Today the White House is bracing for Thursday's expected release of Special Counsel Robert Mueller's redacted Russia report. More than a dozen current and former White House officials have cooperated with Mueller, now NBC News has exluseively learned, some of them are worried, the release of the nearly 400 page report could expose them for potentially damaging information they provided about President Trump. Inside the President's orbit, a flurry of activity, a White House meeting planned in the coming days for all relevant staff. The President's outside legal team, meeting "again" today to finalize their strategy. According to a four page summary from Attorney General William Barr, Mueller did not find criminal conspiracy between the Trump Campaign and Russia, but many Democrats will likely zero in on information around obstruction of justice, where Mueller reached no conclusion according to Barr's summary. It was Barr and his deputy who decided there was not enough evidence for obstruction charges, something President Trump has repeatedly seized on. "There was no collusion and there was no obstruction and we never did anything wrong." something he repeated today on Twitter.	2 News at 10PM on	4/16/2019 105 seconds	4/16/	10PM	26.1 Politics	26 1
A new study says the Dayton housing market could be at risk of a downturn. A study from Gobankingrates looked at several factors, including percentage of homes with mortgages in negative equity, foreclosure rates, delinquency rates on mortgage payments and homeowner and rental vacancy rates. On a nationwide list, Dayton ranked 9th most at risk of a downturn. Sham Reddy, President-elect of the group Dayton Realtors says right now he doesn't see any signs of a downturn on the way. Reddy says the housing market and the economy remains strong, and he hasn't seen a spike in foreclosures. He says for about the past four years there have been more buyers than properties for sale in the area. "The number of vacant outside the City of Dayton is still very low." As a new homeowner Chris Gray says he's not concerned based on his recent experience. Gray said: "I'm just happy that I have my own home right now, so I'm not really worried about that."	2 News at 10PM on Dayton's CW	4/8/2019 120 seconds	4/8/	10PM	Economy	26.1

Tonight several communities in Auglaize County are being impacted. Flooding catching people here off guard in the early afternoon. These flood waters are giving a new meaning to the idea of waterfront property. "The waters rose really fast, it took us all by surprise" People in Saint Marys weren't expecting this today. Shelly Keeling says she got a call in the morning about school being cancelled for her kids. Flooding hadn't reached here yet. High water keeping many cars stuck in place. It cancelled important plans to say goodbye to Keeling's recently passed Uncle. Keeling: "It kind of kept me from getting to go to Lima to get to go to his viewing but at the same time our family's our family's gotta be safe." Joe Dessman says this is bad but not as severe flooding back in 2011.  Dressman: "got a lot of snow and then it rained and the street flooded. We got a fire hydrant down there, it was completely covered." Over on Mclain Street, people resorted to kayaks to get around. The neighborhood baseball field looking more like a lake. As pumps working to help water recede, people here hope things will soon get back to normal.	2 News at 10PM on Dayton's CW	4/26/2019 105 seconds	4/26/2019	10PM	26.1 Environment	26.1
Dayton Police hope new video will help them track down the man who vandalized the same chruch multiple times. Surveillance video from earlier this month shows a person running up to the Holy Family Church throwing something into a window, then running off. Police say they don't have much of a suspect description, but they're trying to figure out if this is the same person who vandalized other Houses of Worship including a Dayton Mosque about six weeks ago. Ayman Salem, Vice Chariman, Islamic Society of Greater Dayton: "even if it's the same guy or a different guy, it's still the same hate." Ayman Salem, says two wondows that were smashed at the Al-Rahman Mosque have been repaird but tow others still need to be replaced. Dayton Police say they're continuing to investigate the incidents at both Houses of Worship. Ayman Salem: "I really hope when they find the guy, they consider charging him with a hate crime, because if we don't stop the hate crimes when they are small, they're going to get bigger. The Holy Family Catholic Church declined to talk with us on camera, but a Priest there says they don't hate the person doing this, they just hate what they're doing.	2 News Today on Dayton's CW	4/17/2019 105 seconds	4/17/2019	7AM	Crime	26.1

