2/11/19	10 PM News (3:33)	POLICE, FIRE AND SAFETY CUTS: Metro's police, fire and sheriff departments are struggling to make cuts to their already tight budgets. They are trying to come up with savings totaling more than two million dollars before the end of the budget year. Investigative reporter Ben Hall has followed these cuts since looks at how these cuts impact our safety in a city on the rise. Officials with these department cannot understand how the city is doing so well with all the new growth but not with money. Each department is having to cut services and the number of personnel. Participants included Daron Hall, Sheriff; James Smallwood, Fraternal Order of Police President and Mark Young, Metro Fire Department Union
2/19/19	6 PM News (3:27)	POLICE SHORTAGE: Nashville has fewer police officers working today than it did a year ago. In fact - the department is short-staffed by more than 100 officers. Investigative reporter Ben Hall first reported how low morale has led to officers quitting. Now Chief Steve Anderson is weighing saying the city is asking for police to do more than ever before but with fewer bodies. Morale is at an all-time low as officers are leaving the force at a surprising rate – 54 officers in the last 6 months, many before retirement age. The last recruiting class in Nashville only graduated 29 officers. Reasons for this include no cost of living increases and a recent decision by the District Attorney to prosecute an officer who killed a man during a foot pursuit. There is also concern over Nashville's decision to create a Community Oversight Board. Participants included James Smallwood, Fraternal Order of Police President and Gicola Lane - Community Activist

2/7/19	10 PM News (2:15)	JOE CLYDE DANIELS EXCLUSIVE: The search for missing Joe Clyde Daniels and the eventual arrest of his parents dominated Nashville airwaves in April. His father was set to be tried for homicide and his mother with neglect in March, but the trial has been postponed until 2020. NewsChannel 5 reporter Nick Beres investigated the reasons why which mainly deal with gathering more evidence. The attorneys for the father believe more DNA testing is needed which may exonerate their client. They also contend that is confession had been coerced. Another complicating factor is that the boy's body has never been found which makes it hard to prove he is even dead. Participants included Jake Lockert, attorney for Joseph Daniels and Jim Todd, legal analyst
2/21/19	6 PM News (4:17)	CHEATHAM COUNTY DEPUTY SHOOTING EXCLUSIVE: A federal lawsuit claims two Cheatham county deputies used excessive force in shooting up a home. Channel 5 obtained bodycam video of the incident. The deputies had arrived at the house to investigate two 911 cellphone hang-ups. The homeowner did have a dangerous reputation and apparently some words transpired. The video shows one of the deputies firing 8 bullets into the front door, nearly killing the homeowner. Participants included Sheriff Mike Breedlove, homeowner Mark Campbell and John Morris, attorney for Campbell.
2/27/19	6 PM News (4:27)	DCS CHILD DEATH: Disturbing pictures show the inside of a home where the Department of Children's Services placed a two-year-old boy. Four months later, the child, Zephaniah Green, was dead. Investigative reporter Ben Hall reveals DCS ignored warnings from inside its own agency that the home was not safe. The child was removed from his mother's home because DCS had environment concerns over the home and feared the children were not being bathed and fed properly. There was also concern that an older child may have choked Zephaniah. So, the DCS workers placed the boy in a relative's home. Pictures from the investigative file showed deplorable condition in the home he was moved into. Dirty dishes were piled high in the kitchen. It had an unusable bathroom and bedroom that were both filled with junk. Investigators even found drug paraphernalia. Zephaniah's new caregiver tested positive for drugs at the time of the boy's death. Ultimately, the child was placed in a home that was more dangerous than his mother's. Participants included Rachel Green, mother of Zephaniah and Robin Moore, attorney.
2/27/19	5 PM News (2:15)	ULTRA LOUNGE LICENSE - This story looked at how state law prohibits the Alcoholic Beverage Commission from running background checks on bar and nightclub owners. Earlier in the day, police raided and shutdown the Ultra Lounge after it was declared a public nuisance. The club's owner, Anthony Powell, has a lengthy criminal record including over a dozen arrests for drug and assault charges. However, this did not stop him from getting a liquor license in 2016. He was able to renew the license in both 2017 and 2018. NewsChannel 5 was able to obtain in minutes a background check on Powell. State law only allows the ABC to do background checks on alcohol servers and wholesale distributors and not people who sell alcohol at clubs like the Ultra Lounge. The ABC must also pay the state for every background check they run.

2/3/2019	10 PM News (3:40)	COVERAGE GAP – 167,000 Tennesseans are stuck in a health insurance coverage gap. They are too poor to afford insurance and not poor enough to qualify for the state's Medicaid program. The fight over fixing Tennessee's coverage gap is a complicated one which has gone on for years. Republican Governor Bill Haslam tried to address the issue by proposing Insurance Tennessee, the program would've expanded Medicaid but even with his own party in power, Haslam's plan failed in spectacular fashion. Most Republicans say it makes little sense to expand Medicaid with the Affordable Care Act in jeopardy. Democrats in the state say Tennessee is needlessly missing out on $2.3 billion in federal funds that could help people who need it most. Participants included Tabitha Williams and Michelle Fardan, two Tennesseans affected by the insurance “gap.”
2/14/2019	6 PM News (3:30)	KIDNEY TRANSPLANT FROM A STRANGER - Mark Hudson, a 55-year old UPS worker, was on the verge of complete kidney failure. Doctors estimate that one of his failing kidneys is operating at around 12 percent, meaning without a transplant he could be weeks away from needing dialysis. The disease, which impacts more than 200,000 people each year, has made Mark so weak that he often misses work. Mark and his wife Jennifer needed a miracle. Right after Christmas, Mark struck up a conversation with a stranger at work named Heidi Harlson who immediately asked if she could help and decided to donate one of her kidneys. Both turned out to have a common blood type and doctors wasted no time scheduling the transplant surgery. Mark will spend the next few months being monitored by doctors to make sure Heidi's kidney isn't being rejected. But so far, the prognosis looks promising for a man who has learned the kindness of strangers can be lifesaving. Participants included Mark Hudson and Heid Harlson. The station also listed information about how viewers can become kidney donors.

2/3/19	10 PM News (3:54)	WALL STREET HOUSES FOR RENT, PART 1: Nashville residents are finding it hard to find affordable housing in the city. A big reason is Wall Street investment firms are snatching up thousands of single-family homes in our area and turning them into rentals. They often pay at or above asking price which can push up the price of homes and impact affordable housing. The firms usually buy homes with cash, and little or no inspection and then renting them out. This makes it harder for first-time home buyers even if they have good credit and money for a down payment. The top four real estate investment firms now own more than 5,000 homes in the Middle Tennessee area. This includes 974 homes in Nashville, 2156 home sin Rutherford County and 679 homes in Williamson County. These companies' market to families with household incomes of at least $80,000, making it even harder for people with lower income to find housing. a year to get a home. In some neighborhoods, the firms have taken over entire streets. Some neighborhoods are fighting back by passing homeowner association clauses that say you must own and live in your home for two years before it can be rented. Interviewed: Joy Styles , Homeowners Association Board, Dr. Ken Chilton - TSU Professor, Bruce McNeilage - Investor/Developer and Jacobia Dowell - Metro Council Member

2/4/19	6 PM News (5:50)	WALL STREET HOUSES FOR RENT, PART 2: Giant real estate investment companies are buying up homes in and around Nashville and turning them into rental properties. Now, former tenants of one of these companies say you should think twice about doing business with them. Invitation Homes owns nearly 800 properties in this area. And according to their corporate filings, they're taking in more than $1.5 million a month in rent from middle Tennesseans. But some say the company's focus is on money rather than its tenants. The Better Business Bureau has received more than 600 complaints from across the country in just the last three years and the reviews are not good either. Most give Invitation Homes just one star while some say they'd give zero if they could, urging others to "stay away," and calling the company "the worst landlord I've ever encountered." Some tenants are now suing the company, claiming they charge "illegal and excessive" fees for things like late rent, even if it's just a minute late. When people disagree about the fees, they are threatened with eviction. The company is also bad about taking care of maintenance issues and their customer service is poor. Participants included Desiree Tromblee, former tenant of Invitation Homes and Alex Tomasevic, attorney now suing Invitation Homes

