Pam also volunteers with Project Healing Waters Fly Fishing and the Mad River Chapter of Trout Unlimited as the membership director and newsletter editor. She also is actively engaged with Ohio Women on the Fly encouraging more women to get on the water and enjoy the sport of fly fishing. Her other volunteering passion is with Food Rescue US-Columbus where she rescues edible food from donors and redistributes it to fill plates, not landfills. She started volunteering with them after retiring from a 30 year career with Ohio EPA regulating solid and hazardous waste management where she saw first hand the social, economic and environmental impacts of waste.

4/29/2022	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Good Health Is About More Than Medicine	60	9:30 PM	22.6	Good health really is about so much more than medicine. Even communities with state-of-the-art hospital systems and the latest in medical technology may struggle to improve the overall health of their nearby populations. That's because other factors are at work in determining health care outcomes. According to the Kaiser Family Foundation, these all-important "social determinants of health" are the underlying conditions in which people are born, grow, live, work, and age. Social determinants of health include factors like socioeconomic status, education, neighborhood and physical environment, employment, and social support networks, as well as access to health care. Even a person's zip code can determine their likelihood for good health and longevity. Social determinants of health can mean that even the best medical technology may struggle to improve the longevity and healthcare outcomes of vulnerable populations. Communities that are successfully improving healthcare outcomes, including Columbus, are recognizing the critical connection between better healthcare outcomes and workforce development, improved environmental conditions, sanitation, and consistent access to healthy food.

5/6/2022	Columbus Metropolitan Club- The High Stakes of Science Literacy and Education	60	8:30 PM	22.6	Has science literacy ever been more important to Ohio's future than now? The return of the COSI Science Festival on May 4-7 will showcase Ohio's commitment to increasing science literacy and generating interest in – and comfort with – science. The COVID-19 pandemic has generated reams of misinformation, mistrust of science, and split Americans into opposing camps. But it's also left many better educated about science and how science works. According to an article in Wired magazine by Max Levy, the messy trial-and-error of the pandemic has shown many what the process of science really looks like. Science isn't necessarily about answers – it's an ongoing data-driven process to distinguish plausible answers from wrong ones. As the data changes, so can the answers. What needs to happen in partnerships between private industry, public agencies, educators, and nonprofits to lay the right kind of foundation for the type of broad science literacy that will be required to sustain industries like Intel and to keep them supplied with qualified employees? On May 4, the importance of science literacy comes to the CMC stage with a panel of experts including Frederic Bertley, Ph.D., President and CEO of COSI, and COSI Science Festival partners Lou Von Thaer, President and CEO of Battelle, and Joanna M. Pinkerton, President/CEO, COTA, with moderator Angela An, news anchor with WBNS-10TV.

5/13/2022	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Is Columbus an Age-Friendly City?	60	8:30 PM	22.6	Columbus is welcoming, progressive, and growing. But is it age-friendly? And by that, we mean, is it the kind of city that will take care of its older residents, and be attractive to new ones? Retirees and empty-nesters moving to warmer climates is a familiar story. But with a burgeoning cultural scene, world-class museums, a year-round sports scene, and a very affordable cost of living, Columbus holds a deep appeal to older residents, whose numbers are growing rapidly. Will current seniors stay? Will new ones move here? According to the Age-Friendly Innovation Center at The Ohio State University's College of Social Work, Franklin County's population of adults aged 60 and over is expected to double between 2010 and 2050. In the United States, the number of adults aged 65 and over is projected to be greater than the number of children under 18. What is an age-friendly community? An age-friendly community recognizes the great diversity among older persons, promotes their inclusion and contributions in all areas of community life, respects their decisions and lifestyle choices, and anticipates and responds flexibly to aging-related needs and preferences. Age-friendly communities provide safe and accessible indoor and outdoor spaces, ensure older adults can get where they need to go, have access to housing, and ensure the safety of older adults in the event of emergencies. Communities attuned to needs of older residents also commit to honor respect, inclusion, and social participation, provide opportunities to work, volunteer, and engage, recognize the unique communication needs of older adults, and work to ensure access for seniors to community and health services. Does Columbus meet the criteria needed to truly call itself an age-friendly community? What are other cities doing right, or getting wrong, about being age-friendly? What track is Columbus on, and what changes need to be considered in infrastructure, tax policies, and social services to ensure Columbus builds a reputation as an age-friendly city? Featuring Holly Holtzen, State Director, AARP Ohio, and Katie White, Director, Age-Friendly Innovation Center, The Ohio State University College of Social Work, with moderator Ursel McElroy, Director, Ohio Department of Aging.

