We anticipate that the campaign will include a number of books to be provided for programs/schools in your community that serve children in need, and there will also be an exciting on-air /online / social media campaign.

Highlights of the 2020 campaign include inviting the public to help Disney Publishing Worldwide donate a million books to First Book through a #MagicOfStorytelling Shelfie Social Media Campaign, a buy a book give a book promotion on shopDisney.com, and by entering one or more First Book-sponsored sweepstakes. There will also be Magic of Storytelling Events in cities across the U.S.

About First Book

- First Book, a nonprofit social enterprise focused on equal access to quality education for kids in need, provides educators with brand-new, high-quality books, educational resources, and other essentials to help kids learn.
- In its 28-year history, First Book has distributed more than 185 million new books and educational resources.
- First Book serves over 450,000 programs and classrooms serving children in need, many in your local area.
- By making new, high-quality books available on an ongoing basis, First Book is helping to transform the educational opportunities for children in need.

Book Allocation

Through this campaign, Disney Publishing Worldwide aims to donate 1 million books to First Book via the Magic of Storytelling Campaign. (Please note that there is no maximum number of book donations for this year's campaign.)

This year, your Magic of Storytelling call to action (Option 1) is to encourage your community of educators serving children in need to register with First Book! We hope that every ABC station will encourage at least 25 new educators in your community to become First Book members.

And as in years past, if you have funding to cover the discounted shipping and handling charges for books at $0.65 per book, First Book will work with you to distribute books to programs serving children in your community (Option 2 or 3 described below).

Each school/program receiving books must satisfy First Book eligibility criteria <https://www.fbmarketplace.org/eligibility-faqs/> * and must register with First Book by following the First Book registration link at <http://www.firstbook.org/MOS>, (unless they are already registered with First Book).

*The following organizations/programs are eligible to sign up with First Book:

- Head Start
- Title I or Title I eligible School
- USDA Food and Nutrition Program
- Federally Qualified Health Center
- Title VII recipient
- Military family support program
- Library with an E-rate of 90
- A program primarily serving children with disabilities
- A program where at least 70% of children come from low-income families

How you can bring new books to your community

Option 2 - Local ABC station identifies a school/program to receive the books and covers shipping and handling

- In connection with the 2020 Magic of Storytelling campaign, DPW expects to donate thousands of new books to First Book. First Book plans to allocate a portion of the donation to provide free Disney titles to eligible schools/programs in your local community. To participate in this option, your station will need to identify an eligible school/program and cover the discounted shipping and handling for each 500 book bundle at $325 ($0.65/book).
- Your local station can select an eligible* school or program any way you choose, including via a local media campaign or other methods.
- Stations wishing to allocate more than 500 books may request additional books to the same or different eligible schools/programs in 500 book increments. Stations must cover the shipping and handling costs of these additional books at $0.65 per book.

*First Book eligibility requirements are listed here:
<https://www.fbmarketplace.org/eligibility-faqs/>

How you can bring new books to your community

Option 1 – Spread the Magic of Storytelling by encouraging local eligible educators to register with First Book!

- This year, you can help by encouraging thousands of educators serving children in need across the country to register with First Book during the Magic of Storytelling Campaign.
- We challenge you to encourage at least 25 First Book eligible educators in your community to register!
 - First Book eligibility requirements are listed here: <https://www.fbmarketplace.org/eligibility-faqs/>
- Once an educator is registered with First Book, they will have access to new books and educational resources, including incredible Disney Publishing Worldwide (DPW) titles. First Book can provide your station with information about the school(s) and/or program(s) selected at the conclusion of the campaign. This information may not be available until December 2020 after the campaign has ended.

Please note: this option does not directly connect a station with a local school/program for a local media opportunity. If that is of interest, please consider Option 2 or 3 below.

How you can bring new books to your community

Option 3 – First Book chooses a school/program to receive the books and the local ABC station covers shipping and handling

- With this option, First Book handles all distribution details for sending the books to a selected school/program. First Book will initially target your market/DMA from the list of newly signed up educators through the <http://www.firstbook.org/MOS> registration link . Your participation in the First Book registration challenge will help better ensure there are First Book eligible* schools/programs registered in your community to become beneficiaries.
- Once First Book has selected a school/program for a book donation, your station will need cover the discounted shipping and handling for a 500 book bundle at $325 (to cover the $0.65/book shipping and handling).
 - In connection with the 2020 Magic of Storytelling campaign, DPW plans to donate thousands of new books to First Book. First Book plans to allocate a portion of the donation to provide free Disney titles to eligible schools/programs in your local community.
- Once a school/program has agreed to receive the book donation, First Book will request their permission to introduce the educator and local station contact for a potential media opportunity.
- Stations wishing to allocate more than 500 books may request additional books to the same or different schools/programs in 500 book increments. Stations must cover the shipping and handling costs of these additional books at $0.65 per book.

*First Book eligibility requirements are listed here:
<https://www.fbmarketplace.org/eligibility-faqs/>

While books are free, shipping and handling is $0.65/book

At this time the local stations should also decide whether they will be identifying a local school/program to receive books (Option 2) or having First Book choose the local school/program (Option 3). If the local station chooses a school/program, the station will pay the cost of a 500 book bundle at $325 to cover the shipping and handling for the books at $0.65/book.
- 2. If you've selected Option 2, share the school/program you have identified with First Book by February 15, 2020. Once you have identified the school/program and confirmed your participation with Apsara Perera (Apsara.N.Perera@abc.com), please complete the following form:
