Local Issues Addressed During the Quarter

The following are some of the local issues of concern in the community. Programs that addressed these issues during this reporting period are listed on the following pages.

Issue/Concern	Brief Description of the local issue or concern
----------------------	--

Health: There was a lot of talk about weight loss drugs and obesity rates climbing. We focused on a variety of grants given to non-profits with the goal to help rural and medically underserved communities. February is heart health month so we highlighted some of the signs of heart attacks and the importance of exercise. The state also merged six health agencies into one to create better efficiencies.

Safety: There was a shooting on the campus of SC State University, luckily no one hurt but we followed the new safety protocols put in place, including adding gun sniffing dogs. Domestic violence cases rose in March with three separate cases in three different communities, so we shared some advice for victims.

Politics: The Presidential primary was held in February for both the Democrats and Republicans. It was the first in the nation for Democrats. The Republican primary was a competition between former President Donald Trump and Nikki Haley. We also had several smaller county elections.

Crime: We covered a shooting in the Five Points area, one of the busiest commercial districts in Columbia. There were a variety of phone scams where people lost money believing the messenger. The jail in Richland county continues to struggle with staffing and inmate issues. A high profile case involving Alex Murdaugh was back in the news, related to the financial crimes charges.

Consumer: WLTXTV shared some budgeting advice and hacks to save you money. There are also stories about the Richland mall demolition and what would be popping up in its place. One our communities, Sumter, is considering adding a solar farm.

Education: SC started out the year with a report showing it has one of the highest rates of pre-school suspensions. There are new electric buses in Orangeburg to help pollution and increase safety. Summer lunch programs are in trouble with a recent decision by the legislature to opt out of the Summer EBT program. Every week we highlight a teacher who is doing good things in the classroom.