Breaking overnight in Washington, Democrats are demanding that the Attorney Gerneral of the United States William Barr resign or be impeached based on a new report claiming Barr didn't reveal Special Counsel Robert Mueller's objections when he testified last month. The Washington Post reports Special Counsel Robert Mueller worte Attorney General William Barr complaining that Barr's four page summary did not fully capture the context of his work, crating public confusion. The Justice Department confirms the two followed up by phone. According to the Post Mueller wanted more of his report released quickly. But this morning Barr will tell the Senate Judiciary Committee: "I did not believe that it was in the public interest to release additional portions of the report in piecemeal fashion, leading to public debate over incomplete information." Last month Barr testified he didn't know if Mueller supported his conclusion not to persue obstruction of justice charges against President Trump. Given the letter, Democrats now say the Attorney General committed perjury. Democrats running tomorrow's hearing are demanding a copy of Mueller's letter. But Barr reportedly threatening to skip tomorrow's hearing run by Democrats because of their demand for longer questioning, lawyers and a closed door session to address the redacted protions of the report.	2 News Today on Dayton's CW	5/1/2019 125 seconds	5/1/2019	7АМ	26.1 Politics	26.1
The drug crisis has taken a toll on parts of the Miami Valley and the numbers prove it. According the organization "County Health Rankings and Roadmaps" out of Ohio's 88 counties, Montgomery fell 6 spots since last year to 81st in the state for overall health. Clark County fell 10 spots to 80th place. Christina Conover, Director of Nursing, Clark County Combined Health District: says the couty's overdose deaths contributed to the statistics analyzed for the ranking, But in 2018, which officials say was not included in the ranking's "premature death" statistic the county's overdose deaths declined. Conover credits a coalition of organizations focused on the drug epidemic, now working on opening a recovery center in Springfield early this summer. Some say they're seeing more evidence Clark County is on the right path. Eric Mata, a former drug addict himself who works with others in recovery serves on the county's coalition. Mata says groups working together is making an impace with an increasing number of resources available to those struggling with addiction. Two Miami Valley Counties, Mercer and Auglaize made it into the top ten in this year's rankings.	2 News at 10PM on Dayton's CW	129 seconds	4/28/2019	10PM	Health/Healthcare	26.1

Every home, and every family on Kentfield felt the impact of that tornado, but there's one room in this house that incredibly appears to be untouched, and it's where 89 year old Shirley Masters happened to be when the tornado touched down. Shirley Masters, Trotwood resident: "I think I should go out and buy a lucky lottery ticket." Luck and gratitude, amid devastation in Trotwood, Ohio. Shirley Masters showed me how one corner of her home, her upstairs bedroom escaped the wrath of Monday night's tornado. "I got out of bed, I got this far, and the whole room started to shake." Paralyzed with fear, and unable to move quickly after hip surgery, Shirley cowered in her room as portions of her roof blew off, walls collapsed and debris came raining down. But the roof above her bedroom held up and she was unharmed when a neighbor ran upstairs to check on her fearing the worst. "He came and he carried me out because it was impossible to get through." Gomez White, Trotwood resident said "there's nothing left." Nothing but modest, Gomez White blushed when told him Shirley called him her hero. Gomez lives next door to Shirley, and has known her his whole life. "I really just wanted to help her and take care of her. I've known her forever so it was just instinct to go help her." Tonight with help form neighbors, friends and family, Kentwood Drive is finding gratitude and memories amid	2 News at 10PM on Dayton's CW	5/28/2019 130 seconds	5/28/2019	10PM	26.1 Environment
High School graduations are in full swing and, yet again, more graduates are opting for something other than college to begin their career paths. If recent history holds, nearly the same number of high school graduates this year will head to a trade school instead of college and for them, for good reason. Make much as much money, obtain a skill in much less time, at a fraction of the costs of college. Instead, Erika Cline spent a bundle getting a bachelor's degree in public health. "I felt I needed a career and the only way to get the career was to go to college" only to leave that career and learn the trade of heating and air company in Cahrlotte now, where co-workers have also opted for a trade skill over college degree. The Trade School choice certainly resonates with those who made the decision decades ago. And especially now, with a new economy and stigma, all, but, erased. Andy Thomas, Career Coach: "So plumbers, electricians, all of these skilled trades people, they're critical!" They're also less likely to have the debt load of a college graduate.	2 News Today on Dayton's CW	5/27/2019 105 seconds	5/27/2019	7AM	26.1 Economy

