WPS out repairing damage from weekend storms	News	4/2/18	6a,7a,8a	1:30	Public Service crews have been out repairing damage for the weekend winter storm, much of it in Forest County, just as another round is setting up. Snow is expected to develop across the North later this afternoon bringing 2-to-4 inches on average. A Winter Storm Watch has been extended to 1:00 Wednesday morning as significant accumulations are expected Tuesday and Tuesday night with an additional 5-to-7 inches likely. Gusty winds will again make driving difficult and travelers are urged to monitor local forecasts for the latest information.

The battle for a nonpartisan seat on the Wisconsin Supreme Court is a partisan-driven slugfest seen as a possible harbinger of voter attitudes heading into the fall midterms. Sensing a victory in Tuesday's election could be a momentum-builder, a bevy of national Democrats have endorsed Rebecca Dallet, a Milwaukee County judge. She's running against Michael Screnock, a judge appointed by Republican Gov. Scott Walker. Both parties have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on their respective campaigns.

The deer was freed, rested a few minutes then took off back into the woods.
Arrests in Merrill over the weekend	News	4/2/18	12p,5p	1:30	Three people were arrest Saturday night after a Lincoln County deputy found a wanted person in Merrill. The 30-year old Irma man gave false ID and after officials learned his real identity he was taken into custody on felony warrants from Marathon County for theft and bail jumping. The K9 unit alerted to drugs in

The charge against Nelis was reduced when the Wisconsin Supreme Court made a ruling on the admissibility of blood evidence last year. Nelis has had 19 criminal convictions over the last 20 years and is an admitted drug addict. Another late season snowstorm has its sights set on Wisconsin. Snow will intensify tonight and tomorrow with accumulations up to 11-inches expected across NE and central parts of the state.
Heavy snow on the way	News	4/3/16	6a,7a,8a	1:30	The heaviest snow of the latest storm to hit Wisconsin is still on the way, expected

				to move in later this morning across NorthCentral parts of the state bringing an additional five to eight inches. Winter storm warnings remain in place until 4:00 tomorrow morning. Schools and some services from Stevens Point to Rhinelander have closed for the day, many already last night. The list is on this station's website. City officials in Rhinelander remind drivers of the overnight parking ban downtown and if possible to not park on the streets so crews can efficiently clear the snow. It's voting day in Wisconsin with a referendum question whether or not to eliminate the state treasurer's position and a hotly contested state supreme court race drawing attention. China responds to Trump's high tariff's	News	4/3/18	12p,5p	1:30	China is responding to the Trump administration's higher tariffs on steel and aluminum by adding a 15 percent charge onto items like American ginseng. Ninety-five percent of the ginseng produced in the U-S comes from Wisconsin. China is also increasing tariffs on U-S products like pork, fruit, and wine. The Ginseng Board of Wisconsin says China buys more of its product than any other country. It is possible that Chinese consumers will turn to ginseng produced in Canada due to the price differential. Polls across the state opened at seven this morning to several inches of snow and more coming down and election officials stress not only the importance of your votes,

A Marathon County judge told prosecutors there wasn't enough probable cause to move forward with two felony charges against a Wausau mother. Twenty-six-year-old Chantele O'Brien was accused of causing mental harm to a child, plus two counts of child neglect. Police found evidence of drug use when they executed a search warrant at her home. When police arrived at the door, O'Brien's seven-year-old daughter reportedly asked if officers were there to get "all the needles," then showed them where they were. O'Brien will still have to face the two misdemeanor neglect charges.

