cost of prescription drugs has many older people concerned over how they can afford their medication. Now that the federal government has included a prescription drug plan in Medicare, people are concerned that the plan is inadequate, and might produce unwelcome changes in the entire Medicare program. There is considerable confusion surrounding the new Medicare prescription plan with an overwhelming number of plans to choose from. People are worried about the overall government health program and how it will affect them in years to come.

There is always a tremendous amount of interest in medical breakthroughs. People want to learn more about new ways of treating and preventing health problems.

4. Environment

Environmental concerns are on the minds of many people in our viewing area. There is an increasing awareness of the role nature plays in our lives, and the importance of being good stewards of our natural resources and wildlife. Some of the problems being addressed include air and water pollution, waste disposal, agricultural pollution, destruction of wildlife habitat, and many other environmental matters. More attention is being given to the many different items that affect the quality of our lives. People are beginning to realize that environmental problems must be solved if we are to maintain the lifestyles we enjoy in this country.

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources is continuing its extensive campaign to fight chronic wasting disease in the state's whitetail deer herd. The agency has conducted a massive deer eradication and testing program in affected counties that they hope will keep the disease from expanding. Chronic wasting disease could have a drastic impact on Wisconsin's deer hunting economy.

The increasing energy shortage in some parts of the country could have an impact on the environment. More power plants will likely have to be constructed, increasing the chances of adversely affecting the environment. Energy conservation measures could bring some solution to this problem. New federal air quality standards might mean that coal-fired power plants in Wisconsin could face expensive upgrades or replacement.

With La Crosse's location on the Mississippi River there is quite a bit of concern about the environmental state of the river and surrounding areas. There is often a conflict between commercial and recreational users of the river.

Agricultural runoff is one of the top environmental concerns in our area. Farmers are spending increasing amounts of money to ensure that ground water and waterways are protected from pollution.

5. Crime

Viewers consistently indicate a strong concern about crime. Even though some crime statistics are down, many people have the impression that more crime is occurring. Residents of rural areas report they are seeing more drug-related and property crimes. Several high-profile crimes, including murder, have taken place throughout our area. The rapid introduction of methamphetamine and other new drugs into the La Crosse and Western Wisconsin area is causing considerable concern among law enforcement agencies.

Wisconsin's new truth-in-sentencing law has taken effect. Communities and law enforcement agencies are anxious to see what the result of this new law will be as it relates to prison and jail costs. La Crosse County is already considering an addition to its newly constructed law enforcement center because of an increased demand for jail space. Many law enforcement and court officials are investigating a possible increased use of probation and supervision as an alternative to jail and prison for nonviolent offenders.

6. Government

Government is a category that includes many different concerns, ranging from national politics to local government. It encompasses a broad area of interest on the part of local residents as to what their representatives are doing with their tax dollars.

Primary interest has been focused on the war against Iraq and its aftermath. Many people are frustrated with the continuing terrorist resistance in Iraq, and wonder when the time will come when American troops can return home. Interest in the war in Iraq was evidenced by the extremely high interest in the November elections, where Democrats took control of both the House of Representatives and Senate.

Many state and local governmental units are having severe budget problems, even though many indicators show the economy improving. On the local scene, much of the interest centers on the cost of local government and how those costs are funded. Property taxes continue to be a major point of discussion, particularly among older residents on fixed incomes.
