1. Ted Rossman, Senior Industry Analyst at CreditCards.com

Recent interest rate hikes by the Federal Reserve are leading to substantially higher costs for anyone with credit card debt. Mr. Rossman said roughly half of American consumers are carrying a credit card balance from month to month, and the numbers are increasing due to inflation. He offered suggestions to try to pay down debt and consolidate balances with low- or no-interest credit cards.

Issues covered:
Personal Finance
Inflation

Length: 7:58

2. Marisa G. Franco, PhD, Assistant Clinical Professor in the Department of Psychology at the University of Maryland, author of "Platonic: How the Science of Attachment Can Help You Make - and Keep - Friends"

Many people, particularly men, have few friends. Prof. Franco discussed the critical importance of friendship, and how to make and keep friends in an era of distraction, burnout, and chaos. She said making friends, like cultivating any relationship, requires effort, and the idea of "friendships happening organically" is generally a myth. She outlined several specific, research-based steps to improve the number and quality of friendships.

Issues covered:
Mental Health

Length: 9:23

3. Arpita Ghosh, PhD, Assistant Professor of Educational Psychology at the University of Kansas

When veterans leave the military, they face a multitude of major challenges, including a transition into higher education or a new career field. Prof. Ghosh led a recent study that found that assistance typically designed to help civilian students are also effective for veterans. She talked about the strengths that veterans can bring to a company and outlined the resources that are available to veterans to make the transition.

The State of Arkansas does not have a property tax. However, Arkansas cities and counties do collect property tax, which is the principle local source of revenue for funding public schools. The tax is calculated based on twenty percent of the market value of real and personal property and the average annual value of merchants' stocks and/or manufacturers' inventories based on millage rates in individual school districts. Business firms and individuals are subject to annual property tax on all real and personal property. Current taxes can be paid any time between March 1st and October 15th without a penalty. After October 15th of each year a ten percent penalty is added to your personal property and real estate taxes. In addition to the ten percent penalty, interest on real estate taxes is added each month until taxes are paid. Personal property taxes are applied to items such as vehicles, motorcycles, trailers, etc. and are paid to your county collector. The Tax Dollar Breakdown consists of your general taxes for the current year only. It does not include any Special Improvement Taxes or Assessor Penalties, which may have been added due to late assessment. Reminder current taxes are due October 15th

The federal government recently announced plans to cancel up to $20,000 in federal student loans per borrower and to extend the pause on federal student loan repayments through the end of the year. In addition, the federal government announced important changes to public service loan forgiveness and income-driven repayment plans. With these major changes, the Arkansas Attorney General is warning consumers that these new policies will likely lead to an increase in con artists perpetrating student loan relief scams. Scammers and con artists will take advantage of the latest news to invade your wallets. If an unknown individual asks for your personal information, including your Federal Student Aid ID, do not respond. Neither your loan servicer, nor the Department of Education will ask for your personal information over the phone or in an email.

1. Never pay upfront for assistance with your student loan debt.
2. The Department of Education will need time to implement the new programs and get relief to borrowers. No company can help you speed up the process. You can subscribe for updates at ed.gov/backslash/subscriptions.
3. Contact your loan servicer directly with any questions. Your loan servicer can help you get access to qualifying programs, like debt relief or repayment options. Make sure you ask if you qualify for public service forgiveness program or income-driven repayment.
4. Remember: Anyone promising instant debt relief or pressuring you to work with them is a scammer.

3. Dana Thomson, PhD, Senior Research Scientist at Child Trends, a research organization focused on child poverty and public policy

With little public notice, child poverty in the U.S. fell by 59% between 1993 and 2019. She said lower unemployment rates, increases in single mothers' labor force participation, and increases in state minimum wages accounted for about a third of the improvement, but that taxpayer dollars spent on social programs were also a major factor. However, disparities by race and ethnicity, natural origin and family structure persisted. She explained what other changes she believes are needed to continue the trend.

The bucket of candy remains from Halloween and the Arkansas Attorney General is warning the public about the increased prevalence of illegal fentanyl pills designed to look like well-known candy. Parents should be aware of these extremely dangerous drugs and be able to identify signs of a potential overdose.

Fentanyl is a synthetic opioid, known to be 50 times more potent than heroin and 100 times more potent than morphine. In 26 states, the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) has seized brightly colored, "rainbow fentanyl" that looks like candy. According to the DEA, drug cartels are smuggling the fentanyl across the southern border to target young children, including those in elementary and middle school.

Very small amounts of fentanyl are extremely deadly. Even a small dose can be lethal enough to kill multiple individuals. Everyone should take strong precautions to ensure that children do not encounter products that may contain fentanyl. Parents should speak with their young children, and even teenagers, to educate them and provide age-appropriate guidance on the dangers of this look-a-like drug.

Signs of fentanyl overdose include, but are not limited to:

1. Small, constricted pupils
2. Falling asleep or losing consciousness
3. Difficulties breathing
4. Choking or gurgling sounds
5. Limp body
6. Cold or clammy skin
7. Discolored skin (especially in lips and nails)

If you suspect your child has ingested fentanyl, call 911 immediately.

Consumers who encounter suspected fentanyl products should not touch the item and contact law enforcement immediately.

Warning Arkansans be wary of con artists attempting to convince unsuspecting consumers that they have missed jury duty and are facing law enforcement action. The scammers often call consumers under the guise of representing a law enforcement agency or court official, claiming that the individual faces a fine or imprisonment for missing jury duty. Attorney General Leslie Rutledge encourages all Arkansans to verify the legitimacy of their jury summons by contacting their county's circuit clerk directly.

