Category: Self-help

Description: Dr. Jaqueline Becker says bullying in many cases starts at home with the parents. Becker is a psychologist and author of More TIME INs, Not More TIME OUTs: Parent Without Bullying — A New Approach to Raising Children. The parental bullying Becker talks about isn't related to child abuse cases resulting in local and national news and/or arrests, but rather it focuses on the less obvious daily "unconscious" bullying that parents inflict on their children. Becker can discuss for your listeners how parents unintentionally bully their children without knowing they are doing it or why, what the damaging psychological effects are, and how parents can learn to parent without bullying.

Category: Public Awareness

Description: Social Impact Initiative- In recent years, the rumor driven debate regarding the safety of vaccines has negatively impacted child immunization rates. The lack of vaccinations pose a serious health risk to our community because the greatest success story in public health is the reduction of infectious diseases due to the use of vaccines. When I was a little girl, I dreamed of becoming a part of the Miss America Program. I used to look up on that stage and imagine myself wearing a tiara and dancing but as I have matured, I have realized it is so much more. It is an opportunity to give of myself, encourage and empower others around me and share my social initiative. Using the stage and title of Miss Washington would grant me an enormous chance to spread “Be Smart, Don’t Start”. I would love to inspire the people of Washington to live a life as their best self, free from the bonds of addiction.

Guest: Lawn Love

Contact: Jeremy Yamaguchi

858-353-0998

LINK: lawnlove.com

Category: Public interest

Description: "Lawn Love is great for growing a small business and expanding it to something larger", said lawn care provider, Albert Milam. The company was founded in 2014 to revolutionize lawn care services for the 80% of American households that have a lawn. Lawn Love has since partnered with over 20,000 independent lawn care contractors. Lawn Love has completed more than half a million jobs across 120 cities in the United States. Lawn Love, an app similar to Uber or Lyft, but for professional lawn care services is launching in Washington. The service enables its users to instantly schedule, review, and pay for various types of yard work through the use of a mobile app or website. The platform is powered by satellite imaging software which reviews a property and generates a quote in less than two minutes.

"Traditionally consumers have had to wait for a lawn care worker to physically come to their property, offer a quote, and schedule the service. It can take weeks to get the job done after initial contact was made. We're excited to be bringing modern lawn care to Washington residents," said Founder and CEO, Jeremy Yamaguchi.

Description: The flip side of low unemployment has been the shortage of workers for available jobs — especially highly skilled people. And once they are hired, keeping them can be a problem for some companies because of the high demand for specific types of talent and experience. But the problem of good employees finding greener pastures is not just about better money — it's also due to poor work cultures that don't inspire individual and collective growth, says entrepreneur and author Arnie Malham. "Your hiring practices should reflect the philosophy of putting culture first," says Malham, (www.WorthDoingWrong.com), author of Worth Doing Wrong: The Quest To Build A Culture That Rocks, and founder/president of BetterBookClub.com. "You attract the best by becoming a place with the inspiring, cool culture, communication and values that would draw the attention and respect of others.

Description: Ulman Foundation's cross-country charity bike ride, the 4K for Cancer, will send two teams of young adults on a 70-day journey cycling across the country to raise money and awareness for young adults impact by cancer. The teams began their trip on Sunday, June 2nd, 2019 in Baltimore, MD. As they make their way across the country, the Seattle team will each cycle over 4,000+ miles to finish their journey in Seattle, WA on August 10th, 2019. The team will be biking through Newport, WA on July 27th and 28th. Along the way, the riders will stay with host communities that provide a floor to sleep on and, on many days, a warm dinner. Our hosts are often churches, firehouses, schools or recreation centers. On running days, participants bike between 50 and 120 miles each. On rest days they volunteer in local hospitals, hospitality houses, and other local non-profits. Each team will also give two scholarships to young adults affected by cancer. Ulman Foundation enables these groups of college students to undertake cross-country cycling and running journeys through America with the goal of offering hope, inspiration and support to more than 200 communities along the way. There are two cycling teams and two running teams.

Description: Stair-ing is Caring - yes, it's another fitness based fundraiser - but we can't have too much money raising for great causes and this one is a bit different in the simplest way - it's what's missing that makes it wonderful. Also, the setting of T-Mobile Park is pretty iconic and fun!

Description: The correlation between children reading and intellectual and emotional development is fascinating to learn about, or, for those with children, to experience first hand. But in a time of competition between screens and reading - how do we best cultivate our young yearnders? Maria Russo is the Children's Books Editor of the New York Times Book Review and will help us in the right reading direction.

Description:

Horses are loving ultra intelligent animals that need tons of care - when there's a care gap, what do we do with these big besties? We spend a lot of time talking about rescue dogs and cats, but rarely does the subject of a horse in need of a home come up - thankfully, SAFE was started to take care of the equine in need of assistance!

Description: A homeless man who gave up on life somehow turns things around and becomes a successful businessman, obtaining both wealth and happiness. But for Andres Pira, the rags-to-riches fairytale wasn't just a Hollywood melodrama – it was real life. Andres, the author of “Homeless to Billionaire: The 18 Principles of Wealth Attraction and Creating Unlimited Opportunity”, once said, “When I was a teenager, I didn't have the confidence that I could amount to anything that my parents would be proud of, so I lived my life without specific goals.”