1/31/19	10 PM News (6:17)	SCHOOL DIRECTOR'S DRIVER – As Metro Nashville Public Schools struggles to deal with a shortage of school bus drivers, hundreds of pages of internal documents obtained by NewsChannel 5 Investigates reveal the director of schools used a bus driver as his personal chauffeur. It appears that Dr. Shawn Joseph is putting his needs above the needs of the city's children. One school board member called Joseph's use of a bus driver as inappropriate. The school bus driver shortage has become so dire that families are never quite sure when their kids will get home. Making matters worse, is that the bus driver-turned-chauffer needed another driver to get to Joseph's home in order to drive the director's Tahoe. Another time, the driver was used to take Joseph's son to school. On other occasions, the driver had to take Joseph to doctor's appointments. Still, other times, the driver got paid on weekends for driving Dr. Joseph for personal reasons. Participants included Dr. Shawn Joseph, Metro Schools Director and Fran Bush, Metro School Board.

2/4/19	6 PM News (5:37)	MNPS CONTRACTS – Metro Nashville Public Schools steered $1.8 million in no-bid contracts to a company with whom Director of Schools Dr. Shawn Joseph had done business in the past, violating state purchasing laws. Our exclusive investigation also uncovered evidence that, in doing so, Joseph and his team repeatedly misled members of the Metro School Board about key aspects of the deals. The contracts in question involve Performance Matters, a Utah-based firm that markets student assessment software to help educators track student progress and professional development software to monitor training that teachers are required to complete. Joseph, who took control over the Nashville school system in July 2016, had appeared in a slickly produced video that touted how Performance Matters' student assessment software had been utilized in his previous job in Maryland. Metro Schools insisted Joseph's relationship with Performance Matters was "professional, ethical and above board." But, just six weeks after starting with Metro Schools, Joseph's calendar shows he was hosting Performance Matters salesmen in the district offices. A month later, chief academic officer Dr. Monique Felder directed MNPS staff to get to work on a contract with the company according to emails obtained by WTVF under the Tennessee Public Records Act. Internal emails show that veteran employees were not sure what Performance Matters' could do that the school system's own "data warehouse" did not already do. In fact, the emails also show that a potential competitor got wind of Performance Matters and wanted to know whether her company would have a chance to vie for the district's business. That never happened. Instead, Joseph's team convinced the school board to give Performance Matters what turned out to be a million-dollar, no-bid contract -- without waiting for the results of a pilot program and without giving any other company a chance to compete. Participants included Amy Frogge, Metro School Board member and Dennis Dycus, retired state auditor.
2/6/19	6 PM News (4:20)	MNPS SETTLEMENT - A sexual harassment scandal inside Metro Schools could soon end up costing taxpayers a lot of money. Under the terms of a proposed deal, the district would be required to pay out $350,000 to settle sexual harassment lawsuits brought by three current or former employees at John F. Kennedy Middle School in Antioch. The employees alleged horrific abuse by former principal Sam Braden. The scandal, which was first exposed by WTVF, could end up costing taxpayers much more with at least two other cases still pending. Our investigation discovered that the district's own files show that a human resources investigator uncovered overwhelming evidence against Braden. Metro Schools Director Dr. Shawn Joseph and his team initially defended Braden, until public pressure mounted, and the district put him on leave. Braden decided to retire. The Metro School Board must still approve the settlements. If the settlement is not approved, the costs to the district could skyrocket, including the costs of pre-trial depositions and the cost of a trial itself. Participants included Gary Blackburn; attorney for the victims; Sherman Swindall and Sonji Collins; victims who filed suit, and Rob Johnson, Metro Schools spokesperson.
