ISSUE: Animal Industrial Complex - David Nibert

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Your Show's title): Alternative Radio

DATE: 10/11/2013 TIME OF DAY: 9:00 AM DURATION: 59:00

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.):

Many have heard of the military-industrial complex, maybe even the prison-industrial complex, but the animal industrial complex? Probably not. But you should. It's huge. Meat consumption per capita in the U.S. exceeds all other countries except for Luxemburg. The U.S. with its ubiquitous fast food outlets might be called Burgerstan. But the love affair with meat may be waning. The Hindu-Buddhist roots of vegetarianism have gone way beyond their origins in South Asia. Today, adherents of vegetarianism can be found everywhere and in ever growing numbers. Concern about cruelty and violence to animals and the impact of meat eating on the environment are all contributing to heightened awareness as to how we treat other creatures. We share our homes and lives with dogs and cats. We lavish care and affection upon them. But other animals endure pain and suffering on their way to our dinner plates.

ISSUE: Egypt in Crisis - Mohammed Fadel

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Your Show's title): Alternative Radio

DATE: 10/18/2013 TIME OF DAY: 9:00 AM DURATION: 59:00

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.):

The Egyptian Revolution, which in early 2011 overthrew the decades-old Mubarak dictatorship, stirred the imagination of the world. The so-called Arab Spring was in full bloom. Anything seemed possible. The region's decrepit and feudal regimes were in danger of falling. Tahrir Square in Cairo became the symbol of liberation. But as Mao said, "A revolution is not a dinner party." The euphoria of the moment masked deep divisions and conflicts within Egyptian society. In 2012, Mohamed Morsi of the Muslim Brotherhood was elected president. Frustrated by his ineffective rule and rejecting his Islamist agenda, some of the Tahrir Square protestors urged the military to take over. On July 3, 2013, Morsi was toppled in a coup. Since then, the security forces have killed hundreds of Morsi supporters. Thousands have been arrested. The media are muzzled. The military is in charge.

ISSUE: Media and Consumer Capitalism - Justin Lewis

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Your Show's title): Alternative Radio

DATE: 8/30/2013 TIME OF DAY: 9:00 AM DURATION: 59:00

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.):

Rene Descartes, the 17th century French philosopher once said, "I think, therefore I am." In today's context it may be more like, I buy therefore I am. Orchestrated wants driven by sophisticated advertising techniques have created a culture of consumption. Appetites for the latest hot thing are engineered. Media campaigns sell cool and sexy. Marketing is key. Data are collected. People are profiled, then targeted. Cell phones. Have to get the latest one with all new features, faster processor and design. We can't be left behind. More sales means more profits. The capitalist economic system is predicated on making money and barely considers the environmental effects down the road. That's somebody else's problem. In the U.S., consumerism is connected to ideology. Freedom is equated with the ability to buy things. But the pattern of endless consumption is not sustainable.

ISSUE: Slow Democracy - Susan Clark

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Your Show's title): Alternative Radio

DATE: 11/1/2013 TIME OF DAY: 9:00 AM DURATION: 59:00

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.):

Conventional democracy is being eviscerated. Frustration is mounting with business-as-usual models dominated by centralized institutions. But there are new initiatives. Local solutions to local problems which incorporate decision-making processes that are inclusive, deliberative and citizen powered are growing increasingly popular. From control of utilities to water and school issues to resisting fracking, communities are asserting themselves. Instead of seeing politics as something remote and out of reach, there are other possibilities closer to home. Slow democracy allows for space to find common ground and compromise and for communities to make choices that are ecologically, economically, and socially sustainable. The old no prisoners attitude may be emotionally satisfying but often results in nothing more than bombast. Local citizen participation gives not just insight and knowledge in addressing community matters but also in a sense ownership of the outcomes.

ISSUE: Critical Historical Thinking - Edward Said

WE RAN THE FOLLOWING PROGRAM TO ADDRESS IT (Your Show's title): Alternative Radio

DATE: 11/8/2013 TIME OF DAY: 9:00 AM DURATION: 59:00

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF PROGRAM (Format, participants, content, etc.):

A fiery and eloquent presentation to the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee's annual meeting. Said says, "One shouldn't be surprised that Americans, in the main, have a very low opinion of Arabs and Palestinians" because "citizens of this country are fed an atrociously biased diet of ignorance and misrepresentation by the media. All the established main media organs are unanimously anti-Arab, anti-Muslim, and anti-Palestinian" who have been the target of a "vicious campaign led by Neanderthal publicists and orientalist like Daniel Pipes and Bernard Lewis. Hardly a single journalist save for Helen Thomas, has taken the administration to task for the outrageous lies and confected facts that were spun out about Iraq as an imminent threat to the U.S." The audience is really into this lecture. One of Edward Said's last public talks and one of his best.
