The unprecedented aging crisis that's about to hit China: China has the largest Baby Boom generation in the world. But now just years away from a mass retirement, that country is headed toward a severe workforce crisis and retirement cost cash crunch. Due to the country's one-child policy from 1978 until 2015, the younger generation poised to take over is relatively small. What's the solution? Judy Woodruff reports in conjunction with the Atlantic.

Is this a farm helping migrants or just a field of schemes? It seemed like a rare positive story about the migrant crisis: African refugees, relocated to Sardinia from their war-torn countries, providing for themselves by farming. But when the NewsHour arrived at the farm, no workers were there. Special correspondent Malcolm Brabant's ensuing investigation was winding and, at times, hostile. Were there ever any farmers, or was something else going on?

Amazing Discovery: Divers exploring a graveyard of historic shipwrecks that Lake Champlain has hidden for nearly 200 years find a remarkable artifact. We'll talk with one of the underwater archeologists, who is a graduate student from Montreal, about why their discovery is so significant. Watch here:

Extended Interview: Carolyn Kennedy talks about how a passenger who traveled on the Phoenix II spread a deadly Cholera outbreak in the U.S. Watch here:

Extended Interview: Carolyn Kennedy talks about returning to Lake Champlain and Richelieu River to look for more shipwrecks. She also talks about how the threat of invasive species, and advances in conservation, could lead to some of the famous shipwrecks in Lake Champlain being removed from the lake bottom. Cardboard Crafts: Jack LaDuke takes us to a new regatta in Saranac Lake, New York, that's creating quite a splash. Shipbuilders race their boats made out of cardboard and duct tape on Lake Flower. mOutdoor Art Museum: A garden of sculptures is in full bloom at SUNY Plattsburgh. Paul Larson will take us to a museum, without walls, on this week's Adirondack Journeys. Rockwell Kent Exhibit: The largest private collector of works by artist Rockwell Kent has teamed up with the Tahawus Center Windows Gallery in AuSable Forks, New York, for an exhibit showing 40 illustrations by Kent that were included in The Complete Works of Shakespeare. The exhibit runs through July 2. Lithographs of Kent's illustrations can be purchased with 10% of the proceeds benefiting the Tahawus Center and its programs to advance arts education in the North Country.

HEMLOCK WOOLLY ADELGID: Tiny pests could pose a huge threat to the Adirondack Park. Hemlock and Ash trees across the North Country and the Adirondack Park will soon be threatened by two forest pests, the Hemlock Woolly Adelgid and the Emerald Ash Borer. This week we preview a documentary on the pests and talk with a New York State Department of Environmental Conservation Research Scientist about the impact these invasive species could have on forests across Northern New York. Jerry Carlson also talks about pesticides and natural predators that may help slow the spread of the pests. $10-MILLION MAKEOVER: The City of Plattsburgh is getting a 10-million dollar makeover to turn a parking lot on Durkee Street into a central square for the downtown. Governor Andrew Cuomo was in Plattsburgh this week to make the announcement. WILD SUCCESS: The Wild Center in Tupper Lake is marking a milestone. It opened 10-years ago this summer. Jack LaDuke has more on the success the natural history museum is celebrating.

SUMMER GETAWAYS: There are lots of popular attractions to visit during the summer throughout the Adirondacks. But this week, we're going to take you to places that are a little off the beaten path. They're fun, but also enlightening, where you can learn all about the history & natural wonders of the Adirondack Park and Lake Champlain.

ADIRONDACK WILDLIFE REFUGE: Paul Larson takes us to the Adirondack Wildlife Refuge & Rehab Center in Wilmington, New York where visitors can get up close to meet and learn all about wildlife. GETTING HOOKED ON BULLHEADS: Adirondack Guide and Naturalist Ed Kanze and Curiously Adirondack Producer Josh Clement take us fishing Bullheads, a fishing trip that for generations has been a summer-time rite of passage. SEEING THE LIGHT: Derek Muirden will show us the restoration work that has brought the historic lighthouse on Valcour Island back to life. Bluff Point Light, on Lake Champlain, will be open for tours on Sundays in July and August. MUSEUM WITHOUT WALLS: A sculpture representing friendship between the U.S. and Canada stands tall in the center of the campus at SUNY Plattsburgh. Over the past several decades, an entire garden of outdoor art has sprung up around it. Paul Larson has the story of the Museum Without Walls.