2/13/19	6 PM News (4:30)	MNPS MORALE -- Metro Nashville Public Schools, under Schools Director Dr. Shawn Joseph, faces seriously low morale This threatens the district's ability to keep qualified employees according to a confidential report obtained by NewsChannel 5. The 11-page report, prepared by the Nashville law firm of Bone McAllester Norton, also warns that a key Human Resources official hired by Joseph is viewed as "extremely divisive, dismissive and, in their belief, incompetent." It suggests the official, Sharon Pertiller, either be terminated, transferred or retrained. In the report, the law firm says its investigation encountered "nearly unanimous expression of over-arching concern regarding lack of communication from the highest levels of administration." The report claims that "the Board of Education specifically requested this communication be sent as an attorney-client privileged document." There is no evidence that the board itself ever voted to make the report secret. The report also found that certain favored employees getting paid more than the board-approved pay scales. That has been an on-going complaint since Joseph took over in July 2016. It also mentioned how the hiring process has been complicated to the point that well-qualified teacher applicants do not take jobs with MNPS because of delays.

2/18/19	6 PM News (3:41)	MNPS PAY DISPARITIES -- If you're a woman working for Metro Nashville Public Schools - and not a friend of the school's director - the district may not pay you as much as it pays men. That's what a veteran administrator says she discovered and, now, she says she's facing retaliation for speaking up. Dr. Schunn Turner, a 25-year veteran of the school system, has filed a complaint with the MNPS Human Resources Department and has hired a lawyer. She discovered that she was being paid less than the white female she replaced. She also discovered another person with the same position of Executive Director was making significantly more money. It turns out this person worked with Metro School Director Dr. Shawn Joseph in Maryland. Turner uncovered data showed women for her level – and in some other jobs – were all paid on a lower scale. Men were placed on the district's higher-paying "support" scale while women were on the "certificate" pay scale which pays less. In fact, a recent confidential Human Resources review by a Nashville law firm warns that deviations from the district's own pay scales was an "over-riding concern" among employees who were interviewed. When Turner asked for a response to her concerns, she was immediately called into human resources to talk about her job performance, the first time in 25 years she has had such a meeting. Participants included Dr. Schunn Turner, Executive Director of Metro School Choice and Gary Blackburn, attorney for Turner.
3/2/19 6:00 PM	TEACHER TOWN HALL: WHAT'S REALLY GOING ON IN METRO SCHOOLS (60 Minutes)	This local special followed up on our series of reports about what's wrong with the Metro Nashville school system. NewsChannel 5 chief investigator Phil Williams moderated a panel with 14 teachers and guidance counselors from our main school system. For months the school system has been rocked by one controversy after another including questionable spending, a sexual harassment lawsuit and infighting among the school board. A law firm hired by the school system to do an evaluation found the school system is facing a severe morale crisis. How will this affect the 86,000 students the school system serves – who better to ask than teachers who are on the front lines every day. Topics included the low morale, poor compensation, heavier class loads, poor support from the administration, lack of resources, lack of disciplinary action by administration, violence in schools and lack of school social counselors/workers. Participants included the following Metro teachers: Constance Wade, Janita Sanders, Katie Jones, Jennifer Broeder, Kate Campbell, Karen Gordon, Sonji Collins, Zach Barnes, Laura Leonard, Rachel Sposato, Jenna Davis, Jayne Riand, Mary Holden and Susan Norwood.