The President continues his visit in London with members of the Royal Family and British Parliament as he works on a trade deal. Thousands spilling into the streets of London, protests and politics replacing the pageantry of President Trump's arrival as he joins Prime Minister Theresa May and his daughter and advisor Ivanka for a roundtable business discussion. Day two of his controversial State visit continuing at 10 Downing Stret, delegates from both countries sitting down as the President and out-going Prime Minister hold what is very likely their last official meeting. Theresa May, British Prime Minister said "as the UK makes preparations to exit the European Union, The United States is committed to a phenomenal trade deal between the US and the UK. There is tremendous potential in that trade deal." The politics are much less civil, as protesters march across Central London, delivering a very different message to the visiting U-S leader, "well we're here protesting against Trump because we don't really think he should have been invited here in the first place." "We all need to try to stand up agains his tyranny." "Honestly he stands for everything that I loathe." Far removed form the signs and shouting, President Trump and the First Lady end their day "Royally" hosting members of the Royal Family at a reciprocal dinner in Winfield House, home of the U-S Ambassador here.	2 News at 10PM on Dayton's CW	6/4/2019 110 seconds	6/4/20	. 10PM	26.1 Politics	26.1
Some people in Northridge area now arming themselves to protect their homes from potential looters. Tonight The Montgomery County Sheriff's office is outlining what they're doing to keep those areas safe. Sheriff Rob Streck says "a citizen can only use deadly force like law enforcement: to save their life or the life of others." Sheriff Rob Streck cautioning people who say they're prepared to do anything to protect their possessions. Neighbors in Northridge say they've had looters go through their houses day and night for the past week. Sheriff Streck says resources are thin right now, which homeowners understand, but he adds his team is taking extra precautions to prevent looting. He says what may seem like a crime of opportunity right now can have serious consequences down the road. He says "when you break into someone's house, that's burglary. If they're in the house that's aggravated burglary. So we're talking about major felony crimes." Two offenders have been charged after being caught on camera; deputies also took a person into custody for trying to break down a door. Streck says people should be careful when considering how far they're willing to go to protect their homes.	2 News at 10PM on Dayton's CW	019 90 seconds	6/3/2019	10PM	L Crime	26.1

President Trump tightening the grip on Iran, tweeting, "we are putting major additionals sanctions on Iran on Monday." The U.S. trying to further cripple Iran's struggling economy to stop it's nuclear buildup. President Trump "I'm not looking for war and if there is, it'll be obliteration like you've never seen before. But I'm not looking to do that. But you can't have a nuclear weapon." In an exclusive interview with Chuck Todd on Meet The Press, the President says he's willing to hold talks with Iran with no pre-existing conditions. "If you want to talk about it, good. Otherwise you can live in a shattered economy for a long time to come." On Thursday night, the President called off strikes against Iran after the downing of a Naval Drone which the U.S. Military says was in International Airspace. Mullen pointing to hawks like National Security Adviser John Bolton who said Sunday the U.S. reserves the right to attack Iran at a later time. Secretary of State Mike Pompeo left for a trip to the Middle East Sunday, for meetings to build Internationa support against Iran.	2 News at 10PM on Dayton's CW	6/23/2019 105 seconds	6/23/2019	10PM	26.1 Economy	26.1
Multiple deaths have been reported as a result of flooding and rising waters. Deadly flooding across the country. "Over the weekend we saw torrential rains that have had a serious impact on our state, that we're likely to feel for several days." In North Carolina, three people were killed when their car hydroplaned off the road and crashed into a tree. The car overturned into a creek with water already higher than normal, trapping the people inside. In Tennessee, waters rose rapidly at Cummins Falls State Park when a toddler was being carried across a river by his parents, the adults made it out but the boy died after being swept away. Authorities say flood waters are known to rise rapidly in the area and warnings are posted, but many attempting to evacuate, were swept away. Jackson Co. Emergency Management Agency said "over the last about 18 hours there's been a total of 64 victims that were assisted in some shape, form or fashion by emergency crews here at the park." And in Texas, a crane collapsed onto an apartment complex Sunday killing one after severe weather hit the Dallas area.
