HOW ISSUE WAS TREATED: News story

TITLE: Illinois House passes resolution honoring Title IX

Date: 4/6/22

Duration: 30 second story, ran between 3pm and midnight

One day after the University of South Carolina won the women's college basketball tournament, an Illinois House resolution commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of Title IX ran into some opposition the sponsor likely did not expect.

Title IX paved the way for women and girls to play school sports.

After asking what "LGBTQI+" means, State Rep. Blaine Wilhour (R-Beecher City) asked sponsoring State Rep. Katie Stuart (D-Edwardsville) for the definition of a woman.

"I really am just shocked that there is opposition to supporting something like Title IX," Stuart responded. "Your line of questioning is offensive. Offensive."

"Okay," Wilhour answered. "You still didn't answer the question: What's the definition of a woman?"

This came after Republicans shouted, "NO!" when Stuart made a customary motion for all representatives to be added to the resolution as co-sponsors.

Eleven members voted against it, and forty did not vote at all.

TITLE: Illinois congressman receives death threats

Date: 6/21/2022

Duration: 30 second story, ran between 3pm and midnight

The thanks U.S. Rep. Adam Kinzinger (R-Channahon) gets for going against former President Donald Trump is a death threat.

A letter in the mail calls out Kinzinger's wife and five-month-old son by name, says Kinzinger will be executed, but don't worry - the wife and baby will join him in hell.

"I don't worry – but now that I have a wife and kids, of course, it's a little different," Kinzinger told ABC's "This Week,"

"There are people that – there is violence in the future, I'm going to tell you. And until we get a grip on telling people the truth, we can't expect any differently."

Kinzinger is one of two Republicans on the committee hearing evidence about the Capitol insurrection of January 6.

TITLE: Normal council to consider wind turbine project at Rivian

Date: 6/23/2022

Duration: 30 second story, ran between 6am and 3pm

A wind turbine would tower above the Rivian plant in west Normal if the town's government signs off on the electric vehicle maker's plans next month.

The company's wind project aims to deliver to customers its pickup and sport utility vehicles charged with on-site renewable energy.

Earlier this year, Rivian said it installed a 783-kilowatt solar canopy that is scheduled to start generating electricity later this summer.

In its application to the town's government, Rivian said the wind turbine would be no taller than 510 feet to meet Normal's wind energy code. Our news partner HOI ABC reports Rivian also estimated nine local taxing bodies, including the Unit 5 School District, would get a share of almost $600,000 in new property tax revenue over 25 years.

TITLE: GasBuddy expects hefty prices during 4th of July weekend

Date: 6/24/2022

Duration: 30 second story, ran between 3pm and midnight

Drivers will be facing the most expensive July 4th at the pump ever this year, though the news isn't all bad.

According to GasBuddy, U.S. gas prices are expected to drop 10 to 20 cents by Independence Day. After months of fireworks at the pump, culminating in a $5 national average recorded for the first time just weeks ago, drivers will feel a bit of relief, though many were already determined to get out on the road despite high prices.

According to GasBuddy's annual summer travel survey, of the 58% of Americans planning to take a road trip this summer, 33% planned to travel specifically on Independence Day weekend.

TITLE: Former President Donald Trump makes a visit in Illinois

Date: 6/27/2022

Duration: 30 second story, ran between 6am and 3pm

While central Illinois Republicans State Sen. Darren Bailey (R-Xenia) and U.S. Rep. Mary Miller (R-Oakland) basked in the endorsement of former President Donald Trump Saturday before a crowd of thousands near Quincy, it was Miller's verbal slip-up which immediately went viral.

Miller thanked Trump for completing a right-leaning U.S. Supreme Court which Friday overturned Roe v. Wade, calling the justices' decision "a victory for white life." The Miller campaign said Miller stumbled over a script which said "victory for right-to-life," and you can hear Miller apparently catching herself between the words "white" and "life."

Miller and another incumbent, U.S. Rep. Rodney Davis (R-Taylorville), are fighting one another in Tuesday's primary in the newly drawn 15th Congressional District, which sprawls across downstate, east to west and northwest to southeast.

Saturday's real news belonged to State Sen. Darren Bailey (R-Xenia), one of six Republican gubernatorial hopefuls Tuesday. Trump said Bailey enjoys the respect of the entire Illinois State Senate in giving Bailey his endorsement.

Date: 6/28/2022

Duration: 30 second story, ran between 3pm and midnight

The Bloomington City Council has approved the city's second cannabis dispensary for recreational use, although three of the newest council members voted no.

The council Monday night granted Project Equity's request for a special use permit to open a dispensary at 1006 JC Parkway, close to Walmart and Blain's Farm & Fleet on the west side.

However, Ward 1 Alderman Grant Walch, who voted no, has safety concerns because he envisions customers walking back-and-forth across the West Market Street bridge over Interstate 55-74.

Council members Nick Becker from Ward 5 and Sheila Montney from Ward 3 also voted no, according to our news partner Heart of Illinois ABC.

Date: 6/28/2022

Duration: 30 second story, ran between 3pm and midnight

Heartland Community College kicked off the construction of a 29,500 square foot facility and outside growing labs which will support agriculture programs and the next generation of ag students.

Heartland staff, students, local officials, and agriculture industry leaders participated in a ground breaking ceremony of the new $23M facility to be located on the west side of the main Heartland campus on Raab Road in Normal.

Heartland Community College President Keith Cornille said by expanding the agriculture education pathways to include not only three-degree programs but also additional certificate programs, they are seeking to meet the Ag workforce needs of the present and also the future.

The space will be used for school field trips, F-F-A members, 4-H club members, and others who will carry the industry on for generations to come.
