20/20

Friday, January 11, 2008

HAPPINESS

The pursuit of happiness is a fundamental human endeavor — it seems as if human beings are hardwired to contemplate, chase and cherish this complex and often elusive emotion. Americans place tremendous value on this pursuit; after all, it's a primary feature of the U.S. Constitution. '20/20' explores the myths and misconceptions about this essential emotion.

Friday, January 18, 2008

EATING DISORDERS

Experts have warned of a raging epidemic of eating disorders among older women, many of them mothers. Treatment centers across the country report that adult women are seeking help in record numbers. Learn more about the struggles people with eating disorders face.

BITTER BATTLE

A young Chinese girl, in the middle of a custody battle between her American parents and biological parents, in a dramatic ruling, is ordered to leave the only home she knows and go live with her biological parents whose Visa's have expired and must return back to their homeland of China. "20/20" has exclusive interviews with both families.

Friday, February 15, 2008

REAL HUMAN BODIES

ABC News Correspondent Brian Ross investigates plasticized bodies. Millions of people have paid to see these carefully preserved bodies, in ways that were not possible before. But with the popularity have come troubling questions about the bodies. Are the exhibits educational and scientific, or are these cadavers just being used for entertainment?

MIRACLE GIRL

12-year-old girl who miraculously survived a plane crash in Panama just a few weeks ago, speaks with Elizabeth Vargas about the 52 harrowing hours she spent hanging upside down in the plane's wreckage.

Subject: See you later...

I just wanted to thank you all for everything over the past year and a half. You welcomed me in and offered your knowledge and support and it meant a lot to me. I wish our time together was longer.

Best wishes to you and your family.

If there's anything I can do, please let me know.

My new work address is:
