Tonight on Praise: David Eubank, Author, Founder & Leader of the Free Burma Rangers, shows scenes from the "Free Burma Rangers" movie and shares his new book: "Do This for Love Free Burma Rangers in the Battle of Mosul." David shares his message that Jesus is supernaturally real and is ever present with us. Call on his name and watch what He does in your life and obey Him. It's worth it. It actually works. Following Jesus, you can afford to lose, and you can go for it with His purpose and His drive because you know He has you and that nothing truly precious is eternally lost. We are all going to die. Life is fatal, but it's not final, there is something else. The question is, how are we going to live? David's wife, Karen, and his son, Peter, share their experience traveling with David and the relief group into conflict areas. David also talks about his mission as an illustration to resolve conflict in America, our family, or whatever we face.

Tonight on Praise: Max and Denalyn, Teaching Minister and Husband and Wife Author Team, discuss isolation and loneliness. Many people do not feel connected to one another. Their new book "You Are Never Alone" was written over a year ago. While the issue of loneliness was present prior to COVID, since the pandemic, the number of calls to emotional help hotlines have increased by 861%, and depression and suicide rates continue to rise. They also discuss humility, responding to authority biblically, and serving others during this COVID season, that many would be won for Christ as we acknowledge and accept a sovereign God.

Tonight on Praise: Brian Tome, Senior Pastor of Crossroads Church, Author & Podcast Host, talks about 'aggression,' the key to get your life to a new place. In 2020 we have all been humbled because we are not in control as much as we think we are. What is our response to all that happened in 2020? Do we just wait for everything to get better? There is something we can all do to get our life to a new place. Brian shares that during this pandemic he experienced mild depression that manifested as irritability, anger, lack of sleep, and a lack of interest in previous hobbies. Brian recognized the need to give himself grace, the importance of exercise, sleep, being around people, and taking action to do what he could do. He asks the question: Do you want more? What do you want to do? During COVID we need to bless others. Brian talks about us having what God is waiting for us to have, if we move on the things that God wants us to move on. This is not a time to look back and regret what we have not done or the missed opportunities. It is time right now to ask, where I am right now, what does God want me to move on? Every hero in the Bible is a hero because they aggressively moved on something. They did not just wait for something, they moved toward something.

CBN News Reporter Lorie Johnson Reports: Hospitals across the nation are pushed to the limit due to a spike in COVID-19 cases. Things are particularly bad in Utah and parts of the Midwest. In El Paso, Texas, the situation is so dire residents face a mandatory 10:00 p.m. curfew to blunt the impact. El Paso's largest hospital has prepared for the worst by erecting overflow tents in the parking lot in case there aren't enough beds inside to handle a possible influx of patients. Nationwide, 42,000 people have been hospitalized this week. In Texas, that number surpasses 5,000 – almost double what it was last month. Texas physician Craig DeLisi told CBN News he's concerned about the rise in hospitalizations. Dr. DeLisi said one reason for the increase in cases and hospitalizations is the cooler weather, which drives people inside where the disease is more easily spread. Also, after seven months of practicing mitigation efforts, people are simply tired of wearing maskings and keeping their distance from others. There, the doctor prescribes caution, but no fear. While a lot of attention is focused on increased infections in some places, one often overlooked statistic is the drastic reduction in death rates, a reported 80% since April. According to Johns Hopkins Coronavirus Resource Center the U.S. death rate now stands at 2.6%, lower than 14 other countries in Europe, South America and the Middle East. Six months ago, patients hospitalized with COVID-19 in the US faced a 25% chance of death. Now doctors are seeing a much lower death rate of 7% among those hospitalized with the virus. That includes the anti-viral medication Remdesivir which blocks the replication of the virus. On October 22, 2020, it became the first drug to be approved by the FDA to treat COVID-19. The steroid medication has been given Emergency Use Authorization by the FDA and is used to calm the often deadly "cytokine storm," the over-reaction of the immune system caused by massive inflammation. Both Remdesivir and Dexamethasone were given to President Trump after he was diagnosed with COVID-19. One of the most highly touted drugs given to the president, a polyclonal antibody made by the pharmaceutical company Regeneron, isn't yet available to the general public, but the FDA could issue an Emergency Use Authorization in the months ahead. President Trump is one of only a couple of hundred people to be given the drug on a Compassion Use basis. The drug stimulates a robust immune response to the virus. In the meantime, hospitals are now using a similar treatment, convalescent plasma, which is antibody-rich blood donated by people who have survived COVID-19.

