The jobless rate has now been at or above 9.5 percent for 14 straight months, the longest stretch since the Great Depression. The glum economic picture came Friday in the Labor Department's last monthly jobs report before the November election. Voter frustration over jobs threatens to cost Democrats control of the House and perhaps the Senate. "We have to keep doing everything we can to accelerate this recovery," President Barack Obama said. "The only piece of economic news that folks still looking for work want to hear is, 'You're hired.' And everything we do is dedicated to make that happen." The combination of limp hiring by businesses and more governments layoffs expected means unemployment could rise to 10 percent again this year or next. When Obama took office in January 2009, the unemployment rate was 7.7 percent.

Mercedes-Benz is recalling about 85,000 of its 2010 and 2011 cars because of potential steering problems. The luxury automaker says in a report to federal regulators that the steering systems in the cars "may fail due to the loss of power steering fluid." Mercedes-Benz says that if that happens, drivers "may not have sufficient control of the vehicle . increasing the risk of a vehicle crash." The recall affects the 2010 Mercedes C-Class and the 2010 and 2011 E-Class Coupe and Cabriolet models. Owners may return the cars to dealers, who will check the powering steering systems for free, the company says.

Using food stamps to buy sodas, teas, sports drinks and other sugar-sweetened beverages would not be allowed in New York City under a new government effort to battle obesity. Mayor Michael Bloomberg and Gov. David Paterson announced Thursday that they are seeking permission from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which administers the nation's food stamp program, to add sugary drinks to the list of prohibited goods for city residents receiving assistance. If approved, it would be the first time an item would be banned from the federal program based solely on nutritional value. Spending government money on "foods of little or no nutritional value not only contradicts the intent of the program, it also effectively subsidizes a serious public health epidemic," New York officials wrote in their proposal.

Plaintiffs in Friendly House et. al. v. Whiting et al. won an important legal victory in their constitutional challenge to SB 1070, Arizona's racial profiling law. Among other things, the Court found that the plaintiffs' claim that "Racial discrimination was a motivating factor for [S.B.] 1070's enactment" establishes a valid constitutional challenge to the law. This decision was filed in response to the defendants' motions to dismiss the case and the plaintiffs' motion for a preliminary injunction. Today's order is an important first step in challenging this unconstitutional law. The civil rights coalition will continue its legal fight until all of SB 1070 is taken of the books.

FORECLOSURES CRISIS

VO: 20

Bank of America Corp Chief Executive Brian Moynihan said he is "not so concerned" that an ongoing review of foreclosure documents will delay a rebound in the U.S. housing market. "The housing market is stable," said Moynihan, speaking to reporters in Boston on Thursday. He said factors like unemployment levels would have a much greater impact on home prices than the reviews now under way. Asked if he expected the reviews would affect the spring home-selling season in 2011, Moynihan replied, "Not that I see." All 50 U.S. states have started a joint investigation of the mortgage industry, focusing on allegations that some banks did not review documents properly or submitted false statements to evict delinquent borrowers.

BANK OF AMERICA TO LIFT FORECLOSURE FREEZE IN 23 STATES NEXT WEEK

Bank of America said Monday that it will effectively lift its foreclosure freeze on Oct. 25 when it begins resubmitting foreclosure documents to courts in 23 states. The bank said the new documents will be used in 102,000 foreclosure actions in which judgment is pending in the 23 states. Foreclosures in the other 27 states, which do not require a court order for a foreclosure, will remain frozen as the company continues its state-by-state review. That should affect another 30,000 foreclosures. Bank of America spokesman Dan Frahm said in a statement that the company's initial assessment showed that in those 27 states, as is the case in the states where the ban has been lifted, "the basis for our foreclosure decisions is accurate." Frahm said the company had reviewed its foreclosure procedures with key stakeholders, including "our largest investors," perhaps alluding to the beating Bank of America's stock has taken in recent days on worries about the foreclosure issue.

The military has promised to abide by Phillips' injunction as long as it remains in place. But government lawyers last week asked her to stay the ruling while it prepares an appeal. "This is a battle of epic proportions," Pearce said Tuesday during a news conference at the Arizona Capitol. "We've allowed the hijacking of the 14th Amendment." Pearce declined to say how the legislation will differ from similar measures that have been introduced in each two-year congressional session since 2005. None of them made it out of committee. He and another Arizona lawmaker did argue that wording in the amendment that guarantees citizenship to people born in the U.S. who are "subject to the jurisdiction" of this country does not apply to the children of illegal immigrants because such families don't owe sole VICTOR: CHILDREN CITIZENSHIP Allegiance to the U.S.

The second generation were more likely than the foreign born to be better educated and have higher earnings and less likely to be in poverty. In 2009, 59 percent of the native-born 25 and older with at least one foreign-born parent had some college education and 33 percent had a bachelor's degree. That compares with 45 percent of the foreign-born who had some college and 29 percent who had a bachelor's degree. (See Graph 1.) "What these data show is that, generally speaking, income and other measures of achievement, such as education, increase between first and second generation," said Elizabeth M. OBAMA - WEEKLY ADDRESS

President Barack Obama says consumers would lose if Republicans regain power in Congress and try to roll back his hard-won Wall Street overhaul. He says the GOP's promised repeal of the law would mean the return of a financial system whose near-collapse led to the worst recession since the Depression. "Without sound oversight and commonsense protections for consumers, the whole economy is put in jeopardy," Obama said Saturday in his weekly radio and Internet address. "That doesn't serve Main Street. That doesn't serve Wall Street. That doesn't serve anyone." The law passed despite nearly unanimous Republican opposition. It sought to rein in a financial system that had sped ahead of outdated rules, allowing banks, traders and others to take increased risks.

New York courts are the first in the United States to require lawyers handling foreclosures for banks and servicers to take steps to ensure the procedure is done properly, the state's top judge said on Wednesday. Effective immediately, lawyers representing the plaintiffs in residential foreclosure actions must file signed affirmations that they took "reasonable" steps to verify the accuracy of the underlying documents. Jonathan Lippman, the chief judge of the New York State Court of Appeals, said the rule is in response to "unprecedented revelations" by several mortgage lenders of problems in the foreclosure process, including in the notarization and so-called "robosigning" of documents. "There is a national crisis," Lippman said in an interview. "Given the magnitude and consequences of this kind of systemic problem we're having, we think it behooves lawyers to talk to their clients and make sure the Is are dotted and the Ts are crossed." New York is the third-most populous U.S. state, and one of 23 states where court approval

After a three-year legal battle over the diocese's internal records, a retired San Diego Superior Court judge ruled late Friday that they could be made public. Attorneys for 144 people claiming sex abuse made the papers public Sunday. The records are from the personnel files of 48 priests who were either credibly accused or convicted of sexual abuse or were named in a civil lawsuit. They include a decades-old case in which a priest under police investigation was allowed to leave the U.S. after the diocese intervened. The plaintiffs settled with the diocese in 2007 for nearly $200 million, but the agreement stipulated that an independent judge would review the priests' sealed personnel records and determine what could be made public.

PKG 2:00

Immigration officials, in an effort to deter fraud, will unveil today a new naturalization certificate for people who become U.S. citizens. The new certificates, used to obtain passports and other legal documents, come after U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) unveiled a new green card - the ID card for immigrants with permanent residency status - this year that had improved security features to prevent forgery and tampering. "They are going to be very significant" technical changes, says USCIS Director Alejandro Mayorkas, who is scheduled to present the new certificates at a naturalization ceremony in Baltimore. Mayorkas said his office doesn't track incidents of fraud for immigration documents, but the officials felt the improvements were necessary because the green cards hadn't been updated since 1998 and the last update of the naturalization certificates, in 2003, didn't add any security features. The old certificates were filled in manually and the person's photograph was just attached to it. The new computerized certificates will have all that information embedded in the document and also will have ink patterns that are harder to duplicate. The new green cards have more security features, including a personalized holographic image, a laser-engraved fingerprint of the person and improved identification technology.

A study in the medical journal, Pediatrics, reported on Monday that 10 percent of the sexually active students in New York City schools had at least one homosexual partner and that adolescents who had such homosexual relations reported a higher-than-average amount of dating violence. The study also stated that these students had more "forced sex," which would be rape in most cases. And the study reported that these students engaged in more "high risk" sexual behavior, which suggests unprotected sex with partners who may have AIDS or some similar grim disease. One-third of those who had been involved in homosexual relations related that they were heterosexual themselves. The study itself was based upon 17,220 public health surveys. The particular surveys were from 2005 and 2007, and the Youth Risk Behavior Study is conducted by the New York City Department of Health every two years. Out of the students who participated in the study, 7,261 reported having had sexual intercourse. Among males, 93.1 percent reported sexual relations with only females; 3.2 percent reported only homosexual relations; and 3.7 percent reported heterosexual and homosexual relations. Females who had sexual relations reported that 88.1 percent had been only with males; 3.2 percent had been only homosexual; and 8.7 percent reported both heterosexual and homosexuals relations. Among sexually active teenagers, 9.3 percent reported only one sexual partner.