New mayor in Rhinelander	News	4/4/18	6a,7a,8a	1:30	A sweeping statement was made yesterday as write-in candidate Chris Frederickson captured 58% of the vote and won the Rhinelander Mayor's race over city council and county board member Alex Young with 39%. Another write-in, Scott Counter, was a distant third. Campaigning on a platform of involving the people and not being a politician, Frederickson said he's looking forward to getting started. He replaces incumbent Mayor Dick Johns, who's retiring after 13 years in office. Incumbent district 4

				alderman Tom Kelly just beat challenger Kyle Rogers. Ron Counter, Anne Munninghoff Eshelman and David Holperin, all incumbents, won additional terms to the Rhinelander School Board. For county board, Alex Young lost his district 3 seat to Bill Liebert, Steven Schreier beat Bill Freidenberg in district 4 and Bob Mott held his seat in district 7. Two open seats go to Russ Fisher and Robert Almekinder. In other races of note, Using his age as part of his platform, 25-year old Derek Woellner beat incumbent William Bialecki for the Mayor's seat in Merrill, Merrill also approved a $2.5-million school referendum...Prentice voters said yes to an $8.5-million measure...DC Everest's $60-million dollar referendum passed, but a

					12.6-million plan to update schools in Phillips was turned down. Only one of six incumbents on the Forest County Board survived with Steve Bunda in district 16 the only winner. In the state Supreme Court race, liberal Rebecca Dallet defeated conservative Michael Screnock. And voters rejected the referendum question, keeping the state treasurer's position that's been around since before Wisconsin was a state.
Record voter turnout in Rhinelander for mayoral vote	News	4/4/18	12p,5p	1:30	Election officials in Rhinelander said it was a record turnout in the city as voters chose a write-in candidate at its first new mayor in 13 years. Newcomer Chris Frederickson beat back incumbent city council and county board member Alex Young in a contest that

				centered on change for a city hall that's been mired in problems the last few years. Frederickson said he hoped his campaign helped with a turnout that included a number of new voters and a total nearly 10% higher than average for a spring election. He won the job with 58% of the vote to Young's 39. Another write in, Scott Counter picked up 4%. Liberal Judge Rebecca Dallet defeated conservative Michael Screnock for a seat on the Wisconsin Supreme Court, carried by big margins in Milwaukee and Dane counties. Conservatives still control the court four-to-three. And even though current Wisconsin State Treasurer Matt Adamczyk was working to eliminate his job, voters overwhelming decided they want to

					retain the office. State treasurer was one of five original state offices created by the Wisconsin Constitution in 1848. With Dallet's win, Governor Scott Walker is warning of a possible Democratic wave in November. He said big government special interests flooded the state with distorted facts and misinformation. Next, they'll target me. Walker is running for a third term this fall. Tribal ID's are now a legal form of identification. Governor Walker signed the measure yesterday, allowing the use of tribal identification cards for picking up prescriptions as well as purchasing and selling certain items.
Election results	News	4/5/18	6a,7a,8a	1:30	The successful write-in campaign for Rhinelander mayor wasn't the only one

				in the area. Another name not on the ballot in Crandon was Glen Pfeifer, who made it to the embattled school board. Pfeifer retired after 17 years as Crandon's middle and high school principal and now wants to work on fixing the problems in the district. Superintendent Dr. Doug Kryder was suspended by the board last month, the subject of an investigation by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department. Pfeifer wants him out. Also looking for change is the group Citizens United for Education, and it may start with a recall of board members. Those plans are still in the works. A Marshfield man denies charges he molested an eight-year-old girl, accusing the child's mother of making up the story. Now, his legal troubles are even

				worse after skipping a court appearance this week. Prosecutors say 18-year-old Zachary Noll touched the victim inappropriately more than a dozen times starting in January 2015. The girl says he threatened to kill her if she told anyone. When Noll failed to appear in court, the judge issued an arrest warrant and scheduled a bail forfeiture hearing for April 17th. Praising the bipartisan support for the legislation, Governor Scott Walker was in Wausau yesterday, signing a number of bills to improve the lives of foster families. The measures strive to help foster parents create a stable environment during traumatic changes for a child. They also provide financial support to teens once they grow out of the foster care system.

