1/26/2024	5 a.m.	2:15	A bill making the largest changes to immigration policy in a generation is in jeopardy, after Former President Trump told Republicans to abandon it. Negotiators say they're nearing a compromise and are still hopeful something can get done. Republicans will have to choose between addressing the border, which they say is the biggest failure of the Biden administration or walk away from the bargaining table in favor of campaigning on that criticism.
1/30/2024	5 a.m.	2:00	A House committee will vote today on impeaching Homeland Security Secretary Mayorkas. Republicans leading the effort say Mayorkas committed "high crimes and misdemeanors," leading to a large influx of illegal immigration through the southern border. Mayorkas and Democrats say he shouldn't be held responsible for systematic failures within the system.
1/30/2024	6 p.m.	3:00	California electricity bills are expected to be based on income, eventually, after lawmakers passed a bill two years ago. Now, some of those same lawmakers are walking back on the measure.

2/1/2024	5 a.m.	1:00	The House voted overwhelmingly overnight to provide additional tax relief for working families. The measure is now headed to the Senate. The rare bipartisan effort would increase the amount of the Child Tax Credit families can claim on their taxes.
2/2/2024	5 a.m.	1:35	February is a big month for South Carolina and the presidential contest. The Vice President and Second Gentleman are in the Palmetto state today on the heels of President Biden's trip earlier this week to turn out voters for the first official Democratic contest on Saturday. Meanwhile, Nikki Haley is campaigning in her home state, hoping to pick up a win against Former President Trump later this month.
2/5/2024	5 a.m.	2:00	Following months of negotiations, Senate lawmakers released the text of a bill that pairs foreign aid with reforms to immigration policy. The upper chamber scheduled a vote this week on the measure, as House Republicans vow not to consider it.

DATE	NEWSCAST	LENGTH	POLITICS SUMMARY
2/6/2024	5 a.m.	2:00	Senate Republicans are pulling an about face on the foreign aid and immigration reform bill, with leadership reportedly telling members to vote against a preliminary vote this week, hours after endorsing it. House leaders are doubling down on their commitment to not consider it. Meanwhile, President Biden is threatening to veto a stand-alone bill the House will consider addressing only Israeli aid.
2/7/2024	5 a.m.	1:55	The Senate is moving forward with a vote on the bipartisan border and aid bill, which is expected to fail. Meanwhile, the House voted against a Republican bill sending aid to Israel, opposed by the White House.
2/8/2024	5 a.m.	1:45	The Supreme Court will hear arguments today that will have major implications on the presidential election. The justices will decide whether Colorado can ban Former President Trump from the state's primary for violating the 14th amendment by inciting the January 6th insurrection. The ruling will influence similar legal cases proceeding in other states. The case is playing out as a majority of primary delegates are scheduled to be awarded in the next several weeks.
2/8/2024	4 p.m.	2:25	The Supreme Court heard arguments in one of the most consequential election cases in U.S. history. Judges listened to claims over whether states can disqualify former President Trump from their primary ballots, based on his actions surrounding and leading up to the January 6th riots at the U.S. Capitol.
2/12/2024	5 a.m.	2:05	Democrats, Republicans, and international leaders are denouncing Former President Trump's comments on the campaign trail saying he'd allow Russia to attack NATO countries not contributing their dues to the international alliance. The issue highlights the fragility of U.S. foreign policy at-stake this November and raises jitters for allies abroad.
2/12/2024	6 a.m.	1:30	World leaders are reacting to comments that former President Trump made about NATO. He said during a campaign speech that he might allow Russia to attack a member that doesn't pay dues.
2/12/2024	11 p.m.	2:40	The top four candidates for California's open senate seat faced off in a debate. The candidates spoke on a number of issues, but it was Former President Donald Trump who dominated the debate.
2/13/2024	5 a.m.	1:35	The Senate voted again Monday night to advance military and humanitarian aid to Israel, Ukraine, and Taiwan. The bipartisan achievement may be all for nothing, after Speaker Johnson suggested the House won't take up a bill without border security provisions, despite Republicans sinking a bill with border security provisions last week.
2/15/2024	5 a.m.	2:20	Former President Trump will be in court in New York today, where a judge may rule he'll stand trial in his first criminal case next month. That decision's expected ahead of another on Friday in the New York Attorney General's business fraud civil case against Trump; one that could result in a fine of more than nine figures.
2/15/2024	6 a.m.	1:00	Sacramento voters are set to decide Measure C. The measure would tax certain businesses.

