4/5/2023                      6 PM News (4:22)                      FACING EXPULSION FROM TENNESSEE HOUSE, DEMOCRAT TELLS REPUBLICANS: BRING IT ON –Gloria Johnson is a Democratic lawmaker whose protest against gun violence now has her facing a vote to expel her from the Tennessee statehouse, and she has one message for Republican leaders – bring it on. Johnson engaged in a brief protest on the House floor last week, along with Reps. Justin Jones, D-Nashville, and Justin Pearson, D-Memphis. Social media has now dubbed them the "Tennessee Three." Their protest came as hundreds of people descended on the state capitol following the deadly shooting at The Covenant School that left three children dead, along with three adults. Even though she admitted she broke House rules, Johnson said that, if the Republican supermajority want a fight, they can have it. "I have no interest in making any deals," she added. "I want to speak the truth in front of the people who sent me here." NewsChannel 5 noted, "If it goes on a party-line vote, you're going to lose." "Absolutely," she agreed. "If it's an expulsion, it will be partisan, the first partisan expulsion in the state of Tennessee in Tennessee history." This brings us to the "why." Johnson said that, on that historic day, she and her colleagues wanted to be able to acknowledge the protesters in the gallery and to acknowledge their pain. House Speaker Cameron Sexton repeatedly cut off any mentions of the issue on everyone's mind. Pearson repeatedly tried to make comments, suggesting on one bill that lawmakers were debating trivial issues "instead of focusing on real problems that need real solutions just like the killing of children." Protesters erupted into applause, and Sexton ruled that Pearson was out of order. Johnson is a retired schoolteacher and, she said, the only person in the legislature who has the personal experience of being at a school where there was a shooting. Participants included Gloria Johnson, TN State Representative – D Knoxville.

4/13/2023                      6 PM News (8:35)                      THE MAN FIGHTING NEW GUN LAWS IN TENNESSEE SAYS KIDS ARE “PROPS” - John Harris, who heads the Tennessee Firearms Association, sometimes uses his personal Facebook page to express solidarity with ideas expressed by anti-government groups, even white nationalist groups. While lobbying Tennessee legislators on gun rights, he openly proclaims that one day armed citizens may need to take "a road trip" to the Capitol to overthrow the state's duly elected officials. Even as Tennesseans urgently look for some way to end the epidemic of gun violence, Harris is adamant: gun rights are more important than public safety. And, most critically, he has the ears of a sizable number of Republican lawmakers. In fact, when protesters descended on the state Capitol following the Covenant shooting, many saw young people who are fed up with having to fear being shot at school. But not John Harris. In an interview with NewsChannel 5 Investigates, Harris said, "I think it's a curious question as to why kids that should have maybe been in school -- it wasn't a school holiday -- why they were pulled out and brought down there -- and did they really understand why they were there or were they just props for other protesters?" Harris believes that rather than banning guns, children should have more exposure to them. In fact, the gun lobbyist argued that U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas' opinion last year, in a case known as Bruen, means that Tennessee lawmakers cannot do anything that was not done when the Second Amendment was approved. In fact, before Covenant, lawmakers appeared ready to approve a bill pushed by Harris to allow anyone as young as 18 to carry any kind of firearm practically anywhere in public -- no questions asked. Look at Harris' Facebook page and you will see where the gun lobbyist's views could lead — nestled among posts suggesting hitting Muslim countries with nuclear bombs, images mocking Black Lives Matter protesters, and a distorted (some would say racist) photo of then-First Lady Michelle Obama. Instead of red-flag laws that take guns out of the hands of people who are mentally ill, John Harris said he prefers to lock up the people instead of their guns, forcing them to get treatment if they are a danger to themselves or others. If lawmakers do pass a red-flag law, he has promised to find primary opponents for any Republicans who go along, which could make it harder to get anything done. Participants included John Harris, Tennessee Firearms Association; State Representative Mike Stewart, D-Nashville.

4/14/2023	5 PM News (3:04)	NEW DETAILS ON HOW REPUBLICANS WILL ATTEMPT TO PASS A PROTECTION ORDER BILL – Technically, legislation has not been filed yet on Governor Bill Lee's proposal for an order of protection law, which would take guns away from dangerous people. But the political jockeying and lobbying has already begun. Lee's proposed order of protection bill, also known as a red flag law, would allow someone to ask a judge to remove firearms from a person if they pose a threat to themselves or others. A caption bill means Republicans will just amend a similar bill, already further along in the committee process since House leadership has indicated they are hoping to wrap up the legislative session quickly. "Something comes up during the session, they can take that bill that's already been filed, and they can use that bill as sort of a vessel," explained NewsChannel 5 Political Analyst Pat Nolan. But drafting a bipartisan gun bill is one thing, getting across the finish line is a different battle. In some states with red flag laws, the person having weapons taken away does not have to be notified. Republicans want those individuals to defend themselves in court. Powerful gun lobbyists already lining up against this, if the Governor, Democrats and some Republicans want to get this passed, they have no choice but to go in together. NewsChannel 5 asked House Leadership if they would be willing to go against the gun lobby, but Speaker Cameron Sexton said he would have to see the bill's official language before he could pass any judgement. Nolan says — if the legislature cannot pass an order of protection bill this session, it may only be harder to accomplish next year, once emotions from the Covenant School Shooting have eased. Participants included Pat Nolan, NewsChannel 5 political analyst; State Representatives Karen Camper and William Lamberth.
4/17/2023	6 PM News (2:29)	CRITICAL VOTES WILL SOON HAPPEN ON THE NEW TITANS' STADIUM - Metro Council will sit through another round of readings when it comes to the Tennessee Titans stadium. The stadium process started back in 2022, when Titans ownership said they had the desire to scrap the old stadium or build a new one. According to the proposal, the new stadium could be ready as early as the 2026 NFL season and would be able to host additional events including CMA Fest and concerts, similar to the existing stadium. It would also potentially be able to host several major sporting events like the Super Bowl or NCAA Playoff Games. This is the largest public spending project on an NFL stadium in history. It will total $2.1 billion, and it would encompass 1.7 million square feet with a capacity of approximately 60,000. This would also include 12,000 square feet of dedicated community space that would be used year-round for educational opportunities, nonprofit events and other community-minded purposes. Of the funding measures, $500 million will come in bonds from the state. 840 million will come from the Titans, the NFL and personal seat license sales. $760 million will come from Metro including an increase to the city's hotel tax. A bill on second reading that would authorize the development of a new, enclosed stadium and the Sports Authority's issuance of revenue bonds to help fund it, as well as outline a 50% sales tax capture area. This requires a simple majority vote to pass on second reading. A separate resolution that is creating the Nashville Needs Impact Fund that would serve nonprofit entities in Davidson County. The Titans would contribute $1 million to it in the first year of the lease and increase the team's contribution by 3% each year after for an end-of-lease total of at least $47 million. In December, Metro Council members previously approved preliminary terms for the stadium deal by a vote of 27-8 with three abstentions. The council also passed a key bill allowing the city to begin collecting an increased hotel tax — but only if and when final deal terms for the stadium deal are reached and approved. The bill authorizing a 1% hotel tax increase passed 27-5 with three abstentions.

4/20/2023	6 PM News (5:33)	GOP LEADER, WHO VOTED TO EXPEL TENNESSEE THREE, FOUND GUILTY OF SEXUALLY HARASSING INTERNS - A member of GOP leadership in the Tennessee House of Representatives was recently found guilty of sexually harassing at least one legislative intern, likely two, by an ethics subcommittee acting in secret, NewsChannel 5 Investigates has learned. Rep. Scotty Campbell, who serves as vice chair of the House Republican Caucus and who recently voted to expel three Democrats who engaged in a gun violence protest on the House floor, suffered no consequences because of his actions. Despite accusations of sometimes extremely vulgar comments and other inappropriate advances, Republicans did not remove the 39-year-old East Tennessee lawmaker from his leadership position nor from his committee assignments. But taxpayers have paid for his actions. NewsChannel 5 has learned that potentially thousands of dollars have been spent to protect one victim, relocating her from the downtown apartment building where she and Campbell both had apartments, shipping her furniture back home in another part of the state and placing her in a downtown hotel for the remainder of her internship. Legislative officials refused to say how much they have paid out, saying that information is confidential. Confronted with the allegations, referenced a second intern who was also involved in the investigation. NewsChannel 5 was previously unaware of that individual's complaint. Under the Tennessee General Assembly's own rules quietly placing a memo in a representative's personnel file is the only action that the ethics subcommittee can take upon a finding that he has engaged in improper conduct. Ethics subcommittee members are also barred from publicly discussing their proceedings. Campbell represents House District 3 in northeast Tennessee, which includes Johnson and parts of Carter, Hawkins and Sullivan counties. He served in the state House from 2010 to 2012, then he was re-elected in 2020 and again in 2022. He voted to expel the so-called Tennessee Three arguing, "If you were in court and behaved like those three did, you would have been found in contempt of court." Legislative interns are generally students from Tennessee colleges and universities. NewsChannel 5 is withholding the name, exact age and university of the victim in the sexual harassment investigation to protect her identity. The woman declined to comment for this story. But in an email, given to NewsChannel 5 Investigates by a family member, the victim provided a detailed account to officials at her university about her experiences with the Republican leader. For example, after seeing her and another 19-year-old female intern entering her apartment at the nearby Capitol Towers, the woman describes how Campbell later "made comments about how ... he was in his apartment imagining that we were performing sexual acts on one another and how it drove him crazy knowing that was happening so close to him." Campbell claims the woman is making everything up. Participants includes State Representative Scotty Campbell, R-Mountain City; Connie Ridley, director of legislative administration for Tennessee General Assembly.

