HEART OF ATLANTA: Living Water for Girls (LWG) is embarking upon a very important journey in only a few days. On April 1st we will launch the 100 Days for Beautiful campaign. The Quest Foundation issued a match grant challenge for $40,000 to fund two critical staffing positions at the LWG home for girls who are victims of commercial sexual exploitation. We have a goal of 100 days to match this donation, and we invite you to get involved. With your help, we will obtain our goal. LWG's mission is to rescue, rehabilitate and restore commercially sexually exploited girls by providing safe refuge and holistic therapeutic services. The road to recovery is often long and difficult for girls who have experienced such horrendous physical and psychological trauma and abuse. Our program is designed to give each girl a tremendous opportunity for healing and rehabilitation. A team of professional and licensed staff provides both clinical and practical experience in the treatment and needs of CSE victims. There are many ways to get involved in the 100 Days for Beautiful campaign. Here are a few ideas: Join us in hosting a small gathering in your home, community center, or church on Sunday, April 1st. We will provide you with a kit that will equip you to speak about our cause and what we're striving to achieve. Visit www.livingwaterforgirls.org.

THE HEART OF ATLANTA: The Diaper Bank of Greater Atlanta is a 501(c) 3 non-profit organization. We are incorporated and registered through the State of Georgia and Cobb County. Our mission is to supply diapers and adult disposable undergarments to local social service agencies and non-profit organizations that service families in need! The Diaper Bank of Greater Atlanta, Inc. exists to meet the ever increasing need of families who are in financial crisis, homeless and are unable to provide diapers for their children or purchase adult disposable undergarments for themselves. Our vision is to service hundreds of low income families in need in the Greater Atlanta area by supplying diapers for children and incontinence supplies for adults. By hosting diaper drives and partnering with local community agencies we will be able to help by providing a basic necessity for children and adults in need. "1 in 3 families are unable to provide diapers for their children." (Huggies) With no government assistance programs designated to help with the costly purchase of diapers, many poor and low-income families are finding themselves taking some risky measures to meet the need. From this unnerving information, The Diaper Bank of Greater Atlanta, Inc. was born. Our Future In addition to diaper distribution, The Diaper Bank of Greater Atlanta is seeking ways to position ourselves to offer training and development to assist women and families to secure life stability, thus securing stability for the family unit.  6/17/12      6:50AM      25Min.
 PERSPECTIVES: Dr. Ian Smith, author of "The Truth About Men" joined the program to discuss his book. Men don't have glass heads. What's going on in there? Do they mean what they say? And what are they not saying? Why does anyone in a relationship with a man have to spend so much time wondering what things "mean"? Is it good that he called instead of texting? What does it mean that he introduced me to his sister but not his mother or his best friend? Why hasn't he said anything about my birthday yet when it's two weeks from now? Finally, a man who knows what's going on in there has written a book to decode men for women. It's rich with insight and action women can take today to make a relationship better tomorrow. Smith's fascinating, sometimes surprising topics include: The Subtle Art of Hooking Us (men really do want to be in committed relationships, even if they don't always show it) and Beauty Matters (but beauty may not be exactly what you think it is). For the first time Williams writes of being sexually abused and how those nude photographs of the first black Miss America came to light. She also talks about being pregnant as a teen and of the sudden death of her father. Helen Williams also reflects on many of these stories, many she did not know of until the two began working on this book. Vanessa Williams lives in the same area where she grew up and her kids attend the same schools she did as a child. PERSPECTIVES: "Blackberry Days of Summer" by Ruth Watson is a compelling look at the Jim Crow era in rural Virginia. This suspenseful tale of deceit is filled with lust, adultery, and romance. In the tradition of The Color Purple and The Help, Watson introduces readers to Herman Camm. As Robert Parker's body is lowered into the grave, in Jefferson County, Virginia, Herman slithers into the life of the mourning family. Camm is a beady-eyed, small-framed womanizer with nice clothes, who has a complicated life involving three women: his wife, Mae Lou Parker, her daughter, Carrie, and a nightclub singer, Pearl Brown. All of the women's lives converge when Herman is found dead from a shotgun wound. There are many people Herman has offended. And all three women are suspects in his murder. An investigation is launched. However, it is 1920, and the fate of a black man's life is never a concern in the Jim Crow South. Our mission is to supply diapers and adult disposable undergarments to local social service agencies and non-profit organizations that service families in need! The Diaper Bank of Greater Atlanta, Inc. exists to meet the ever increasing need of families who are in financial crisis, homeless and are unable to provide diapers for their children or purchase adult disposable undergarments for themselves. Our vision is to service hundreds of low income families in need in the Greater Atlanta area by supplying diapers for children and incontinence supplies for adults. By hosting diaper drives and partnering with local community agencies we will be able to help by providing a basic necessity for children and adults in need. (Huggies) With no government assistance programs designated to help with the costly purchase of diapers, many poor and low-income families are finding themselves taking some risky measures to meet the need. Our Future In addition to diaper distribution, The Diaper Bank of Greater Atlanta is seeking ways to position ourselves to offer training and development to assist women and families to secure life stability, thus securing stability for the family unit. HEART OF ATLANTA: Living Water for Girls (LWG) is embarking upon a very important journey in only a few days. On April 1st we will launch the 100 Days for Beautiful campaign. The Quest Foundation issued a match grant challenge for $40,000 to fund two critical staffing positions at the LWG home for girls who are victims of commercial sexual exploitation. We have a goal of 100 days to match this donation, and we invite you to get involved. With your help, we will obtain our goal. LWG's mission is to rescue, rehabilitate and restore commercially sexually exploited girls by providing safe refuge and holistic therapeutic services. The road to recovery is often long and difficult for girls who have experienced such horrendous physical and psychological trauma and abuse. Our program is designed to give each girl a tremendous opportunity for healing and rehabilitation. A team of professional and licensed staff provides both clinical and practical experience in the treatment and needs of CSE victims. There are many ways to get involved in the 100 Days for Beautiful campaign. Here are a few ideas: Join us in hosting a small gathering in your home, community center, or church on Sunday, April 1st. We will provide you with a kit that will equip you to speak about our cause and what we're striving to achieve. Visit www.livingwaterforgirls.org.