SEPARATING FAT FROM FICTION: A growing number of nutritionists and health experts are re-thinking the advice we've been hearing for years to eat a low-fat diet. We'll talk with Sally Fallon Morell, an author & activist who says we've been fed some bad advice when it comes to cutting fat from our diet. The foundation she co-founded nearly 20 years ago touts the nutritional and health benefits of diets full of meats, eggs and dairy products. SALLY FALLON MORELL BONUS CLIP: Sally Fallon Morell talks with host Thom Hallock about the nationwide push to make raw milk more accessible to consumers, and get whole milk back into school lunchrooms. EAT LOCAL CHALLENGE: With more people looking to buy and eat locally grown food, the Cornell Cooperative Extension in Clinton County is holding classes this summer to help people buy local food and give them tips on how to prepare it. Classes are also being held on freezing, drying and canning locally grown food. ADIRONDACK JOURNEYS: Paul Larson takes us to one of the most spectacular attractions in the Adirondacks, High Falls Gorge in Wilmington, New York. Visitors can experience the wonder of breathtaking waterfalls that have carved their way through the Adirondack Mountains for a billion years. LOCAL HEROES: 3 police officers in Lake Placid, NY are being honored for their quick-thinking and heroics. They rushed to the aid of a man who had collapsed outside a village market. Luckily, the officers now carry defibrillators in their police cars, which they used, as well as performing CPR to save the man's life. MOHAWKS

CELEBRATE HERITAGE: A Pow Wow is a gathering that brings native people together to sing and dance and to celebrate their culture and heritage. The Mohawk Tribal Nation recently held a Pow Wow near Montreal.

VETERANS COMING HOME: Equine therapy is helping servicemen and women who are trying to adjust to life back home after serving in Iraq & Afghanistan. Readjusting to civilian life can present significant stress for veterans, the transition is filled with complicated and confusing challenges. Some feel isolated and alone and have difficulty communicating, even with their families. Others struggle to find or hold a job or face long and difficult recoveries from war injuries or PTSD. Finding and connecting with the right support and services can be overwhelming. Homeward Bound Adirondacks is a non-profit group assisting Veterans with services that include equine therapy. As part of our on-going Veterans Coming Home campaign at Mountain Lake PBS, producer Michael Hansen introduces us to Valerie Ainsworth, a clinical social worker and therapist who assists veterans and their families using horses. LANDMARK CELEBRATED: New York State and volunteers who have helped restore the Bluff Point Lighthouse on Valcour Island celebrated the completion of the 3-year project to renovate the lighthouse on Lake Champlain. In this week's People Near Here, Derek Muirden talks with a visitor who has special ties to the historic lighthouse. LIFEGUARDS ON DUTY: Jack LaDuke profiles some of the many unsung heroes of the Ironman Triathlon, the 100-plus lifeguards who watch over the thousands of athletes during the swimming competition in Mirror Lake.

OLYMPIC MEMORIES: With the Summer Games in full swing in Rio, we look back 40 years to the summer of 1976 when Montreal hosted the world. President Ford addressed the U.S. Olympic Team that spent a week training in Plattsburgh on the SUNY campus before heading to Montreal for the '76 Summer Games. Two players who were on a team of local all-stars who played an exhibition game against the U.S. Women's Basketball team reminisce about going up against the Olympians, including a young woman who would become one of the greatest college coaches of all time. Watch segments of the performance by the Montreal Symphony Orchestra on August 10th at an outdoor concert at Olympic Park to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal. IN THE DARK: An art exhibit leaves the Strand Center Gallery in Plattsburgh in the dark. It features paintings by three North Country artists, Louise Pattinelli, Jim "Windsop" Newman, and Daniel de Moura, who have transformed the gallery into a place both sinister and provocative. CURIOSLY ADIRONDACK: Producer Josh Clement introduces us to Scott Walker, one of the keepers of the locks that connect the Saranac Lakes Chain in the Adirondacks. MARATHON HIKE: Jack LaDuke shares the story of a Paul Smith's College Professor who is undertaking an amazing challenge, a marathon hike up all 46 of the Adirondack High Peaks in just 8 days to raise money for a special place that gives students a real "hands on" learning experience.

SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT ICON: A century after her death, Inez Milholland, who was a driving force behind the Suffrage Movement, is being honored by her family's hometown in the Adirondacks. The library in Lewis, New York, is planning a display to share the story of Milholland's involvement in the national crusade to pass the 19th Amendment giving women the right to vote. California filmmaker Martha Wheelock has just completed a documentary on Milholland's life and legacy. Townspeople in Lewis gathered recently to watch the premiere of Wheelock's new film at the church next to the cemetery where Inez Milholland and her family are buried. CURIOSLY ADIRONDACK: Boats go up, and boats go down: canoes, kayaks, fishing boats, and more, traveling the watery channel through the woods rising between the Lower and Middle Saranac Lakes. It all goes smoothly, largely thanks to the efforts of lock tender Margaret Hawthorn. The Upper Locks operate the old-fashioned way, with muscle and finesse. Margaret Hawthorne loves the job and does it with a skill and passion that make a passage through the Upper Locks an experience to remember. Ed Kanze & Josh Clement bring us the story in this week's Curiously Adirondack. ADIRONDACK JOURNEYS: Fans of Laura Ingalls Wilder's Little House Series can make a pilgrimage to a homestead near Malone, New York to visit the boyhood home of Almanzo Wilder, who married the author in 1885. On his Adirondack Journeys, Paul Larson stops by the famous "Farmer Boy's" Homestead. The Wilder Homestead is open through the first weekend in October.

NORSK PLANS MOVE FORWARD: A Norwegian company submits plans to the Planning Office in Plattsburgh, NY for its new factory that will be the first of its kind in the world manufacturing aerospace parts out of titanium using a process similar to 3D printing. Norsk Titanium plans to hire as many as 500 workers. Plattsburgh Town Supervisor Michael Cashman joins us to discuss the project, as well as the town being forced to take over and operate an abandoned mausoleum in the community. ENCHANTED GARDEN: Derek Muirden introduces us to herbalist Jane Desotelle and her enchanted garden hidden in the heart of the City of Plattsburgh. JOIN THE CLUB: We'll tell you how you can join one of the area's most popular dance clubs, the North Country Squares, who have been kicking up their heels and dosey-doeing for more than half a century. Every September, the Squares invite people to join them for free nights of square and round dancing at the Clinton County Fairgrounds, in hopes of getting new members to join the club. Join the North Country

Squares September 14th, 15th, 21st, 22nd, 28th or 29th at 7pm at the North Squares Dance Hall at the Clinton County Fairgrounds. WALK ON THE WILD SIDE: People attending the Battle of Plattsburgh Parade this weekend are in for a surprise. A new mural in the downtown celebrates the Adirondacks, and its creators hope it will also bring new life to the city. MARATHON HIKE: Paul Smith's College professor Bethany Garretson attempted to set a record by hiking the High Peaks in the Adirondacks in just 8 days. But an Adirondack Summer of too many hot & humid days prevented that from happening. Bethany did reach the summit of all 46 of the High Peaks in two weeks, still a great accomplishment. Bethany's marathon hike also raised money for a homestead project for the Osgood Farm, which is part of Paul Smith's College.

COALITION COMBATS OPIOID ABUSE: A team approach is being used to combat heroin and opioid abuse in Clinton County, New York, helping not only addicts, but families being torn apart by addiction. The coalition, called Substance Abuse Prevention and Recovery of Clinton County, or SPARCC, is hosting a free Community Forum called Understanding Heroin and Prescription Opioid Abuse on Tuesday, September 20th, at 7pm. It is being held at the Strand Theatre in Plattsburgh. Several local professionals who have joined forces to form the SPARCC coalition, will speak at the forum on efforts to raise awareness about the dangers of substance abuse and efforts to combat the heroin and opioid epidemic. Christine Peters, who is the Director of Legal and Social Services for the Clinton County Department of Social Services, and John Bernardi, Executive Director and CEO of the United Way of the Adirondack Region join host Thom Hallock to discuss the forum. VETERANS COMING HOME: Many veterans often face challenges adjusting to life back home after serving in Iraq and Afghanistan. Sometimes their struggles lead to drug addiction. Many are finding help at St. Joseph's Addiction Treatment and Recovery Center in the Adirondacks. The video is one of several from Mountain Lake PBS digital producer Michael Hansen that explore the lives of post 9/11 veterans and the divide that exists between many of them and their communities. As part of our year-long "Veterans Coming Home" series, we're sharing stories that we hope will promote conversations and a deeper understanding of what separates military and civilian life. TAKING IT SLOW: Members of the Adirondack Cycling Club recently took a 6-mile group bike ride to raise awareness on bicyclists accessing the 4-miles of bike paths that run through the City of Plattsburgh. Large group rides, called Slow Roll Rides, have caught on in several cities across America. LIFE CELEBRATED THROUGH PHOTOS: You can celebrate the life of a cherished member of the Adirondacks by visiting an art exhibit in Plattsburgh. Pine Harbour Assisted Living is displaying the works of a woman whose friends say found beauty in everything she did. Andrea Knight died of ALS in 2014. The exhibition serves as a remembrance of her life and work.

WILDERNESS PROTECTION: A coalition of environmental groups is urging Governor Cuomo to protect the newly acquired Boreas Ponds Tract, as well as thousands of acres of other wild lands in the Adirondack Park. The Town Supervisors in several communities surrounding the 20-thousand acre Boreas Ponds Tract say it is a natural wonder that should be opened to the public. They want to expand access by allowing bikes, snowmobiles, and some motor vehicle traffic to boost tourism. The coalition of green groups, led by the Adirondack Council, wants the majority of the former Finch Paper timberlands, purchased from the Nature Conservancy, to be classified as "wilderness" and off-limits to motorized vehicles and mountain bikes. The coalition, called Be Wild NY, has released a video voiced by actress Sigourney Weaver, that calls on Governor Cuomo to support placing 30-thousand acres of land in the High Peaks Region of the Adirondack Park under "wilderness" protection. The Adirondack Park Agency will hold public hearings on how those lands should be classified beginning in November. IT'S AN ADIRONDACK THING: Michael Bacon, who along with his brother Kevin make up the duo The Bacon Brothers, has released a new music video that celebrates life in the Adirondacks. He wrote the song for the Adirondack Museum in Blue Mountain Lake, NY. CALL OF THE WILD: Wolves have been extinct in the Adirondacks for more than a century. Wildlife experts say what people are most likely seeing in the Adirondack Wilderness is a hybrid that's part wolf -- and part coyote. Our Jack LaDuke recently visited the Adirondack Wildlife Refuge where you can see both species up close.

BODY CAMERAS: Even though they're controversial, a growing number of police departments across the nation are using body cameras. Most agree they can be a valuable tool, but the question for many departments is can they afford them? Plattsburgh Police Chief Desmond Racicot discusses the hidden costs of data processing and storage that led to the City's decision not to equip officers with body cameras. VIEW FROM THE CLOUDS: A major ski resort attracts tourists to the Adirondacks long after the snow has melted with the opportunity to experience the Olympic Mountain in a whole new way, by taking a scenic Cloudsplitter Gondola ride. A LIFE ON THE LAKE: Derek Muirden introduces us to Jon Porter, a boat captain who for a half century has guided a one-of-a-kind ferry across Lake Champlain.

Oil smuggling brings environmental disaster to Venezuela's economic ruin: The economic disaster in Venezuela caused by tumbling petrol prices – oil production is the main industry – is also behind an environmental one. Lake Maracaibo, which sustains the Añu indigenous group, is being contaminated by oil spills and the leaky drilling infrastructure, all made worse by rampant gas smuggling. Special correspondent Nadja Drost and videographer Bruno Federico report.

Explaining the 'scandals, lies and incivility' of the 2016 election to teens:
Blurb: The 2016 election mudslinging from "crooked" Hillary Clinton and "dangerously incoherent" Donald Trump has even piqued the interest of teens – and made teaching high school civics that much more difficult. So it's time to get creative, which one 12th grade government teacher has done with his 'scandals, lies and incivility' curriculum. Education Week's Lisa Stark reports for the NewsHour.

Thinking about math in terms of literacy, not levels: Algebra is a core subject for U.S. high school students. But should it be? Author Andrew Hacker believes we should reconsider how math is taught: only 5 percent of the American workforce actually uses math beyond arithmetic, though higher-level classes are widely required. But Hacker's proposal to focus math instruction in a real-world context has drawn criticism from the education community.

Why are early childhood educators struggling to make ends meet? Science tells us that critical brain development in children begins well before kindergarten, so their care and education prior to starting school matter. But the very foundation of effective early education -- child care providers -- often struggle to earn a living wage. In fact, nearly half of these teachers require some sort of federal support to make ends meet. Hari Sreenivasan reports.