5/1/26/2023	6 PM News (4:08)	INTERN INVOLVED IN SCOTTY CAMPBELL CONTROVERSY REVEALS MORE DETAILS - A sexual harassment scandal involving Tennessee state Rep. Scotty Campbell cost taxpayers at least $8,841, with part of that money being shelled out in cash, NewsChannel 5 Investigates has learned. As NewsChannel 5 previously reported, legislative officials relocated the college intern from the apartment building where she and the East Tennessee Republican each had apartments, placing her in an $189-night downtown hotel at taxpayer expense. "Although I am incredibly grateful, it feels as if they are trying to buy my silence," the intern related in an email sent to her university, describing her interactions with director of legislative administration Connie Ridley. "After coming forward, I was implored by director Ridley not to communicate about the instances with anyone." Ridley has declined to comment on the situation, citing a policy requiring complete confidentiality for the sexual harassment complaint process. According to the intern's account, she was given $935 in cash — $850 to cover the loss of her rental deposit and $85 to cover three days of prorated rent at Capitol Towers. In addition, NewsChannel 5 Investigates obtained receipts showing payments totaling $5,411.76 for a 22-day stay at the TownPlace Suites near the Tennessee state Capitol, including $42 a day for parking. We also obtained a receipt for $2,495 paid to Two Men and a Truck to move the intern's furniture out of the apartment and back to her home in another part of the state. The moving receipt indicates that Connie Ridley provided the credit card for those expenses; it is not clear who provided the credit card for the hotel stay. Tori Venable, state director for the low-tax group Americans for Prosperity, questioned whether there might not be other expenses that legislative officials are hiding. Whatever the number, Venable argued that taxpayers should not be on the hook for Campbell's misdeeds. Campbell was found to have violated the legislature's sexual harassment policy in a secret process by an ethics subcommittee. Even more potentially disturbing, the intern's email says she was told "that some version of this happens almost every year to an intern and that they rarely come forward or are silenced if they do." NewsChannel 5 is withholding the name, exact age and university of the victim in the sexual harassment investigation to protect her identity. Participants included Tori Venable, state director for the low-tax group Americans for Prosperity; Unidentified intern at the center of the controversy.
5/18/2023	Mayoral Debate (90 Minutes)	NASHVILLE MAYORAL DEBATE – WTVF provided 90 minutes of airtime from 5:30-7 PM for a debate between the eleven candidates running to fill Mayor John Cooper' seat. The debate was held in partnership with The Tennessean and Belmont University. This is the first in a planned series of three debates before Election Day on August 3 rd . In the field, current council people, former economic developers, Tennessee state senators and the current property assessor are running for the office. Among the participants are State Senators Jeff Yarbrow and Heidi Campbell. Metro Councilmembers Sharon Hurt and Freddie O'Connell benefit from the council being in the city's limelight over the last few months. Hurt supported a new Titans Stadium while O'Connell voted against it. Property Assessor Vivian Wilhoite has also served in public office for several years. Beyond that, political newcomers Matt Wiltshire and Jim Gingrich are banking that name recognition can be bought through TV ads. There are 4 African American candidates in the field. At present, there is no clear frontrunner so the debates can be a difference maker.

DATE/TIME	PROGRAM/DURATION	SUMMARY/PARTICIPANTS
5/22/2023	6 PM News (7:20)	"RIGGED" ELECTIONS AFFECT THOSE WHOSE VOICES REALLY MATTER - From Nashville celebrities to moms and dads, as well as schoolchildren, we have heard the pleas for Tennessee lawmakers to do something about gun violence. So why does it seem those lawmakers are not really listening? The heart of the problem, our investigation discovered, is how our elections, in the words of one prominent Republican, are "rigged." Lawmakers draw district lines to increase their party's chances of winning elections — a process known as "gerrymandering." Zach Wamp, the Republican who served eight terms in Congress and ran for governor, said gerrymandering does create districts that may not be in sync with voters. Wamp co-chairs Issue One, a group that champions reforms to fix our broken political system, including concerns over gerrymandering. When Wamp looks at the Tennessee General Assembly, he also sees members of his own party who have been able to solidify their grip on power by drawing district lines to their advantage. "The easiest way to win in elections," Wamp explained, "is if you have the pen in your hand and you get to draw the lines that you are running in, basically to choose your own voters. If you can do that, that's the easiest way to win." A lot of people think of Tennessee as a solid red Republican state. But, if you look at the last three presidential elections, Republicans tend to get about 60 percent of the vote, Democrats still get 40 percent." In the Tennessee House of Representatives, Republicans have drawn the lines, so they have 76% of the seats, giving them the power to shut off all debate. And, in the state Senate, it is even worse. Republicans control 82% of the seats. Then, there is the battle for Tennessee's nine seats in the U.S. House. Statewide, the Republican candidates got 65 percent of the votes, Democrats 35 percent. But because of gerrymandering, eight out of nine congressional districts — or 89% — went to Republicans. Tennessee's Republican supermajority, most who do not have to worry about winning general elections, have refused to consider any solutions to gun control. Wamp thinks it would be better if lawmakers would let someone else draw the district lines. With Tennesseans increasingly feeling that their legislature does not represent them, Wamp says failure to address this core issue will only increase the public sense that the legislature is out of touch with them and their lives. This is also an issue in some states controlled by Democrats. In eight states, citizen initiatives have resulted in the creation of nonpartisan commissions to redraw district lines. Another option that Zach Wamp has supported for almost 20 years is federal legislation to require it. But, with our divided government in Washington, that does not appear to be in the cards. Participants included Zach Wamp; co-chairs Issue One and longtime Tennessee Republican Congressman; Cameron Sexton, Tennessee Speaker of the House; Representative Gloria Johnson, D-Knoxville.

4/3/2023                      6 PM News (8:06)                      TENNESSEE'S NEVER-ENDING GUN DEBATE - UCT -The debate over guns in the Tennessee legislature has been a never-ending one: a mass shooting leads to debate, nothing happens, then the next mass shooting and the next debate. For more than a year, NewsChannel 5's "Revealed" investigation has taken a hard look at how Tennessee's Capitol Hill really works — or, in this case, does not work. After Nashville's Covenant School shooting, NewsChannel 5 Investigates began digging through six years of legislation. What we discovered are many bills over the years that most Tennesseans would consider to be common-sense solutions to try to protect the innocent. But Tennessee's Republican supermajority has repeatedly blocked those bills, arguing the need to protect gun rights. The mass shooting at the Covenant School followed years of debate over gun policy in the Tennessee legislature — debate that usually ended with nothing changing. It is sometimes said that the definition of insanity is doing the same thing repeatedly, expecting a different result. Critics say, in some ways, that is exactly what has happened here in the legislature when it comes to school shootings. Republicans always say the answer is more school security. Over and over, Tennessee's Republican majority refused to go along, with one member arguing that taking such a person's guns away might send them over the edge. Over and over, the result was the same: red flag bills were voted down. In recent years, Republicans have also blocked bills to fine gun owners who leave firearms in unlocked cars where they are often stolen and used in crimes. There was also a bill to simply require gun owners to notify police if a gun is lost or stolen. Failure to do so would have just required the person to take a gun safety class. Even that was voted down. Participants included State Senator Heidi Campbell D-Nashville; Karen Camper; Tennessee House Democratic Leader; State Representative Mike Stewart D-Nashville; John Harris, Executive Director, Tennessee Firearms Association.

4/12/2023                      6 AM News (2:15)                      STUDY FINDS MORE THAN HALF OF FAMILIES HAVE BEEN AFFECTED BY GUN VIOLENCE - The impact of gun violence is weighing heavily on communities across the nation. A new study from the Kaiser Family Foundation found more than half of American families say they have been affected somehow. From those surveyed 19 percent said they lost a family member to gun violence, which includes homicides and suicides, 21 percent had been threatened with a gun at some point and 17 percent had witnessed someone being injured in a shooting. In all, 54 percent said they or a family member have had one of these experiences. The study also found that gun violence is disproportionately affecting people of color. About a third of Black adults had witnessed someone being shot. All of this being released as the CDC recently listed guns as the leading cause of death for children and teens. The rising numbers come as Governor Bill Lee recently proposed a type of red flag law and signed an executive order expanding background checks.

4/12/2023                      6 PM News (4:26)                      SHOULD THE GOVERNOR CLEAR A MAN WHOSE CONVICTION WAS THROWN OUT -

A man, who spent seven years in prison for raping a child, is now asking Gov. Bill Lee to exonerate him to clear his name. But before the case could be sent to the governor's office, William Arnold had to go before the Tennessee Board of Parole and face his accuser once again at a recent hearing. Because of the sensitive nature of the allegations in this case, we are choosing not to identify the accuser. Arnold, now 50, was accused in 2011 by a young man he had been mentoring through the Big Brothers Big Sisters program, of sexual battery and rape. Arnold was arrested, convicted and sent to prison though he continued to maintain his innocence. Then in 2020, the Tennessee Court of Appeals overturned his conviction, citing in a lengthy ruling, misconduct by the prosecutors. The Davidson County District Attorney's Conviction Review Team then told a judge it would not retry the case because they "no longer had confidence in Arnold's conviction and his guilt." Now after serving nearly seven years of a 25-year sentence, Arnold wants to start his life again with a clean slate. Arnold's attorney explained to the board that this was a case of two men named William: Arnold and a teenager also named William, who was in a sexual relationship with the accuser at about the same time. The accuser's mother fought back tears as she spoke and was followed by several relatives as well as the lawyers who are representing the accuser and his mother in a multi-million-dollar lawsuit against Arnold and the Big Brothers Big Sisters organization. The board listened for three hours and then, the board members each gave their opinions. Only one member voted that Governor Lee exonerate Arnold. Despite the Board's vote, Arnold's case is still being forwarded to the governor who is not bound by the Board's decision. The governor could still decide to grant exoneration. If that does not happen, the board told Arnold that if he discovers new evidence in the case, he is welcome to come back and reapply. Participants included William Arnold, conviction was overturned; John Perry, attorney for Arnold; unidentified mother of Arnold's accuser; Tim Gobble and Zane Duncan, members of Tennessee Board of Parole.

4/19/2023                      6 PM News (5:22)                      TENNESSEE'S OTHER GUN CRISIS – FIREARMS STOLEN FROM CARS, USED

AGAINST INNOCENT VICTIMS – According to statistics from Everytown Research & Policy, two Tennessee cities — Memphis and Chattanooga — have the highest rate of gun thefts from vehicles in the country. Two other cities — Jackson and Nashville — round out the top 15. Those stolen weapons, police say, are often used against innocent victims. Newly updated numbers from Metro Nashville police show the number of guns stolen from cars has skyrocketed from 576 in 2017 to more than 1,300 last year. This whole problem stems from a 2014 law, pushed by the gun lobby, to allow guns in cars. The law required that those firearms had to be locked up and out of sight, but there was no penalty for those that chose to ignore that law. Year after year, Republican lawmakers have refused to do anything about it. Participants included State Representative Caleb Hemmer, D-Nashville; Deb and Larry Yorlets, their son Kyle was killed by a weapon stolen from a car; John Harris, Tennessee Firearms Association.

4/26/2023                      6 PM News (3:59)                      MOTHER OF BEATING VICTIM BLASTS PROSECUTORS AFTER CAMPAIGN FINANCE DONATION FROM SUSPECT'S FAMILY - A judge has reversed his decision in a violent assault case after questions raised by NewsChannel 5 Investigates. Specially appointed judge Max Fagan ruled in February to "nolle prosequi" or end prosecution against four men charged with a felony in the beating of a juvenile in a motel parking lot two years ago. Judge Fagan made the ruling after prosecutors in District Attorney Glenn Funk's office provided little information about the case and did not argue in favor of prosecuting the case. But in March, after NewsChannel 5 Investigates started asking questions, Judge Fagan reversed his ruling and put the four cases back on the court docket. Anna Jimenez said the four men who attacked her son two years ago should face consequences. Police arrested four men after the attack. Donta Holt, Kenneth Smotherman, Ched Smotherman and Corey Moseley were all charged with a felony. But as we first reported after the arrest, Corey Moseley's father donated $500 to Judge Rachel Bell's re-election campaign. His father, Ronald Moseley, gave another $500 to District Attorney Glenn Funk's campaign. Their cases were transferred to the CARES Court, which allows them to eventually wipe the arrests off their records. NewsChannel 5 Investigates asked Jimenez, "Why do you think they aren't in jail?" Jimenez responded, "I guess they got more money than us or something's going on." A spokesperson for District Attorney Glenn Funk said Funk did not know about the campaign contribution until our questions. None of the judges in Davidson County wanted to touch the controversial case after Judge Bell recused herself, so former Robertson County Judge Max Fagan was appointed to hear the case. Jimenez believes the District Attorney Glenn Funk's office would have dropped the cases long ago if we had not kept asking questions. She wants Funk to recuse himself just like Judge Bell did because he took a campaign contribution from the suspect's father. District Attorney Glenn Funk's office said in a statement that General Funk "knows of absolutely no connection between a donor and a defendant in this case. Therefore, there is no need for recusal." Participants included Anna Jimenez; mother of juvenile beating victim and Robertson County Judge Max Fagan.

