While that information can help local law enforcement hone in on a suspect. It can also help Federal Agents pick up on dangerous trends. A-T-F is able to see when an individual purchases more than two handguns from the same FFL within five days. We get a report. So I started to see a trend. The A-T-F would not release the exact number of Ohio firearms traced from Canada. They told me it was sensitive law enforcement information. While Cartwright confirms Ohio is the Top source for Canadian crime guns, he doesn't think "where" the gun came from is as important as "why" someone wanted to use that gun in the firstplace.
26.1	Environment	10PM	11/9/2021	98 seconds	2 NEWS @ 10Pm on Dayton's CW	The National Weather Service is simplifying their watches and warnings. Now in effect are consolidated flood alerts. Julie Dian-Reed, Service Hydrologist, "we recognize that there is an alphabet soup of Weather Service products out there so we're working to consolidate a little bit and one area in the flood program to consolidate is flood watch, flash flood watch. So everything going forward will be called a flood watch and its in the details of the warning that we tell you what we're expecting. Making it very easy for you to tell what's going on and that will all be on your phone on the Storm Team 2 Weather App where you can see those alerts and it's a great tool to have.

						This is President Biden's second straight day of travel to a battleground state. He wants to demonstrate where and how money from the Infrastructure Bill will be spent, particularly to those swing voters who will be critical in next year's midterm election. He's promoting the new Bipartisan Infrastructure Law, that invest heavily in electric vehicle charging stations across the country. It includes new electric vehicle tax credits, as part of a half a trillion dollars in policies aimed at reducing harmful greenhouse gas emissions. House Democrats are planning to open debate tomorrow, with leadership aiming for final passage by Christmas.

Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen calls the country's economic recovery "remarkable". But Fed Chair Jerome Powell says the pandemic could still reverse that progress, after the detection of a new variant, Omicron. But Powell says most experts still believe inflation will decrease significantly over the next year. Officials are also concerned about the harm that will come if Congress fails to increase the Nation's debt limit in the next 2 weeks.

26.1 Politics	10PM	12/8/2021	91 seconds	2 NEWS @ 10Pm on Daytons CW	The President saw first hand how the increase in federal funding will free up state and local dollars for more projects, from traditional infrastructure to electric vehicles. Now that President Biden has signed his one trillion infrastructure package into law, the federal government can start distributing the funds to states. The decaying roads cost Missouri and Knasas drivers more than $500 per person per year. The state and local officials have to decide which roads and bridges to repair and which lead pipes to replace. Rep. Elise Stefanik "It has been a year of unprecedented crisis because of Joe Biden and House Democrats failed leadership.
26.1 Environment	10PM	12/13/2021	105 seconds	2 NEWS @ 10Pm on Daytons CW	The Biden Administration is on a mission to get more electric vehicles on the nation's roads. Vice President Kamala Harris says the Bipartisan In frastructure Law will make chargers more accessible along highways, urban and suburban and rural. The Administration emphasized that more charging stations will bring more electric vehicles to the road, boost the economy and tackle the climate crisis.
26.1 Politics	10PM	12/20/2024	105 seconds	2 NEWS @ 10Pm on Daytons CW	Some Democrats were shocked and others weren't when Senator Joe Manchin made his no on the Bill clear. Democrats are now trying to focus on how to make this bill still happen. House Speaker Nancy Pelosi promised Democrats will continue to fight for build back better, even after West Virginia Senator Joe Manchin dropped support of the President's plan on Fox News Sunday. President Biden worked for months to get Manchin on board, reducing the price tag to 1-point-75 trillion dollars. Even though that wasn't enough to win Manchin over, the White House says it isn't giving up.

					President Joe Biden isn't giving up on his nearly two trillion dollar climate change and social investment plan. On Tuesday President Biden got passionate when talking about how the so called build back better plan would help families afford things like life saving medications. President Biden says more affordable childcare will help millions of women return to the workforce. But those arguments so far have failed to convince Senator Joe Manchin, a member of the President's own party, who says the plan could make inflation worse. Senator Manchin wants the bill to go through a more regular legislative process and be smaller and more targeted.