ANTI-BULLYING RULES

BLANCA ROSA VILCHEZ- NEW JERSEY

PKG 2:03

The Department of Education is sending a warning to schools, colleges and universities nationwide in response to several high-profile cases of bullying. In letters going out today, the agency tells schools they could be violating federal anti-discrimination laws if they tolerate or fail to adequately address ethnic, sexual or gender-based harassment. Among some of the recent high-profile cases are the suicides of an 18-year-old Rutgers University student and a 15-year-old Massachusetts girl.

Only 51 percent of Latino registered voters across the nation said they're planning on going to the polls -- that's compared to 70 percent of registered voters. But a recent Pew Hispanic Center poll suggests that while voter motivation across the nation might be weak, Latinos in Arizona are gearing up for Nov. 2 election. Mi Familia Vota says they've registered nearly 20,000 new voters. When Governor Brewer signed the tough immigration bill into law, members of the Hispanic community converged on the State Capitol to show their opposition. But will those strong feelings translate into a real impact at the polls?

TEXAS CIRO vs. CANSECO
LUCIA NAVARRO/ SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

PKG 2:44

Two years ago, Democrats were riding Barack Obama's "Yes, we can" wave to electoral glory, and Ciro Rodriguez was one of the biggest beneficiaries. The District 23 Congressman, unlike most of his colleagues, is accustomed to clawing for every victory, but in 2008, with the national political winds at his back, he sailed to a comfortable win over Lyle Larson, a tough Republican challenger with 15 years experience on the San Antonio City Council and Bexar County Commissioners Court. This year, when even prominent, well-established congressional Democrats are fighting for their political lives, Rodriguez, 63, finds himself in a familiar position: hanging on by a thread. Wealthy San Antonio businessman Francisco "Quico" Canseco, 61, a free-market conservative who moved from Laredo in 2006 and is making his third congressional run, has Republicans believing they can flip the district. That optimism was bolstered in late August, when the Real Clear Politics website identified the Rodriguez-Canseco race as a toss-up

VOTERS AGAINST CORRUPTION

Four current and former officials of this small Southern California city were charged Wednesday with spending $14,000 of taxpayers' money on baseball games and Broadway shows when they were supposed to be working to improve Irwindale's bond rating. The charges are the latest in a string of corruption allegations directed at leaders of several nondescript suburbs ringing Los Angeles. Other small cities whose officials have been charged with corruption include Bell, Vernon and Temple City. In Irwindale, Councilman Mark Breceda, Finance Director Abe De Dios, retired City Manager Steve Blancarte and former Councilwoman Rosemary Ramirez were charged with misappropriation of public funds. During trips to New York between 2001 and 2005, prosecutors say the four attended such hit musicals as "The Producers," "Phantom of the Opera" and "Mamma Mia," sticking the city with the cost of tickets. They also attended New York Yankees and Mets baseball games on the public dime, according to Deputy District Attorney Nipa Cook. Ramirez was charged with one count involving a 2002 trip. Blancarte, De Dios and Breceda face five counts for trips between 2001 and 2005.

IS THE ECONOMY STUPID
LUIS MEGID / SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA
PKG 2:27

The last read on the economy before the midterm elections found Americans are spending a little more but not nearly enough to bring down high unemployment - one final bit of bad news for Democrats. The economy expanded at a 2 percent pace from July to September, the Commerce Department . It marked a slight improvement from the scant 1.7 percent growth rate in the previous quarter. But to keep up with population growth and actually bring down unemployment, the economy must grow much faster. Economists figure it takes growth at a rate of about 5 percent for a full year to lower the jobless rate by a percentage point. Democrats risk losing control of the House and perhaps the Senate on Tuesday at a time when nearly 15 million Americans are out of work and the jobless rate is 9.6 percent.

ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION BACKLASH DIVIDES LATINOS

JAIME GARCIA,/ LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG 2:35

Hispanics are increasingly concerned about a backlash against them, even as they are split over the effects of illegal immigration on the country. Their anxiety comes as illegal immigration and border security are playing major roles in election campaigns nationwide. More than 60 percent of Latinos say discrimination against Hispanics is a "major problem," up from 54 percent who said the same in 2007, according to a report to be released Thursday by the nonpartisan Pew Hispanic Center. Three years ago, Hispanics were most likely to cite language skills as the biggest reason for discrimination. Now, more than a third believe immigration is the biggest factor. That said, the number of Latinos who reported they, their family or close friends have experienced discrimination remained unchanged from last year and actually dropped from 2007.

FORECLOSURE CRISIS INTENSIFYING

New numbers by RealtyTrac this morning show the foreclosure crisis intensifying. California, Nevada, Florida and Arizona remain the nation's foreclosure hotbeds, accounting for 19 of the top 20 metropolitan areas with the highest foreclosure rates. But the latest data shows many cities such as Chicago and Seattle - formally outside the hotbed saw a spike in foreclosure activity. In all, 133 out of 206 metropolitan areas with at least 200,000 residents posted an annual increase in foreclosure activity. Bank of America, which resumed foreclosures this week after halting them temporarily to review and fix flawed documents, is scheduled to meet Thursday with state officials investigating allegations the bank rushed the foreclosure process without properly reviewing documents.

The president said the American public should be confident in the government's counterterrorism efforts. Obama spoke to reporters Friday hours after details of the potentially al-Qaida-linked plot emerged. An official UAE security source says a suspicious device discovered in an air cargo shipment in Dubai that was headed for the U.S. contained explosive materials. SEATS AT STAKE CONGRESS
LOURDES MELUZA/ WASHINGTON, DC
PKG 2:16

In the run-up to November, everybody is wondering whether Republicans can retake the House of Representatives this year. They should really be wondering whether the GOP can take back the Indiana House of Representatives and the New York state Senate. U.S. House races will determine who controls Congress until 2012, but state-level races for legislature and governor this fall could determine who controls Congress through 2022. Next year, states will redraw their legislative and congressional district lines based on the results of the U.S. census. And in most states, the party in power gets to draw the map to its own advantage. The last time this happened, in the 2000 election, Republicans fared poorly. After George W. Bush lost the national popular vote for president, the party was left with complete control of the redistricting process in states that accounted for only 98 House seats. Democrats had total control over creating 120 new districts. Of the remaining 217 districts, seven are in states with just one House seat; 173 were drawn under split-party power; and 37 were drawn by nonpartisan commissions under state law.

WHITMAN HOUSEKEEPER

PKG 2:01

Reporting from Salinas, Stockton and Sacramento - Republican gubernatorial nominee Meg Whitman has reignited a controversy that roiled her campaign for weeks, saying the undocumented housekeeper she employed for nine years should be deported. The comment, her toughest yet on the matter, came in an interview with Fox News Greta Van Susteren, who asked Whitman on Wednesday whether the former housekeeper, Nicandra Diaz Santillan, should be deported. "Well, the answer is: It breaks my heart, but she should be deported, because she forged documents and she lied about her immigration status," Whitman said. She reiterated her argument that Diaz Santillan was used as a pawn in a political stunt but added: "The law is the law, and we live in the rule of law. It's important." Whitman and her campaign aides had fought hard to turn the page on the scandal when it erupted in September. The candidate has said that both she and a hiring agency relied on documents that turned out to be false, and she fired Diaz Santillan when the housekeeper disclosed her immigration status last year. On Thursday, Whitman tried to step back from her remarks, saying they didn't represent a change in position.

SECURITY THREAT LATEST

ENRIQUE TEUTELÓ / MIAMI, FLORIDA

PKG 1:07

Yemeni police arrested a woman on suspicion of mailing a pair of bombs powerful enough to take down airplanes, officials said Saturday as details emerged about a terrorist plot aimed at the U.S. that exploited security gaps in the worldwide shipping system. Investigators were hunting Yemen for more suspects tied to al-Qaida and several U.S. officials identified the terrorist group's top explosives expert in Yemen as the most likely bombmaker. The explosives, addressed to Chicago-area synagogues, were pulled off airplanes in England and the United Arab Emirates early Friday morning, touching off a tense search for other devices. It still wasn't clear whether the bombs, which officials said were wired to cell phones, timers and power supplies, could have been detonated remotely while the planes were in the air, or when the packages were halfway around the world in the U.S. But the fact that they made it onto airplanes showed that nearly a decade since the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks, terrorists continue to probe and find security vulnerabilities.

