

With the approaching Tropical Storm Laura Texarkana College has made the decision to cancel all on campus classes for Thursday and Friday. Dr Jason Smith announced on Wednesday Morning that out of an abundance of caution the school will move all classes online to keeps students out of harm's way during the storm. With so many students traveling long distance in some cases it was not worth the risks to put student on the road a potentially dangerous time. Only essential employees will be on campus Thursday and Friday. Security, IT, and maintenance. All others will work from home.
