Guest: Joseph Husband, Manager of Phoenix Goodyear Airport

Topic: Phoenix Goodyear Airport

The Phoenix/Goodyear Airport is a general aviation reliever airport for Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport. In 1968 the City of Phoenix aviation department required the airport to relieve Sky Harbor of some of its traffic. With its proximity to Phoenix International Raceway, nearly all of the racing teams use the Phoenix Goodyear Airport and the public is welcome to see and greet them. It has one runway that is 8500 ft long / 150 ft wide and can handle any aircraft. It has other functions as well, such as maintenance, flight training and FBO services.

Guest: Jason Clark, President of Phoenix Wood Turners Association

Topic: Terminal 3, Wood Turning exhibit

The Phoenix Airport Museum currently has on display an exhibition showcasing the woodturning masterpieces by 18 Arizona artists. The display, 'Wood: Turning to Art,' will be exhibited through Nov. 9 in Terminal 3, levels 1 and 2, and will coincide with the AAW symposium taking place at the Phoenix Convention Center June 12 – 15. The pieces in the airport exhibition vary greatly in both shapes and types of wood. Some pieces are comprised of multiple species of exotic woods like wenge, ebony and holly, while others are made out of a single piece of wood salvaged from a firewood pile here in Phoenix. They represent a wide variety of skills and points of view from the artists involved.

Guest: Jerry Haws, Recycling Coordinator at Phx Sky Harbor

Topic: Sustainability Program at Phx Sky Harbor Airport

Water refill stations are now available in the Airport. Because people can not take water through the screening areas, passengers are encouraged to dump the liquid portion of their bottle but keep the bottle. Then after security refilling with cold filtered water at the refill stations. Also, the goal is to make it very easy for travelers to recycle. Such initiatives include co-located trash and recycle bins through the airport. There are more than 200 airport-wide. They try to put them as close as we can so when passengers are walking through the airport, they don't have to go more than 100 feet to find a recycling can. The Airport generates approximately 10,000 tons of waste every year. Currently, we are recycling about 25% of that. The goal, however, within the next three to four years is to get that number to a 50% increase year over year.