Performing in front of the U.S. Capitol building, the pair were joined by crooner Tony Bennett, rocker Ozzy Osbourne, singer Sheryl Crow, and British musician Yusuf Islam, formerly known as Cat Stevens, who was refused entry to the United States in 2004 for alleged ties to Islamic extremism.

IMPORTANCE OF HISPANIC IN THE ELECTIONS

JAIME GARCÍA/ LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG 2:10

This election season, Spanish-language networks are playing an important role as many are hosting many debates with major candidates and seeing their political coverage received by mainstream media, and such a point should not be ignored or forgotten. Recent examples of Loretta Sanchez and Meg Whitman were made after they each appeared on the Spanish-language Univision Network. In an interview with anchor Jorge Ramos, U.S. Representative Loretta Sanchez told viewers that her Republican opponent Van Tran was anti-immigrant and anti-Hispanic. After the comments were picked up by a blogger, posted on YouTube, and seen by Republican Party leaders, the influence and importance of Hispanic media could no longer be overlooked. California's Republican gubernatorial candidate Meg Whitman was attempting to attract Hispanic voters during her Univision sponsored debate with Jerry Brown, but when she was put on the defensive due to accusations she should have known her long-time housekeeper was unlawfully in the U.S., the exchange went viral.

There has been an accusation that 65% of 5000 voter registration forms, submitted by Mi Familia Vota and One Vote Arizona, in Yuma County on the last day of filling are invalid due to the registrant not being a citizen, wrong/invalid address, false signature, etc. I also understand that these 2 groups have signed up 20,000 states wide and they have requested that 45,000 be put on the permanent early ballot. If 65% of these last minute registration forms in Yuma are invalid, which may be more as they are still checking the rest, then what is the percentages of invalid in Maricopa, Pima and other counties. This is a very serious accusation that needs to be investigated to the fullest extent of the law. If this accusation is true then the perpetrators of this hideous crime against America citizens should be prosecuted to full extent of the law by Arizona Courts and not the federal courts as they do nothing on voter fraud and voter intimidation. All participants should be locked up and the key thrown away. This is an attack against sovereignty of this state and our freedoms for a socialist agenda. I introduced this bill

FORECLOSURE CRISIS

VO: 21

Bank repossessions and foreclosure auctions hit record levels in the third quarter, RealtyTrac said on Thursday. 372,445 foreclosure auctions were scheduled in July, August and September, while 288,345 properties were repossessed by lenders over the same time period. Overall foreclosure filings edged up to 930,437 in the third quarter, a 4% increase from the previous quarter. One in every 139 homeowners received a foreclosure filing during those three months. Bank repossessions, or REOs, also are on the rise. In September, a record 102,134 homes were taken back by banks. It's the first time repos have topped 100,000 in a single month. The uptick is not expected to last, RealtyTrac CEO James Saccacio said in a statement, because several major loan servicers have halted foreclosure sales pending a review of documents. Nevada had the nation's highest foreclosure rate, up 1% from earlier, for the 15th quarter in a row. One in every 29 Nevada homes received a foreclosure filing during the third quarter.

NO INCREASE SOCIAL SECURITY
BLANCA ROSA VILCHEZ/ NEW YORK, NY

PKG: 2:00

The government says there will be no increase in Social Security benefits next year. It's the second year in a row without an increase for more than 58 million retirees and disabled Americans. The Social Security Administration says inflation has been too low since the last increase in 2009 to warrant one for 2011.

In this crazy election year, the tea partyers have shown surprising strength. But the internal contradictions are so numerous, it's hard to see how their influence will last. Though the actual voting is still 17 days away, it seems clear that this midterm election cycle will be defined by a surprising presence and a remarkable absence.

CA POT LEGALIZATIONVO : 20

Attorney General Eric Holder is warning that the federal government will not look the other way, as it has with medical marijuana, if voters next month make California the first state to legalize pot. Marijuana is illegal under federal law, which drug agents will "vigorously enforce" against anyone carrying, growing or selling it, Holder said. The comments in a letter to ex-federal drug enforcement chiefs were the attorney general's most direct statement yet against Proposition 19 and sets up another showdown with California over marijuana if the measure passes.

TYLENOL RECALL

VO:20

A moldy odor has again stricken Johnson & Johnson's Tylenol, and the company is recalling another lot of the over-the-counter painkiller. J&J, which has recalled millions of bottles of Tylenol in the past year because of complaints of a musty or moldy odor in the product, said it was voluntarily recalling another lot. The company, which is facing a U.S. congressional probe of quality control lapses that have led to its numerous recent recalls of Tylenol, painkiller Motrin and allergy treatment Benadryl, did not disclose how many bottles of Tylenol have been recalled in the latest action.

