Women's reproductive rights – politics	HearSay	4.3.12	12:06	52 min	Birth control and women's reproductive rights have been a hot political topic in recent weeks. On today's Headline edition, we'll take a look at the history of birth control and a new report that shows how women's wages have been affected by access to birth control. We open up our phone lines for you to let us know your thoughts by calling in live at 440-2665 or 1-800-940-2240. You can also e-mail the program at hearsay@whrv.org or join us on our Facebook page www.facebook.com/hearsaywithcathylewis
Race – Trayvon Martin	Another View	4.6.12	12:06	52 min	The killing of Trayvon Martin has stirred up a national conversation about race and how we treat each other, particularly as it pertains to African American males. This week on Another View we'll continue the dialogue, but this time from the African American female perspective. Black women and Black men experience racism differently and we'll explore those differences with our guests, relationship expert and CEO of Trace Consulting, Alvean Lyons; Dr. Colita Nichols Fairfax, Associate Professor of Social Work at NSU; and Kristina Wright, Miss Hampton Roads, 2010

					B: New Treatments for Alzheimer's Today, an estimated 5.4 million Americans are living with Alzheimer's Disease. In the second-half of Tuesday's HearSay with Cathy Lewis, we'll examine some of the challenges facing medical professionals searching for a cure, including the recruiting and retaining of medical trial participants.
History/Military	HearSay	5.7.12	12:06	52 min	The nation's newest National Monument is right in our own backyard. Fort Monroe once stood as a bastion of defense for the Chesapeake Bay, but a new battle may be taking shape over the fort and its surrounding land's future. Today on HearSay, Cathy Lewis is speaking with citizens and professionals who have dedicated themselves to protecting the historic site's rich history and ensuring its future as beacon for economic and educational growth. Join us for the conversation!
Race	Another View	5.11.12	12:06	52 min	When was the last time you had a meaningful conversation about race? Did you come away with understanding - or were you frustrated and angry? Why is it so difficult to talk about race and racial matters? On the next Another View we'll talk about "talking about race" with our round table pundits, Roger Chesley, columnist for the Virginian-Pilot; NSU professor Carol Pretlow; community activist Bill Thomas; and author, talk show host and journalist Wil LaVeist. In addition, John Johnson, head of the Hampton Unity Commission joins us for this important discussion.

Politics	HearSay	5.16.1 2	12:0 6	52 min	In a country-wide investigation into each state's vulnerability to corruption, Virginia ranked in the bottom four. The State Integrity Investigation, a joint project by The Center for Public Integrity and Public Radio International, cited issues such as "public access to information," "lobbying disclosure," and "judicial accountability" as a few of the deciding factors in the Commonwealth's failing grade. We're joined on HearSay by a member of the investigation and Virginia experts who will explore what implications the results hold for the upcoming elections.
Education	Another View	5.18.1 2	12:0 6	52 min	This week the Norfolk School Board appointed Dr. Samuel T. King as the new superintendent of Norfolk Public Schools. On the next Another View, we'll talk with Dr. King about his new position and his vision for this urban school district. We'll also talk with school board chair, Dr. Kirk T. Houston, and interim superintendent Mr. Michael Spencer about transition plans and how NPS is doing in improving on-time graduation rates and lowering the drop out rate. It's all a part of WHRO and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting's American Graduate: Let's Make It Happen initiative.

					grandmother Chyennesia Griffin, who changed their eating and exercise habits after Xyla showed symptoms of pre-diabetes - at 11 years old! Plus Lisa Godley brings us the heartwarming story of Gwendolyn Lee Lomax, a teacher who refuses to give up on students even though she's retired.
Politics	HearSay	6.4.12	12:06	52 min	On June 12th, voters across Virginia will head to the polls for the Primary Election that precedes the November 6th General Election. Cathy Lewis will be joined by political experts to discuss how Virginia's use of an "open primary system" could impact the election. We'll also examine what the future holds for House and Senate hopefuls and take a look at Virginia's redrawn congressional map and discuss its implications.
Education	HearSay	6.14.12	12:06	52 min	In our continuing partnership with the American Graduate program, HearSay will periodically address key issues that hinder some students from successfully graduating from high school. On today's installment, Cathy Lewis is joined by local educators who are engaging area students in an attempt to halt what is known as the "summer slide," a term used to describe students forgetting what they learned the previous year over the course of summer vacation. We learn what techniques they're employing to keep students learning all year long.

Military	Another View	6.15.1 2	12:0 6	52 min	The wars in Iraq and Afghanistan may be over, but our female veterans are finding a new battlefield - home. There are more than 800,000 veterans living in Virginia and of that number 95,000 are women. Many face problems when they return from war - from homelessness, to medical and mental health issues, to re-establishing family ties. Civilians assume there are programs to handle these issues but unfortunately there are few resources to help women veterans. On the next Another View, we'll talk about the issues unique to female vets, and we'll learn about the Gladys Gatlin Foundation, a new organization that focuses on helping women re-enter society after war. Our guests include Army veteran Bridget Reed along with Senior Advisor Aubrey Wilson, and Marketing Director Bruce Williams, both with the Gladys Gatlin Foundation.
Healthcare	HearSay	6.20.1 2	12:0 6	52 min	In the coming days the supreme court of the United States will reach a decision on the constitutionality of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care act. The individual mandate portion of the act has sparked the greatest nationwide controversy but it is the fate of expanded Medicaid that has indigent care providers and advocates across the commonwealth holding their breath. Host Cathy Lewis speaks with these groups about the roles they play in caring, and providing for Virginia's indigent population and what effect the Supreme Court's ruling will have on their ability to do so effectively.