- 01/05/19 48 HOURS: “Sugar Land: Life or Death” – an updated rebroadcast of “The Sugarland Conspiracy”. A report about Kent Whitaker, whose wife Tricia and son Kevin were killed by hitmen. Kent survived with his other son, Bart. In 2003, after a dinner outing, the family of four were gunned down as they entered their Sugar Land, Texas home. Tricia Whitaker and her 19-year-old son Kevin died from their injuries. Police investigation revealed Bart Whitaker was behind the intricate plot to kill his family. To cover up the crime, he also sustained injuries. Bart Whitaker enlisted the help of friends Steven Champagne and Chris Brasher to carry out the plot. Bart eventually fled to Mexico, assumed the name “Rudy Rios” and started a new life. The real Rudy Rios turned him in to Mexican authorities; they dumped him at the border. He was charged with the murders of his mother and brother. Prosecutors sought the death penalty. Bart Whitaker was convicted and sentenced to death. Incredibly, his father Kent Whitaker has forgiven his son. Over the next decade, Kent Whitaker lobbied tirelessly to have his son’s sentence commuted to life. In 2018, Bart’s appeals were exhausted, and his execution was scheduled for February 22, 2018. Kent Whitaker made one last desperate plea for mercy to the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles. Just days before the execution, the board made a recommendation for clemency. The final decision came from the governor. Less than one hour before the scheduled execution, Governor Abbot spared his life. Bart released a statement saying, “I’m thankful for the decision not for me, but for my dad.” Interviewed: Kent Whitaker; John Flores (Kevin Whitaker’s best friend); Marshall Slot (lead detective); Barbie Harrington and Peggy Lane (Tricia Whitaker’s friend and co-workers); Cliff Stanley (neighbor); Brittany Barnhill (friend of family); Gabriella Gutierrez, Cindy Lou Salinas (Bart’s Mexican wife) and Omero Salinas (Bart’s Mexican father-in-law); Rudy Rios; Fred Felcman and Jeff Strange (prosecutors). - 01/12/19 48 HOURS: “The Clown Did It” (9:00 – 10:00p) - a report on the 1990 murder of Marlene Warren, and the decades long hunt for her killer: a clown bearing balloons, flowers and a gun. At the time, the case rocked the Florida neighborhood where Warren lived and has haunted family members ever since. They hope that technological advances available today will help police to make an arrest. Hours after the shooting, police received an anonymous tip from a caller telling them to look at Marlene’s husband Mike Warren, but he had a solid alibi. The caller also told police about Sheila Keen, an employee of Mike’s. Police learned Keen fit the description of a woman who bought a costume, flowers and balloons. There were also rumors that Mike Warren and Sheila Keen were lovers. No arrest was ever made. Keen quit her job and moved away. Mike Warren battled with Marlene’s son Joe Ahrens over her estate. Warren was investigated, convicted and sentenced on fraud charges and served four years in prison. In 2012, Warren and Keen were married. They settled in Tennessee, operating a business there. Rumors about Keen’s past persisted among their employees. They sold their business and retired to their vacation home in Virginia. In 2017, investigators say they finally developed DNA evidence to make their case and Sheila Keen Warren was subsequently arrested and charged with Marlene Warren’s murder. Mike Warren is still a person of interest. On-screen text graphic: Sheila Keen Warren has pleaded not guilty. No trial date has been set. Interviewed: Joe Ahrens (Marlene Warren’s son); Jeannie Pratt (neighbor); Daphne Duret (journalist, Palm Beach Post); Shirley Twing (Marlene Warren’s mother); Deborah Offord and Barbara Castricone (costume store employees); Della Ward (Keen’s co-worker); Ashley Sexton, Cynthia Swafford (employees of Warren’s new business); Brooke Blevins (vacation home neighbor); Paige McCann (lead detective); Dewey Fulton (Washington County Sheriff’s Lieutenant). 