5/11/2023                      6 PM News (5:26)                      DID A DISGRACED NASHVILLE MEDICAL EXAMINER PUT AN INNOCENT MAN ON DEATH ROW – Did bogus testimony from a disgraced medical examiner put an innocent man on death row? Attorneys for Gary Wayne Sutton worry he will be among the first to get an execution date when the state resumes executions. Sutton's case has a close connection to disgraced Nashville medical examiner Charles Harlan, who had his license revoked back in 2005. Harlan played a key role in Sutton's 1996 murder trial and other murder trials across the state. Harlan died in 2013, but Sutton's attorneys argue his flawed testimony should not lead to Sutton's execution. Sutton was arrested back in 1992 for the murder of Tommy Griffin. It did not take long for police to arrest Gary Wayne Sutton. Longtime friend Carolyn Miller was with Sutton when he was arrested and is certain he is innocent. NewsChannel 5 Investigates asked Miller, "How can you be sure he did not do it?" Miller responded, "Because I was with him that weekend." A key part of the prosecution's case in the 1996 murder trial was a timeline that included when Griffin died. Tommy Griffin's body was discovered on a Monday morning, but prosecutors said he was murdered three days earlier on Friday night. But when Griffin's body was discovered Monday morning, first responders said the gunshot wound seemed fresh and the body was in full rigor mortis. A former Blount County medical examiner, Dr. Wolfe, testified at trial that Griffin was likely dead only 24 to 36 hours which destroyed the prosecution's theory of what happened. Miller said the whole trial turned when prosecutors called Dr. Charles Harlan as a surprise witness. Harlan told jurors Griffin was likely shot on Friday night. He never examined the body and said he made his determination based on slides of organs. Knox County's current medical examiner has since testified determining death based on slides of organs is "not the recognized science." Jurors seemed to believe it based in part on the fact prosecutors touted Harlan as the state's chief medical examiner. Harlan testified that he was the state's chief medical examiner even though he had been fired from that position. Prosecutors have said they did not know Harlan was under investigation by the TBI for incompetence when he testified at the 1996 trial. In fact, when he testified, he had been banned from the TBI crime lab. Participants included Carolyn Miller, longtime friend of convicted murderer Gary Wayne Sutton; Susan Bales; attorney for Gary Wayne Sutton; Stella Whitted, sister of murder victim Tommy Griffin.

SECURITY COMPANY VOWS TO MAKE CHANGES AFTER HIRING UNLICENSED

GUARDS - Security company CEO Jack Byrd III tells NewsChannel5 Investigates he is considering big changes after being accused of hiring unlicensed security guards in Downtown Nashville. You have seen them sitting outside bars and even patrolling Downtown Nashville, but can you tell which one of them armed with a badge and a gun, is a certified police officer? Neither can we. He has been accused of hiring unlicensed security guards, some of whom have been accused of posing as police officers in Downtown Nashville. Byrd says he will now require all his security guards to obtain their security guard's license after NewsChannel 5 Investigates questioned exemptions he used to go around Tennessee law. Byrd sat down with NewsChannel 5 Investigates to discuss his concern over several security guards wearing "police," who may not be law enforcement at all. Byrd showed us examples of several badges he is seen used on Broadway. He also shared his Solaren badges. One had security written across the top, while the other had police. He says without making the distinction clear, people are left to wonder whether the person they have turned to for help is even equipped to do the job. Byrd is not a certified police officer in Tennessee, even though he worked as a reserve officer with the Millersville Police Department in 2022. Reserve officers can work up to 20 hours a week and must be supervised by a certified officer. Anything beyond 20 hours a week requires an officer to be certified by the state. Byrd believes he and members of his team were exempt from rules about who can wear something that makes them appear to be police because he was a reserve officer. Byrd handed us multiple attorney general opinions, but even these opinions agree with Tennessee law that, "yes, only full-time, sworn police officers are exempted from obtaining an armed security guard's license." They also agreed that "the clear intent of the statute is to prohibit private security guards from wearing uniforms or other insignia that may lead the public to believe that they are acting as sworn peace officers of any law enforcement agency." To be a full-time sworn police officer in Tennessee, you must be certified, which means you have done all the training and gone through the academy. Byrd has done neither of those things. Participants included Jack Byrd III, CEO of Solaren Risk Management; State Representative Bill Beck.

DIRECTOR OF HOMELESS SHELTER WAS ARRESTED AND ACCUSED OF

EXPLOITING PEOPLE – Brenda Knight, the director of a homeless shelter in Shelbyville has been arrested. She is accused of taking advantage of the people she was supposed to be helping. But she maintains it's all a big misunderstanding. Castle Ministries runs the Open Hands shelter for men, a separate shelter for women, a thrift store and Bible classes — all in Shelbyville. But police arrested Knight last week and charged her with financial exploitation of the homeless and elderly and theft over $1,000. The police department has been investigating a series of complaints from both current and former residents of the shelters who have told police that before they could move in, Knight required them to clear out their bank accounts and give her all of their money. She apparently told them she would manage it, but according to police, she did not always give it all back. Knight also reportedly has charged people to stay in the shelters, calling them "bed fees." Castle Ministries is a nonprofit. Police said financial records seized during their search of its various properties showed the organization takes in tens of thousands of dollars a year in donations from local businesses, individuals and churches. They also collected "bed fees" of $35,000 last year. While Knight insisted bed fees are pretty common, we checked with two homeless organizations in Nashville, the Nashville Rescue Mission and Safe Haven. Both told us they never charge their residents for any sort of service, not their food and definitely not their bed. Participants included Brenda Knight, director of Castle Ministries; Samuel Campbell, Shelbyville Police Detective; Lauren Kernen, her grandfather and son were refused a spot at the shelter.

4/25/2023	6 PM News (3:23)	NASHVILLE LAB RAMPS UP XYLAZINE TESTING INCREASINGLY DETECTED IN DRUG OVERDOSES - It is an animal tranquilizer now being found in illicit drugs. Known as 'tranq', the drug is being detected in opioid supplies like fentanyl across the country. According to a White House press release, xylazine-positive overdose deaths increased by 1,127% in the South, 750% in the west, more than 500% in the Midwest, and more than 100% in the northeast between 2020 and 2021. But unlike opioids, Xylazine cannot be reversed by Naloxone. Aegis began expanding testing for drugs like xylazine about a year ago. Since then, positivity rates have increased — so has demand for testing. "So, providers are utilizing our test results to understand what sort of exposure or use has occurred in that individual to better make decisions going forward as to how to appropriately treat that person," Dr. Josh Schrecker said. As one of the only labs that offers this kind of testing, Aegis tests about 4,000 samples a month that are shipped throughout the country. But as with most trends, Schrecker said the drug supply may change. "So, in six months, eight months, 12 months we're likely going to be dealing with a different drug that has different effects. We need to be prepared for that." Despite modest numbers in Nashville, deadly overdoses connected to 'tranq' are on the rise. In 2019, xylazine was detected in six fatal overdoses. By 2022, the drug was detected in 40 deadly overdoses. Participants included Dr. Josh Schrecker, senior director of clinical affairs, Aegis Sciences Corporation.

After nearly two decades on dialysis, Sandra Stamps, a Tennessee teacher has a new kidney. There are nine kidney transplant centers in the state, but most doctors ruled out Sandra Stamps because of her weight. Stamps has a rare kidney disease called focal segmental glomerulosclerosis. For the past 19 years, the Chattanooga biology teacher spent three long nights a week at a dialysis center. Stamps' surgeon, Dr. Derek Moore said it is very uncommon to be on dialysis for as long as she did. Dr. Moore said one reason he took Stamps on as a patient was that she was extremely motivated. Stamps wants people who learn about her story to take away that with your health you should never settle. "You're eventually going to find the person that's going to give you the attention you need because you deserve it. They are going to give you the correct healthcare because you deserve it," Stamps said. The story gave details on how viewers can register online to be an organ donor so that when you die you can give to someone in need. It is also possible to donate a kidney or piece of your liver while you are alive. 5/8/2023	6 PM News (4:55)	RUMORS SWIRL ABOUT THE POTENTIAL SALE OF LONG-TIME NONPROFIT ALIVE HOSPICE - For nearly 50 years, Alive Hospice has helped thousands of people in Middle Tennessee transition from life to death and help their loved one's cope with the loss. But now, there's growing concern about what the future holds for Alive Hospice. Rumors are swirling that the long-time Nashville nonprofit will be sold to a for-profit company. Alive Hospice will not say whether that is true, but supporters worry about what a change like that would mean. Alive has a 30-bed residence in downtown Nashville, another smaller one in Murfreesboro, and it also provides care to countless others in their own homes in 12 Middle Tennessee counties. David Barton and his wife, Lynn, along with another Vanderbilt doctor, started Alive Hospice nearly 50 years ago. At the time, it was only the third hospice in the country and the first in the Southeast. They set it up as a nonprofit so hospice teams could spend as much time as necessary, caring for patients and their families in their final days. Alive has always provided care to every patient who needed it, regardless of their ability to pay. But the Bartons fear that if Alive is sold, the focus will turn from patients to profit. Some believe for-profit hospice companies only take the patients from whom they think they can make the most money. Others point to a recent study by the Rand Corporation which found "Patients receiving care from for-profit hospices have substantially worse care experiences than patients...(at) not-for-profit hospices." Now those who want to keep Alive Hospice a nonprofit have paid for billboards along West End Avenue. And they have a petition going on Change.org that already has a couple thousand signatures. But it is not entirely clear whether Alive is in fact about to be sold. Alive declined our request for an interview. What we do know is that the sale will not be happening within the next month and a half. Under Tennessee law, the Attorney General must be notified in writing 45 days before a nonprofit is sold and then the AG must approve the sale. But the AG's Office tells NewsChannel 5 Investigates that while they are "looking into this (the sale rumors)," at this point, the Office has not received any written notification of a sale. If Alive is in fact for sale, longtime supporters want to know why. They say if the organization is having financial problems, they want to help. But, according to Alive's financial records which are public, it is in decent shape. The other thing supporters fear is that a new owner will sell the downtown residence because the property is so valuable. Supporters insist the location is perfect because it is so close to the hospitals that send patients there. Participants included Mary Falls, longtime Alive Hospice board member; David and Lynn Barton; started Alive Hospice nearly 50 years ago; Heather Wills, Alive Hospice nurse.
5/17/2023	6 AM News (2:28)	CONCERN GROWS AROUND HEALTH CARE WORKER SHORTAGE - The health care industry continues to face a shortage of workers and it is prompting some lawmakers and experts to sound the alarm. A new report shows thousands of doctors are needed to meet the demand nationwide. Shortages are not new to this field, but only got worse because of the pandemic. Newly released data shows nationwide more than 17,000 additional primary care, 12,000 dental health and 8,200 mental health practitioners are needed to combat the shortage. Leaders of historically Black medical schools are also calling for more funding to train a more diverse workforce. If the decline continues, the U.S. is projected to face a shortage of up to 124,000 physicians by 2034 as the demand outpaces supply, according to the Association of American Medical Colleges. This news comes as locally headquartered HCA recently announced a $300 million investment to help build the next generation of nurses. More than $200 million will go towards expanding the Galen College of Nursing. The rest will go towards opening new centers that are dedicated to helping practicing nurses advance their skills and careers. Some lawmakers worry if there is not an uptick in numbers, the nation would not be able to fight future pandemics.

