

U-S Senator Tom Cotton divines a difference in the expressed will of the people in rationalizing different approaches from the Supreme Court nominations of Merrick Garland by then-President Obama and Amy Comey Barrett by President Trump. Both came in presidential election years—Garland in 2016 and Barrett on Saturday, just six weeks before this year’s election—but Cotton told C-N-N’s Jake Tapper yesterday the people made their desire known by the senators they elected...

“...BETTER THAN THAT.”

Cotton himself is up for re-election this year but doesn’t face Democrat opposition. His only opponent, Libertarian Party Candidate Ricky Dale Herrington Junior says the flip-flop of arguments between Republicans and Democrats is evidence of the partisanship that’s poisoning Washington...