Intimidation and impersonation are common practices for con artists. Criminals are becoming more brazen by offering consumers a badge number and spoofing their phone number to make the call look like it is coming from the courthouse or local law enforcement agency.

Rutledge released the following tips for consumers who are contacted by these scammers:

- Contact your local circuit clerk to determine whether you truly are expected to report for jury duty.
- Contact local law enforcement, provide the name, badge number you receive to verify the officer's information and confirm that you were contacted by that officer.
- Court officials will not ask for your personal information social security number, address, credit card number or any other personal or financial information.
- Court officials will never ask individuals to pay fines with gift cards or bitcoin. If an individual asks you to transfer currency into bitcoin, it is probably a scam. Hang up the phone.

If you fall victim to one of these phone scams, file a complaint with the Attorney General's office. ArkansasAG.gov.

As you start preparing your holiday schedule and organizing that large family feast, remember, by following a few simple safety tips you can enjoy time with your loved ones and keep yourself and your family safer from fire.

Thanksgiving is the peak day for home cooking fires with more than three times the daily average for such incidents. Christmas Day and Christmas Eve ranked second and third, with both having nearly twice the daily average.

Top safety tips

- Stay in the kitchen when you are cooking on the stove top so you can keep an eye on the food.
- Stay in the home when cooking your turkey, check on it frequently.
- Keep children away from the stove.
- Make sure kids stay away from hot food and liquids. The steam or splash from vegetables, gravy or coffee could cause serious burns.
- Keep knives out of the reach of children.
- Be sure electric cords are not dangling off the counter within easy reach of a child.
- Keep matches and utility lighters out of the reach of children — up high in a locked cabinet.
- Never leave children alone in room with a lit candle.
- Keep the floor clear so you don't trip over kids, toys, pocketbooks, or bags.
- Make sure your smoke alarms are working. Test them by pushing the test button.

Reminder, as the children across Arkansas begin heading back to school after Thanksgiving. Triple A (AAA) urges motorists to slow down, stay alert in neighborhoods and school zones. Also, to be especially vigilant for pedestrians during before- and after-school hours. Children are particularly vulnerable during the afternoon hours following their school day. Over the last decade, nearly one-third of child pedestrian fatalities occurred between 3 and 6 p.m. AAA offers several reminders on ways to keep kids safe this school year:

1. Slow down. Speed limits in school zones are reduced for a reason.
2. Eliminate distractions. Children often cross the road unexpectedly and may emerge suddenly between two parked cars. Research shows that taking your eyes off the road for just two seconds doubles your chances of crashing.
3. Reverse responsibly. Every vehicle has blind spots. Check for children on the sidewalk, driveway and around your vehicle before slowly backing up.
4. Talk to your teen. Car crashes are one of the leading causes of death for teens in the United States, and more than one-quarter of fatal crashes involving teen drivers occur during the after-school hours of 3 to 7 p.m.
5. Come to a complete stop. Research shows that more than one-third of drivers roll through stop signs in school zones or neighborhoods.
6. Watch for bicycles. Children on bicycles are often inexperienced, unsteady, and unpredictable. Slow down and allow at least three feet of passing distance between your vehicle and the bicycle. If parents and other driver's follow these simple rules when driving around school zones, countless children can avoid injury and death.

When you decide to support a cause you care about, you want your donation to count. Doing some research and planning your giving can help ensure your donations get where they'll do good. Look for a charity to support? Search for a cause you care about. When you consider giving to a specific charity, search its name review it's rating for possible scam.

- Keep scammers' tricks in mind
- Don't let anyone rush you into donating.
- Some scammers try to trick you into paying them by thanking you for a donation that you never made.
- Scammers can change caller ID to make a call look like it's from a local area code.
- Some scammers use names that sound a lot like the names of real charities.
- Scammers make lots of vague and sentimental claims but give no specifics about how your donation will be used.
- Bogus organizations may claim that your donation is tax-deductible when it is not.
- Guaranteeing sweepstakes winnings in exchange for a donation is not only a scam, but also illegal.

If you see any of these red flags, or if you're not sure about how a charity will use your donation, consider giving to a different charity.

There are many worthy organizations who will use your donation wisely. You can report scams to FTC.gov/complaint.

During the holiday season, scammers are targeting Arkansans who may be looking to make some extra money. These con artists often use the mystery shopper scam to take your hard-earned money, with the promise of getting more in return.

Retailers use mystery shopping to evaluate their service's. Mystery shopping does not cost anything upfront. Retailers are not allowed to contact shoppers on an unsolicited basis. The Federal Trade Commission states that you should not purchase gift cards or deposit and send money prior to starting work.

A list of red flags that a mystery job may not be legitimate:

- Advertised in the help wanted adds.
- Businesses requiring certification to be purchased ahead of time.
- Guaranteeing the mystery shopper job.
- Website's charging fees to access shopping opportunities.
- A directory of companies that hire mystery shoppers is available for purchase.

The Mystery Shopping Association offers a database of jobs and how to apply for them. The organization offers a certification program requiring a payment. Certification is not needed to apply or look for jobs. For more information you can contact consumer@arkansasag.gov.

Spot Length :30 Coop for RARN Friday Night Football

Hi this is Tim Griffin, your Lieutenant Governor. You know there's something really special about football in the South. On Friday nights, I'm a Magnolia Panther. My wife, she's a Camden Cardinal. We love football season because it's a special time with family and friends. As your Attorney General, I'll work to keep dangerous criminals off our streets, so we can all focus on what matters most: our faith, our family, and our friends. I'm Tim Griffin and I'm asking for your vote. Paid for by Tim Griffin, your Attorney General.