48 HOURS: “Knock Knock” - an investigation into the murders of two beloved grandmothers, Betty Jones and her friend Kathryn Crigler, who were brutally attacked in 1990 after answering a knock on the door at Crigler’s Starkville, Mississippi home; and how a driven detective and cutting-edge technology helped to solve the nearly three-decades old murder and rape. The intruder forced his way into the house and immediately killed Betty. He then raped Kathryn, who died months later of complications from her injuries. The leads went nowhere, and current lead Detective Bill Lott struggled for years to solve it. Jason B. Jones, a Nashville album designer and step-grandson of Betty, wanted to know what happened. He knew little about the case, but in 2005, a chance meeting between Jason’s mother and Kathryn’s granddaughter Juky Holt led to his renewed interest. In 2017, he launched a podcast to work through his own questions about the incident and perhaps uncover new information. Jason subsequently learned that Betty had sponsored a family who escaped the Khmer Rouge regime in Cambodia and the family named their daughter after Betty. In 2018, as his podcast was coming to an end, there was no finality, because no one knew who killed Betty and Kathryn. However, Detective Lott’s quest led him to Parabon NanoLabs in Reston, Virginia. Parabon NanoLabs has developed technology called genetic genealogy, which can predict what someone looks like through their DNA. The results led to a name, Michael Wayne DeVaughn, and his DNA was a match to the DNA taken from Crigler the night of the attack. Twenty-eight years after the crime, the suspected attacker was charged with Betty’s murder and the rape and sexual battery of Kathryn Crigler. All may now know who knocked on the door that night, but the storyteller in Jones still needs to know how this tale ends. On-screen text graphic: Prosecutors are presenting their case against Michael DeVaughn to a grand jury. To date, there has been no indictment and DeVaughn has not entered a plea. Sergeant Bill Lott has been promoted to Lieutenant. Interviewed: Jason Jones (podcaster); Bill and Colleen Jones (his parents); Anne McWhorter (Betty’s sister); Julia Crigler Hold (aka Juky Holt) (Crigler’s granddaughter); David Lindley (retired lead detective); Sergeant Bill Lott (current lead detective); Dr. Ellen Greytak (Parabon’s lead scientist for DNA phenotyping); Thom Shaw (forensic artist); Betty Hong (daughter of the family Betty Sponsored) (C: Richard Schlesinger P: Lourdes Aguiar)

01/26/19 48 HOURS: “Letter from San Quentin” (9:00 - 10:00p) and “Was Kevin Cooper Framed?” (10:00 - 11:00p) – a two-part report detailing the controversial murder case against California death row inmate Kevin Cooper, who was convicted of killing Doug and Penny Ryen, their daughter Jessica, and friend Christopher Hughes in 1983; and an exploration of whether new DNA technology can spare his life. (1) “Letter from San Quentin” - On June 4, 1983, the Ryen family and young friend Christopher Hughes were brutally murdered in their Chino Hills home. Eight-year-old Josh Ryen, though seriously wounded, survived the attack. He initially indicated three white people were the attackers. Police eventually concluded Josh was wrong with his identification. Prison escapee Kevin Cooper seemed to fit the bill -- he had escaped from prison and had hidden near the Ryen home. Cooper was paraded before cameras and the trial became racially charged because Cooper is black. There were many troubling clues at the time – blood, but none of Cooper’s fingerprints, were found at the scene. The trial was moved to San Diego. Josh Ryen video testified but his memory was hazy, and he no longer remembered the attackers. Cooper, who always denied the murders, was convicted and sentenced to death. Josh’s grandmother Dr. Mary Howell was not convinced that Cooper was guilty and feared the real killers were still at large. By 2000, some seventeen years after the murders, Cooper was still on death row. Questions still linger, especially about the number of attackers. Eighteen-year-old Josh Ryen is not sure Cooper was there. Private Investigator Paul Ingels felt the case deserved a second look. An investigation led to several new leads including potential suspect Lee Furrow, who the police initially discounted. He claims to have nothing to do with the crime. In 2001, an agreement was made to do additional DNA testing. In 2002, the post-conviction DNA testing did not exonerate Cooper, but raised significant issues with the process. He claimed foul play. Dr. Mary Howell and Paul Ingels still had doubts. (2) “Was Kevin Cooper Framed?” – In 2008, Dr. Mary Howell died. After the state agreed to the DNA testing, the lab results all pointed to Cooper. Many are convinced the evidence was tampered with. After nineteen years on death row, the 9th Circuit federal appellate court stepped in and stayed Cooper’s execution. New York Times journalist Nicholas Kristof wrote an Op-Ed article about the case. Former FBI agent Tom Parker has been hired by Cooper’s defense attorney Norman Hile to re-investigate. Private investigator Paul Ingels believes the evidence was tampered with, or contaminated. Lee Furrow is drawing further attention following information that witnesses saw three white men splattered with blood, in a nearby bar on the night of the crime. At the end of 2018, Governor Jerry Brown ordered new DNA testing and a retired judge was appointed to make sure the tests are done properly. Cooper hopes that someday he will be exonerated. On-screen text graphic: Attorneys for both sides are working out the details of Kevin Cooper’s new DNA tests. The testing is expected to take place in a few months. Interviewed: Paul Ingels (private investigator) (1,2); Mary Howell Josh Ryen’s maternal grandmother) (1,2); Floyd Tidwell (former San Bernardino County Sheriff) (1,2); Josh Ryen (survivor, interviewed as a 28-year old) (1,2); Dale Sharp (Deputy Sheriff) (1,2); Dennis Kottmeier (District Attorney) (1); Norman Hile (Cooper’s defense attorney); Lee Furrow (suspect) (1,2); Diana Roper (Furrow’s former girlfriend, now deceased) (1,2); Christine Slonaker and Mary Wolfe (witnesses at the bar) (1,2); Nicholas Kristoff (journalist, The New York Times) (2); Tom Parke (former FBI Agent) (2); William Fletcher (Judge) (2); Michael Ramos (current District Attorney) (2); Dr. Paul Krane (DNA expert) (2); Kevin Cooper (telephone interview with Correspondent Erin Moriarty) (See also: (48 HOURS MYSTERIES) "A Grandmother's Mission", OAD: 10/26/00; 1st rebroadcast: 08/03/01; and 48 HOURS MYSTERY: "Deadly Truth", OAD: 09/17/03 - a follow-up to “A Grandmother’s Mission”) (C: Erin Moriarty – Producers listed for “Letter from San Quentin”: Lisa Freed, Marcelena Spencer, Dena Goldstein. 02/16/19 48 HOURS: LIVE TO TELL: “Standoff at Trader Joe’s” – a first-hand account from some of the people held hostage for hours inside a Los Angeles, California Trader Joe’s grocery store. The group of strangers, afraid they would die after being taken hostage by a gunman, banded together in the aisles of the supermarket to survive. In 2018, the quiet Saturday afternoon was shattered by the sound of a car wreck and gunshots. Gene Atkins, who police say had shot his grandmother and then kidnapped his girlfriend, had led police on a chase and crashed his car outside of Trader Joe’s, while exchanging gunfire with police as he entered the store. Manager Melyda Corado was killed in the crossfire. The former hostages speak of the actions they took to survive, how one of them knew how to talk with the alleged gunman, and how their lives have since unfolded. Atkins has been charged with the death of the store manager and 50 other felony counts, including attempted murder and kidnapping. He awaits trial. On-screen text graphic: Bail for Gene Atkins was set at fifteen million dollars MaryLinda Moss eventually plans to visit him in prison. Interviewed: Lynne Westafer, Cory Page MaryLinda Moss, Arta Gjonbalaj (hostages); Lexi Kavanaugh (friend of Cory’s); Richard Winton (journalist, The Los Angeles Times); Mike D’Angelo (hostage); Cryami Ackerman (hostage); Naze Gjonbalaj (Arta’s mother). 02/23/19 48 HOURS: “Killer App” (9:00 – 10:00p) – an updated rebroadcast on how social media has changed society, the attraction of so-called “parent proof” apps, which have become enormously popular with millennials and teenagers, and the hidden dangers of connecting online with strangers. The broadcast focuses on two families whose daughters were involved in online relationships that ultimately became matters of life or death. (1) The January 2016 disappearance and murder of 13-year-old Blacksburg, Virginia teenager Nicole Lovell, whose social media posts revealed a lonely and sadly typical teenage story. Nicole went missing after sneaking out to go on “a date”. The investigation revealed she had regularly used the popular social media app Kik, which allows communications to be anonymous, and was communicating with 18-year-old Virginia Tech freshman David Eisenhower. Her body was found 90 miles away. Eisenhower and his accomplice, fellow Virginia Tech student Natalie Keepers, were arrested