2/28/2024	5 a.m.	1:55	The House returns to session today as a large portion of the government is due to run out of money by Friday. House Speaker Johnson has been slow to reveal his plan to please conservatives and moderates in his conference and win enough votes to send a fourth temporary budget bill to the Senate. Top congressional leaders met with President Biden to chart a path forward. Lawmakers are likely to be back in the same position next week, when the rest of government funding expires.
2/28/2024	12 p.m.	1:02	Senator Mitch McConnell announces he will step down as senate republican leader in November. The 82-year-old Kentucky lawmaker is the longest-serving senate leader in history.
2/29/2024	5 a.m.	2:00	President Biden is leaving behind the funding fights in Washington over government and foreign aid, leaping to the issue of immigration today. Biden will travel to the border in Texas to call out Republicans, who have hammered him over illegal immigration but, at the urging of Former President Trump, turned down a bipartisan deal this month to address the issue. Trump is planning a border visit today in a different part of Texas.
3/1/2024	5 a.m.	:35	Following weeks of inaction, the House and Senate voted within hours of each other to extend government funding past midnight. Leaders in both parties reached a deal this week push the temporary deadlines today and next Friday until later this month, when they expect to have finalized all 12 of the year-long budget bills.
3/4/2024	6 a.m.	1:00	State elections officials are encouraging voters to get out today to visit vote centers ahead of election day. They say take advantage of no waiting and avoid forgetting or having something else come up tomorrow that would prevent you from voting.
3/4/2024	5 a.m.	1:40	No ceasefire and hostage release deal has materialized in the Israel-Hamas war, but hope remains for an agreement soon. There are apparent fractures in Israel's war cabinet, as a critic of Prime Minister Netanyahu will meet with Vice President Harris in Washington today and as the U.S. began participating in air drops of humanitarian aid to Gaza over the weekend.

3/12/2024	5 a.m.	2:05	President Biden will welcome leaders from Poland to the White House today, who are calling on NATO allies to increase their spending on the defense alliance. This comes as Sweden recently became a full member of NATO. Top intelligence officials warned Congress on Monday that Ukraine will lose the war to Russia without further U.S. support.
3/12/0024	11 p.m.	2:15	More than a week after the California primary, and some local races are too close to call. In Sacramento's Mayoral Election, only a few hundred votes separate the candidates. We looked at the latest numbers, and what it could mean for the general election.
3/13/2024	5 a.m.	2:05	The House will vote on a bill today that would require TikTok to split from its Chinese-owned parent company in six months or face a nationwide ban. The quickly-advancing bill is renewing the debate on Capitol Hill about weighing the social media platform's popularity and usefulness against concerns about user privacy.
3/14/2024	5 a.m.	1:55	Former President Trump is expected in court in Florida today in an effort to delay or dismiss the federal case against him for taking and hiding classified documents. Trump cites his upcoming state criminal case in New York City as part of the reason needed for a delay. This comes a day after the judge overseeing his Georgia election interference case dismissed several charges.
3/15/2024	5 a.m.	2:00	Today, the judge in Trump's election interference case in Georgia is expected to rule on whether to disqualify District Attorney Fani Willis. The expected decision comes as a judge in Florida rejected a bid by the former president to throw out his classified documents case.
3/15/2024	5 p.m.	2:00	New ballot returns for Sacramento County. Another candidate has moved into the #2 position, but there are still more ballots to count.
3/18/2024	5 p.m.	4:10	Sacramento City Council is set to discuss a ceasefire resolution during their meeting tomorrow. It's already proving to be divisive.
3/19/2024	5 a.m.	1:45	Israel's Prime Minister is sending a delegation to Washington to address the Biden administration's concerns about a planned invasion of Rafah. The White House wants Israel to outline a plan to protect civilians as they eye a military operation in the dense southern Gaza city to remove Hamas. The move comes amid President Biden and other Democrats being more outspokenly critical of Netanyahu's decisions.
3/19/2024	7 p.m.	2:51	Governor Newsom is pushing state lawmakers to speed up their budget deliberations. He's visited the State Capitol several times already this past week but is facing resistance.
3/20/2024	5 a.m.	1:30	A federal appeals court blocked Texas from enforcing a state law to regulate immigration, hours after the Supreme Court decided the opposite. The confusion comes as the courts debate a bigger question of constitutionality and federalism. Texas is challenging precedence that gives only the federal government authority over immigration regulation.

3/20/2024	12 p.m.	2:10	After a long night of discussion, the Sacramento City Council voted on a resolution to demand a ceasefire in Gaza. After seven hours of heated discussion and multiple disruptions, the council voted 6 to 1 to approve the resolution.
3/21/2024	5 a.m.	1:45	Congress is working to release the text of the government funding bills today they'll vote on as soon as tomorrow. Two of the bills focus on U.S. priorities for security at home and abroad. Lawmakers are eyeing changes amid the wars in Israel, Ukraine, and a focus on immigration through the southern border.
3/22/2024	5 a.m.	2:00	The Biden administration will take another step to distance itself from Israel's war in Gaza, supporting a U.N. resolution today for a ceasefire, not contingent on a hostage deal. Top U.S. officials are again in the Middle East trying to secure a release of hostages. Meanwhile, Congressional Republicans are looking to seize politically on the issue, planning to invite Prime Minister Netanyahu to address congress.
3/22/2024	5 p.m.	:53	The runoff for Sacramento mayor has been set. Dr. Flo Cofer will face off against Kevin McCarty, who narrowly beat out Dr. Richard Pan.
3/25/2024	5 a.m.	2:15	Former President Trump faces a potential double legal whammy today. If he doesn't secure a bond while he appeals his business fraud case by today, the State of New York can begin seizing his assets -- likely beginning with his high-profile properties. Also in New York, but in the criminal hush money case against him, a judge will hold a hearing to determine how soon the case can go to trial, after it was postponed from originally starting today.
3/27/2024	12 p.m.	:43	The race for Sacramento City Council District 2 will head to a runoff in November with Roger Dickinson and Stephen Walton facing off. In the meantime, the city council appointed a caretaker for the seat, left open after Sean Loloee resigned. Shoun Thao will serve out the remainder of Loloee's term.
3/27/2024	4 p.m.	4:30	New questions about California's fast food labor law, which goes into effect on Monday. Some business owners are still trying to figure out if it applies to them.
3/27/2024	6 p.m.	3:47	Some business owners are having trouble figuring out whether they have to increase minimum wage for their workers. On April 1st, the state's controversial fast food wage law goes into effect.
3/28/2024	7 p.m.	2:00	A man who legally changed his name to "Literally Anyone Else" is now running for President of the United States. If he gets enough voters' signatures he'll be on the ballot in November in Texas.

MEET THE PRESS

Sundays 6:00-7:00am

2024 1st QUARTER MEET THE PRESS TOPICS

Kristen Welker is the host and moderator of "Meet the Press," the flagship Sunday Morning public affairs program and longest-running broadcast in television history.

Meet The Press: January 7, 2024

This Sunday: Decision 2024.

As the presidential election year begins, former President Trump faces multiple legal challenges, while President Biden makes the case his likely GOP opponent is a serious threat to democracy. I'll talk to Republican Congresswoman Elise Stefanik of New York and Biden's deputy campaign manager Quentin Fulks. Plus, wider war. There are growing fears the war between Israel and Hamas could spread further after the U.S. killed an Iranian backed militia leader inside Iraq, a top Hamas leader was killed in Lebanon and tensions are rising in the Red Sea. I'll talk to Israel's President Isaac Herzog.

And, shutdown threat. Will Republican demands for spending cuts lead to another government shutdown?

How far is the White House willing to go to get a deal on border security? Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC News White House Correspondent Mike Memoli, Wall Street Journal Columnist Peggy Noonan and Kimberly Atkins Stohr, senior opinion writer for The Boston Globe.

This Sunday, Iowa decides.

Republicans are facing frostbite and dangerous record-low temperatures as they get ready to make their choice in the first nominating contest of 2024.

Former President Donald Trump leads his rivals even as he makes some of his closing arguments from outside a courtroom.

Who will emerge as Trump's biggest challenger? Steve Kornacki has the results of our final poll and Chuck Todd will offer a guide of what to watch on caucus night. Plus, smoke signals. Chris Christie exits the GOP race, warning Nikki Haley will get smoked, but will he consider his own independent third-party run?

And, striking back. The U.S. launches air strikes in Yemen as tensions rise in the Middle East.

While the Pentagon's top official remains hospitalized and under fire for failing to disclose his cancer diagnosis and hospitalization. My guests this morning: Republican Senator Joni Ernst of Iowa and Minnesota's Democratic Governor Tim Walz. Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC News Senior Capitol Hill correspondent Garrett Haake, Brianne Pfannenstiel, chief politics reporter for the Des Moines Register, Iowa State Representative Ross Wilburn, a former Iowa Democratic Party chair, and Marc Short, former chief of staff to Vice President Mike Pence.

This Sunday: primary choices.

The Republican presidential battle moves to New Hampshire after former President Donald Trump's commanding win in Iowa.

Nikki Haley escalates her attacks, hoping to stop Trump's momentum, while Ron DeSantis looks ahead to South Carolina, where the primary is still a month away.

NBC News' National Political Correspondent Steve Kornacki and Chief Political Analyst Chuck Todd will preview the state of the race. My guests this morning: New Hampshire's Republican Governor Chris Sununu and Democratic Senator Maggie Hassan. Plus: courtroom drama. Donald Trump urges the Supreme Court to keep his name on the primary ballot in Colorado while also arguing he should get "total immunity" from prosecution.

How will the former president's multiple trials impact his political standing? And endorsement power.

South Carolina Senator Tim Scott snubs Nikki Haley by endorsing Trump ahead of the New Hampshire primary.

Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC News correspondent Dasha Burns, Jonathan Martin of Politico, former White House Press Secretary Jen Psaki and Lanhee Chen, a fellow at the Hoover Institution.

This Sunday: fighting on.

Donald Trump wins the New Hampshire primary, moving him closer to a rematch with President Joe Biden. But Nikki Haley vows to stay in the race, insisting she's more electable in November.

Will the primary battle continue, or has the general election already begun?

Republican presidential candidate Nikki Haley joins me exclusively this morning. Plus: blame game. A bipartisan border deal could be in jeopardy because former President Trump opposes it.

Will election year politics kill the deal that would unlock aid to Ukraine and Israel? I'll speak to Democratic Congresswoman Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez of New York. And $83.3 million. Donald Trump is ordered to pay millions in damages for defaming writer E. Jean Carroll. The decision comes one year after another jury found Trump liable for sexually assaulting her and later defaming her.

Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC News Washington Managing Editor Carol Lee, Democratic pollster Cornell Belcher and Republican strategist Matt Gorman. Welcome to Sunday. It's Meet the Press.

Meet The Press: February 4, 2024

This Sunday: border battle.

A bipartisan border security bill that would help fund the wars in Ukraine and Israel faces an uncertain future.

Will House Republicans kill the bill? And is their push to impeach Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas just fueling partisan divisions?

My exclusive guest this morning: Speaker of the House Mike Johnson. Plus: fighting back. The U.S. military launches retaliatory strikes against Iran-backed militants after a drone attack killed three American service members inside Jordan.

Does this proxy war with Iran risk turning into a direct conflict? I'll talk to National Security Adviser Jake Sullivan. And: trailing Trump.

The economy is roaring back, but voters aren't willing to give President Biden credit as his approval rating hits a new low, and he is now trailing Donald Trump by 5 points. Steve Kornacki will have the results of our new NBC News poll. Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC News Senior Washington Correspondent Hallie Jackson, Sam Jacobs – editor-in-chief of Time, Ramesh Ponnuru of the National Review and Symone Sanders-Townsend, former chief spokeswoman for Vice President Kamala Harris.

This Sunday: document defense.

President Biden forcefully defends his handling of classified documents after the special counsel declines to bring charges.

But is the president facing a bigger political risk after the special counsel raised questions about his age and memory? I'll talk to Biden's campaign co-chair Mitch Landrieu. Plus, the art of no deal.

Republicans reject a bipartisan border deal they demanded, and then they failed to impeach Biden's homeland security secretary. If Congress won't fix the border, who will solve the problem? I'll talk exclusively to Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas. And: encouraging Putin. Donald Trump says he would tell Russia to attack NATO allies who don't pay their bills.

Would the NATO alliance be in danger in a second Trump term? I'll speak to former Republican Governor Chris Christie of New Jersey. Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC News Chief White House correspondent Peter Alexander; Amna Nawaz, co-anchor of PBS Newshour; former White House Press Secretary Jen Psaki; and Republican strategist Brendan Buck.

Meet The Press: February 18, 2024

This Sunday: law and order.

A judge orders Donald Trump to pay over $350 million after finding him liable for fraud. And now a date is set for his first criminal trial in the New York hush money case. Meanwhile the district attorney prosecuting Trump in Georgia takes the stand as a judge decides whether to remove her from the case.

How will the GOP frontrunner's legal liabilities impact the 2024 election? Plus: Russian threat. The White House says Ukraine is running out of ammunition and urging Republicans in Congress to act.

And the House Intel chair faces backlash for warning of another threat: a new space-based weapon that could target U.S. satellites. I'll talk exclusively to Republican Congressman Mike Turner of Ohio. And: political motives.

An FBI informant at the center of the GOP efforts to impeach President Biden has been charged with lying. Will impeachment efforts fade? I'll speak with Democratic Senator Amy Klobuchar of Minnesota. And in our Meet the Moment conversation: Patti Davis, the daughter of Ronald Reagan.

Joining me for insight and analysis are: Mara Liasson, National Political Correspondent for NPR, Democratic pollster Cornell Belcher and Republican strategist Sara Fagen.

This Sunday: uphill battle.

Nikki Haley vows to fight on after losing the GOP primary in her home state.

While Donald Trump says he can't wait for the general election to start.

How long will Haley stay in the race? I'll talk to Republican Congressman Byron Donalds of Florida, who is strongly backing Trump. Plus: fertility fight. Alabama's Supreme Court rules that frozen embryos created through IVF are considered children, leading fertility clinics in the state to pause procedures.

What will be the legal and political impact? I'll talk to Democratic Governor Gavin Newsom of California. And: Ukraine's future. The war in Ukraine reaches the two-year mark.

What will happen if the U.S. pulls back support? I'll speak with National Security Advisor Jake Sullivan. Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC Chief Political Analyst Chuck Todd, NBC News Washington Correspondent Yamiche Alcindor, former Obama White House Senior Advisor Stephanie Cutter and Lanhee Chen, a fellow at the Hoover Institution.

Meet The Press: March 3, 2024

This Sunday: still running.

Nikki Haley tells me why she's staying in the race and fighting against the odds.

Plus: delay tactics. The Supreme Court agrees to hear Donald Trump's presidential immunity argument delaying his criminal trial in the election interference case. How many of Trump's criminal cases will go to trial before election day? And: uncommitted. Democrats in Michigan vote in protest of President Biden's handling of the war in Gaza.

What does it mean for November? I'll ask Democratic Congresswoman Debbie Dingell of Michigan. And Steve Kornacki previews the challenges ahead. Plus: exit plan. 82-year-old Senator Mitch McConnell announces he's stepping down as Republican leader this fall.

Joining me for insight and analysis are NBC News Capitol Hill Correspondent Ali Vitali, Geoff Bennett, co-anchor of PBS NewsHour, María Teresa Kumar, president of Voto Latino and Marc Short, former chief of staff to Vice President Mike Pence.

