AGRICULTURE, ENVIRONMENT, AND NATURE

Issues affecting the community, like natural wonders in California like the Salton Sea, exploration, natural history, agriculture, and beauty of the geographic region, are crucial to a region that is a major agricultural supplier for the entire planet. The station continues to air its national program, America's Heartland, which includes regional stories. America's Heartland gives consumers an inside look at the people and processes involved in bringing food, fuel, and fiber to those in the United States and worldwide. ViewFinder, produced by the station, focuses on regional issues and people important in the environment, nature, and agriculture. Other programs highlight the diversity and needs of the station's geographic viewing area and beyond.

AMERICA'S HEARTLAND

(26:46) Magazine (Local)

Dates, subjects, and times vary – see below.

America's Heartland celebrates the people who grow the country's crops, raise its livestock, tend its nurseries, and prepare its food. America's Heartland taps into the national fascination with food and curiosity about unfamiliar places and ways of life while also exploring the American values of family, hard work, and the spirit of independence. The series, produced entirely on location, portrays the worlds of agriculture, horticulture, and aquaculture with fascinating stories, compelling characters, innovative ideas, and enticing travel destinations.

IN THE AMERICA'S WITH DAVID YETMAN: THE SALTON SEA, LIFE AND DEATH IN AN INLAND OCEAN #1005H

(26:46)

For more than a thousand years, the Salton Sink In southeastern California has been home to the largest body of water in the state. It is there because the San Andreas Fault is tearing southern California apart and the bottom is dropping out. Three hundred years ago, it was Lake Cahuilla, a freshwater lake, but changing geology, the whims of the Colorado River, and the negative side of extensive, industrial agriculture have resulted in a very salty and polluted sea. Once a booming tourist mecca, drought, agriculture, and failed development have produced a nearly dead body of water. All around the lake are fragments of broken dreams. One place, a most unusual one, continues to thrive.

THIS AMERICAN LAND: FARMERS CHALLENGE CLIMATE CHANGE, THE SALTON SEA #1107

(29:00)

Farmers in Iowa change their methods to confront climate change, pulling carbon from the atmosphere into the ground. The largest lake in California is in rapid decline, causing the loss of wildlife and threatening human health. A program to regenerate the forest is already bringing songbirds back to the woods of Pennsylvania.

AMERICAN MASTERS: JAMES BALDWIN – THE PRICE OF A TICKET #309

(1:27:46)

This program is an in-depth portrait of James Baldwin, one of the greatest American authors of the 20th century. Using archival material that reflects Baldwin's worldwide influence and appeal, the film includes interviews with family members, friends, and notable colleagues, including Maya Angelou, Toni Morrison, William Styron, Amiri Baraka, Richard Avedon, and Bobby Short, among others. Segments were filmed in France, Turkey, and Harlem, all places where Baldwin lived. Through Baldwin's work as a writer (ever since his first book in 1953, "Go Tell It On The Mountain"), he has helped mobilize the civil rights movement, brought new awareness and compassion to both black and white readers, and shed light on what it is like to be black in America.

BLACK BALLERINA

(56:46)

A story of passion, opportunity, heartbreak, and triumph of the human spirit. Set in the overwhelmingly white world of classical dance, it tells the stories of several black women from different generations who fell in love with ballet. Sixty years ago, while pursuing their dreams of careers in classical dance, Joan Myers Brown, Delores Browne, and Raven Wilkinson (the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo's first black ballerina) confronted racism, exclusion, and unequal opportunity in segregated mid-century America. In 2015, three young black women also pursue careers as ballerinas, and find that many of the same obstacles their predecessors faced are still evident in the ballet world today. Through interviews with current and former ballet dancers along with engaging archival photos and film, the one-hour documentary uses the ethereal world of ballet to engage viewers on a subject that reaches far outside the art world and compels viewers to think about larger issues of exclusion, equal opportunity, and change.

HER VOICE CARRIES #0

(56:46)

Shares the stories of five quietly heroic women, told through their own words and the street art of international mural artist Sarah Rutherford. The film chronicles Sarah's unique creative idea: to identify ordinary-yet-extraordinary women whose voices are inspiring and uplifting and create large-scale murals representing each woman and her experiences. The intent is to celebrate different women from diverse communities and to paint their portraits in neighborhoods outside the ones they call home. By some measures, these women are from one of the hardest hit areas in the nation-Rochester, New York, a city facing serious challenges related to concentrated poverty. What the statistics don't reveal is the often-unknown work of women in these communities to create safe and stable spaces inside the chaos. This film captures how these community builders - in the time of #MeToo – are using their voices to empower and call attention to social issues impacting the women in their communities, including sexual harassment and domestic violence, gender identity, race relations and immigration.

BEFORE STAGE FOUR: CONFRONTING EARLY PSYCHOSIS #0H

offers a stark yet hopeful look into a new movement in the mental health community. The compelling story takes viewers across the country – from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, to San Francisco, California. Episodes of early psychosis, marked by temporary breaks from reality and disruptive thoughts and perceptions, often strike during adolescence and young adulthood, and all too often the underlying illness isn't treated until it reaches a crisis point. Features several personal stories, including that of Gionfriddo's adult son who became a casualty of the mental health system – and is now dealing with long-term schizophrenia and chronic homelessness in San Francisco. It also focuses on FEP early treatment programs that are literally saving young lives, including a highly regarded center in Philadelphia. Also featured are ground-breaking brain studies from the University of Pittsburgh that could one day predict a young person's vulnerability to psychosis so that families can intervene "Before Stage Four."

SECOND OPINION WITH JOAN LUNDEN: ALZHEIMER'S – A PUBLIC HEALTH CRISIS #1703

(26:46)

Alzheimer's Disease is an under-recognized public health crisis. And while the word Alzheimer's strikes fear in aging Americans more than any other word, globally the number of people diagnosed is expected to double every 20 years. Not only does Alzheimer's come with a tremendous cost to our healthcare system, it takes an emotional toll on families as they care for their loved ones, while watching them slip away. This episode discusses Alzheimer's Disease from a caregiver and a public health perspective.

SECOND OPINION WITH JOAN LUNDEN: RACIAL DISPARITIES IN HEALTH #1702

(26:46)

Across America, there are large and persistent racial differences in health and accessing healthcare. People of color get sick at younger ages and die sooner than white people. Compared with whites, members of racial and ethnic minorities are less likely to receive preventive health services and often receive lower-quality care. Addressing health disparities is increasingly important as our population becomes more diverse. Never has the disparity in access to healthcare become more obvious than with the pandemic of COVID-19. This episode examines the racial disparities that exist in health and healthcare in the U.S.

TELL ME MORE WITH KELLY CORRIGAN – LINDA VILLAROSA #606

(26:46)

In this conversation with Kelly Corrigan, Linda Villarosa gives detailed insights on racial bias in the medical field by sharing both personal and universal examples. She discusses the healthcare system's mistreatment of her father and the need for systemic changes. Linda debunks commonly spread medical myths in regards to Black people, such as the notion that they have higher tolerance for pain. She suggests solutions beyond implementing protocols, and advocates for anti-bias training among healthcare providers to address racial inequities.

AMEN! MUSIC OF THE BLACK CHURCH #0H

(56:46)

Explore the authentic spiritual experience of African American gospel music in the one-hour performance documentary. Taped before a live audience at the Second Baptist Church congregation in Bloomington, Indiana, Rev. Dr. Raymond Wise guides viewers on an educational and uplifting learning experience while leading the Indiana University African American Choral Ensemble in a performance of sacred music deriving from African traditions. The unique performances incorporate praise and worship with contemporary influences from secular genres to breathe new life into the music that played a major role in helping African Americans overcome adversity. Much of the African American experience has been encapsulated through the rich Gospel music used to express a wide range of emotions through hundreds of years of marginalization.