LATINOS "DON'T VOTE" AD

ANA PATRICIA CANDIANI,/ MIAMI, FLORIDA

PKG

new ad urging Hispanic voters to reject both parties by sitting out this year's elections has enraged Hispanic groups, drawn condemnation from the Univision television network and spawned the question of how Hispanics who are upset over the lack of action on immigration should register a protest vote this year. "Don't vote this November," says the ad, sponsored by Latinos for Reform. "This is the only way to send them a clear message: you can no longer take us for granted." The ad is running in Las Vegas, where its chief target is Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, a Democrat who political analysts say will need a huge turnout by Hispanics if he is to turn back Republican challenger Sharron Angle. Robert De posada, a leader of the group, said Hispanics are angry at Republicans', but also blame Democrats, who on the strength of their party's votes pushed through health care and the stimulus package, but refused to address immigration without the GOP.

HISPANICS LOOK A LITTLE "ASIANS" CONTROVERSY

LOURDES DEL RIO: MIAMI, FLORIDA

PKG 2:13

Nevada U.S. Senate candidate Sharron Angle told dozens of Hispanic high school students last week that "some of you look a little more Asian to me," inducing gasps from the crowd and marking the latest eyebrow-raising remark she has uttered on the campaign trail. Angle, a Republican in a close contest against Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, met Friday with the group at a Las Vegas high school after students expressed anger with her campaign's-illegal immigrant message. In a video of the private meeting obtained by The Associated Press, Angle defends a series of campaign advertisements that lean on images of dark-skinned men. Angle, who is white and has Mexican grandsons, claims she did not know the people in the TV spots were Hispanic and makes the case that it can be difficult to pinpoint someone's race. She will tyalk about the controversy will get reactions from both candidates, students that were there there also a political analyst.

BANK OF AMERICA FORECOLOSURE

JAIME GARCÍA/ LOS ÁNGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG

The White House warned banks Tuesday it would hold them accountable for any illegal mortgage practices, keeping pressure on financial firms after two institutions announced the resumption of home foreclosures. GMAC Mortgage joined Bank of America, the largest U.S. mortgage servicer, which announced on Monday a partial rollback of its foreclosure moratorium. The banks' moves, coupled with financial executives' efforts to play down the severity of the crisis and show they were fixing any problems, followed weeks of damaging accusations of shoddy paperwork that may have forced some people illegally out of their homes.

PENTAGON ACCEPTING GAYS

VO: 21

The military is accepting openly gay recruits for the first time in the nation's history, even as it tries in the courts to slow the movement to abolish its "don't ask, don't tell" policy. At least two service members discharged for being gay began the process to re-enlist after the Pentagon's Tuesday announcement. A federal judge in California who overturned the 17-year policy last week rejected the government's latest effort on Tuesday to halt her order telling the military to stop enforcing the law. Government lawyers will likely appeal. With the recruiting announcement, the barriers built by an institution long resistant and sometimes hostile to gays had come down.

U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton is offering support to gay teenagers who are suffering from bullying, advising them to "hang in there" and "ask for help." In a videotaped message posted on YouTube, Clinton says she was saddened by recent suicides by young people who were bullied for being gay, or because people thought they were gay. She calls the deaths a reminder that the nation needs "to work harder to overcome bigotry and hatred." Clinton says she is "grateful every day" for the work of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender employees at the State Department. She points out that those people overcame discrimination, and promises victims of bullying that things "will get better."

CHILDREN OF UNDOCUMENTEDVÍCTOR HUGO RODRIGUEZ/ PHOENIX, ARIZONA*PKG 2:16

Lawmakers in at least 14 states announced Tuesday they are working on legislation to deny U.S. citizenship to the children of illegal immigrants, although they weren't specific about how they plan to do it. Arizona Sen. Russell Pearce said he and the lawmakers have a working draft of their model legislation and have consulted constitutional scholars to change the 14th Amendment and deny automatic citizenship. "This is a battle of epic proportions," Pearce said Tuesday during a news conference at the Arizona Capitol. "We've allowed the hijacking of the 14th Amendment." Pearce declined to say how the legislation will differ from similar measures that have been introduced in each two-year congressional session since 2005. None of them made it out of committee. He and another Arizona lawmaker did argue that wording in the amendment that guarantees citizenship to people born in the U.S. who are "subject to the jurisdiction" of this country does not apply to the children of illegal immigrants because such families don't owe sole VICTOR: CHILDREN CITIZENSHIP allegiance to the U.S.