They are calling it Angel 7. It was added to better serve Tennessee families. It is the sixth ambulance in the hospital's fleet but is the first to offer ECMO transport. The addition means Vanderbilt is now the first pediatric transport team in the state to offer this specialized ground transport for its patients. ECMO is a form of life support that does the work of the heart and lungs while giving the body time to rest and recover. Adding Angel 7 to the fleet supports the hospital's growing Neonatal and Pediatric Transport team and allows them to deliver an elevated level of care to patients sooner and throughout transport. It can safely transport any age patient, especially critical patients and can also be utilized for critical care patient transfers. The care team will consist of two ECMO specialists, a transport nurse, transport respiratory therapist, an advanced EMT and a physician. 5/23/2023	6 PM News (4:59)	MENTAL HEALTH SYSTEM FAILS FAMILY - Elizabeth Frensley will never forget consoling her son after he learned he killed his father. Nearly two years ago, firefighters rushed to the Brentwood home of James Hassey. He lived with his 26-year-old son John Hassey. When firefighters arrived, John was outside looking at the burning home. Neighbors say they asked John if anyone else was inside, and he said there was. John did not try to save his father because he did not believe any of it was real. Investigators determined John started the fire in his room, and it quickly spread through the house. John was charged with murder, but a judge found him "not guilty by reason of insanity," which his family supported. John is now in a mental hospital getting treatment for several mental illnesses including bipolar disorder. It is treatment his family tried to get him for years. "It could have been stopped had the mental health system done what it should have done and intercepted this when the signs were there," said attorney David Raybin. Raybin represented John and saw how he had been in and out of multiple mental health facilities over the years. "His mother begged them: 'Please don't release him, he's not ready to go.' 'Well ma'am, he doesn't meet the commitment standard any longer, take him home'," Raybin said. He said there were so many warning signs. John's family had money for treatment, and his mom is an ICU nurse who knows the healthcare system. But even with all of that, John never got the help he needed. Metro's Mental Health Court tracked people involuntarily committed to mental hospitals over a four-year period from 2019 until 2022. Take "Nataly," not her real name. She was committed and released 39 separate times. "Kane," was committed and released 28 times. He also went to jail seven times. And "Patricia," was committed and released 26 separate times over the four-year period. That is why Elizabeth Frensley is speaking out. She knows there are others out there that the system is failing. She said as lawmakers talk about mental health issues they should address the lack of available care, and she hopes people will be more open to talk about mental illness. John agreed to let his mom share his story for the same reasons. The family hopes to end the stigma surrounding severe mental illness. Participants included Elizabeth Frensley, mother of John Hassey who killed his father but was declared insane; David Raybin, attorney for John Hassey.
6/1/2023	6 PM News (2:59)	HOW DID A LOCAL MAN GET CAUGHT ON FIRE AT NASHVILLE HOSPITAL - How could it happen? That is the question at the heart of a high-profile malpractice lawsuit filed after a patient, Bobby Ray, caught fire at Tristar Centennial Medical Center in Nashville. A patient bursting into flames is, thankfully, rare. The how is important to prevent it from occurring again. It was Thanksgiving Day last year. Stark says her husband Bobby Ray was a cardiac patient. He was hospitalized with an oxygen mask when staff activated a defibrillator to restore a regular heartbeat. "They put pads on him and left the mask on him and pushed the shock button, and there's a spark and he catches fire," said malpractice attorney Clint Kelly. Bobby Ray did not survive. The medical examiner found a combination of cardiovascular disease and thermal burns as the cause of death. How did it happen? In the lawsuit, Kelly argues it was not an equipment malfunction, but a mistake by the staff for not removing the mask and turning off the oxygen before shocking his heart. That the cloud of oxygen around his body turned the spark into flames. Centennial has yet to respond directly to the lawsuit. In a brief statement, the hospital did say it was reviewing the care provided to the patient and the functionality of the equipment. The Stark family is suing not only on behalf of Bobby Ray, who died but also for his wife Kathy, who witnessed the entire ordeal. Participants included Kathy and Joyce Stark; wife and daughter of man who caught on fire; Clint Kelly, malpractice attorney representing the Stark family.

6/7/2023	6 PM News (3:40)	ALIVE HOSPICE CONFIRMS IT WILL REMAIN A NONPROFIT - FIRE AT NASHVILLE HOSPITAL - The Alive Hospice Board was supposed to vote Wednesday evening on whether to sell the longtime nonprofit to a for-profit company. That all changed late Tuesday. That was when it was announced the vote was canceled after board leadership decided to keep Alive as it is and has always been — a nonprofit. While Alive would never confirm the sale, it had been rumored for weeks and prompted a grassroots movement that fought the rumored sale. Members of the group "Keep Alive Alive" hugged and smiled in front of the Alive Hospice residence in midtown Wednesday. NewsChannel 5 Investigates asked Clark Baker who has been on the Alive board now for 14 years, "Had the voting gone ahead, how would you have voted?" Baker said he was not legally allowed to discuss who made a bid for Alive, but he did reveal the board has considered a variety of offers the last three years, including at least one from a for-profit company." Alive would have been negligent in its responsibilities not to look into options, not to look into other ways of serving the community," he said. But those who worked to stop the sale feared that dying patients and their families would suffer tremendously if a for-profit company took over, that Alive would no longer be able to provide the kind of care it is known for, including charity care. For weeks, the group calling itself "Keep Alive Alive" called on the board to keep the organization a nonprofit. They put up billboards on West End, started an online petition, and got stars like Tim McGraw and Faith Hill to write letters. Baker added that the cost of hospice care is continuing to climb and Alive depends on donations, especially to provide charity care. He hopes now that the sale issue has been settled, the community will continue to support Alive financially and be generous in the days, weeks and months ahead. Participants included David Barton, founder of Alive Hospice; Heather Wills and Jessica Blagys, Alive Hospice nurses; Clark Baker and Mary Falls, Alive Hospice board members; Susan Simons and Liz Schatzlein, former Alive Hospice board members.
6/19/2023	6 PM News (3:30)	DOCTORS LOSES MEDICAL LICENSE AFTER SIGNING A COVID VACCINE WAIVER FOR A DOG - A Tennessee doctor, Dr. Robert Coble, has lost his medical license after a NewsChannel 5 investigation exposed what he was doing during the height of the pandemic. You probably remember after the Covid vaccine became available, some businesses and schools required Covid shots before you could return to the office or classroom. But Coble offered a way around that requirement to those who did not want the vaccine. Back in 2021, NewsChannel 5 Investigates discovered Dr. Robert Coble's name, Tennessee medical license number, and apparent signature on Covid vaccine waivers being sold online. These waivers gave people wary of the Covid 19 shot a way to get out of having to get one. According to the state Health Department, 76-year-old Coble has agreed to surrender his medical license, rather than having it revoked by the Tennessee Board of Medical Examiners. The Board began its own investigation after NewsChannel 5 Investigates exposed that essentially anyone could get one of these waivers, even a dog. Coble was working in late 2021 for a Hendersonville company calling itself MedChoice. This company was selling what it described as "handwritten medical waivers personally reviewed and signed by a licensed physician." We found that to get one of these waivers, you did not need any sort of contact or prior relationship with that doctor. All you had to do was select from a list of options the reason you did not want the vaccine. We selected an option for Charlie, a black Labrador retriever, that said he had an irrational fear of needles. We then paid $139 and within days, Charlie received a personalized waiver. It looked like a medical prescription form with a handwritten note. "Charlie should not receive any Covid vaccine," the note said. Dr. Coble signed it. We also received a laminated "waiver" card that said Charlie was "certified medically exempt from the Covid vaccination," once again signed by Dr. Coble. More than a year a half later, we know that Coble signed waivers for MedChoice customers not only in Tennessee, but "other states including Maine and Washington," according to the state Medical Board's findings. He was only licensed to practice medicine in Tennessee. We also learned from a statement from the board that if a waiver was rejected by a customer's HR or school health department, Coble would try to contact the department and reverse their decision. Now, the same signature on Charlie the dog's Covid waiver is at the bottom of the Consent Order, where Coble has agreed to not only pay a $1,000 fine, but also give up practicing medicine in Tennessee after 47 years.

The medical center was asked to turn over the records of 160 TennCare patients who had received transgender care services since January 1, 2018. The Tennessee Attorney General's Office gave a reason for the investigation. It said their investigation stems from a doctor apparently publicly describing her manipulation of medical billing codes to evade coverage limitations on gender-related treatment. Still, there's concern among some transgender Tennesseans about what could come of the disclosure. In past cases, in other states, medical records of transgender people have ended up in the wrong hands and there's concern that could happen in this case. Although the medical center only notified patients in mid-June that their records were shared, VUMC started producing medical records more than six months ago. People who received a notice from Vanderbilt that their medical records are part of the state investigation and who want to know more about their rights can contact the ACLU, PFLAG, the Tennessee Equality Project or Lambda Legal. One bill, SB1043, created following the Taylor Swift ticket debacle is making its way through the Senate. The bill aims to make ticket websites, like Ticketmaster, more transparent with consumers. Bill co-sponsor Heidi Campbell said this would address making the first price a consumer sees to be the final amount the consumer pays, with no surprises during checkout. "You start looking for tickets and once you get to the ticketing website, you find seats that look to be in your price range. There is a timer on the website counting down the minutes before the tickets you are looking at are released, you start to get nervous if you can complete the purchase before your time runs out," said Campbell. "But when you finally get ready to check out, you see the price of your ticket has gone up significantly due to multiple fees. The tickets are now out of your price range." Those sponsoring the legislation said it is necessary that Tennessee takes a leadership role in making sure the concert and entertainment industry remains fair for fans and artists. "The number of ticket marketplaces continues to grow, but consumers have difficulty comparing prices across various marketplaces that disclose fees and pricing differently," said Campbell. "This bill simplifies the ticket purchasing process for the consumer, and mandates transparent pricing." Participants included State Senator Heidi Campbell.

