

Let's Talk Cincy

Episode #179

Air Date: 2/17/24

Synopsis:

A look inside at the N-A-A-C-P Cincinnati Chapter's new voting education mission, plus, a Black History lesson in golf and the local program bringing golf to underserved communities.

Seg. 1.

The Cincinnati branch of the NAACP unveiled a new civic engagement van. The van will travel to neighborhoods to educate people about voting and their voting rights.

Seg. 2

We have a Black History Month lesson about golf and the Black trailblazers who played long before Tiger Woods.

Seg. 3

We talk about a golf youth program that focuses on introducing the game to kids who live in marginalized communities.

Seg. 4

We look at efforts to preserve Cincinnati's musical legacy by restoring the King Records building. King Records was home to many early musical greats including James Brown.