CBN News Reporter Lorie Johnson Reports: Even as coronavirus cases and hospitalizations are surging across the nation, rays of hope are beginning to break through. This week brought news that Moderna's vaccine tests show it's 94 percent effective. That's the second vaccine showing promising results in just two weeks. Last week, the US hit a record number of COVID hospitalizations, surpassing one million new confirmed cases in just the first 10 days of this month. Deaths are climbing again. The new wave appears bigger and more widespread than the surges that happened in the spring and summer. Unlike the earlier outbreaks, this one is not confined to just one part of the country. But now both Pfizer and Moderna's coronavirus vaccines have reached a testing-milestone, they'll soon seek FDA emergency use authorization. The two vaccines are similar. Both use what's known as messenger-RNA technology, require an initial shot then a booster three weeks later, and need to be kept frozen. Meanwhile, nine other drug companies are nearing the end of their coronavirus vaccine trials, meaning more than one vaccine will likely be approved. FDA vaccine consultant and Stanford researcher Dr. Kari Nadeau helped develop both the Johnson and Johnson and Novavax vaccines. She says regardless of the approved option and timing, Americans can trust the process. And technological advances over the years have helped to speed-up vaccine development. Scientists have been analyzing COVID-19 vaccine data as it comes in, instead of pouring over pages of information after trials are finished as is typically done. Plus, millions of doses are being manufactured now instead of waiting until after approval. Distribution plans have also been mapped out so vaccines can be administered the moment the FDA gives the go-ahead. Last month, nine companies issued a joint statement promising not to seek FDA approval unless a vaccine meets their toughest safety standards. The Centers for Disease Control and National Institutes of Health add that when vaccines receive the green light, their data will be made available to the general public. In the meantime, people should talk to their doctor about any concerns. No vaccine is 100 percent effective. The Food and Drug Administration says the lowest it will tolerate is 50 percent efficacy. Masks and social distancing may still be advised in the months following the release of one or more vaccines.

CBN News Reporter Caitlin Burke Reports: Since COVID-19 initially slammed the economy, we're now seeing a recover; with stronger than expected job growth, falling unemployment rates, and even payroll increases. However, the latest numbers also reveal more working mothers being forced to choose between careers and their children. Some of the earliest jobs lost to the pandemic came in restaurants, salons, hotels, and retail – all industries dominated by women. Then, as the economy began to re-open, many schools remained closed, keeping students home to learn virtually and forcing parents to make it work. It wasn't long before that became unsustainable for Thomas and she chose to quit her job as a director for a non-profit to focus full time on her family. She is now among the nearly 900,00 women who left the workforce in September, right as the school year began. One potential downside for Thomas is that, according to a Washington Post analysis (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/graphics/2020/business/coronavirus-recession-equality/?itid=1k>) inline manual 19), mothers of school-aged children are taking longer to re-enter the workforce. Economists fear this could have long-term consequences for working women. The authors of a report (http://faculty.wcas.northwestern.edu/~mdo738/research/ADOT\_0720.pdf) published by Northwestern University state that, not only will it take longer for these women to find hard work, they will also find it harder to get jobs comparable to their previous positions. Researchers conclude that could result in decades of women earning less. Meanwhile, this pandemic is also weighing heavy on mothers who are working outside the home. Martin returned from maternity leave in August, then only a month later, she found out her two older children would be learning from home. Staying home isn't an option financially for her family so Martin finds herself helping with school assignments from work, at nights and on weekends. Her limitations weigh heaviest when sees her children struggling. Many economists say priority number one should be getting kids back in school. They're pushing Congress to pass another stimulus that includes checks specifically for families with children, hoping to provide a financial cushion to help pay for childcare or private schooling.

CBN News Reporter Charlene Aaron Reports: A surge in COVID-19 cases coupled with plunging temperatures has led to greater safety measures for homeless shelters across the country. Some must limit the number of people they can help during the pandemic when the need is even greater than usual. The Bowery Mission, a Christian shelter in New York City, first opened to the city's homeless in 1879. Earlier this year, the Big Apple became ground zero in the battle against the coronavirus, forcing the Bowery Mission to change procedures. Winans said the changes come just as needs have grown. Further south, Union Mission Ministries, in operation for 125 years in Norfolk, Virginia, has also made adjustments. Gray explained that the Union Mission can only fill half its normal 400 bed capacity. And earlier this year, they had to turn some people away. With its doors still open, the Mission continues to extend a helping hand to those in need, while miraculously keeping COVID at bay. For the Bowery, running five locations during the pandemic has been especially difficult. He said there have been a few flare-ups. To keep cases down, residents are given daily temperature checks and hygiene has become top priority. As the whole county battles a resurgence of the virus, both The Bowery Mission and Union Mission Ministries stand ready to serve their cities' most vulnerable.

CBN News Reporter Dale Hurd Reports: This will be your future if some powerful people at the World Economic Forum get their way: you'll own nothing and "be happy about it." Energy will be green, rationed and expensive, and travel will be restricted. Your diet will be controlled, and currency will be digital. This left-wing dystopian dream is called the Great Reset, and you're supposed to be excited about it. The Great Reset (<http://weforum.org>) has been labeled a conspiracy theory and parts of it sound like a conspiracy theory, but everything we know about it comes from the global elites themselves, who have been quite open about it. The Great Reset was unveiled at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland, where many of the world's most powerful people go to offer solutions to the world's problems. They have said that the coronavirus pandemic as a historic opportunity to change the way the world operates. And their solution is essentially global socialism. Think of the Green New Deal combined with the COVID-19 lockdown restrictions and throw in something called the Fourth Industrial Revolution(<http://weforum.org>), in which technology is supposed to radically change the way we live and work. It has support not only of world leaders but of global corporations like Mastercard and BP and is brought to you by people who think they know what's best for you. But a Trump reelection would blow a massive hole in the Great Reset. The elites at Davos are now counting on a Biden victory for The Great Reset to go forward. We'll know more about the Great Reset when the World Economic Forum meets again in January.

CBN News Reporter Charlene Aaron Reports: According to a report by the National Urban League, African Americans are infected with COVID-19 at nearly three times the rate of white Americans. And blacks are twice as likely to die from the virus. Still, many don't plan to get the vaccine. A recent Pew Research survey found that only 32 percent of Black Americans adults answered they would either definitely or probably take a COVID-19 vaccine. According to a report by the COVID Collaborative, just 14 percent trust the vaccine's safety. To build confidence among communities of color, a group of black health professionals put out a public service message. Dr. Reed Tuckson, Founder of Black Coalition Against COVID says a vaccine can't come soon enough given the devastating impact he has witnessed. He admits much of the hesitation goes back to the Tuskegee Syphilis Experiment, a 40-year government study involving hundreds of black men. The men, mostly poor sharecroppers suffering from Syphilis, were monitored by government health officials but not treated. Many died, went blind, or experienced other severe health problems. It is a history that still haunts many in the black community. Dawn Baker, a local news anchor in Savannah, GA chose a different response. She took part in critical trials for the COVID-19 vaccine, something she sees as part of the solution to this deadly problem. Tuckson also pointed out that much has changed since the experiment. In the meantime, Tuckson said the medical community must earn the trust of blacks who are suffering from COVID-19 as well as those affected by the malpractice of the past.

CBN News Reporter Caitlin Burke Reports: When COVID-19 first took hold in the US, Carla Pratico's priority immediately shifted to her parents. The 60-plus group is considered high-risk in a COVID-19 world, even if they're otherwise healthy. According to a New York Life study, that's thrusting Millennials into the role of caretaker at an accelerated rate. The study finds 40 percent of Millennials are now likely to be caring for an elderly parent, compared with 34 percent of Gen Xers and 13 percent of Boomers. Goyer says young caregivers face unique challenges. Pratico would help act as a full-time caretaker for her day to give her mom a break. She found it nearly impossible to juggle work with his care. After six months, other family members stepped in to help and the Practicos decided to return home to New York City. Still, research shows a majority of Millennials predict they will continue providing financial, housing, or care-giving support even after the pandemic ends. A factor that could take a long-term toll. Therran Robinson, 28, has been a caregiver for more than 20 years. Doctors diagnosed his mother with a terminal autoimmune disease when he was just in middle school. Incredibly driven, Robinson worked to juggle a career with his care-giving responsibilities. Then the pandemic changed the game. Suddenly, keeping his mom safe meant staying home. Loneliness is another challenging reality for a caregiver, one exacerbated by this ongoing health crisis. In this case, going online is a blessing for Robinson and many other Millennials. Goyer says taking advantage of resources (<http://aarp.org/caregiving>) specifically for caregivers and having a support is especially important this time of year. According to a recent AARP survey, the pandemic has had a negative impact on the mental health of 44 percent of caregivers surveyed and nearly half (46 percent) of the people they tend to. Some care recipients may feel depressed or abandoned or have difficulty understanding the changes due to cognitive issues. If you're feeling down AARP has a family caregivers support group on Facebook (<http://https://www.facebook.com/groups/aarpfamilycaregivers/>) and a telephone support line at 1-877-333-5885. The trend of Millennials stepping in to help aging family members is only expected to grow. Experts say its imperative for this generation to begin factoring this into financial plans, as the pandemic has already highlighted how important it is to prepare for the unexpected.

CBN News Reporter Eric Philip Reports: Suicides are reaching epidemic proportions, and the numbers in the US military are up for the fifth year in a row. It's reaching across generations affecting current troops, veterans, and families. Kim Ruocco knows this from personal experience. Her husband took his life while at the height of his military career. Major John Ruocco served as a Marine Corps pilot for 15 years. A really good one according to his wife, Kim, and the accolades don't stop there. It's a battle he lost in 2005. A social worker by profession, Kim often sensed subtle changes in her husband's behavior during phone calls. John became a part of a growing statistic of active military and veterans who have committed suicide. The latest Pentagon research shows increases over the last five years with more than 500 military suicides in 2018 alone. A Veterans Administration report indicates some 6,000 veterans suicides each year between 2005 and 2017. Dr. Heather Kelly is a director of military and veterans health policy at the American Psychological Association. But there is help. After her husband's death, Ruocco started the Assistance Program for Survivors or TAPS. On the prevention side, the American Bible Society has rolled out the "God Understands Campaign" to help service members who are battling depression and other mental health challenges. It includes testimonies from people like Bryan Flanery who attempted suicide while in the army. Groseclose says social distancing in these times only magnifies feelings of isolation, and that could cause the already growing suicide numbers among service members to spike. He says the campaign provides a unique human and divine connection. In fact, experts say faith is what's called a "protective factor" when it comes to suicide. In other words, those who identify with all faiths are at a lower risk for suicide.