This Sunday: campaign kickoff.

A combative President Biden makes his case for a second term, taking on concerns over his age and threats to democracy. While Donald Trump becomes the presumptive GOP nominee after Nikki Haley drops out, but holds off endorsing.

How will Trump and Biden battle in the next 8 months? Will they face off on a debate stage? Could a third-party candidate act as a spoiler? My guests this morning: Democratic Senator Raphael Warnock of Georgia, Republican Senator Lindsey Graham of South Carolina and Democratic Congressman Adam Schiff of California, now competing for a U.S. Senate seat this fall. Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC News Senior White House Correspondent Kelly O'Donnell, Politico "Playbook" co-author Eugene Daniels, Marc Morial, the president of the National Urban League, and Republican strategist Sara Fagen.

This Sunday: Trump's promise. Donald Trump vows to free those charged and convicted of crimes in the January 6th attack on the Capitol on his first day in office.

As his former vice president says he won't be backing him in 2024.

I'll talk to Republican Senator Bill Cassidy of Louisiana, one of the seven Republicans who voted to convict Donald Trump. Plus: growing frustration. Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer calls for new leadership in Israel, warning Prime Minister Netanyahu is an obstacle to peace.

Is Israel's relationship with the U.S. in danger? I'll talk to Democratic Senator Ben Cardin of Maryland, the Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. And feeding the world in our Meet the Moment conversation. Chef José Andrés, founder of World Central Kitchen, on his mission to deliver meals to people in crisis. Joining me for insight and analysis are: Jonathan Martin of Politico, Symone Sanders-Townsend, former chief spokeswoman for Vice President Kamala Harris, and Lanhee Chen, a fellow at the Hoover Institution. Welcome to Sunday.

Meet The Press: March 24, 2024

This Sunday: party takeover. Donald Trump may be leading in the polls, but it's President Biden who has the cash advantage in the 2024 campaign.

As his legal bills mount, Trump wants campaign donors to help pay them.

Is that a winning strategy? I'll speak with Ronna McDaniel, the former chairwoman of the Republican National Committee. Plus: supreme decisions. Former Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer speaks out about the decision to overturn Roe v. Wade.

And his decision to step down from the Court. Joining me for insight and analysis are: NBC News Chief Political Analyst Chuck Todd; Kimberly Atkins Stohr, senior opinion writer for the Boston Globe; And Stephen Hayes, editor of The Dispatch.

Meet The Press: March 31, 2024

This Sunday: show of force. President Biden teams up with former Presidents Obama and Clinton as he faces a challenging campaign ahead.

Will star power and a big cash advantage be enough to win over skeptical voters? I'll talk to Democratic Congressman Jim Clyburn of South Carolina. Plus: trials and tribulations. A trial date is set for Donald Trump's first criminal trial with a gag order on the former president who is now selling bibles to raise money.

While House Republicans face a shrinking majority as more members head for the exits. How fractured is the GOP and how will it impact 2024? I'll talk to Republican Congressman Don Bacon of Nebraska. And: keeping the faith. NBC's Savannah Guthrie shares her faith journey and her message this Easter in our Meet the Moment conversation.

Joining me for insight and analysis are: Katie Rogers, White House correspondent for the New York Times; former Homeland Security Secretary Jeh Johnson; and Ramesh Ponnuru of National Review.

MATTER OF FACT WITH SOLEDAD O'BRIEN

Sundays 8:30-9:00am and 6:30-7:00pm

Matter of Fact is a groundbreaking half hour weekly program designed to be an informational toolkit for Americans. Hosted by award-winning producer, journalist, documentarian, and news anchor, Soledad O'Brien. Matter of Fact offers an analysis and perspective on current political and socioeconomic issues with a focus on the implications for Latinos and other important groups who are shaping a rapidly changing American landscape.

2024 1st QUARTER MATTER OF FACT WITH SOLEDAD O'BRIEN TOPICS

America's livestock and dairy industries are worth more than $100 billion annually. To ensure animals' health, farmers and ranchers need access to veterinary services. But in 2023, more than 230 regions across 47 states were designated as "Veterinarian Shortage Areas" by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. That's the most ever. Correspondent Jessica Gomez takes us to South Dakota to meet a veterinarian struggling with a brutal workload and the young student training to one day take over the role.

Wawa Gatheru, 25, is an inaugural member of a new Environmental Protection Agency council. It's the EPA's first-ever national youth advisory council. The committee is made up of 16 people between the ages of 16 and 29. They're now tasked with providing the EPA administrator with policy advice and recommendations for environmental issues including climate change, environmental justice and air quality. Gatheru shares her hopes for the committee and explains how young people can use history as a guide for addressing climate change.

The United Methodist Church is fracturing. More than 7,000 congregations have received permission to break away from the UMC since 2019. The divide is driven in large part by disagreements over the church's approach to LGBTQ policy. This fracturing isn't unique to the UMC. Correspondent Dina Demetrius traveled to Michigan, where a youth pastor and his family are coming to grips with losing their own faith community over his refusal to denounce the LGBTQ community.

The Great Recession. The Big Quit. In recent years, many Americans left their jobs citing frustrations like stagnant pay. But now, a new survey shows several professions are seeing substantial wage increases. Soledad breaks down who's making more and who isn't.

Finally, where do train cars go when they're retired? Soledad has the story about a centuries-old method of getting rid of old vehicles, while fostering a thriving marine environment.

Please join us this week for Matter of Fact with Soledad O'Brien.

Matter of Fact, January 14, 2024

The United States has the highest population of incarcerated people in the world. That includes thousands of people awaiting trial, unable to afford their bail. Several states and local governments have recently reformed their bail systems. In Michigan, advocates for reform hope to see action by the end of the year while opponents argue any changes will threaten public safety. Correspondent Dan Lieberman travels to Michigan and speaks with a sheriff, a judge and a woman who spent months behind bars as a teen, unable to pay her bail.

More than 400 million children live in countries where there is ongoing war or violent conflict. And these fights are often protracted, like the conflict between Israel and Palestine and the war in Ukraine. Dr. Zlatina Kostova is a clinical psychologist with the University of Massachusetts. She's helping train mental health providers in Ukraine on how to assist children living through war. She tells Soledad about how war impacts children's brains and development and what can be done to help them cope with the toxic stress created by their environment.

Even as more and more people “get online,” the digital divide persists. According to Pew Research Center, more than 40% of adults making under $30,000 do not own a laptop or computer. A business in Minnesota is working to change that by providing people with free or discounted computers. Correspondent Laura Chavez meets the owner and creator of PCs for People and a woman who says the organization changed her life.

The 2024 primary season gets underway with the Republican caucus in Iowa followed by the New Hampshire primary. As voters decide who will be on the general election ballot, some states are trying to decide whether they should rethink their primary process. For example, Arizona, Idaho and Oregon are all considering moving to nonpartisan primaries. Soledad breaks down which states are considering what changes.

Finally, some of the best-known artists in the world contributed to an amusement park in the 1980s. It opened for a short time in Hamburg, Germany and then was virtually forgotten. That is until now. Soledad tells the story behind “Luna Luna: Forgotten Fantasy,” now open to the public in Los Angeles, CA.

The winter cold is adding urgency to the migrant crisis in many major cities including New York, Chicago and Denver. In New York City, more than 170,000 migrants have arrived since Spring 2022, straining the city’s support system. But St. Louis, MO, which has a history of rolling out the welcome mat to refugees, sees the migrants’ arrival as an opportunity. An organization there is creating programs to help asylum-seekers from the Southern border, hoping they can resettle there and boost the city’s economy. Correspondent Joie Chen travels to the Gateway to the West and meets with the people who immigrated there years ago.

Rob Reiner is many things: actor, director, filmmaker and now, podcaster. As the son of comedian and Emmy-winning actor Carl Reiner, it’s clear the entertainment industry is in his blood. Soledad visited Rob Reiner at his home in California where he told her about growing up as Carl Reiner’s son, his most personally meaningful works, and his fascination with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. That fascination led him to launch his latest project, “Who Killed JFK,” a podcast he and Soledad partnered on.

This year brings a major development for veterans struggling with PTSD and depression. The Veteran Affairs Department announced it will fund studies into whether psychedelic-assisted therapy is helpful in treating mental health disorders for former military personnel. This comes after lobbying by several combat veterans who say they turned to psychedelics as a last resort. Correspondent Jessica Gomez sits down with a former Marine who shares how the treatment worked for him.

As the 2024 election officially gets underway with the start of primaries, recent polling by the Bipartisan Policy Center shows more than 80% of voters are worried about the state of America’s democracy. One voting method that’s garnering traction as a possible solution is rank-choice voting. Soledad breaks down how rank-choice voting works and why some are warning against it.

Finally, large portions of the country have been dealing with snowy, icy roads. While salt is key to keeping the roads safe, some states and municipalities are adding another ingredient to the mix: beet juice. The molasses-like byproduct of beets lowers the freezing-point of ice. It also has environmental benefits, lowering the amount of salt needed to treat the roads. But Soledad explains that, as with anything, it’s not a miracle cure.

America’s teachers are finding themselves on the frontlines of the youth mental health crisis. According to a government survey in 2021, 42% of high schoolers reported feeling persistently sad or hopeless. This is especially challenging for rural communities that lack access to treatment centers. Correspondent Dina Demetrius visited a school in the California desert that’s launched a new program aimed at providing students with better mental health support. She introduces us to the teachers running the program and a student who says it’s made a major impact on her, and her friends’ lives.

Beverly Johnson made history in 1974 as the first Black model to appear on the cover of American Vogue. But Johnson tells Soledad while there has been progress in the fashion industry towards greater diversity and inclusion, there's still work to be done. Johnson is marking the fiftieth anniversary of her breakthrough cover with a one-woman show in New York City. She talks with Soledad about the show, the modeling industry and her fascinating career.

