Issue	Date	Time	Duration	Description
Government	7/15/17 7/16/17	13:00 17:00	0:54:00	Latino USA: This week on Latino USA: a woman fights to bury her Latino husband after he was denied burial in a "whites only" cemetery in Texas.
Government	7/22/17 7/23/17	13:00 17:00	0:54:00	Latino USA: Looking at the news these days, you might notice some common trends all over the world: a rise in populism and authoritarianism. In Argentina, we look at the history of trauma left behind by a military dictatorship in the 1970's, and trace one family's search for a missing son. And in Venezuela, violence and economic struggles worsen as protests against the government intensify.
Immigration	8/05/17 8/06/17	13:00 17:00	0:54:00	Latino USA: The new administration has said that if you're in this country illegally, "you should be looking over your shoulder." On this episode, Latino USA looks at what is changing with immigration under President Trump and how those changes affect people in the real world. We hear about a man was asked to buy his own plane ticket to get deported, look at tensions between local police and ICE in Texas, and hear from the director of a new office created by the president to support the victims of crimes committed by "illegal aliens."
Crime	8/12/17 8/13/17	13:00 17:00	0:54:00	Latino USA: President Trump has been talking a lot lately about MS-13, a street gang that started in California and spread to Central America. But what is the real story behind the gang?
Crime	8/26/17 8/27/17	13:00 17:00	0:54:00	Latino USA: From rising reports of hate crimes to a Latina student injured at the recent protests in Charlottesville, to the use of high tech surveillance methods in immigration enforcement, what happens when home starts feeling hostile?
Immigration	9/02/17 9/03/17	13:00 17:00	0:54:00	Latino USA: A man dies in a U.S. immigration detention center, under unusual circumstances. He is found unresponsive in his cell, with a sock stuffed down his throat. His death is ruled a suicide, but little information is put out about what happened, and the family wants answers.
Immigration	9/09/17 9/10/17	13:00 17:00	0:54:00	Latino USA: In part two of our two-part special, we continue our investigation into the death of a man in a U.S. immigration detention center. José de Jesús turned himself into Border Patrol saying somebody was after him. Three days later, he died by suicide after stuffing a sock down his throat.

Economy	9/31/17 10/01/17	13:00 17:00	0:54:00	Latino USA: A professor at UCLA recently calculated what he is calling the Latino GDP: If all the Latinos in the United States made up their own country, their GDP would be the 7th largest in the world, right behind France. Today, Latino USA explores the effects of this rising Latino economic power, from the arrival of hit bilingual shows like Narcos to how brands develop advertising campaigns targeted at Latinos.