While the unemployment rate may be the lowest it has been in a half-century, the numbers that we are familiar with don't always tell the full story. On this episode of Taking Care of Business, find out the difference between unemployed and underemployed. Unemployed and underemployed people often face a tough time finding a job that will support them and their families. Many are in a tough situation and how they got there is often unexpected.

CBN News Reporter Chuck Holton Reports: The Trump Administration is making the fight against human trafficking a major priority. In addition to putting money behind the effort, a special unit US Marshals is making a huge difference. In Ohio, a joint operation between federal and state officers recently recovered 35 missing children. A similar operation rescued 39 missing children in Georgia. Behind all this success is a unit of the US Marshals Service. The Sex Offender Investigations branch is made of only three men, working overtime to save as many kids as they can. Of those, at least 65,000 are victims of the commercial sex industry. Ongoing riots and violence against federal courthouses in Portland and elsewhere, however, are taking agents away from this important work. These operations are also complicated because those rescues need special care. Because of COVID crisis and the de-fund the police movement, many agencies don't have the time or resources to track down child predators. And that's where the body of Christ comes in. There are ministries who are putting in the legwork to track down these predators and build cases that will give authorities everything they need to take these guys off the streets. One of them is All Things Possible Ministries, led by former Army Ranger, Jeff Tiegs. And what they find is often chilling. The Trump administration is taking action to put a stop to these heinous crimes. US Attorney General William Barr recently announced that over $100 million in grants is being awarded across the country targeted at human trafficking prevention initiatives. Those on the front lines of the battle have come to realize law enforcement isn't the ultimate solution.

On today's episode of Treasures, Sonny Arguinizoni, Founder of Victory Outreach International, introduces us to Lisa, a former prostitute. She shares how she became a prostitute and how God set her free from that bondage. Prostitution is widely considered the world's oldest profession. Women find themselves in brothels, hotels, and even street corners, facing dangers daily. Most of these women were pulled into this lifestyle at a young age. People may ask the question, "Why don't these women just walk away?" While it may be easier for some than others, many have been trapped into this lifestyle through sex trafficking and various situations with no way out. The answer is Jesus. He is able to deliver them and set them free.

On today's episode of Treasures, Sonny Arguinizoni, Founder of Victory Outreach International, and Sonny Arguinizoni, Jr., Pastor of Victory Outreach Chino, shows us the life of a former prostitute and how she found hope. Prostitution has been around for thousands of years damaging the lives of many women. Recent statistics tell us that the average prostitute begins selling her body between the ages of 12 and 14. Many of these women face physical dangers from assaults and rape. Some are even murdered in the streets. The great percentage of these women go on to contract sexually transmitted diseases and psychological disorders. To many, this seems like a hopeless situation, but we believe that nothing is hopeless when God enters the picture. No matter what you've done, no matter where you've been, God is able to change your life and turn your life around and give you a new direction, give you new purpose, and heal your broken heart. His love is able to change your life.

CBN News Reporter Dale Hurd Reports: The US government is still trying to assess the damage from a massive, 9-month long computer hack on some of our government's most classified networks. The hacking operation, disclosed publicly Sunday, began as far back as March, when much of the federal government and many of America's largest companies installed a software update on their IT networks that included malware called SUNBURST, which could lie dormant for weeks to avoid detection. One security expert told CBN News that on a scale of one to ten, this hack was a ten. Government officials admit they were stunned by the sophistication of the hack, and that many of America's most deeply held secrets may have been stolen. The infected software came from a company called SolarWinds in Austin, Texas, which provides computer network monitoring services to the White House, Pentagon, Secret Service, and most of America's Fortune 500 companies. After the hack, the SolarWinds customer page has been deleted from the company website. The hack was so bad that the Pentagon on Tuesday had to order an emergency shutdown of an internal communications network that handles classified material, something that reportedly never happened before. The mainstream media is calling this a Russian hack, but officials don't really know. They've only said it looks like it was foreign nation state, and that could include China. Whoever the hackers were and whatever they were after, it could take months or even years before experts have the answers.

On today's episode of Treasures, Sonny Arguinizoni, Founder of Victory Outreach International, and Sonny Arguinizoni, Jr., Pastor of Victory Outreach Chino, takes us into the lives of women locked up behind prison bars. The life of a woman prisoner is very dangerous. Many of these women will never adapt to so-called 'normal life' because of the traumatic experience they face behind those prison walls. There's a tremendous amount of tension, violence, and fear that women face daily. The percentage of women going to prison has skyrocketed over the last 30 years by 646%, rising from about 15,000 women to over 110,000 women. So many of these women experience physical and sexual abuse while imprisoned. More than one million women are a part of the criminal justice system whether it is through incarceration, probation, or parole. Many of these women are mothers, or mothers to be, at the time of their imprisonment, and 62% of these women have children under the age of 18 while in prison. These incarcerated women find themselves in a place of regret, depression, physical harm, and sometimes with suicidal thoughts. But the bars of a prison cell are not strong enough to hold back God's grace, love and forgiveness. These are the stories of a few women who were once locked in a prison cell but found the keys to freedom through Jesus Christ.