It took several days following the 2020 Presidential Election before it was clear who had won the White House. That's because election workers needed more time to properly to process and count the influx of mail-in ballots. Now some states are considering changes to their ballot-processing rules to ensure things run more smoothly, and quickly, in future elections. Soledad breaks down the potential changes.

Home ownership is out of reach for millions of Americans. Housing prices are high as are interest rates. And affordable housing advocates say private investment companies are further upsetting the market. Correspondent Dan Lieberman traveled to Milwaukee to see how one innovative program is helping residents compete against private companies for the keys to their first homes.

Finally, plastic six-pack rings are getting a more environmentally friendly upgrade. A company in Mexico has developed six and four-pack holders that are 100% biodegradable and won't pollute oceans or landfills. Soledad has the details.

Matter of Fact, February 4, 2024

The Supreme Court will soon hear a case that is critical to the presidential primary calendar. A group of Republican and unaffiliated voters in Colorado said that former President Trump cannot be on the state's Republican primary ballot. Their decision pertains to the 14th Amendment, which states that anyone who has taken an oath to the Constitution and gone on to engage in insurrection, cannot hold office. In early 2022, Kim Wehle, a professor at the University of Baltimore School of Law, was one of the first people to note the 14th Amendment's potential impact on any future run by former President Trump. Soledad speaks with Wehle about how the Supreme Court might handle the case.

"I have finally gotten so I'm not angry, but it's taken a long time." Those are the words of educator and Portland, OR native, Donna Maxey. She was 12 years old when her family was forced out of a predominantly Black community. The city had claimed much of their neighborhood, called Albina, for what it dubbed "urban renewal." Their home, and her father's business, were demolished along with dozens of others. Correspondent Alexis Clark visited Portland where a non-profit now has a bold plan to build a new community where the neighborhood once stood.

More than 30 million children in America can't afford school meals, increasing lunch debt for many. During the pandemic the government paid for every public-school student to eat, but now only nine states offer free meals. Correspondent Laura Chavez traveled to Pennsylvania, where advocates are pushing for free lunches, to talk to teachers and cafeteria employees who are fighting for all children to eat.

Plus, tax season is underway, and this year brings some big changes. Tax brackets have been amended and could prove favorable for many families. And for those moving to cleaner energy, the IRS is offering tax credits on new electric vehicles, as well as for any energy-efficient home improvement. Soledad reports about additional changes and tools to help you file.

Finally, most workers in the U.S. have desk jobs. According to a new study published by the American Medical Association, that's taking a toll on people's health. Those who sit all day have a 16% higher risk of mortality - from all causes - than those who have more active jobs. But the research also found that if desk-workers did 15 to 30 minutes of additional exercise each day, the increased health risks disappear.

Matter of Fact, February 11, 2024

As Congress stalls on border legislation, the residents of Denver are confronting the migrant crisis head on. More than 38,000 migrants have arrived in Denver in the last 14 months, straining the city's services. Now, local volunteers and business owners are filling the gap. Correspondent Jessica Gomez traveled to Denver to meet the city's new mayor and a local motel owner who has opened her doors, taking in hundreds of migrants in need of shelter.

Lilliana Mason is a political psychologist who for years has been tracking Americans' feelings about politics. Recently, she started to notice a disturbing trend. As Americans became more divided politically and geographically, they became more distrusting, hostile and even accepting of political violence against people in the opposing party. In fact, these sentiments were particularly high around the January 6th insurrection. Mason shares her findings with Soledad and explains how George Washington actually warned hundreds of years ago that this could happen.

"Our voices were largely absent from the conversation and we had really important insights." Those are the words of Aaliyah Bilal, a Black Muslim American. When she realized she didn't see anyone like herself in the media, literature or the national conversation, she decided to do something about it. Her resulting book, "Temple Folk", landed the first-time author a final spot in the National Book Award in 2023. She shares how she approached the book and the role she hopes it plays in shedding light on the Black Muslim experience.

Tip earners are not guaranteed the minimum wage under federal law, but some states are considering stepping in. Many tip workers earn the federal sub-minimum wage of $2.13. If their tips plus those wages don't add up to the federal minimum wage of $7.25 an hour, employers are expected to make up the difference, but industry analysts say many don't. Now some states are considering ballot measures that would require businesses to pay all employees the minimum wage, regardless of whether they earn tips or not.

Finally, researchers would like you to go outside and count the birds. The annual Great Backyard Bird Count runs from February 16 to 19. Participants are asked to spend 15 minutes counting and recording all the birds they see or hear. They then report that information to the Cornell Lab of Ornithology. Birds are an excellent indicator of environmental issues, so the global count helps researchers build a better understanding of the world around us.

It's the first in the South! South Carolina's Republican primary is fast approaching, and it's gained a reputation for being incredibly important in the race for the White House. South Carolina's Republican voters have a nearly perfect record of picking the eventual presidential nominee. And this election is especially interesting with the state's former governor on the ballot. Nikki Haley won South Carolina twice as governor and was quite popular in the state. But, as Gibbs Knotts, chair of the Political Science Department at the College of Charleston, explains to Soledad, Haley is up against someone who also won the state twice and is extremely popular with its voters, former President Donald Trump.

