Magic Valley Insights Quarter 3 2022 July - September

Issues
Crime/ Lawyer
Shortage

Synopsis

Duration
30:00

GUEST: Grant Loeb, Twin Falls County Prosecutor:

Prosecutor Loeb addressed the shortage of lawyers to work cases in an east Idaho county. The prosecutor there said she didn't have enough people to cover the caseloads that come in every day. Loeb said other prosecutors are facing the same shortage of good people to prosecute criminals all over the country. This is happening in both large and small counties in Idaho. Loeb said he has several open positions for deputy prosecutors. A number of contributing factors, including the pandemic, have caused caseloads to pile up. He said the shortage may be due to a number of lawyers who have retired, new lawyers taking jobs in the private sector, or people are not interested in a career in law.

Military/ Veteran
Services

Duration
30:00

GUEST: Catherine McCloud, Idaho Air Guard Member:

McCloud specializes in helping military men and women transition from active service to civilian life. She works with service members and their families to make sure they get what they need through the transition period. McCloud helps families get the many benefits that military members and their families can have access to. She said many service members didn't know how to get the most out of those benefits. The program works closely with local groups to help connect veterans with available programs. McCloud also noted that many times rules and laws change without the veteran being aware that they may be eligible for benefits they might not have been able to get before.

New Businesses/Construction

Duration
30:00

GUEST: Charlie Howell, Jerome County Commissioner:

The Commissioner updated our audience on the new businesses that have set up shop in Jerome and the greater county. One of them being a new bar and grill in Jerome. The last several years have been tough on area businesses and the area has seen many come and go. The small community of Hazelton welcomed a new small department store to serve the area. Also, the National Guard is planning on consolidating its Magic Valley facilities into one located in Jerome County. Plus, the long-awaited beef processing plant is making good progress on construction and is expected to open by next year. This has also resulted in more homes being built all over the county in various subdivisions.

Duration
30:00

Water Safety/Drownings

GUEST: Ken Mencil and Daren Brown, Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office:

Both deputies work as command staff for the sheriff's office and addressed concerns over some recent drownings and accidents in an area on the Snake River. Pillar Falls is a popular recreation spot for boaters, fishermen, kayakers, and swimmers. The area has seen several drownings in the past few years. Many people underestimate the danger of the water and rocks in the area. The sheriff's office is working to possibly post signs alerting people of the danger in the area. The problem is the water condition changes all the time depending on the water flows at the time. Plus, there are various rock features below the water people can't see until it's too late. Also, the area is public land, managed by various government entities that prevent quick action to some of the proposed actions to help make it safer.

Another issue the sheriff's office has seen in recent years is the increased use of Centennial Park which provides access to the Snake River. It has often been overcrowded several weekends in a row. Officers have had to tow dozens of vehicles that were parked in the wrong area. This also creates a safety concern for emergency responders. The park is the only access point to get emergency boats up to Pillar and Shoshone falls.

Veteran Services/Mental Health

GUESTS: Judy Coyle and Nattalie Millington, Southern Idaho GOP Women and Josh Burnside, Founder of Hiatus Ranch:

The group hosted a walk the canyon event to help veterans with mental health issues. The project was started by a high school senior to bring awareness to mental health issues after she lost her brother to suicide. The Southern Idaho GOP Women continued the walk and join up with a veteran's camp. Burnside said he is a suicide survivor and says many veterans have either lost their personal battles or faced the same struggle. His Hiatus Ranch works with veterans to overcome those challenges in a safe setting with help from professional volunteers. The guests spend time on a working ranch where they can work with horses, cattle, and other livestock. The ranch operates solely on donations outside of Shoshone.
