MEDICINE	FPOTA	12/13/12	0:01:33	4:22	SHANDS ADDITION	A new addition to UF and Shands facilities is designed to make it easier for patients in Northwest Gainesville to receive medical care. Shands administrators say a population growth in this area has created the need for more convenient healthcare.
LEGAL	FPOTA	12/13/12	0:01:55	4:24	FAMU PROBATION SANCTION	Florida A&M University has once again found itself in an uncomfortably familiar spot. The school has been hit with a probation sanction by its accrediting body.
ECONOMY	FPOTA	12/13/12	0:04:41	4:36	PENDING ENERGY RATE INCREASE	The Florida Public Service Commission will rule this afternoon on whether to approve a pending rate increase for Florida Power & Light. This isn't your ordinary rate request, though. The agreement, formed by F-P-L and a few of their larger customers like the military bases the utility serves, would not only allow F-P-L to increase their rates for the coming year. It would allow the utility company to raise rates twice between 2014 and 2016, as well as increase their profit margin from 10% to 10.7%.
CRIME	FPOTA	12/13/12	0:02:13	4:50	DRIVE SOBER CAMPAIGN	While the holiday season is a time for celebration, it is also a time in which there is a noticeable increase in the number of drunk drivers on the road.
AGRICULTURE	FPOTA	12/13/12	0:02:22	4:52	MECHANICAL HARVESTERS	Mechanical harvesters spent part of the week at the Powers Park access channel on Newnans lake, two miles east of Gainesville. The harvesters were used to shred tussocks, which are mats of floating vegetation.

LEGAL	FPOTA	12/14/12	0:04:07	4:36	STAND YOUR GROUND LAW	One lawmaker who has been a part of national discussion in the past year is republican state representative Dennis Baxley from Ocala. Baxley wrote Florida's Stand Your Ground Law which became hotly debated after Trayvon Martin was killed in Sanford, Florida by neighbourhood watch volunteer George Zimmerman. Zimmerman's legal defense claims he was within his constitutional rights under the state's Stand Your Ground Law, which allows a person to justifiably use force in self-defense when there is reasonable belief of an unlawful threat, without an obligation to retreat first.
LEGAL	FPOTA	12/14/12	0:06:28	4:41	GUN LEGISLTATION	Democratic representative Charles Chestnut holds slightly different opions concerning gun control and individual ownership of firearms. Today I spoke with the past state representative and soon to be inducted county commissioner about the process of proposing legislation regarding gun control, and how today's tragedy might impact this issue.
CRIME	FPOTA	12/14/12	0:02:48	4:48	NEWTOWN SHOOTING REACTIONS	The technicalities of the Second Amendment right to bear arms have become increasingly complicated with increases in both weapons technology and the awareness of many mental health complications. Owner of Sapp's Pawn Gun and Archery Butch Ford says today's events were shocking.

That led to lawsuits, and voter rights organizations raising concerns that voters would be disenfranchised. HEALTHCARE POLICY	C.R.	12/28/12	0:04:38	18:35	Healthcare rejection to acceptance	Over the course of the year, Florida has gone from completely rejecting the federal healthcare overhaul law, to slowly beginning to decide whether to implement optional parts of the program. The federal patient protection and affordable care act, also known as ObamaCare would expand healthcare coverage to almost all Americans. Much of the expansion is supposed to occur between two main parts of the law. One of those provisions calls for more people to become eligible for the joint federal and state partnership of Medicaid—which provides health insurance to low income people. The other calls on the creation of insurance exchanges—online marketplaces where people can shop and compare plans. In its decision to uphold the law as constitutional, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the Medicaid expansion and insurance exchanges were optional for the state.
CRIME	C.R.	12/28/12	0:03:34	18:40	Prison Privatization	Prisons has been a major topic of discussion this year, and at the heart of it is the employees who have and still could lose their jobs with the state. That set a series of lawsuits in motion. And, in one case, the courts decided against the Republican-led legislature when it tried to privatize about 30 South Florida prisons. But, while they still tried through a pair of bills, opponents of the effort questioned a move by the Senate President at the time to vet the bills through two committees that were not prison related. Sascha Corder takes us back to how the prison controversy unfolded.

Usually, they require the care of a skilled nurse. All of their care is covered by Medicaid, the state-run insurance option. But, as child advocates and the federal government are alleging, the state is warehousing children in nursing homes and violating of the federal Americans with Disabilities Act.