PKG 2:03

Eight current and former Bell city officials accused of bilking taxpayers out of roughly $5.5 million through hefty salaries, benefits and illicit loans of public money pleaded not guilty today to various felony charges. Former Bell City Manager Robert Rizzo, 56; former Assistant City Manager Angela Spaccia, 52; Mayor Oscar Hernandez, 63; City Council members Teresa Jacobo, 52, and George Mirabal, 60, and former council members Luis Artiga, 49, George Cole, 60, and Victor Bello, 51, entered their pleas during a hearing at the downtown Los Angeles courthouse. All eight made their first court appearance Sept. 22, the day after their arrests. Since then, all but Mirabal and Cole have posted bail and been released from jail. The eight were arrested in connection with charges of misappropriation of public funds. Rizzo also is charged with conflict of interest and falsification of public records by an official custodian. He was charged today with an additional count of conflict of interest and another count of misappropriation of public funds.

In a year of close and nasty contests, the Silver State has the closest, nastiest and highest-profile Senate showdown in the country. It epitomizes two of the strongest political trends of the year: the anger against Democrat ic incumbents - in this case targeting the Senate's most powerful Democrat - and the vulnerabilities of the Tea Party candidates who are riding that wave. This election season is also different from the past in another way: the racial themes that have run through the campaigns have focused on Latino issues rather than the black-white dichotomy that has been the defining racial axis of American politics. "We're hearing more about Hispanics than African-Americans, which may reflect the growing status of Hispanics in the United States," Professor Cherlin said.

As many as 1 in 3 U.S. adults could have diabetes by the year 2050, federal officials announced Friday, in a dramatic revision of earlier projections. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimate that 1 in 10 have diabetes now, but the number could grow to 1 in 5 or even 1 in 3 by mid-century if current trends continue. "This is alarming," said Ann Albright, director of the CDC's Division of Diabetes Translation. The agency's projections have been a work in progress. The last revision put the number at 39 million in 2050. The new estimate takes it to the range of 76 million to 100 million.

HONDA RECALL
VO:20

Honda said Friday nearly a half-million sedans and minivans in the United States were involved in this week's recall to fix brake fluid leaks. The action, announced earlier, involved the same issue that led Toyota to recall 1.5 million vehicles. Honda said the recall affects 471,820 2005-2007 model year Acura RL sedans and Honda Odyssey minivans from the 2005 to early 2007 model year. The company said there have been no injuries or accidents tied to the problem. The Japanese automaker told the government that certain types of brake fluid could affect the seal on the brake's master cylinder and lead to a leak. If the leaks are left unattended, they could cause a spongy feeling in the brake pedal and adversely affect brake performance. Honda said owners will be notified within the next two months and vehicles will be repaired free.

NATURALIZATION CERTIFICATE
LUIS MEGID- SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA
PKG 2:00

Immigration officials, in an effort to deter fraud, will unveil today a new naturalization certificate for people who become U.S. citizens. The new certificates, used to obtain passports and other legal documents, come after U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) unveiled a new green card - the ID card for immigrants with permanent residency status - this year that had improved security features to prevent forgery and tampering. "They are going to be very significant" technical changes, says USCIS Director Alejandro Mayorkas, who is scheduled to present the new certificates at a naturalization ceremony in Baltimore. Mayorkas said his office doesn't track incidents of fraud for immigration documents, but the officials felt the improvements were necessary because the green cards hadn't been updated since 1998 and the last update of the naturalization certificates, in 2003, didn't add any security features. The old certificates were filled in manually and the person's photograph was just attached to it. The new computerized certificates will have all that information embedded in the document and also will have ink patterns that are harder to duplicate. The new green cards have more security features, including a personalized holographic image, a laser-engraved fingerprint of the person and improved identification technology.

Only 51 percent of Latino registered voters across the nation said they're planning on going to the polls -- that's compared to 70 percent of registered voters. But a recent Pew Hispanic Center poll suggests that while voter motivation across the nation might be weak, Latinos in Arizona are gearing up for Nov. 2 election. Mi Familia Vota says they've registered nearly 20,000 new voters. When Governor Brewer signed the tough immigration bill into law, members of the Hispanic community converged on the State Capitol to show their opposition. But will those strong feelings translate into a real impact at the polls? Hispanic community organizers say yes.

