Quarterly List of Programming Responsive to Issues of Community Concern - Local

<sup>1st</sup>Quarter
April 10, 2022

To serve the public interest, the station broadcasts programming responsive to issues of concern to the CSRA and its listening public. The following lists issues most significant to our programming and the treatment of them:

Issues of importance this quarter included the following during the months of January, February, and March: In the month of January 2022, we welcomed several guests. President Keel of Augusta University appeared on the show to discuss his leadership and the vision of the school. Dr. Judy Willis was interviewed to talk about empowering children to learn. Moving toward the middle of January, Ernestine Smith appeared on the show to discuss the Head Start program and its benefits. Casper Cravens was on the show to talk about the joy of family sailing. Dr. Jennifer Taub joined the show to talk about dirty money hurting the poor. Sarah Decareaux appeared on the show to discuss love, life, loss, grief, and recovery. As the end of the month approached, the community note featured events and telephone numbers to Help Lines. Caitlin Highland was also interviewed and talked about priorities that can benefit Georgians. The community note highlighted points regarding the Child Tax Credit Law and developing home gyms. Mr. Thornton highlighted concerns about the Richmond County redistricting map. Ms. Gaines discussed her challenge with bipolar disorder. The community note highlighted events for families and excerpts of Terumi Echols' discussion of IVP's commitment to diversity in publishing. Dr. Walter McCray talked about Blacks in the bible. The note highlighted the push for mental health parity. The community note highlighted state law that gives local community authority to exercise eminent domain to remove blight. The note also addressed concerns regarding proposed Georgia revenue cuts. Danny Kanso appeared on the show to discuss the American Rescue Plan funding desires of Georgia citizens. Dr. George Yancey was on the show to talk about racial harmony. Mr. Thornton discussed the proposed changes regarding daylight savings time and various health-related issues. The community note highlighted legislative impact on Georgians.