CBN News Reporter Charlene Aaron Reports: Jonathan Fleming spent nearly 25 years in prison for a crime he didn't commit. In 1989, jurors convicted him of second-degree murder in the death of a New York drug dealer. Fleming, who also sold drugs and knew the man, said he a solid alibi. But prosecutors argued that Fleming could have returned to Brooklyn to commit the crime. They also produced a witness who testified to seeing him pull the trigger. Fleming, however, was found guilty and spent the next 24 years of his life behind bars. Fleming said that anger consumed him until an experience he had at a church service behind bars. It was a spiritual transformation that answered long time prayers for Fleming's ex-wife Patricia Johnson. Fleming spent years trying to prove his innocence and a break finally came when new investigators along with Brooklyn's Conviction Review Unit took his case. Attorneys found evidence proving Fleming could not have been in New York at the time of the murder; information authorities never turned over to his defense team. These investigative teams, also known as Integrity Review Units, are spreading across the country. And in 2018 alone, statistics show they helped free 58 wrongfully convicted people. The eyewitness who said she saw Fleming commit the crime also recanted, and newly found witnesses implicated someone else in the murder. An Integrity Review in Georgia helped to free Darrell hall, who in 1991 had been sentenced to life in prison for possessing two grams of cocaine. Media mogul Tyler Perry recently gave Hall a job at his Atlanta studios. In Flemings case, justice arrived on April 8, 2014, after almost 25 long years behind bars. While Fleming is grateful for the work of attorneys and investigators, he said the real credit goes to the Lord. That included letting go of the anger he had towards those responsible for robbing him of nearly 25 years of his life, including time he missed with his mother who passed away shortly after his release. Fleming's story, the subject of an upcoming book entitled, "24/7: Wrongfully Convicted, Rightfully Released," has already been an inspiration. Meanwhile, the state of New York awarded Fleming $6 million dollars for his wrongful incarceration. He now hopes to help others through the Jonathan Fleming Foundation.

Tonight on Praise: Pastor Jimmy Evans, Founder and CEO of Marriage Today, and Author of his newest book, "The Tipping Point" talks about prophecy and the times we're living in. He also shares that school districts have instructed teachers that they can no longer refer to their students as boys and girls. If students insist on being called by a different pronoun you must comply. In sports, biological males are playing in women's sports. They are mutilating little children and schools are trying to do this without the parent's permission. Woke parents are raising children gender neutral because they want the child to get to an age when they make this decision. There is a website sexchangeregret.com established by a Christian man who transitioned from a man to a woman and became depressed. Forty-one percent of people who go through a sex change attempt suicide. Pastor Evans also addresses increased immorality and the covenant of marriage.

Few choices have as many dramatically positive outcomes as adoption. It increases the emotional, physical, and cognitive capacities of the children who are adopted. It improves the life chances of the biological mother. It saves vast amounts of money for the public. It brings much happiness, both to the adopting parents and to the adopted child. It is good for all involved and families are strengthened. Almost 25% of American households have adopted, and 135,000 children are adopted each year. But despite these impressive numbers, there's still a pressing need for greater awareness. Join us for this episode of Taking Care of Business and hear about how adoption changes lives for the better.

Every year, more than a quarter of a million children come into foster care in this country. More and more often, there simply aren't enough families to meet the need, and these children must wait in a residential setting for a family to become available. Child welfare advocates are calling us all to learn more about how to help these children in need. Join us for this episode of Taking Care of Business, and learn more about how foster care is a way of providing a family life for children who cannot live with their own parents, granting them a family life and a chance at stability that they desperately need.

Tonight on Praise: Jimmy Evans, Founder and CEO of Marriage Today, Pastor, Golfer, and Author of his new book, "The Four Laws of Love," shares the foundational laws of marriage. Pastor Evans talks about Harvard Sociologist Carle C. Zimmerman's report published in 1947 titled "Family and Civilization" which identifies the eight signs of an atomistic society. Currently, America has all eight signs present in our society today. Marriage is the foundation of all society. When you have stable marriages, you have a stable society.

CBN News Reporter Charlene Aaron Reports: More than 400,000 children make up the foster care system in the United States. Experts say COVID-related family issues are likely to increase that number. But there is good news as more families show an interest in providing homes for kids in need. Earlier this year when a video of a 9-year-old Oklahoma boy named Jordan pleading for a family hit the web, the story went viral. In just twelve hours thousands of inquiries poured in to adopt Jordan, who had been in foster care for six years. His case highlights the crisis of children stuck in America's foster care system. Kimberly Offutt of Bethany Christian Services said with lives disrupted due to the pandemic, many families are seeing a rise in substance abuse, domestic violence, and financial struggles. That is why Bethany is offering families much needed support, such as meals, transportation, and babysitting, to keep them from having to place their children in foster care. Through its "Safe Families Ministry," volunteers help vulnerable families by temporarily taking in their children while the parents regain stability. Bethany is now offering information, training, and licensing online for those interested in foster care and adoption. Another emerging trend Bethany has been seeing is more single parents getting involved in adoption. Meanwhile, to raise awareness for foster care and adoption amid the pandemic, on October 20, Bethany will be hosting a virtual event called "Family Changes Everything," featuring Francis Chan, Christian rap artist Lecrae and others.

Tonight on Thriving in 2020 with Elisabeth Hasselbeck: Kirsten & Ben Watson, Speaker and Former NFL Player, share that it is imperative for couples to thrive during these unprecedented times. It is reported that many couples are ending marriages due to relationship, economic, and family strains. Pressures can destroy you or prepare you. By changing our mindset, this is an opportunity for couples to emerge stronger if they approach it in the right way. They discuss having conversations with their children and others about important issues such as sex, abortion, the pandemic, racism, and politics. Their new documentary, "Divided Hearts of America," addresses abortion and the right to life with mercy and grace.

Tonight on Thriving in 2020 with Elisabeth Hasselbeck: Dave Ramsey, Radio Host, Author & Businessman, shares that the number one cause of divorce in America is money arguments and money problems. Compounded by the strains of 2020, money issues are only magnified. Dave shares practical steps for couples to thrive in their finances: Get into unity. Know your priorities. Talk about your fears. Choose prayer over drama. Plan a Dream Date to talk about your future, dreams, and desires.

On today's episode of Treasures, Sonny Arguinizoni, Founder of Victory Outreach International, shows us a home affected by alcoholism and how it impacted a family. Alcoholism has crept into many homes over the years. The pattern of the social drinker turning into an alcoholic has affected many lives to the point that entire families have experienced the pain that comes along with this vicious cycle. Children are among the most damaged by alcoholism. Statistics show that an estimated 6.6 million children live in a household with at least one alcoholic parent. Many of these children develop emotional issues such as guilt, anxiety, anger, and depression. Some often have difficulty building relationships with others, make decisions which lead to violence and crime, and for many, they end up following in the footsteps of their parents. It is a very sad cycle that many families cannot break for generations. However, this family was transformed by the power of Jesus Christ and He is able to change you and your entire family, as well.

CBN News Reporter Heather Sells Reports: Across the country, the economic pain is still hitting Americans hard with 21 million out of work and 6.6 percent of mortgages in delinquency. The congressional bailout that's been protecting mortgages and extending unemployment runs out at the end of December, putting pressure on lawmakers to pass another relief package. But investors are looking down the road and signaling their optimism. On Tuesday, the Dow rose more than 400 points to surpass 30,000 for the first time in history. Greg McBride, the chief analyst for Bankrate, a financial company, says it's especially significant after months of the economy getting hit by COVID-19 restrictions and lockdowns. Perhaps even more impressive, however, is the S&P 500, which represents the broader market, increasing by 1.5 percent on Tuesday for its own record high. It has far greater impact on 401K accounts than the Dow. What might be encouraging the stock market is recent news about the promising development of several vaccines with initial distribution possibly starting in mid-December. McBride says investors are paying close attention. President Trump, who has shunned the cameras in recent weeks, returned to the podium Tuesday to highlight the good news and praise the medical community. Many also believe that investors are encouraged to see the presidential transition process moving forward and in particular, former vice president Joe Biden naming the former Federal Reserve chairwoman Janet Yellen as secretary of the Treasury. The good news from Wall Street cannot trickle down fast enough for the many Americans who find themselves in long food lines this week, waiting for Thanksgiving turkey or just a few extra groceries. In Ft. Worth, Texas, Operation Blessing partnered with The Goodness Project and Gateway Church to distribute food. Gateway Pastor Stephen Wilson said the needs are great. But he also said the season is causing many to reflect on how God has provided.

On today's episode of Treasures, Sonny Arguinizoni, Founder of Victory Outreach International, and Sonny Arguinizoni, Jr., Pastor of Victory Outreach Chino, tell us the harsh but true reality that one in every five girls, and one in every twenty boys, are victims of child abuse. It's a startling fact that haunts today's society. The worst part is that many of these abused children grow up with psychological complexes and a poor self-image. More and more we see the news and hear how dangerous it is for our children. Our kids aren't even safe in their own schools anymore. It's a modern-day tragedy where these innocent children have to face these types of dangers. It's heart breaking. Today, we meet a few people who suffer from child abuse and learn how God was able to heal all their wounds.

Today on Rick Warren: Pastor Rick's Daily Hope: Pastor Rick Warren shares three of the most important life skills to learn: 1. How to de-escalate a conflict. 2. How to resolve a conflict. 3. How to reconcile after a conflict, a strained or broken relationship. In his message "A Faith That De-Escalates Conflict" Pastor Rick shares that peacemaking is not avoiding nor appeasing, which is co-dependence. He tells us ten biblical steps for defusing a conflict that this world and nation need right now. 1. Lower my voice. 2. Breathe and slow down the pace of your speaking. 3. Listen more than I talk. 4. Listen for the hurt behind the words. 5. Pray while I am listening. 6. Seek to understand before seeking to be understood. 7. Try to see their perspective. 8. Ask God to give me a clear picture of myself. 9. Admit any part of the conflict that I caused. 10. Choose my words carefully. Pastor Rick prays with viewers.

