Typically, we talk about new year's resolutions and losing weight but this year I want to talk about truly getting healthy. With COVID in our midst its important to maintain a keep a healthy immune system. I want talk about less sugar consumption, more vegetables, more nuts and berries, loos the processed food and minimize the fast food. Let's not go on a diet this year lets change our diet forever. Let's try and eat more fish and chicken and less fried food. Taking control of our health starts with taking control of what we put in our bodies. Its like putting cheep gas in our cars, after a while it wont function properly. Good clean food is the way to a good healthy body. On top of this all let go for a walk, do some exercise get the heart beating not just to look good but to feel good.

In this show I want to talk about Valentines how do we show love not only to our spouse or our significant other but to those people who are around us on a daily basis. The other day I received a small gift from a friend and thought that was nice and thoughtful. We all like gifts we all like to be thought of and we all like to feel good. This Valentine I challenge you to Pay it Forward. When was the last time you got someone a cup of coffee without them knowing it. Its important to reach out to those we work with and get them a small card or their favorite candy just to say thanks. Think of it this way if you walk into your office and sitting on your desk is your favorite coffee without you expecting it. For Me it's a breakfast burrito.

Back in February a survey was conducted by the state regarding kids going back to school. “Our most recent survey makes it clear that educators in many districts in our state believe that the conditions needed to ensure a safe and equitable return to school have not yet been met.” Although now it looks like Rio Rancho and APS are set. We are back to in person education. What does that mean? How can parent prepare their children. It is a much needed step in moving forward for our children and our teachers and parents.

PROGRAM TITLE: New Visitation Guidelines for New Mexico’s Long Term Care Facilities
PROGRAM LENGTH: 30 minutes
DATE AIRED: March 27, 2021
TIME AIRED: 7:30 AM
FORMAT: Interview Segment –
SOURCE: Produced by the Station

Over the past year our moms, dads, grandmas, and grandpas have suffered the most through this whole pandemic. This last week the New Mexico visitation guidelines have changed. In this show we'll talk about what those changes are. Some of those changes include: Outdoor visitation remains the preferred method of visiting, even for those who are fully vaccinated, as the environment poses a lower risk for transmission. Indoor visits are also allowed under the new guidance, with requirements surrounding the size of the room and number of occupants. If a resident is fully vaccinated, they may choose to have close contact with their visitor, this could include hugging, holding hands, etc., while wearing their mask and washing/sanitizing their hands afterwards. Communal dining and social activities are also now allowed, so long as social distancing requirements continue to be followed. All testing, infection control measures, and public health instructions (like mask wearing and social distancing- 6ft for those wearing masks and 12ft for residents who are unable to be masked) remain in place and must be followed. If there is an outbreak, the facility must pause visitation until all requirements in the guidance have been met.