Some did not realize the error until they tried to enter the gates at the stadium and their tickets would not scan. "We originally ordered our tickets from this guy, and he seemed legit," said Jacey Smith, a Taylor Swift fan. "We ordered four tickets and only two transferred. We have been worrying and worrying, and now we have driven so far and now we may not be able to get in." Smith and her friends were left to decide which two of them could attend the concert, and which two would be left out. Some fans had a scare when their tickets would not scan, but they were able to figure out what was causing the problem. Others said they were cautious about where they purchased their tickets, but still got scammed, and warned other fans to be vigilant. "She [the seller] seemed legit, and we sent the money, and she ghosted us," said Amber Rehl, a Taylor Swift fan. Officials with the Better Business Bureau of Middle Tennessee and Southern Kentucky (BBB) said scammers will always look to take advantage of consumers when they know demand for an event is high. Officials said tickets should only be bought from the venue directly, or a reputable ticket source. Fans should ignore tickets sold on Facebook marketplace, pop up ads, or unsolicited text messages. TENNESSEE SENATE VOTES TO AMEND CONTROVERSIAL THIRD GRADE

RETENTION LAW -The Tennessee Senate has voted to make major changes to a controversial law that requires third graders to repeat a grade, based on the results of just one test. During the floor debate, members of both parties appeared to agree: the current law is not sitting well with parents. Tamera Miles told NewsChannel 5 the same, back in January. The MNPS parent got word from her child's school that she would likely have to repeat the third grade. That is because, under the current law, any student who scores poorly on the reading portion of the TCAP test has to either repeat the third grade or participate in summer tutoring. While lawmakers could agree on needed changes, what changes to make is where disagreement returned. Democrats pushed to get rid of the retention law altogether, given some of the unintended consequences. The new bill, SB 300, lets students get up to three chances to take other state tests and potentially score better to avoid repeating the grade. The bill also sets up an appeal process for parents to ask for a waiver. SB 300 passed the full Senate, but perhaps Sen. Ken Yager summed it up best. For a law that has been controversial among parents, these may not be the only changes they make. The bill will now be up to the House of Representatives. Regardless of what the legislature decides over the next few days, current third graders will still have to abide by the current state law. Changes will not go into effect until the 2023-2024 school year. Participants included Tamera Miles, concerned parent and State Senators Rusty Crowe (R-Johnson City), Jeff Yarbrow (D-Nashville), Todd Gardenhire (R-Chattanooga), Jon Lundberg (R-Bristol), Ken Yager (R-Kingston) and Adam Low (R-Calhoun).

- The community is rallying around a high school senior after they were not allowed to attend their prom over the weekend. The teen, B Hayes, 18, posted on social media that they were denied for wearing a suit to prom. Nashville Christian School said that B was breaking their dress code, so they were denied entry. "My name is B Hayes," B wrote on the post. "I'm 18 years old, and I've been attending Nashville Christian School for 13 years. My senior prom was today, and I was not allowed in the doors because I was wearing a suit. I should not have to conform to femininity to attend my senior prom. I will not compromise who I am to fit in a box. Who are you to tell us what it means to be a woman?" AB Hillsboro Village owners Marcie Allen and Derek Van Mol know prom is something every high school student deserves to experience. It is why they were drawn to B's post. It so touched them, the Van Mol's decided to offer up their venue to B and 25 of their friends for the ultimate prom at no cost to them. The support for B continues to come in with thousands of companies are offering up their services for free. AB Hillsboro Village has launched a GoFundMe to help pay for the "Ultimate Prom." The costs will cover all things prom. Any money left over will go to benefit the Oasis Center & Inclusion Tennessee, organizations selected by B Hayes. NewsChannel 5 reached out to Nashville Christian School about B's post. AS TCAP SCORES ARRIVE, HERE IS WHAT PARENTS OF THIRD GRADERS NEED TO KNOW -- Over the next few days, parents of third-grade students in Tennessee will be glued to their phones and email accounts, waiting on test results from the TCAP test. Under the new controversial Third Grade Retention Law in Tennessee, the results of that test could determine whether a student goes on to fourth grade, has to do summer school and tutoring or even repeats the grade. If your student scores below or approaching grade level on the TCAP English Language Arts portion of the test, it does not mean they automatically repeat the grade. Your student could qualify for an exemption. Under the new law, if your student is an English learner with less than two years of ELA classes, they have previously been retained in grades K-3, or they have a diagnosed or suspected disability that impacts reading — they move on to fourth grade. If your student scores "approaching grade level" on the TCAP test, students can either retake the test and if they score better, they can move on to the fourth grade. They can also enroll in a month-long summer camp, and if they attend 90% or more of the classes, they can proceed to fourth. Parents can also file an appeal within 14 days. If your student scores "below grade level" on the TCAP, they can also retest and potentially move on to fourth grade if their new score is high enough. Otherwise, they will have to attend the summer camp and receive fourth grade tutoring. Participants included Bart Barker, spokesperson for Wilson County Schools.

WHEN WILL TCAP RESULTS BE GIVEN TO PARENTS - Third-grade parents across

Middle Tennessee will soon learn if their kid could have to repeat the grade. This follows the new retention law based on TCAP results. Maury County told News Channel 5 they estimate a little more than a third of their third graders may need summer school. The percentage they estimated was 35% to 40%. They said they are looking at their data, talking it out with administrators and then will reach out to parents. Williamson County parents will hear from the district by noon today in an email. They did not provide any hard numbers, but they said the email will say how the students did on the English Language Arts section of TCAP. Also, if retests or interventions will be needed before fourth grade. Metro Schools said they will talk to parents about scores today. "We understand the anxiety and frustration that students, parents, and teachers are feeling because of the state's 3rd grade retention law and the lack of the assessment results that will not only inform summer plans but that also could have a dramatic impact on a students' futures. We had hoped to provide information to families Friday before school dismissal, but TDOE did not provide the data by the time elementary schools dismissed for the day. Students who score in the 'below' or 'approaching' categories on the 3rd grade ELA portion of TCAP will be provided a re-take examination at their schools between Monday, May 22, and Wednesday, May 24, for a chance to improve their score before the end of the school year," the district said in a statement.

6 PM News (2:07)

FAMILIES CAN NOW APPEAL TCAP TEST RESULTS - Around the state, anxious parents of third graders who just missed the cutoff for the TCAP reading exam can now file an appeal. The parent appeal form went live on the Tennessee Department of Education's website on Tuesday. Appeals are accepted through June 30. The online appeals process begins with an overview of the appeal, then a few messages, including who is eligible. Only students who received an "approaching" score on the TCAP can appeal. If every student that is eligible applied, that would account for about one out of every three third graders in Tennessee. On the form itself, parents fill out their contact info, the school and district the student attends, the student's state ID which can be found on a report card and finally the reason for the appeal. There are only two acceptable reasons for an appeal: A student either scored at or above the 40th percentile on their spring universal reading screener or a catastrophic situation affected their performance on the TCAP ELA test. According to the state, a catastrophic situation could be a death in the immediate family, loss of a family home, or a significant medical diagnosis. Other situations will also be considered. Since there is not a place to argue that a student received good grades during the school year, signing up for summer school while they still can is probably a good idea. Metro Nashville's summer school program starts Thursday. The district is expecting more than 3,800 third graders, which is more than a third of last year's K-8 total. The state says not planning for your student will more than likely result in them being held back. Meanwhile, if an appeal is approved, the student might be promoted to fourth grade, but not prioritized next year for learning supports, like free tutoring.

6/9/2023	6 PM News (4:07)	KIDS CONTINUED TO LIVE IN APPALLING HOME DESPIT MULTIPLE COMPLAINTS TO DCS -As Rutherford County Sheriff's deputies talked with Melinda Fultz in late April, two of her young boys came to the door. The deputy noticed the boys looked "extremely filthy" and had "multiple bruises" and "30 plus bug bites," according to his report. He asked Fultz to see the house. When he stepped inside, he discovered a mess. He saw "dog feces on the floor, large piles of clothes and trash scattered about the house, along with bugs on the walls." By that evening Melinda Fultz was charged with three counts of felony child abuse and neglect for a child under six years old. Video obtained by NewsChannel 5 Investigates shows the condition of the home days after the arrest. Trash bags were piled up in the kitchen. Dog waste and even old dirty diapers were ground into the floor. Bridget Lafleur said she made multiple complaints to DCS about the home over the last year and a half, but DCS never removed the kids. Lafleur is engaged to Melinda Fultz's brother and had visited the home several times. She showed NewsChannel 5 Investigates complaints she filed with DCS that she said were marked as closed hours later. DCS said in a statement it could not comment on the specific case, but a closed case indicates it was investigated, and sometimes services like "assistance with clean-up and parenting education" are provided. DCS also stated, "after a case is closed it doesn't have jurisdiction to continue random checks." Lafleur said there is no excuse for letting kids live in the home after multiple reports about problems. Now Lafleur and her fiancée are caring for all four young children in their townhouse. After the arrests, they agreed to take the kids as part of a Temporary Emergency Placement. But Lafleur and her fiancée get no money from the state despite taking on four young kids with severe medical and emotional needs. Lafleur worries the state failed the four young kids by leaving them in the home for there so long, and now it is failing them again by not helping with the care they desperately need. Participants included Bridget Lafleur, made several complaints to DCS about conditions children were living in.