5/20/2022	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Vista Village: More Than A Home	60	8:30 PM	22.6	Can an innovative new project in Columbus provide hope, housing, and healing for the homeless by creating a community that fosters employment, self-sufficiency, and independent living? Vista Village, Inc., is a new-to-Ohio, affordable housing project aiming to do just that. The partner-driven project is working now to help people move from homelessness to safe affordable housing while providing wraparound services in collaboration with generous business partners and key community agencies. Key project backers include well-known names in Columbus: Steiner + Associates, developer Jeff Edwards, EMH&T President Sandy Doyle-Ahern, MKSK, and the Robert Weiler Co. The Vista Village initiative is attempting to create a new community from scratch, where the homeless can live in a home of their own, expand on their strengths, and develop the skills to help themselves transition to stable, permanent housing. Central to the Vista Village model are 41 microhomes, each measuring just 420 square feet, a 4,500-square-foot community center, a community garden, a park, and green space. Every Vista Village microhome will have a bathroom, bedroom, kitchen, and a front porch. The Village's goal is to provide safe housing and bring in supportive services to help the residents transition from a state of homelessness to economic independence and permanence. Thanks to partnerships with third-party social service agencies, residents will have access to primary care, mental health treatment, substance abuse recovery programs, GED programs, vocational skills training, and other supportive services. Led by Columbus attorney John Perez, Vista Village leaders will break ground this year on the Village's 15-acre site south of Refugee Road and west of Hamilton Road. On May 18, CMC will welcome Perez, Sandy Doyle-Ahern, President, EMH&T, and Sandy Stephenson, Chief Healthcare Officer, Southeast Healthcare, to discuss the initiative's bold vision and to explore how Vista Village might serve as a model for other communities struggling to address the nation's homeless crisis. Kerry Charles, Anchor, WCMH NBC4, will host.

5/27/2022	Columbus Metropolitan Club- Fixing Ohio's Childcare Crisis	60	8:00 PM	22.6	Writing for Columbia University's Student Voices, Saba Rawjani noted the childcare crisis is a barrier to human development, collective wellbeing, and the future of the United States. The lack of affordable childcare is also dragging down the U.S. economy and keeping would-be workers at home, contributing to a slower recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic and challenging companies to find qualified employees. Why exactly does the U.S. struggle to address its decades-old childcare crisis? Why is such a universally-needed service so challenging for parents to obtain – and afford? Experts point out that America has addressed the childcare crisis before, and with good results. During World War II, as women flocked to war production plants by the millions, the Lanham Act helped fund childcare in communities with defense industries. A 2015 White House report reflected that under this WWII-era funding, all families (regardless of income) were eligible for childcare for up to six days a week, and parents paid the equivalent of just $9-$10 a day in today's dollars. Both parents and employers agree that the need for equitable, affordable, and accessible childcare has never been greater than today. Franklin County has recently addressed the crisis with the March announcement of a $23 million investment in childcare through its RISE initiative. Will other communities follow suit? On May 25, the Columbus Metropolitan Club asks what's caused the childcare crisis, what's keeping it going, and how Ohio can fix it. Our panel will feature Elizabeth Brown, President Pro Tempore, Columbus City Council, Tony Collins, President & CEO, YMCA of Central Ohio, and Joy Bivens, Deputy Franklin County Administrator, Health and Human Services, with host Micah Walker, Trending Reporter, The Columbus Dispatch.

6/3/2022	Columbus Metropolitan Club- HB616: Ohio's "Don't Say Gay/Don't Mention Race" Bill	60	8:30 PM	22.6	Ohio House Bill 616, introduced by two Republican state lawmakers, would mandate controversial changes to portions of the state's Revised Code that sets standards for public schools. The bill is similar to Florida's recent "Don't Say Gay" bill, which bans instruction on gender identity and sexual orientation in grades K-3. That bill was signed into law by Florida Governor Ron DeSantis in March. Ohio's version of the bill would also make any discussions of "sexual orientation or gender identity" illegal in the state's K-3 public classrooms. Teachers who disobey the bill would be subject to having their teaching licenses revoked, among other punishments. The proposed Ohio bill also goes farther and clamps down on discussions of race in the state's public schools. HB616 would prohibit the teaching of theories used to discern the impact of racism in American history, including "critical race theory, intersectional theory, The 1619 Project, diversity, equity, and inclusion learning outcomes, inherited racial guilt" and any concept that the State Board of Education "defines as divisive or inherently racist." Teachers who use these tools to discuss racism in U.S. history or other subjects with their students would be subject to punishment. On June 1, the Columbus Metropolitan Club will spotlight the controversy surrounding HB616 with speakers from both sides of the issue. The bill's two sponsors, State Representatives Jean Schmidt and Mike Loychik, have also been invited to join the panel but have not responded as of this writing. Featuring Scott DiMauro, President, The Ohio Education Association, Densil Porteous, Executive Director, Stonewall Columbus, Maria Bruno, Public Policy Director, Equality Ohio, Troy McIntosh, Executive Director, Center For Christian Virtue, Ohio Christian Education Network, and Bruce Hooley, host, The Bruce Hooley Show, with host Anna Staver, State House Reporter, The Columbus Dispatch/USA Today Gannett Ohio Bureau.
