Description:

It's an exciting term that's really taken flight in the last decade the concept of the Rescue - a cat or dog from your local shelter that otherwise would go on to face an uncertain future in less than ideal conditions. Now rescue pets are a point of pride - how excellent bc the population of pets in need of homes will always be a challenge. It also makes it so clear why we need to be proactive and stay focused on keeping the numbers more manageable via spay and neutering.

Airdate: 11/17/19

Category: Arts/Communication/Culture, Business/Labor, Health/Wellness

Description:

Seattle is one of America's great musical communities but the people who make the music are artists that often find themselves underserved for healthcare and other benefits. Seattle Musicians Access to Sustainable Healthcare (SMASH) are a small team of people looking to fill the gap for these artists.

Program: 'Conversations' Part: 1

Guest: Fire Chief Randy Krause

Airdate: 11/17/2019

Category: Technology, Education, Transportation, Health/Wellness

Description:

The Port of Seattle introduced a new technology to SEATAC International Airport that will help travelers learn the basics of CPR in the short (or long) time waiting for flights during the holiday season and beyond. Fire Chief Ranch Krause helped us understand the program as well as the larger operation of fire services at one of the busiest airports in the country.

Airdate: 11/24/19

Category: Education, Economy, Government, Families/Youth

Description:

Saving for college may be the last thing we want to worry about but probably one of the things that needs to move to the front of our family economics mental cues. These things can be so tricky, luckily, there are people in this community who specialize in making this not only more straight forward but also successful.

Description:

Somehow, over the last decade talking about the environment has become a polarizing and touchy subject... The people who have to deal with current choices we make are the youth who will inherit our decisions as history has always dictated. Today we'll find out how Washington Foundation for the Environment spends its time engaging those very young people who will make our future decisions based on our choices today.

Description:

The notion of kids not having enough to eat is troubling to say the least. Within most communities there lives a population that goes underserved and relies on the support of the big hearted amongst them. In Sultan, Washington, that group is large but well served by Sky Valley Youth Coalition. It's a big task and they need our help.

Description:

STEM is a super great buzzword we hear a lot of in the greater Seattle region. It's an acronym for Science Technology Engineering and Math - skills for students to build a future based in critical thinking. As with many things, there's a shortcoming for STEM students in minority and impoverished communities. The Big-Brained Superheroes Club are helping immigrant and refugee kids keep up!