04/08/23 48 HOURS: “Katrina Brownlee: The Good Cop” (9:00 – 10:00p) – an interview/profile of Katrina Cooke Brownlee, who retired in 2021 as one of the New York City Police Department’s top-ranked detectives. In her first primetime television interview, Brownlee details the abuse she suffered, how she met the so-called blue wall of silence, how she fought to live and how she vowed to be a good police officer. When she was 22 years old, Brownlee, a mother to two daughters, lived with her then-fiancé, Alex Irvin, a New York City correction officer at Rikers Island. She says that every time she called the police after Irvin abused her, they would leave without acting. On January 9th, 1993, a pregnant Brownlee met Irvin at the Medford, Long Island home they formally shared. Irvin, she says, had a weird look on his face. He shot Brownlee five times, reloaded his gun and shot five more times. A family friend of Irvin’s who happened to stop by saw Brownlee bleeding and insisted on taking her to the hospital. Investigators initially thought Brownlee would die, but she survived. Irvin eventually pled guilty to all charges and was sentenced to only 5 to 15 years in prison; he was released after serving 10 years. It would take months, but Brownlee learned how to walk again. During that time Brownlee decided to change the system that let her down and became a police officer in 2001. Brownlee became a top-ranked detective and one of the few Black women in the NYPD chosen to protect a New York City mayor; she even kept her history of being abused from then-Mayor Bill de Blasio until their last meeting together. Brownlee continues to work on her organization, “Young Ladies of Our Future.” Original on-screen text graphic: Katrina has just finished a book about her life that she is calling, “And Then Came the Blues.” On-screen text graphic for the 04/08/23 rebroadcast: Katrina authored a book about her life called, “And Then Came the Blues.” Interviewed: Katrina Brownlee; Keri Herzog, former assistant district attorney; and Raymond Blasko, lead detective. 04/08/23 48 HOURS: “Kassandra’s Secret” (10:00 – 11:00p) - a report on the August 25th, 2020, disappearance and murder of 33-year-old Kassandra Cantrell of Tacoma, WA and how her ex-boyfriend, Colin Dudley, was involved. Kassandra Cantrell was supposed to meet her best friend, Alexandra McNary, on August 26th, 2020, but never showed up. Cantrell had vanished and her family and friends had no idea where she had gone. Three days after her disappearance, police located her car in an industrial area near downtown Tacoma; they also discovered surveillance footage of a mysterious man in a fedora leaving her car, later identified as Colin Dudley, an ex-boyfriend Cantrell met in 2006. Investigators questioned Dudley and he insisted he had not seen Cantrell in years, even though Cantrell had told McNary that she was pregnant, and that Dudley was the father. Further investigation and digital evidence, including data from the black box of Dudley’s truck, led investigators to Cantrell’s body in a ravine on September 22nd, 2020; Dudley was arrested later that night and charged with first-degree murder. Two years later, family and friends were angry to hear that prosecutors were considering a plea deal due to the lack of physical evidence. Eventually, Colin Dudley agreed to plead guilty to murder in the first degree and formally entered his guilty plea on November 14th, 2022; he was sentenced to 26 years in prison. Cantrell’s family would like a law in Washington State that if someone is guilty of knowingly killing a pregnant woman, they would automatically get a life sentence. On-screen text graphic: Kassandra Cantrell's family has filed a wrongful death lawsuit against Colin Dudley. It is scheduled to go to trial in August 2023. Interviewed: Alexandra McNary, Kassandra’s friend; Marie Smith, Kassandra’s mother; Detective Franz Helmcke, detective, Pierce County Sheriff’s Department; Kristi Sinclair, Marie Smith’s friend; Cheri Mueller, produced a local production of “Rocky Horror Picture Show” that Cantrell and Dudley appeared in; Rob Cantrell, Kassandra’s twin brother; Brent Van Dyke, detective sergeant, Pierce County Sheriff’s Department; Steve Ammann, former friend of Colin Dudley, wrote a letter protesting the prison sentence to the judge; Ryan Salmon, detective, Pierce County Sheriff’s Department; and Brian Wasankari, Pierce County deputy prosecutor (Patrick Vincent, Pierce County deputy prosecutor, appeared on camera during interview – did not speak). 48 HOURS: “Christy and Hilda’s Last Dance” – On Friday, November 12th, 2021, model Christy Giles and her friend Hilda Marcela Cabrales-Arzola went to a warehouse party in Los Angeles, CA. The next afternoon, both women were left at separate hospitals by two men in a car with no license plate, who in each instance claimed to have found a woman “passed out on the curb somewhere nearby”: Christy at Southern California Medical Center and Hilda at Kaiser Permanente Hospital. Christy died of a drug overdose; Hilda spent two weeks on life support, before her family decided to donate her organs. The police suspected foul play and made use of the digital trail left behind. Christy’s phone led investigators to the apartment of David Pearce, who passed himself off as a Hollywood producer; surveillance footage tied him, his roommate Brandt Osborn and their friend, photographer Michael Ansbach, to the crime. Three weeks after Hilda’s death the men were arrested; Brandt and Michael were released, but David was held on four unrelated sexual assault charges. When news of David’s arrest was made public, more women came forward. In May 2022, the prosecution added three more counts of sexual assault against David; he is currently charged with eleven counts, seven counts of drugging and sexually assaulting, forcibly raping and/or sodomizing several women, two counts of murder and two counts of providing a controlled substance, that being Fentanyl. So far, the prosecution has “declined” to charge Michael Ansbach; he is cooperating with prosecutors and will testify against his two friends. This broadcast features the first primetime television interview with Jan Cilliers, the husband of Christy Giles, as well as the parents and friends of Hilda Marcela Cabrales-Arzola. On-screen text graphic: A trial date has not been set for David Pearce or Brandt Osborn. Interviewed: Barry Telis, retired homicide detective, Los Angeles Police Department, CBS News consultant; Mary Fulginiti, former prosecutor and defense attorney; Fernanda Cabrales-Arzola, Hilda Marcela’s sister; Jan Cilliers, Christy’s husband; Dr. Hilda Marcela Arzola-Plascencia, Hilda Marcela’s mother; Dusty and Leslie Giles, Christy’s parents; Misty Weldon, Christy’s sister; Luis Cabrales, Hilda Marcela’s father; Fernanda Cantisani and Alan Betancourt, Hilda Marcela’s friends; Erica Bergman (aka Erykah Poe), assaulted by David Pearce and tried to warn others about him on “The Dirty” blog; and Josh Ritter, former Los Angeles assistant district attorney, practicing defense attorney, advising Jan Cilliers on legal issues. Brandt Osborn, charged as an accessory to murder after the fact, responded to a question from Greg Fisher, a 48 HOURS producer, outside of court. 48 HOURS: “Crosley Green’s Hard Time” (9:00 – 10:00p) - an updated rebroadcast, containing the most recent reporting on the case of Crosley Green. In 2021, Crosley Green’s release from prison was featured in "Crosley Green Comes Home", OAD: 04/17/21, an update to the original 2020 broadcast of “Crosley Green’s Hard Time”, which was an update to “Last Chance for Freedom” (OAD: 05/30/15; updated 08/19/17), a follow-up to both “Reasonable Doubt” (OAD: 11/01/99); and its retitled rebroadcast, which included an update: “Impossible Mission” (OAD: 07/10/00). Recently, the Florida man who was free from prison for two years, was sent back for a murder he swears he did not commit. 48 HOURS has been covering this questionable conviction for 24 years. Despite his claims of innocence, Green was convicted and sentenced to death in 1990 for the April 1989 murder of Charles “Chip” Flynn in a Titusville, FL orange grove. Green has spent decades trying to prove his innocence. At the time of the murder, he was a small-time drug dealer who said he was two miles away when Flynn was killed. Green was arrested after Flynn’s former girlfriend, Kim Hallock, told police that she and Flynn had been carjacked by a Black man with a gun and driven to a remote orange grove. Flynn was killed, but Hallock escaped. She identified Green from a photo lineup. Green’s nine state appeals are exhausted, but his current attorneys Keith Harrison, Bob Rhoad and Jeane Thomas, along with an original private investigator Joe Moura (now a 48 HOURS consultant) have one last hope, federal court. They believe they have enough evidence to prove that the conviction is part of a distinct pattern and practice of government misconduct in Brevard County. Three other men, - Bill Dillion, Juan Ramos and Wilton Dedge - have had their convictions overturned; two of them were also prosecuted by Christopher White. Green’s attorneys believe what makes this case different is the great deal of evidence. At the heart of their case are notes from White’s meeting with officers Mark Rixey and Diane Clarke (who spoke to 48 HOURS for the first time for the 05/30/15 broadcast). Green’s lawyer says that their notes say they think the girl (former girlfriend Kim Hallock) killed Flynn. In June 2017, the 11th Circuit Federal Court of Appeals said it would allow Green’s attorneys to argue in person why his case should not have been dismissed. The Florida Attorney General’s Office continues to fight to uphold Crosley Green’s conviction, claiming Green failed to meet a filing deadline for his appeal. Original 04/18/20 UPDATE: In July 2018, a federal judge ruled that withholding prosecutor notes from Green’s defense violated his right to a fair trial. His conviction was overturned, and a new trial was ordered. The state of Florida appealed. On March 12, 2020, the Federal Appeals Court in Jacksonville heard from Green’s defense team and state attorneys. Original on-screen text graphic: 48 Hours will continue to follow Crosley Green's case. 04/17/21 UPDATE, featured in “Crosley Green Come Home”: In March 2021, due to the coronavirus pandemic and Green’s diagnosis of latent tuberculosis, his attorneys filed a motion for his immediate release, which the court granted. A decision from the Federal Appeals Court is still pending. (No on-screen text graphic for the 04/17/21 broadcast.) 04/22/23 UPDATE: In March 2022, the U.S. Court of Appeals came back with a decision; the court ruled that those notes Christopher White failed to turn over to Crosley's defense would not have changed the outcome of his trial and his conviction was reinstated. Crosley's last hope to was to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to take this case. In February 2023, the attorneys gathered the Green family together to break the unwelcome news - the Supreme Court will not hear his case and Crosley has run out of legal options. On April 17th, 2023, two years after Crosley's conditional release, he was returned to prison. On screen text graphic for the 04/22/23 updated rebroadcast: Crosley Green's only remaining options for freedom are to seek parole or clemency. 48 HOURS: “Alisa Mathewson’s Night Terrors” (10:00 – 11:00p) – a report on the 55-hour ordeal Alisa Mathewson suffered at the hands of her estranged husband, Trevor Summers, who manipulated his children into believing he just wanted to get back together with his estranged wife and their mother. Just after midnight on March 11th, 2017, Trevor drove to Alisa’s home in Valrico, FL and entered through a window, left open by their 14-year-old daughter Arden, whom Trevor manipulated into believing he wanted to reconcile and make the family whole again. Once inside the house, Trevor woke up Alisa by dripping water on her head and told Arden to drive her siblings to his house and wait. Trevor tied Alisa with a string of holiday lights, kidnapped her, sexually assaulted her and then tried to kill her; he even used Alisa’s phone to record bizarre messages, admitting to his crime. Trevor was arrested on March 13th, 2017, after police received a 911 call from a Walgreens’ employee who saw a woman attempting to flee from an SUV. Trevor’s trial began in August 2022; he was found guilty of all 11 charges and the judge sentenced him to three life sentences, followed by 224 years of prison. In a wide-ranging interview, Alisa discussed her experience and the trial, in which she faced her ex-husband, who functioned as his own attorney, while on the stand. On-screen text graphic: Trevor Summers declined our request for an interview, citing his decision to appeal his convictions. 48 HOURS: “Lamar Johnson: Standing in Truth” – a report on the case against Lamar Johnson of St. Louis, MO, who spent almost three decades in prison for the murder of his friend, Markus Boyd. In 1994, 20-year-old Lamar worked at Jiffy Lube and attended community college; he also sold tiny amounts of crack cocaine for extra cash. On October 30th, 1994, 25-year-old Markus, who worked at a printing company and sold drugs on the side, was shot to death by two masked shooters on his St. Louis porch. Named as a suspect by Markus’ girlfriend and his photo selected by witness Greg Elking, who later chose Lamar in a police lineup, Lamar was arrested along with his friend Phillip Campbell, on November 3rd, 1994. Though he had an alibi – Lamar was miles away with his girlfriend and daughter – he went on trial in July 1995; it took the jury two hours to reach a guilty verdict, primarily based on Greg’s testimony. Between his trial and sentencing, Lamar exchanged letters with the other suspect, Phillip Campbell, who admitted Lamar was not involved and named the other shooter: James “B.A.” Howard. In September 1995, Lamar was sentenced to life in prison without parole. The Midwest Innocence Project discovered that Greg later wrote a letter to a clergyman, admitting he had lied at Johnson’s trial. In 2018, St. Louis Circuit Attorney Kimberly Gardner agreed to look at Lamar’s case. Convinced of his innocence, she attempted to get Lamar’s conviction overturned, but was denied by the Missouri courts. In 2021, the Missouri Legislature passed a law, giving prosecutors the power to bring cases of innocence to court. On December 12th, 2022, Lamar Johnson and his legal team gathered in a St. Louis courtroom for a week-long hearing; Greg Elking testified he felt pressured by lead investigator Joe Nickerson to choose Lamar in the lineups. In February 2023, Lamar’s murder conviction was overturned; the judge also found there was clear and convincing evidence of Johnson’s innocence. After more than 28 years behind bars, 49-year-old Lamar Johnson was finally exonerated. On-screen text graphic: Under current law, Johnson is not entitled to compensation from the state of Missouri. Interviewed: Lamar Johnson; Brittany Johnson, Lamar’s daughter; Kiera Barrow, Lamar and Erika’s daughter; Erika Barrow, Kiera’s mother, Lamar’s former girlfriend; Greg Elking, lone eyewitness to Markus Boyd’s murder; Ricky Kidd, Lamar’s friend, met while serving a life sentence for murder before Ricky was exonerated; Lindsay Runnels, Lamar’s attorney; Dwight Warren, original prosecutor; Kimberly Gardner, St. Louis circuit attorney; Robert Ogilvie, chief investigator, Circuit Attorney’s office; Jonathon Potts and Charlie Weiss, attorneys appointed by Kimberly Gardner to handle Lamar’s case; and Tony Messenger, columnist, St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Diana was last seen leaving a bar on June 20th with her on-again, off-again boyfriend, 32-year-old Michael (Mike) Jones, who worked in wealth management at PNC Bank. Witnesses reported that the couple was having a fun time, but also told police at one point it looked like Diana was upset. She never returned home; her mother knew something was wrong when her daughter did not call her, something she did every day. Investigators looked into Mike Jones and learned he was well educated, had gone to law school and thrived at his job as a wealth manager at PNC Bank; they also learned he told outlandish lies and was a convicted felon on probation for threatening to kill an ex-girlfriend near Fort Lauderdale in 2012. Initially unable to locate Mike, investigators found his car in a Hampton Inn parking lot in the Fort Pierce area; he claimed to not know of Diana’s location. Three days after she had gone missing, further investigation led to the discovery of Diana’s car in a Publix parking lot in Melbourne; her body was in the trunk. Two days after Diana’s body was found, Mike Jones was charged with her murder; he pleaded not guilty. In October 2019, his trial began in Vero Beach; prosecutors sought the death penalty. After seven days of testimony, the case went to the jury, who found Mike guilty in less than an hour. A month after the verdict, the penalty phase began; Mike received a life sentence. On-screen text graphic: If you or someone you know is a victim of domestic violence, call the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-7233. Lori’s husband, Chad Daybell, a former gravedigger-turned-doomsday novelist and podcaster, will be tried later. Chad and Lori were charged in May 2021 with murdering her children, 7-year-old JJ Vallow and 16-year-old Tylee Ryan, who disappeared in September 2019, shortly after the family moved to Idaho, from Arizona. Tylee was last seen in Yellowstone National Park with her family on September 8th, 2019; JJ vanished on September 23rd, 2019. In June 2020, their bodies were found in shallow graves on Chad Daybell’s property, just outside of Rexburg, ID. The Daybells pleaded not guilty to the murder charges. During the trial, prosecutors argued that Lori’s true motive was money; the defense claimed she did not commit the murders and suggested that Chad manipulated Lori. After 60 witnesses and four weeks of testimony, the prosecution rested its case; the defense declined to call any witnesses. The jury deliberated for seven hours over the course of two days; Lori appeared emotionless as the guilty verdicts were read. She will be sentenced later. On-screen text graphic: Chad Daybell may stand trial as early as June 2024. He has pled not guilty. 48 HOURS: “The Plot to Kill Jamie Faith” (9:00 – 10:00p) - a report on the murder of American Airlines manager Jamie Faith. Jamie and his wife, Jennifer, set out from their Oak Cliff neighborhood in Dallas, TX for an early morning dog walk on October 9th, 2020. Moments after they left home, Jamie was shot dead; Jennifer was unharmed. The murder stunned their friends and neighbors and the community rallied around Jennifer, raising more than $60,000 in a GoFundMe account to help her and her daughter make up for Jamie’s lost income; they also provided meals for the grieving family. Investigators learned that starting in April 2020, Jennifer had been in constant contact with a man she dated in high school, Darrin Lopez. Darrin drove the same make and model as the gunman’s getaway truck in Jamie’s murder; text messages between Darrin and Jennifer, cell phone data and GPS coordinates further linked him to the crime. Darrin was arrested on January 11th, 2021, in Dickson, TN and charged with a federal gun crime and, at the state level, charged with murder; he pleaded not guilty to both charges. On February 24th, Jennifer was arrested on obstruction of justice charges. Along with other evidence, prosecutors discovered an email account in Jamie’s name, in which Jennifer pretended to be Jamie, to taunt Darrin. In September 2021, Jennifer was charged with murder-for-hire. On February 7th, 2022, Jennifer appeared in a Dallas courtroom and pleaded guilty to one count of use of interstate commerce in the commission of murder-for-hire. In exchange for the guilty plea, prosecutors agreed to take the death penalty off the table and recommended a life sentence. Original on-screen text graphic: Jennifer Faith is scheduled to be sentenced on May 26. Darrin Lopez’s trial date has not been set. GoFundMe offered full refunds to anyone who donated to the Faiths’ account. Who do you think is more responsible for Jamie Faith’s death? On-screen text graphic for the 05/20/23 rebroadcast: Jennifer Faith was sentenced to life in prison. 48 HOURS: “A Stabbing in Colts Neck” (10:00 – 11:00p) - a report on Donna Ongsiako’s story of survival and her ongoing efforts to help other victims of random violence. In early July 2013, Donna was alone in her Colts Neck, NJ home after midnight, when she heard a noise downstairs near the door. Donna thought that she forgot to let the cat in; when she opened the door, a young man with a knife pushed his way in and repeatedly stabbed her. He asked for her car keys and a lighter, stabbed her one last time in the chest and left her for dead. Although it was later determined she lost three quarters of the blood in her body, Donna made her way upstairs to where her phone was charging and dialed 911; she was able to give a description of her attacker. A tip from one of the assailant’s relatives led investigators to 16-year-old Brennan Doyle, a local teen with no criminal record. In September 2013, investigators obtained a warrant for Brennan’s DNA, fingerprints and photos. The results indicated a fingerprint match and his DNA was found in Donna’s recovered car; the knife used in the attack was found in early October 2013 and was matched to another knife police had taken from the Doyle home a few months prior to Donna’s attack, when police responded to an altercation between Brennan and his brother. A new search of the Doyle residence turned up the rest of the knife set, and Brennan was arrested in late October 2013. He pleaded not guilty and claimed he was under the influence of hallucinogenic mushrooms the night of July 6th, early morning July 7th, 2013. In August 2015, Brennan Doyle agreed to a plea deal; in October 2015, he was sentenced to 15 years in state prison. Donna continued to struggle with PTSD and unable to find support groups for victims of random attacks, she created her own in 2015 - Survivors of Violent Crimes, a peer support group. On-screen text graphic: Donna filed a civil suit against Brennan Doyle and his father. She was awarded $5 million. Donna has yet to receive payment. Brennan Doyle will be eligible for parole in 2027. He will be 30 years old. 48 HOURS: “Gabby Petito: The Untold Story” - a reedited and updated rebroadcast of “What Happened to Gabby Petito?” (OAD: 09/25/21), which takes a deeper look at the murder of 22-year-old “van life” vlogger Gabby Petito, as well as raising awareness about the warning signs of domestic violence. Petito went missing in August 2021 during a cross-country trip with her fiancé, Brian Laundrie. Laundrie returned home to North Port, FL on September 1st, 2021; he and his parents did not speak to police. On September 17th, his parents reported that he left for a hike at the Carlton Reserve on the 14th and that they did not know where he was. Petito’s remains were found inside Bridger-Teton National Forest in Wyoming on September 19th, 2021. 09/17/22 UPDATE: After a massive fugitive hunt, Laundrie’s remains were found on October 20th, 2021; an autopsy revealed he had died from a self-inflicted gunshot to the head. A notebook was found belonging to Laundrie; his writings claimed that Petito’s death was a mercy killing by him of her because she was suffering after an accident. Petito’s parents are suing Laundrie’s estate for wrongful death, and his parents for intentional infliction of emotional distress; they are in the process of filing a lawsuit against the Moab Police Department in Utah, related to how they managed the domestic violence stop in 2021. An independent review of the officers’ actions that day found fault and recommended more training. Original on-screen text graphic: Gabby’s parents have formed the Gabby Petito Foundation, which has partnered with the National Domestic Violence Hotline. 48 HOURS