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE: SANDRA DAY O'CONNOR – THE FIRST #3306

(1:53:57)

When Ronald Reagan nominated Sandra Day O'Connor as the Supreme Court's first female justice in 1981, the announcement dominated the news. Time Magazine's cover proclaimed, "Justice At Last," and she received unanimous Senate approval. Born in 1930 in El Paso, Texas, O'Connor grew up on a cattle ranch in Arizona in an era when women were expected to become homemakers. After graduating near the top of her class at Stanford Law School, she could not convince a single law firm to interview her, so she turned to volunteer work and public service. A Republican, she served two terms in the Arizona state senate, then became a judge on the state court of appeals. During her 25 years on the Supreme Court, O'Connor was the critical swing vote on cases involving some of the 20th century's most controversial issues, including abortion, affirmative action – and she was the tiebreaker on Bush v. Gore. Forty years after her confirmation, this biography recounts the life of a pioneering woman who both reflected and shaped an era.

BRIDGING THE DIVIDE: TOM BRADLEY AND THE POLITICS #0

(56:46)

Thirty-five years before the election of President Barack Obama, the question of race and the possibility of bridging racial barriers were put to the test in an overlooked story in American politics: Tom Bradley's 1973 election as Mayor of Los Angeles: the first African American mayor of a major U.S. city with an overwhelmingly white majority. BRIDGING THE DIVIDE tells the story of how Bradley's coalition of African Americans, Jews, white liberals, Latinos and Asian Americans united a divided city, brought inclusion and access, and set the foundation for inter-racial coalitions that encouraged the elections of minority candidates nationwide, including President Barack Obama. At the same time, the film examines the complexities and contradictions of Bradley's career as a bridge builder. BRIDGING THE DIVIDE brings into sharp focus the issues of police abuse and police reform, and shows how Tom Bradley, a former police officer and a black mayor, could not break the cycles of poverty and despair that would ultimately spark the 1992 Los Angeles civil unrest, and mark the end of his era. BRIDGING THE DIVIDE is the story of multi-ethnic Los Angeles finding its voice and identity in the face of discrimination and political disenfranchisement. And it is the story of the politics of race, and complexities of coalitions in a changing America.

FIGHT THE POWER: HOW HIP HOP CHANGED THE WORLD

(56:46)

This 4-part social history series will explore the history of Black America. A story largely passed over by traditional historians, this incredible narrative of struggle, triumph and resistance will be brought to life through the lens of an art form that has chronicled the emotions, experiences, and expression of Black Americans like none other: rap. In the aftermath of the tragic death of George Floyd, these perspectives and this story is more important than ever. Rap is key to understanding racial injustice in the post-Civil Rights era and by focusing our story around its unstoppable rise we'll confront some of today's most pressing questions. Up to now, we've only ever heard one side of the story. This is the series that changes that.

VIEWFINDER: AFRICAN AMERICANS – CIVIL RIGHTS ERA IN CALIFORNIA #503

(28:02) (Local)

This second edition of an original KVIE documentary series about African Americans in California's heartland, focuses on Sacramento during the Civil Rights Era. It examines the many significant yet unknown heroes during this turbulent time and honors the spirit, creativity, and determination of important individuals. In the late 1950s and early 1960s, African Americans struggled to receive necessities: equality in education, housing, and job opportunities. This documentary examines those issues and the changes the Sacramento region experienced. Through historical images and personal stories, events such as the Rumford Housing Act and the Black Panther rally on the Capitol steps display the momentous achievements of the African American community.

VIEWFINDER: REPLACING THE PAST – SACRAMENTO'S REDEVELOPMENT HISTORY# 2203H(26:56) (Local)

The current wave of new development in Sacramento recalls another era of profound change for the city in the 1950s and '60s. Replacing the Past unearths remarkable historic footage and interviews to examine the controversial demolitions of thousands of homes and businesses to redevelop Sacramento's urban core by paving the way for Interstate 5, creating Capitol Mall, K Street Mall and Old Sacramento. These efforts also displaced many of city's ethnic communities, most notably Japantown.