Accident closes down northbound lanes on Hwy 51	News	4/5/18	12p,5p	1:30	An accident around 7:30 this morning closed the northbound lanes of Hwy 51 at County Y in Hazelhurst. No other information is available. Investigators with the Chippewa County Sheriff's Office arrested a woman who gave them a false name as they were checking out a stolen vehicle report. Thirty-eight-year-old Emily Sweeney of Chippewa Falls told deputies her name was "Amanda Bunce." Bunce is her identical twin sister. When they found the man suspected of stealing the vehicle in Ladysmith, he called her Emily. Gale Field was taken into custody at a home in the town of Tilden after he was found hiding on its roof. Sweeney has been charged with misdemeanor resisting or

Witnesses tell police Jared Roberts threatened to "shoot-up" the school April 20th, which is the anniversary of the fatal attack on Columbine High School in Colorado. Co-workers say Roberts discussed his plan with them at Walmart. He apparently said he would shoot the school resource officer first because he was the only one with a gun. Roberts told investigators he didn't have access to any firearms. A search of his home didn't turn up any weapons. Well below normal temperatures and more measurable snow are in the forecast heading into the weekend. A couple inches

Traffic on Hwy 51 slowed down	News	4/6/18	6a,7a,8a	1:30	Highway traffic through Woodruff and Arbor Vitae will be slowed down the next couple years as construction on the Hwy 51 corridor starts back up. The $9.3 million project includes a new intersection with Hwy 47. Work includes new water mains, lighting, signals, center turning lanes and more and is expected to be complete by October of 2019. University of Wisconsin System President Ray Cross says discussions about cutting more than a dozen liberal arts majors at UW-Stevens Point could extend

				into the fall. Cross told the Board of Regents during a meeting Thursday that UW-Stevens Point officials are currently discussing the cuts with shared governance groups, faculty and students. He says those discussions could go on well into the fall semester. He added that the regents have entrusted chancellors with the authority to change their schools' programs and regents shouldn't insert themselves into what he called a "campus-based conversation." UW-Stevens Point has proposed cutting the majors to cope with a projected $4.5 million budget deficit. The plan calls for adding or expanding 16 programs with a higher demand.

An altercation with a tribal member last year brought charges against Mole Lake

					Chairman Chris McGeshick. The 53-year old faces charges of false imprisonment and intimidating a witness, both felonies and two misdemeanors. He's rejected a plea deal and July 30th was set for a court date. The Sokagon Chippewa Tribal Council has backed McGeshick in contesting the charges. The Oneida County Economic Development Corporation has a new executive director, naming Stacey Johnson of Arbor Vitae to replace the retiring Roger Luce.
Marathon Co. man takes plea deal	News	4/6/18	12p,5p	1:30	A 56-year-old Marathon County took a no contest plea to charges he locked a woman in a wooden box and sexually assaulted her. Allen Jamroz will be sentenced on convictions

				of second-degree sexual assault and false imprisonment in June. The victim says Jamroz asked her to help with a remodeling project in his basement, but she says he attacked her with a stun gun and tied her up in December 2016. Prosecutors dropped charges of kidnapping and battery as a part of a plea deal. Former Wisconsin Governor Tommy Thompson said he was not surprised to see Rebecca Dallet win the Wisconsin Supreme Court race on Tuesday. "I thought Dallet ran a strong campaign," he said in Rib Mountain this week. "I knew the Republicans were in trouble. I think it's indicative of what's taking place across the country. There's a Democratic wave and that Democrats are much more energized." Thompson was in the Wausau area to help celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Wisconsin Institute for Public Policy and Service.

Several residents of Edgar have reported seeing a bear which has been roaming around the north-central Wisconsin community. Their reports have appeared on the Edgar Police Facebook page. Police are urging people to be on the lookout for them and make sure food and water aren't accessible by keeping pets inside and not put their garbage containers out until just before collection time. Locals are being asked to call the U-S-D-A Wild Life Services office if they spot him.

Candidate drops out of state governor race	News	4/9/18	6a,7a,8a	1:30	Another candidate has dropped out of the Governor's race in Wisconsin. Michele Doolan ended her campaign over the weekend, throwing her support behind former State Democratic Party Chairman Matt Flynn. Last month Bob Harlow announced he was leaving citing funding problems. A number of Democrats are still active in their bid to unseat incumbent Republican Scott Walker in November. Meanwhile, the Wisconsin Supreme Court kicked a decision on of the John Doe investigations against Governor Walker back down to a lower court. A Brown County judge will now decide whether or not to release or return millions of documents related to the investigation of Walker's 2012 gubernatorial campaign. The state justice department is still looking into how many of those documents were leaked to the media.