06/03/23      48 HOURS: “Death Hits Home: The Hargan Killings” (9:00 – 10:00p) - a report on the July 2017 murders of millionaire mother Pamela Hargan and her adult daughter Helen who were discovered by police in their Fairfax County, VA home, after Helen’s boyfriend in Dallas, TX, Carlos Gutierrez, alerted authorities. Hours after the bodies were found in separate locations with a rifle near Helen, police informed the family and then went public with their murder-suicide theory. Pamela’s other daughters, Ashley and Megan - who along with her 8-year-old daughter Molly was living with Pamela and Helen while her husband was in the military - both described Helen as struggling emotionally. Soon, Helen’s autopsy report revealed that someone else pulled the trigger, casting doubt on the murder-suicide theory; further investigation revealed that Megan attempted to steal money from Pamela’s account to purchase a home by impersonating her over the phone. In November 2018, Megan was arrested in West Virginia. At her trial, the defense argued that the prosecution’s forensics were inconclusive, and that Helen shot their mother and then took her own life by pulling the trigger with her toe. In March 2022, Megan Harman was found guilty of two counts of first-degree murder; the jury recommended a sentence of life in prison on each murder count. Original on-screen text graphic: Megan Hargan and her husband divorced. Their daughter Molly is living with her father in another state. Megan Hargan is scheduled to be sentenced on October 28th. On-screen text graphic for the 06/03/23 rebroadcast: In November 2022, the judge overturned Megan Hargan’s double murder conviction because of juror misconduct. - 06/10/23 48 HOURS: “The Dexter Killer” (9:00 – 10:00p) - a reedited and updated rebroadcast of 48 HOURS MYSTERY: “Screenplay for Murder” (OAD: 02/11/12; Rebroadcast: 07/10/12), a report on Canadian filmmaker Mark Twitchell, whose obsession with the Showtime television series “Dexter” turned to reality and led to murder. His film, “House of Cards”, was about a male serial killer who created a fake online profile as a woman, lured men from a dating website to his garage -- and then killed them. Police became interested in Twitchell when they were investigating a missing persons case, 38-year-old computer enthusiast John Altinger, and were led to the garage where he had just wrapped shooting his movie. A Facebook page where he compared himself to the serial killer “Dexter” and the discovery of a secret journal, which was essentially a blueprint for murder, allowed Edmonton police to eventually link Twitchell to the 2008 murder of Altinger and to the attempted murder of 33-year-old Gilles Tetreault -- both of whom had answered an online dating ad. In March 2011, Twitchell went on trial for the murder of Johnny Altinger; he was sentenced to 25 years to life. UPDATE: Twitchell began correspondence with journalist Steve Lillebuen before he was convicted in 2011. Lillebuen authored a book on the case; he sold the rights to a film company. In 2023, Twitchell will be eligible to apply for early parole. Tetreault, who escaped from him 14 years ago, is worried that Twitchell could come after him. Includes interviews from the 2012 original broadcasts with: Gilles Tetreault, victim; Bill Clark, Edmonton Police homicide detective; Gary Altinger, John’s older brother; and Renee Waring, Twitchell’s Facebook friend. Includes new interviews with: Julia Crowley, retired FBI criminal profiler, spoke with Detective Clark and reviewed Twitchell’s writings and letters for 48 HOURS; Gilles Tetreault, victim; and Steve Lillebuen, college professor, investigative journalist, author, The Devil’s Cinema: The Untold Story Behind Mark Twitchell’s Kill Room. 48 HOURS (continued)

