January 7, 2022 - Diversion court takes a chance on problem gamblers

- Problem gamblers often resort to crime to feed their addiction. Now a Clark County diversion court makes treatment instead of incarceration available for nonviolent offenders.

January 12, 2022 - Weary hospital staffs battle omicron spike

- With staffs already stretched thin after nearly two years of combating the pandemic, hospitals now face a crush of patients as the highly contagious variant sweeps through Nevada.

February 2, 2022 - Deadly crash in North Las Vegas spurs conversation about traffic safety

- Police say a driver was going 100 mph or more when he sped through a red light, killing himself, a passenger and 7 people he hit with his vehicle.

February 8, 2022 - Short term rentals are coming back to unincorporated Clark County, but how will they be regulated?

- Short term rentals are the bane of some neighbors, and the lifeblood to some families. They are also a huge corporate business now, and they're coming back to unincorporated Clark County.

March 10, 2022 - Community leaders work to combat opioid addiction in Nevada

- More than 20 years ago, in 1999, the rate of people who died of drug overdoses in Nevada and its neighboring state of California were roughly the same. Then things began to change.
