6/1/2016	5pm HNN News KHNL	LOCAL CONNECTION COACH LARRY PRICE	LOCAL CONNECTION COACH LARRY PRICE. There's something I've been missing on the radio lately: the voice of the "Coach" Larry Price. It may not have been love at first sight on either of our parts but my initial meeting with the Coach when he really was a coach changed the course of my life. I played for UH under Coach Price in 1965 and 66. The most demanding and challenging seasons I experienced in five years of college football. Later he invited me to join his coaching staff. It was a job that demanded everything I had to give and in return I was transformed as a coach and as a person. I left Hawaii, but in my soul I never left Coach Price or all that he taught me, especially on being a man and becoming a leader. He influenced me more than any person I have ever known. There are many others just like me in all different fields who learned from Larry Price.

6/2/2016	5pm HNN News KHNL	LOCAL CONNECTION PBS HAWAII	LOCAL CONNECTION PBS HAWAII. Aloha to you. Hawaii News Now has generously extended time during this newscast, so that I may share a genuine "good news" story with you. It's the story of Hawaii's only statewide public broadcasting station and how the people of Hawaii secured the nonprofit station's future after we lost our longtime lease. LESLIE, VO: Perhaps the timing was NOT so good. Our need to move arose on the heels of the Great Recession. And yet, our fellow islanders, including thousands of grassroots givers, over time, made THIS happen -- on Nimitz Highway, ownership of a 30 million dollar cheerful multimedia center for LEARNING through creative and fair storytelling. We knew this home had to be a very different kind of place no longer focused on the television screen. It had to be designed for a new era in public broadcasting and digital communications. More engagement and interactivity as you use a variety of digital devices.	0:01:30

It's hidden deep under several miles of Dillingham Boulevard, a water main big enough to provide water for Honolulu, Waikiki and Hawaii Kai. The 42-inch main was completed about 11 years ago, after ten years of work that involved tearing up the street. Now, Hawaii News Now has learned that the Board of Water Supply will have to move parts, if not large segments of the main to make way for the rail transit project.	0:02:12
4/23/2016	5pm HNN News KHNL, 10pm HNN News KHNL	RAIL BUS ROUTES	RAIL BUS ROUTES. Seven bus routes run through Dillingham Boulevard. There are two dozen bus stops from North King Street on one end to Puuhale Road on the other. There's even one bus that makes a single daily run down Dillingham. East and Westbound bus trips on the boulevard total 465 a day, making it one of the busiest bus corridors. HART anticipates construction to start on Dillingham by the end of the year. Last year, rail work on Kamehameha Highway put some busses 60 minutes behind schedule.	0:02:03
4/23/2016	10pm HNN News KHNL	WATERMAIN WON'T MOVE	WATERMAIN WON'T MOVE. Project leaders say they won't have to move the entire 42-inch main. It runs longitudinally down Dillingham, but it's not perfectly straight down the middle, and neither is our guideway. So the two may criss-cross, and where the two conflict, they'll have to move the water line out of the way. The rail and the water main will be kept ten feet apart. The contractor who wins the bid to build this section will help design the plans to do that and there is money in the budget for relocation. Rail officials don't expect the water main issue to cause delays or unexpected costs.	0:00:40

6/3/2016	5pm HNN News KHNL	Rail Route Future	Rail Route Future. The Honolulu City Council has voted to cap the rail project's cost at $6.8 billion. That's about $1.3 billion short of the Federal Transit Administration's most recent cost-estimate. And it could translate to significant cuts to the scope of the project. That cap came after Council Chairman Ernie Martin proposed eliminating the final 6 miles of the rail line.	0:01:54
6/4/2016	5pm HNN News KHNL	ZIPPER LANE WIDENING	ZIPPER LANE WIDENING. Traffic at 5 p.m. heading eastbound isn't so bad. But in the mornings, it's a different story. The state says crews will shift the zipper lane's movable concrete barrier about 2.5 feet toward westbound lanes without losing any westbound lanes to create a second lane for eligible drivers, meaning two occupants or more. Some west side commuters like the idea, others don't.	0:02:25
6/7/2016	5pm HNN News KHNL	LOCAL CONNECTION UNREALITY OF RAIL	LOCAL CONNECTION UNREALITY OF RAIL. As rail construction began in earnest we began in-depth reporting we called "the Reality of Rail." Now "the Unreality of Rail" is more accurate. That's because at this point no one can say what the project even is. The Honolulu council came very close to a vote that would have stopped the rail line at Middle Street. In a compromise the council set a cap of $6.8 billion, about a billion dollars less than is needed to build to the current plan. So we have a massive railroad already under construction with no real idea of what the end product will be. What people are forgetting or ignoring is that this project is not just about transit. It is about the economic vitality of our island.	0:02:00
