* The Coronavirus is now a global health emergency. That determination was made by the World Health Organization today. Six cases have been confirmed in the United States. Today the C.D.C. confirmed the first known case of person-to-person transmission in the U.S. The virus spread to a man in Chicago, whose wife was diagnosed with it after she visited Wuhan, China, which is ground zero for the outbreak. C.D.C. officials say there are 21 possible cases of the coronavirus in Illinois, and the agency is tracking 92 possible cases across the country. Our reporters went to the streets of Pensacola and interviewed people here to see if they are worried about the virus.

 The Department of Health and Human Services have declared a public health emergency over the Coronavirus, as the death toll rises to 213. The virus has infected almost 10 thousand people around the world in just two months. The U.S. State Department is now warning Americans not to travel to China. The CDC ordered a 14-day quarantine for nearly 200 Americans who returned from Wuhan, China this week, where the virus originated. Delta, American and United Airlines announce they'll temporarily cancel all flights to mainland China, after the World Health Organization declared the outbreak a global emergency.

In a related story, it was a turbulent week for stock markets as worries about the Coronavirus weighed on investors' minds. Analysts expect the outbreak to have an impact on consumer spending in China, the second-largest economy in the world. In the U.S., stocks dropped today, with the Dow falling some 400 points, or 1.4 percent. The S&P fell 1.2%, and the NASDAQ fell 1%. The Dow and S&P are currently on track for their worst week since August 2019.

He asked the city to donate the money to Pensacola Energy and Sanitation Services, to help people who are out of work and need help paying their bills. The City of Pensacola is keeping their public Parks open but are reminding park visitors to observe safe social distancing. They're advising visitors not to use playground equipment, park benches and other shared public surfaces. Frequently touched surfaces are not being disinfected. *65 Several local hospitals today changed visitation policies to help curb COVID-19. Baptist Hospital, Gulf Breeze Hospital and Jay Hospital have enacted a no-visitation policy, with exceptions for end-of-life and critical caregivers. Approved guests will be screened before entry.

Many services are considered crucial during the Pandemic, among them medical, public safety and food distribution. Today Okaloosa County Commissioners heard from those in the building industry who asked to be included as essential, saying it's important that they continue to have access to permits and inspections. Commissioners did not take action on the request, but they did vote to extend the County State of Emergency for another week.

The Okaloosa School District today began handing out Chromebooks today to students for online learning. Superintendent Marcus Chambers said over 17,000 devices will have been handed out by tomorrow, and the District is also working to get internet access to families who need it.

Currently, 38 employees of the Escambia County Sheriff's Office are in self-quarantine. 21 are deputies and 17 are employees of other departments. They have no cases of COVID-19 but are acting out of an abundance of caution. Some are self-quarantining because they had travelled to "hot spots".

The battle over closing beaches in Escambia County may resurface next week. Last week, Commissioner Robert Bender said the beaches would stay open, but the next day the Commission voted to shut them down. Today, Commissioner Jeff Bergosh went live on Facebook with the County Administrator and County Health Director Dr. John Lanza, explaining that he voted to close the beaches after receiving a letter from Dr. Lanza and the CEOs of area hospitals expressing concern over the crowds and lack of social distancing.
