WODC
Quarterly Issues/Programs List

WODC provides its listeners with programming and public service announcements that address issues of concern to our local community. Among the issues determined to be of most concern to the community during the preceding calendar quarter were:

- Alzheimer's research: Representatives from the Alzheimer's Association talked about how a quarter of older Americans have memory loss, and how regular assessment can let you know what's normal. They said if it's abnormal memory loss or the early stages of Alzheimer's disease, there are ways to delay the progression.
- Blood pressure medications: Officials from the American Heart Association discussed how if you have high blood pressure to remember to use caution when choosing over-the-counter medications. They said many cold and flu products contain decongestants that can raise your blood pressure or interfere with the effectiveness of prescribed blood pressure medications.
- Consumer news: Thomas Moore of the Better Business Bureau talked about how consumers can watch out for fraudulent vehicle sales claims, which he said has been on the rise in Ohio for the past year. He gave detailed information about scams that hijack trustworthy brands and vehicle protection programs.
- Eye health: Representatives from Prevent Blindness Ohio talked about how harmful U-V rays that can damage your eyes are actually present even during the current cold-weather months.
- Family participation in education: Elizabeth Miller, a local school teacher, offered information on teaching children teamwork. She said the whole family can work as a team and have fun doing it, while helping them to do better in school and in life.
- Flu shot information: Pickaway County health officials discussed the importance of getting a flu shot even during the late winter season.
- Health care consumer information: Author Lorene Burkhart talked about her series of books on how to be an empowered patient. She said the books are designed to be an insightful look at how to be a better health care consumer.
- Heart health: Krista Barber, Communications Director for the American Heart Association, talked about how heart-healthy eating can help protect your family from cardiovascular disease, which she said is linked to excess body weight and other risk factors.

- Home ownership: Representatives from the Ohio Homeowners Council talked about how people still believe in the value of home ownership, even with the current ups and downs of the housing market.
- Home weatherization/Energy: Representatives from the Ohio Home Weatherization Council talked about how to ease the energy burden for older citizens and help them to stay warm and safe even through the early spring season.
- Learning disabilities: Officials for the Ohio Department of Education discussed how parents and educators are so confused about the nature of learning disabilities that it may prevent students from getting the early help they need to keep from falling permanently behind in school. They offered referrals to professionals who can help if a child demonstrates early delays in areas such as learning to speak.
- Managing finances: Michael Johnson of the Ohio Association of Community Banks talked about how the banks help military service members and their families manage their finances with greater ease.
- Social Security benefits information: Representatives from the non-profit Academy of Social Insurance discussed how Social Security benefits will be higher monthly for the rest of your life if you delay claiming until age 70.