On today's episode of Treasures, Sonny Arguinizoni, Founder of Victory Outreach International, and Sonny Arguinizoni, Jr., Pastor of Victory Outreach Chino, let's us hear gripping true stories from mothers who have lost a child without notice to a senseless murder. There's little that is more tragic than the death of a child. The sad fact is that lives are lost every day. Every day, 33 Americans are murdered with guns and seven of those are children. When the horror of losing a child becomes a reality, the pain can be overwhelming. Not one person grieves the same. Everyone mother grieves differently. These mothers have overcome tragedy and have become overcomers in Christ. Jesus Christ is the answer.

Tonight on Praise: Ben Courson, Founder of Hope Generation, Best-Selling Author, and TV & Radio Host, talks about thankfulness. He shares that researchers and sociologists tell us that we are the most depressed generation on record because of social media. Often the holiday season is a very challenging time. One study shows there is a thirty-eight percent increase in stress during the holidays. Ben encourages us to disarm stress by giving thanks and shares scriptures about thankfulness. Research shows giving thanks increases happiness, causes you to be more generous, intelligent, and joyful. Ben talks about his history of depression, complex PTSD, and attempted suicide, and shares how he reframed his pain; seeing it in a way that is advantageous to helping others. He also talks about the importance of speaking thankfulness and going outside and getting sunlight.

Tonight on Praise: Dr. David Jeremiah, Founder & CEO of Turning Point Ministries, shares his new book "Forward" the Christmas Edition. He felt a lot of people were in a space where they didn't know how to get going again; they were just stuck. While we've had our share of problems in 2020; the pandemic, perhaps the loss of a loved one, loss of a job or business, the past should inform us, but it should not control us. No matter how old you are, your future is the most important thing about you. Dr. David Jeremiah shares ten things he experienced in his life that will help us move forward. Dream; learn how to dream big and ask God to bless that dream. God's plan for your life is so much better than your plan for your life, so believe that God is good. Pray; commune with God. Focus; find one thing God wants you to do. Risk; there is no such thing as moving forward by faith without it. Pursue; chase your dream. Believe; be optimistic. Get your mind right; it's our attitude that determines what we do. Invest in things that will live long after you are gone. Finish well; continue your calling throughout your life. Celebrate; change your 'forward' into 'forever' by receiving the gift of salvation through Jesus Christ.

Today on Live the Let-Go Life with Joseph Prince: Are things moving so fast in your life that you often feel breathless and unable to keep up? If you are exhausted by the pace you are running and want to walk in the restful unhurried rhythm that our Lord Jesus walked in, the good news is you can. You can live differently. You don't have to run the rat race like the rest of the world only to become the number one rat, or focus all your energy frantically climbing the ladder, only to find it doesn't lead you where you expected. If you are need of rest, this message is for you.

Today on Live the Let-Go Life with Joseph Prince: When a doctor's report stares you in the face, when your rebellious teenager walks out the door, when the bills pile up on your desk, how can you possibly experience a peace stronger than what you are facing? Today we are going to learn how to tune into God's peace in the midst of the storms of life and keep our eyes on his promises through any problem. There is someone who is more than able and more than willing, and there is someone working behind the scenes on your behalf. You are not facing life alone.

Tonight on Thriving in 2020 with Elisabeth Hasselbeck: Rebekah Lyons, Speaker and Author of "Rhythms of Renewal Trading Stress and Anxiety for a Life of Peace and Purpose," and "Rhythms for Life Planner & Journal 90 Days to Peace and Purpose," talks about thriving through times of stress. It is never too late to re-establish what we want in our life. Rebekah talks about being honest with yourself, taking an inventory of your life, having a time of reflection, and then taking action. She shares four rhythms for thriving: rest, restore, connect, create.

Today on Live the Let-Go Life with Joseph Prince: How is that two people can hear the exact same directions yet end up in two completely different places. Usually it has nothing to do with the direction given, but everything to do with the direction hearer. How you hear and what you hear are powerful. Consistently hearing the right words can cause faith to rise in your heart. It can bring a peace that pushes out the worries and fears, and it can even bring you your miracle. Today I want to teach you how to live the life that God has for you, a stress-free, worry-free, and peace-filled life.

Today on Joseph Prince: Live the Let Go Life: In a world of stress and unrest we are constantly bombarded with the newest methods of finding inner peace like meditation. Did you know that meditation (Bible meditation) originated with God? There are a lot of alternate versions out there that encourage searching for inner peace and transformation that begin and end with looking within yourself, but true peace, true transformation, only comes through meditating God's way; fixing our eyes on Jesus and on His life-giving word.

Today on Empty Out the Negative with Joel Osteen: We learn that we control what we think about and what we choose to allow in. Take inventory of what you give space to. Give no place to the negative; anger, bitterness, guilt, jealousy, doubt, worry, shame, regret, discouragement, and unforgiveness. Release the toxins of life to make room for the good things God wants to do in you and through your life.

