Issue/Organization	Description		Duration
Community: Domestic Violence and Teen Entrepreneurship	Author and entrepreneur Damika Kelly discusses new book "Love Is Not Pain," which describes her journey overcoming domestic physical, mental, and verbal abuse. We also discussed her initiative to support young girls in entrepreneurship and her upcoming pitch competition which would provide scholarship money to young ladies who have big ideas.	7/14	23:00 minutes
Health & Wellness: Sustainable Farming in Washington DC	In Wards 7 & 8 there are food deserts where residents cannot get healthy foods which is why Chef Jamie and Cam founded the Chocolate City Farmers Market. This market fees over 100 families monthly in dc with local produce from farmers and vendors and educates Washingtonians on how to cook with healthy foods and try different things in their homes. We discussed food deserts in parts of DC and nutrition and obesity.	7/25	25:00 minutes
Community: Police Relationships and National Night Out!	On August 6th, National Night Out events will be happening across the country and in Prince George's County, County Executive Angela Alsobrooks discusses the unique approach they are using to get residents to interact and ask questions and get to know their first responders. We discussed how police and Prince George's County government are working to improve interactions within the communities and the importance of National Night Out.	8/4	18:00 minutes
Education: Mentorship and Mental Health	Motivational speaker CJ Blair discusses new community partnership with Core Services agency which provides mental health resources in the DC Metropolitan area. Spokesperson Cortney Stewart discussed culture cognitive development and how CSA integrates with the community to get people the help they need.	8/18	26:00 minutes
Social & Civic: Safer, Stronger DC Initiatives	Executive Director Del McFadden and Chief of Staff Marcus Ellis discuss pathways to peace programs at the Office Of Neighborhood Safety & Engagement. They focus on family traumas and the most at risk individuals in neighborhoods to help them turn their lives around. They discussed public safety and how the pathways to peace program has changed the lives of people who were once a major danger in their communities.	9/1	23:00 minutes
Community: Homeownership and Gentrification	Founders of Capital Invest, Reggie Riley and Marcus Thomas discussed free programs and events to help people who are looking to purchase but may not have the financial means or education. They also discussed investment opportunities in a housing market that may seem overwhelming and over saturated. We also discussed the growing changes in the District and why many feel they are being pushed out of their communities and what they can do to hold on to their properties.	9/8	26:00 minutes