A broken water main has Merrill residents running their water until discoloration clears up. City Police in an online post over the weekend stated people had been calling to report the poor condition of the water.

Drivers heading westbound on Highway 29 may experience delays on their commute beginning today. The Department of Transportation will complete routine maintenance and repair damaged concrete pavement on the westbound section of the highway between Edgar and Abbotsford. There will be daytime single lane closures and the speed limit will be reduced to 55 mph.

					In addition, work on the Highway 97 interchange is scheduled for completion before the end of the day on April 19. This schedule may change depending on weather conditions and construction progress.
Jobs to be lost in the state with major stores shutting down	News	4/9/18	12p,5p	1:30	The Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development estimates that more than 22-hundred jobs could be eliminated by the closing of 12 Boston Stores and Younkers locations by early June. The parent company, Bon-Ton Stores, Incorporated, says it hopes jobs can be preserved through a sale process. It said it is in active discussion with an investor group to acquire the stores. State and federal laws require companies like Bon-Ton to make an official notification when there is potential for job losses. If employees do

				lose their jobs, that would start to happen June 5th. Taylor County Sheriff's deputies say the 71-year-old woman who died in a house fire had been smoking a cigarette near her oxygen supply. Authorities say they got a 9-1-1 Friday afternoon from a man saying he and his wife were inside their burning home. Arriving deputies say 79-year-old Michael Rantanen was outside when they arrived, telling them his wife was still inside. Smoke and fire kept the deputies from entering. Firefighters from Rib Lake were able to enter the house shortly after that, finding Susan Rantanen's body in the living room. Gov. Walker to establish new economic zones across the state	News	4/10/18	6a,7a,,8a	1:30	Federal officials okayed Governor Scott Walker's list to establish new economic opportunity zones across the state. 120 of them stretch across 44 counties including Ashland, Langlade, Lincoln, Marathon, Oneida, Price and Vilas. The zones, created by the new federal tax law designed to spur development, creates a tax incentive for businesses and individuals that invest in the zones.

				The Rhinelander School Board last night weighed several options to help alleviate overcrowding, the biggest of which was moving to draft an offer to purchase the St. Joseph's church property. Potentially the school would be used for early childhood and 4K classes. Other discussions considered having eighth grade in the high school and fourth and fifth graders in the middle school. These are only options at this point as the board works to deal with the costs of such moves. The Marathon County Board will set its own mining regulations tonight. The Janesville Republican said he was anxious to spend more time with his family and added he was satisfied with his accomplishments, including tax reform and an increased defense budget. The move now triggers a race to replace his leadership role in Washington, mainly between majority leader Kevin McCarthy and

Minocqua man still being

The Minocqua man accused of murdering his wife 36 years ago still maintains his innocence. Robin Mendez pleaded not guilty yesterday in the 1982 death of his wife, Barbara, whose body was found at the Park City Credit Union where she worked. The case was cold for decades until his daughters volunteered evidence they were coerced into saying he didn't do it. Mendez is still held on a quarter million dollar bond and is back in court June 20th. An autopsy is planned for today on a man, found in the closet of a Marathon County motel room. The Sheriff's Department reported the body was found about 12:30 yesterday at the Village Inn of Marathon City, a restaurant and bar with a five room motel on the second floor. Authorities do not believe the public is in any danger.

Three years ago an emergency rule was placed on the Minocqua Chain of Lakes for catch and release of walleye.

Two years are left and now biologists say it looks like the population of the popular gamefish is starting to rebound. Stocking of extended growth walleye fingerlings combined with the no bag limit for both sport and tribal anglers are showing signs the previous slow natural reproduction of the fish is turning around.

The DNR indicated some 60,000 more fingerlings will be introduced over these next two years.

And in sports, the toughest schedule in the NFL belongs to the Packers who'll open their season against the Bears and end it at home

Preliminary report of the crash of the Spirit helicopter	News	5/1/18	6a,7a,8a	1:30	Federal investigators with the National Transportation Safety Board expect to have a preliminary report into the crash of the Spirit Medical Transport helicopter in Hazelhurst later this week. The craft went down late Thursday, killing the pilot and two medical staff. More than $20,000 has been raised for the families of pilot Rico Caruso, paramedic Greg Rosenthal and nurse Klint Mitchell. The three will be remembered in a private church service in Woodruff Friday morning. Meeting in special session last night, Rhinelander's City Council accepted the sudden resignation of interim City Administrator Keith Kost on a 5-3 vote. Kost left the position after meeting with Mayor Chris Frederickson last week.

				Veteran council members directly asked the newly elected mayor why he quit but Frederickson said it dealt with personnel issues and he couldn't comment. He did say there were differences in management styles. They also questioned the lack of transparency on the matter that appeared to center on disciplinary actions. The group then tabled further discussion on whether or not to have another temporary replacement or press ahead with hiring a new administrator. The application deadline for filing was last Friday through the firm hired to conduct the search. GOVhr will bring the finance committee up to speed on the progress at their meeting next week. Wisconsin Attorney General Brad Schimel has awarded the first school safety grant under a law signed in March by Governor Scott Walker. Schimel announced today (Friday) that the Kenosha Unified School District is the first grant recipient. The district will get about 889-thousand dollars. The district will use the money to train staff in youth mental health, building security assessments and provide physical building safety upgrades. The funds will also be used to provide training in how to spot threats to schools on social media. The new law creates 100-million dollars in grants for school safety upgrades. Walker signed it in the wake of a mass shooting at a Florida high school in February. Schools have until Monday to submit applications.

The head of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers Association says its members had hoped the US-D-A would finalize any federal market order being considered before growing season started. The U-S Department of Agriculture wants to limit the nation's cranberry crop to 75-percent of its normal size, but the decision isn't final yet. The move would be aimed at decreasing supplies and raising prices. The federal government has done this in the past and prices did go up. If the order is approved, the extra cranberries can be sold as soil supplements or feed for cattle.

She pleaded no contest to two misdemeanors yesterday in Oneida County Court and will spend two years on probation and undergo a mental health assessment. Meanwhile, the 59-year old Teresinski, of Three Lakes, faces felony counts for repeatedly assaulting a child. His jury trial is set for August 9th & 10th.

Northland Pines High School Principal Scott Foster is the new administrator for the district. Already the assistant administrator, Foster replaces the retiring Dr. Mike Richie, in the position 15 years. He leaves June 30th of next year and will be working with Foster during that period.

Severe weather in southern Wisconsin yesterday spawned several tornadoes, two of them confirmed in Grant and Lafayette counties. Little damage was reported. The National Weather Service is investigating another twister that briefly touched down in Iowa County near Plattville.

With the warmer summer weather, the Oneida County Health Department is advising people to take steps to avoid tick and mosquito bites. Both insects carry a number of diseases, with Wisconsin among the top 20% of states reporting cases of lyme disease in the country. The agency recommends EPA-approved repellants, wearing light-colored, long sleeved shirts and long pants and take steps to control insects on family pets and around the home among other things.

Mosinee man going to prison	News	6/27/18	12p,5p	1:30	A Mosinee man is going to prison for 13 years after pleading guilty to charges of sexual assault and false imprisonment. Allen Jamroz was sentenced in a Marathon County courtroom Tuesday. He admitted locking a 20-year-old woman in a wooden box in his basement while sexually assaulting her. The woman says she is too frightened to have a relationship with anyone after the December 2016 attack. She had gone to Jamroz's home to visit his granddaughter. He asked her to help him with a project in his basement and used a stun gun to force her into the box and screwed it shut. The victim managed to escape hours later.

				The DNR reports human error is to blame for the release of sewer water into the Wisconsin River last January. About 65-hundred pounds of anhydrous milk fat from the Kraft Heinz cheese plant in Wausau drained into the sewer and plugged it up when the material solidified. That led to three-point-seven-million gallons of sewer water flowing into the river. The human error involved a valve being set incorrectly during a production run. The cleanup cost the city more than 51-thousand dollars.