Today on Joseph Prince: Live the Let Go Life: Are you stressed out by fussy toddlers, dealing with rebellious teenagers, worrying about family members that are going through a difficult time? I want you to know that God's blessing is not just for you but your entire family. You can be at rest knowing God loves and cares about the ones you love. It's time to let go of the fear filled worrisome thoughts concerning your loved ones and give them over to God. You can trust that He has a promise and a good plan for them.

Today on Empty Out the Negative with Joel Osteen: We learn that often we limit ourselves without realizing it. Our thoughts are limiting us. We draw in what we constantly think about. Your life is going to follow your thoughts. Instead of thinking weak, defeated, limited, unworthy, thoughts, think power thoughts, victory thoughts, abundance thoughts, favor thoughts, and can-do thoughts, on purpose. Think what God says about you. The battle is taking place in our mind. Set your mind for victory at the beginning of each day. Empty out the negative and fill up on the promises of God.

Today on Empty Out the Negative with Joel Osteen: We learn studies show that your attitude will have a greater impact on your success in life than your IQ. A bad attitude makes you unattractive and overrides what is on the outside. When we are kind and good natured, we draw people in. Try being kind, considerate, and pleasant to be around. You'll not only enjoy life more, you'll go further, and people will treat you better. While there are a lot of things we have no control over, the one thing we can always control is our attitude. If you are going to have a good attitude, you have to do it on purpose.

Today on Empty Out the Negative with Joel Osteen: We learn that we've all had negative things happen to us. It's easy to go through life offended, in self-pity, or blaming others, but when we're always looking back reliving the negative, we end up carrying around all this baggage that weighs us down. One of the best things we can do is learn to drop it, let it go, bury it. Don't talk about it anymore. Don't carry negative baggage from yesterday into today. The reason it's called the past is it's over. It's done. It's history. Look forward. You are not defined by your past. You are prepared by your past. Right now there is freedom and new opportunities. Move forward, knowing that your best days are ahead. Better is coming. Drop it. Leave it. Let it go. Trust God.

| Today on Rick Warren: Pastor Rick's Daily Hope: In 2020, travel came to a sudden halt; schools, churches, businesses, sporting events, concerts, and indoor public events shutdown; and most plans people had for 2020 were cancelled. Pastor Rick Warren shares a truth this pandemic has reminded us: None of us know the future. The future is unknown, uncertain, and unpredictable. Not knowing the future creates a lot of anxiety and stress in many people's lives. In his message "A Faith for Facing Your Uncertain Future" Pastor Rick shares three common mistakes we make about our future: We plan without praying; we presume that we will have tomorrow; and we procrastinate about our future. He shares wisdom from the Book of James in the Bible. To have God's blessing, involve Him in your planning. Pray as you plan your life. Ask God for wisdom. Live one day at a time and make it count. Whatever you need to do, do it now. Pastor Rick prays with viewers to have a relationship with Jesus Christ. |                         |                       |                       |             |                |             |

| Today on Empty Out the Negative with Joel Osteen: We learn that there is a recording constantly playing in our mind telling us who we are. The problem for some people is their recording is negative and sometimes it started in childhood. Are you letting what someone said about you hold you back? Have you allowed it to become part of the recording that plays in your mind? The good news is you control the recording. Take inventory of what's playing in your mind. Get in agreement with God. The more you dwell on the right thoughts, the less room there is for the wrong thoughts. The opposition doesn't determine who you are, it simply reveals who you are. Be selective about what you allow in. It starts with renewing your mind with what God says about you. Words are like seeds. They have power. If you let them take root, they become your reality. Delete the negative. Become who God created you to be. |                         |                       |                       |             |                |             |

| Today on Rick Warren: Pastor Rick's Daily Hope: How well are you keeping your hopes high during this pandemic? Pastor Rick Warren shares that hope is essential for your spiritual, mental, spiritual, emotional, and physical health to endure tough times. In his message "A Faith that Keeps Me Hopeful" Pastor Rick shares seven promising truths from the Book of James in the Bible: 1. We know the difficulties won't last. 2. We know God will use them for our good. 3. We know that getting irritated doesn't help. 4. We know trusting God pleases Him. 5. We know Jesus is coming back someday. 6. We know this is not the end of the story. 7. We know that we will be rewarded one day. What are you putting your hope in? Pastor Rick prays with viewers to have a relationship with Jesus Christ. |                         |                       |                       |             |                |             |

Today on Empty Out the Negative with Joel Osteen: Using the principle of planting good seed in good soil, we learn that the environment we place ourselves in is extremely important. You are made in the image of God. You are a seed full of gifts, talents, and potential. Be selective with who you give your time, energy, and attention to. If they're not making you better, inspiring you, causing you to grow, you need to make some changes. You need good mentors. Get around dreamers. Connect with people that are wiser, more talented, more successful, more experienced, and glean from them. That's good soil. If you only invest in people who are at the same level as you, you'll get stuck. Find a mentor who has been where you want to go. Just as the wrong people will pull you down, the right people will pull you up.