on abduction and murder charges. (2) In 2013, Branden Syrotchen of Spokane, Washington, found out that Elizabeth, his 15-year-old daughter, was communicating with a 30-year-old man she had also befriended on the Kik app. The two were planning to run away together. Because the police were not able to act without actual evidence of a crime, Branden hatched a plan to save his daughter. The man, Jason Richards, tried to turn his crime into a love story, but he eventually pleaded guilty to child rape and luring charges. Also featured in the broadcast is an interview with an online predator who details how easy it is to lure children using social apps. Ted Livingston, CEO of the billion-dollar social app Kik, was asked questions regarding the safety of children using the app during a recent conference and claimed his app is as safe as the competition. Original On-screen text graphic: David Eisenhower and Natalie Keepers are scheduled to be tried separately next March. If convicted, they could face life in prison with no parole. Jason Richards is scheduled to be released from prison on June 3, 2017. On-screen text graphic for the 06/03/17 rebroadcast: David Eisenhower is scheduled to be tried in November 2017. Natalie Keepers is scheduled to be tried in February 2018. If convicted, both could face life in prison with no parole. 02/23/19 UPDATE: In February 2018, Eisenhower went on trial and after four days of testimony, changed his plea from not guilty to no contest. He was ruled guilty. In September 2018, Keepers was also found guilty. Neither is eligible for parole and both were ordered to apologize to Nicole’s family. Interviewed: Tammy Weeks and David Lovell (Nicole’s parents); Pamela Casey (Blunt County District Attorney); Dorothy Callahan (Eisenhower’s former classmate); Jeremy Basdeo (Eisenhower’s former college roommate); Mark Jenkins (Keepers’ former boyfriend); Graham Atkinson (Surry County Sheriff); Bryce Dustin (Eisenhower’s Internet friend); Elizabeth Syrotchen (victim); Brandy and Branden Syrotchen (Elizabeth’s parents); Elise Robertson (Spokane, Washington Detective); Ted Livingston (CEO of Kik); and “Steve” (Internet predator). 02/23/19 48 HOURS: “Portrait of a Killer” (10:00 - 11:00p) – a report about a new controversial California law that could free Daniel Marsh, who was convicted of the murders of Oliver “Chip” Northrup and Claudia Maupin. Both the victims were savagely stabbed to death as they slept inside their Davis, California home. Police found no physical evidence. Investigation had ruled out family members and police were running out of clues. Then two months after the April 14, 2013 murders, the police received a phone call from a teenager who said his best friend, the then 15-year-old Daniel Marsh, had bragged about the murders. In an interview with police, Marsh told them what happened. Experts diagnosed him as a psychopath and said he killed for pleasure. Marsh was tried as an adult - convicted and sentenced to 52 years to life. Four years after the conviction, a new California law, Proposition 57, has thrown his sentence into jeopardy. His lawyers are arguing that he should be re-sentenced as a juvenile. If successful, Marsh, now 21, might be able to be released from prison on his 25th birthday. At a hearing, a judge listened to the evidence to determine if Marsh should be re-tried as a juvenile and receive a lighter sentence. The prosecution continued to maintain he is a psychopath. In a surprise move, Daniel Marsh took the stand. In the decision, the judge found the evidence and Marsh’s testimony to be credible, but determined it was not a chance worth taking. Marsh will remain in prison. In 2018, a new law was signed into effect, saying that anyone younger than 15-years-old would never be tried as an adult. His lawyers want Marsh included retroactively. On-screen text graphic: In California, there are at least three other pending cases where juveniles have been convicted of murder and sentenced as adults. Interviewed: Victoria Hurd and Sarah Rice (daughter and granddaughter of Marion Maupin); Robert Northrup and Mary Northrup (son and daughter of Chip Northrup); Paul Doroshov (Davis Police Lieutenant); Chris Campion (former Special Agent); Jeff Reisig (District Attorney); Alvaro Garibay (Daniel’s friend); Amanda Zambor (Deputy District Attorney); Dr. Mathew Soulier (psychiatrist); Dr. Matthew Logan (forensic psychologist).