TEXAS CIRO vs CANSECO
LUCIA NAVARRO/ SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS
PKG 2:44

Two years ago, Democrats were riding Barack Obama's "Yes, we can" wave to electoral glory, and Ciro Rodriguez was one of the biggest beneficiaries. The District 23 Congressman, unlike most of his colleagues, is accustomed to clawing for every victory, but in 2008, with the national political winds at his back, he sailed to a comfortable win over Lyle Larson, a tough Republican challenger with 15 years experience on the San Antonio City Council and Bexar County Commissioners Court. This year, when even prominent, well-established congressional Democrats are fighting for their political lives, Rodriguez, 63, finds himself in a familiar position: hanging on by a thread. Wealthy San Antonio businessman Francisco "Quico" Canseco, 61, a free-market conservative who moved from Laredo in 2006 and is making his third congressional run, has Republicans believing they can flip the district. That optimism was bolstered in late August, when the Real Clear Politics website identified the Rodriguez-Canseco race as a toss-up

IS THE ECONOMY STUPID?LUIS MEGID / SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA*PKG 2:27

The last read on the economy before the midterm elections found Americans are spending a little more but not nearly enough to bring down high unemployment - one final bit of bad news for Democrats. The economy expanded at a 2 percent pace from July to September, the Commerce Department . It marked a slight improvement from the scant 1.7 percent growth rate in the previous quarter. But to keep up with population growth and actually bring down unemployment, the economy must grow much faster. Economists figure it takes growth at a rate of about 5 percent for a full year to lower the jobless rate by a percentage point. Democrats risk losing control of the House and perhaps the Senate on Tuesday at a time when nearly 15 million Americans are out of work and the jobless rate is 9.6 percent.

SEATS AT STAKE CONGRESS

LOURDES MELUZA/ WASHINGTON, DC

PKG 2:16

In the run-up to November, everybody is wondering whether Republicans can retake the House of Representatives this year. They should really be wondering whether the GOP can take back the Indiana House of Representatives and the New York state Senate. U.S. House races will determine who controls Congress until 2012, but state-level races for legislature and governor this fall could determine who controls Congress through 2022. Next year, states will redraw their legislative and congressional district lines based on the results of the U.S. census. And in most states, the party in power gets to draw the map to its own advantage. The last time this happened, in the 2000 election, Republicans fared poorly. After George W. Bush lost the national popular vote for president, the party was left with complete control of the redistricting process in states that accounted for only 98 House seats. Democrats had total control over creating 120 new districts. Of the remaining 217 districts, seven are in states with just one House seat; 173 were drawn under split-party power; and 37 were drawn by nonpartisan commissions under state law

WHITMAN HOUSEKEEPER

JAIME GARCIA/ LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG 2:01

Reporting from Salinas, Stockton and Sacramento - Republican gubernatorial nominee Meg Whitman has reignited a controversy that roiled her campaign for weeks, saying the undocumented housekeeper she employed for nine years should be deported. The comment, her toughest yet on the matter, came in an interview with Fox News Greta Van Susteren, who asked Whitman on Wednesday whether the former housekeeper, Nicandra Diaz Santillan, should be deported. "Well, the answer is: It breaks my heart, but she should be deported, because she forged documents and she lied about her immigration status," Whitman said. She reiterated her argument that Diaz Santillan was used as a pawn in a political stunt but added: "The law is the law, and we live in the rule of law. It's important." Whitman and her campaign aides had fought hard to turn the page on the scandal when it erupted in September. The candidate has said that both she and a hiring agency relied on documents that turned out to be false, and she fired Diaz Santillan when the housekeeper disclosed her immigration status last year. On Thursday, Whitman tried to step back from her remarks, saying they didn't represent a change in position.

All eyes are on the drama unfolding in Florida after Politico's Ben Smith broke the news last night that former President Bill Clinton had encouraged Democratic Senate candidate Kendrick Meek, whose poll numbers are languishing, to drop out of the three-way race with Republican Marco Rubio and independent Charlie Crist. According to Smith's report: "Meek agreed -- twice -- to drop out and endorse Gov. Charlie Crist's independent bid in a last-ditch effort to stop Marco Rubio, the Republican nominee who stands on the cusp of national stardom." But wait right there. Since the story dropped, both Meek and President Clinton have denied it -- at least in part.