06/10/23 48 HOURS: “The Shooting of Lauren Kanarek” (10:00 – 11:00p) – a report on the case against Michael Barisone, a former Olympic equestrian and trainer, for the attempted murder of former student Lauren Kanarek and her boyfriend, Robert Goodwin. Barisone and Kanarek’s paths first crossed in March 2018, when Barisone hosted a clinic at his Florida horse farm. Soon, Kanarek was being trained and housed by Barisone and his staff at Hawthorne Hill, his Long Valley, NJ training center and farm. Their relationship eventually soured over the level of training Barisone provided personally to Kanarek, who retaliated by posting messages on Facebook branding him a bully, racist and antisemitic – allegations Barisone denies. The posts rattled and unnerved Barisone to the point where he called 911 four times and told police he “feared” for his life. Kanarek also filed a complaint with SafeSport, a watchdog group authorized by Congress. On August 7th, 2019, he confronted Kanarek and shot her in the chest; she managed to call 911 and after emergency surgery, survived. Charged with attempted murder and weapons charges, Barisone went on trial in March 2022; his attorney argued Barisone was driven temporarily insane by Kanarek’s attacks and then snapped. Kanarek testified during the trial that Barisone bullied her. The jury found Barisone not guilty by reason of insanity. Barisone claims to recall Kanarek’s social media posts about him but has no memory of the shooting; Kanarek and her family do not believe his story. Original on-screen text graphic: Michael Barisone was evaluated at the psychiatric hospital. Just last week, a judge ruled he should be transferred to a less restrictive facility. In six months, another hearing will be held to check his progress. No on-screen text graphic for the 06/10/23 rebroadcast. Interviewed: Michael Barisone (his first television interview since the end of his trial); Lauren Kanarek; Jonathan Kanarek, Lauren’s father, retired Wall Street attorney; Christopher Schellhorn, prosecutor; Ed Bilinkas, defense attorney; Chris Deininger, defense attorney; Michael Poulin, rider, Olympic medalist; Phillip Dutton, rider, Olympic medalist; Boyd Martin, rider, Olympian; Jordan Osborne, former student; Lara Osborne, Jordan’s mother, former student, Barisone’s girlfriend; Chelsea Westra, former student; Corporal Derek Heymer, police officer; Dr. Steven Simring, forensic psychiatrist for the defense; and Dr. Charles Hasson, forensic psychiatrist for the defense. 06/17/23 48 HOURS: “Please Don’t Tell” (9:00 - 10:00p) – a report on the case against Vincent Simmons, who was released from a Louisiana prison earlier this year after serving 44 years. In 1977, Simmons was convicted of two counts of attempted aggravated rape of identical 14-year-old twins, Karen and Sharon Sanders, who lived with their grandparents in Marksville, LA. Simmons was sentenced to 100 years in prison. The Sanders sisters say their cousin, Keith Laborde, was driving them when he gave Simmons a ride. They claim Simmons directed Laborde to a desolate area of Little California Road and then forced him into the trunk; he then raped them. The Sanders sisters also say Simmons warned them not to tell anyone about what had happened, and they initially intended to keep it a secret, but Karen Sanders decided to confide in a family member. The police soon found out and Simmons was arrested, convicted and sentenced to prison. The sisters do not doubt that they picked the right man out of the lineup. Simmons’ attorney, Justin Bonus, believes the twins are lying to protect Keith Laborde. Laborde’s cousin, Dana Brouillette, told a private investigator and swore in an affidavit in 2020 that Laborde admitted to her that Simmons was never with them that night. Instead, she said in the affidavit that Laborde told her “He had consensual sex with one of the girls and locked the other in the trunk.” Laborde denied ever having sex with them. This year, Simmons was released after a judge vacated his conviction after finding he did not get a fair trial. The court did not rule on his innocence or guilt, and the district attorney declined to retry him. Original on-screen text graphic: Vincent Simmons intends to go back to court to seek compensation for wrongful imprisonment. Under Louisiana State law, if he is unable to present clear and convincing evidence of his innocence, he is entitled to nothing. On-screen text graphic for the 06/17/23 rebroadcast: Vincent Simmons filed a federal civil rights lawsuit accusing officials of fabricating evidence against him and suppressing other evidence that could have prevented his conviction. Interviewed: Karen Sanders; Sharon Sanders; Charles Riddle, district attorney; Vincent Simmons; Justin Bonus, Vincent Simmons’ defense attorney; Jason Flom, recording industry executive, criminal justice advocate, and host, “Wrongful Conviction” podcast; Brian Andrews, private investigator in Louisiana; Diane Prater, lone surviving juror and the only African American on the jury; Keith Laborde (via telephone); and Judge William Bennett. Also includes excerpts from: (1) “The Farm”, a documentary which profiled inmates at Angola; (2) documentary footage from the late 1990s, when Simmons and the Sanders sisters agreed to a reconciliation meeting; and (3) Brian Andrews’ videotaped interview with Dana Brouillette, Keith Laborde’s cousin. 48 HOURS (continued)

06/17/23 48 HOURS: “The Strange Death of Professor Shockley” (10:00 – 11:00p) - a report on the death of Marianne Shockley, a popular University of Georgia professor. After a day of barhopping, Marianne and her boyfriend Marcus Lillard ended up at the Milledgeville, GA home of former psychologist Clark Heindel, to use his hot tub; all three of them took ecstasy (MDMA). Marcus exited the hot tub and when he returned, Marianne was not breathing. Marcus and Clark delayed in calling the police and attempted to perform CPR on Marianne. Sheriff’s deputies arrived at Clark’s home in the early morning hours of May 12th, 2019; Marianne was pronounced dead at the scene. While deputies investigated, Clark slipped into the house and took his own life. Autopsy results indicated Marianne “died as a result of asphyxia due to strangulation”. Within a day, Marcus was charged with his girlfriend’s murder. Marcus was formally indicted in March 2021 and charged with four counts; he was ordered held without bond. Due to the COVID pandemic, the trial was delayed until April 4th, 2022. Prosecutors maintained that Marcus strangled Marianne during sex, and they included the testimony of six former girlfriends; the case went to the jury on April 8th, 2022. Marcus was found not guilty on all counts, but the judge found that he violated his probation for his 2015 drug conviction, and he was remanded to prison. On-screen text graphic: Marcus could remain in prison until October 2030. But it is likely he’ll be released sooner. Marianne’s children settled a wrongful death lawsuit against Clark Heindel’s estate for $500,000. There was no admission of liability or fault. This story discusses suicide. If you or someone you know is having thoughts of suicide, please contact the Suicide & Crisis Lifeline at 988. Interviewed: Marcus Lillard; Ayla Crippen, Marianne’s younger sister; Penny Dearmin, creator of “Blood Town”, a podcast about the Marianne Shockley case; Carson Lillard, Marcus’ son; Shakara Maggitt, Marianne’s student; Bill Massee, sheriff, Baldwin County, GA; Matt Tucker, defense attorney; Tammy Coffey, assistant district attorney; and Tyisha Davis, juror #11. (Contributor: Jonathan Vigliotti – Producer: Paul LaRosa) (OAD: 10/15/22)

06/24/23 48 HOURS: “A Man with A Past” – a report on the disappearance of Lori Slesinski and the case against her killer, Derrill Richard Ennis, aka Rick Ennis. Slesinski, a recent college graduate, disappeared on June 10th, 2006, from Auburn, AL. Four days after Slesinski vanished, her car was found engulfed in flames on a deserted street; she was nowhere to be found. Her friend, Rick Ennis, claimed Slesinski had gone to make a big drug deal. Investigators found no evidence of a drug deal and suspected Ennis, who police believed was the last person to be with her before she disappeared. Ennis moved away from Auburn after his third police interview and the case went cold. Investigators learned Ennis murdered his mother Dolly Flowers and stepfather Eddie Joe Flowers in 1993, when he was 12 years old; he later claimed his mother molested him. It took 12 years before authorities made a case against him. In 2018, Ennis was charged with Slesinski’s murder, even though her body was never found. Delayed by the pandemic, Ennis went on trial for the offense of capital murder and was found guilty almost 16 years after Lori Slesinski’s disappearance. He was sentenced for a term of life without the possibility of parole. On-screen text graphic: Arlene Slesinski gained a new companion in 2021. Her dog, Daisey. Interviewed: Arlene Slesinski, Lori’s mother; Jessica Ventiere, prosecutor; Lindsay Braun, Lori’s friend; Mark Whitaker, special agent, Alabama State Bureau of Investigation; John Clark, former Alabama state trooper; Eddie Joe Flowers’ daughters and Ennis’ stepsisters: Angela Flowers, Tina Sexton and Donna Furr; JW Barnes, agent, Alabama State Bureau of Investigation, Mark Whitaker’s partner; Sharon Morley, Rick Ennis’ former employer; Alana Atkinson, Rick Ennis’ fiancée; Terry Booth, Rick Ennis’ former friend; and Rick Ennis (by phone).