Philadelphia's Chinatown is one of the oldest in the country. But now, the National Trust for Historic Preservation lists it as one of America's most endangered historic places. The organization sites a plan to build a new basketball arena abutting the neighborhood, as the primary threat. Residents worry the years-long construction project could block its streets, hurting local businesses. But the developers tell special correspondent Joie Chen that their project would actually benefit the community and that private investment is "critical for the long-term health and vibrance of Center City." Joie Chen travels to the City of Brotherly Love where a community finds itself caught between development and preserving identity.

America's schools are facing shortages on several fronts: teachers, custodians and in many places, bus drivers. Correspondent Laura Chavez travels to a school district in Carroll, Iowa that's taking an all-hands-on-deck approach to getting kids to class. Everyone from teachers to the school superintendent is driving a bus, easing the burden on the parents like Adam and Bailey Warnke whose son uses a wheelchair and needs a specially equipped bus to get to school.

In the 1980s, America's malls were in their prime. But recently, spurred by the convenience of online shopping, malls have struggled, and many have had to close their doors. That's left massive, empty retail spaces across the country. Dr. Resa Lewiss, a professor of emergency medicine and physician health care designer, is lobbying for these spaces to be converted into medical malls. Medical malls are one-stop-shops for health care needs. From seeing the doctor to getting an MRI to physical therapy, it would all be under one roof. Dr. Lewiss says such centers could be especially helpful for disadvantaged neighborhoods where people often lack access to proper health care.

Finally, humans are changing the geology of the planet. Scientists have found that plastics in our environment are starting to fuse with rocks. These part-plastic rocks have been found in more than 11 countries. Now, scientists say they're distinctive and pervasive enough to merit their own designation as a type of sedimentary rock. Soledad takes us to science class.

Buckeye, Arizona is one of the country's fastest growing cities. The historically small agriculture community is now the center of several major residential builds. But as the mega drought wears on, city officials are searching for new sources of water to sustain growth and a future with more people. Correspondent Dan Lieberman heads to the city on the outskirts of Phoenix and talks to the mayor and residents about the challenges and possible solutions.

Nearly 17 million people have lost Medicaid coverage in the last 11 months. On the face of it, that number seems staggering. But Matt Salo, former founding Executive Director of the National Association of Medicaid Directors, tells Soledad the program is simply right sizing following the pandemic. But some people who still qualify are losing their health coverage. Salo explains the steps states are taking to minimize that number and what they're doing to help those removed reenroll quickly.

Colorado is one of the many states headed to the primary polls on Super Tuesday. The Centennial State has had a fair amount of turnover in its election offices since the 2020 presidential race. More than a third of the election administrators have either quit or left their jobs because of term limits. We introduce you to Jefferson County's clerk, Amanda Gonzalez, who's taken on the job others are walking away from.

The Great Resignation is being replaced by the Great Retirement. During the pandemic there was a spike in retirements but according to new modeling by the St. Louis Federal Reserve, we're seeing a second surge. The analysis projects that there are nearly three million more people retired now than originally predicted. What's that mean for the balance of the economy as more baby boomers reach retirement age? Wendy Edelberg of the Brookings Intuition explains.

Finally, this month NASA's Mars rover, Perseverance, is marking three years since its arrival on the Red Planet. The little rover is continuing to amaze. Soledad shows some of the images it just captured of a solar eclipse on Mars, as one of the planet's moons crossed in front of the sun.

Matter of Fact, March 3, 2024

Children are missing school at a record rate in the United States. During the 2021-2022 school year, nearly 15 million students were chronically absent. That's almost twice what it was before the pandemic. "If we don't address this issue among our youngest learners, we are going to suffer huge consequences as they grow older," says Hedy Chang, the executive director of Attendance Works. Now, one school in Virginia is taking a new, more personal approach to getting kids back into the classroom by working with their families. Correspondent Jessica Gomez travels to Richmond, VA and meets the people going door-to-door to make sure kids are getting the education they need.

Wastewater testing is quickly becoming an important tool for communities' health. This testing method rose to prominence during the Coronavirus pandemic as a way to measure infection rates at a time when individual tests were still hard to come by. BioBot, an MIT startup in Massachusetts, assisted in that testing but its head of chemistry, Kaitlyn Hess Jimenez, says wastewater can help communities with so much more, from detecting other illnesses like flu to substances like medications in wastewater.

Finding love online can be exciting but it can also be exhausting. Researchers say our brains can only process a few options at a time, making "dating app fatigue" an issue as people become overwhelmed by possible connections. Correspondent Laura Chavez talks with a dating app expert about the impact all that swiping, and messaging has on our brains.

Methane is a greenhouse gas that traps heat, raising the earth's temperature. Researchers say cutting methane emissions from fossil fuel operations, agriculture and other sectors could slow global warming by as much as 30%. But tracking the sources of those emissions is challenging. One solution could be an innovative satellite that is about to launch. It will provide accurate, detailed, free mapping of methane emissions around the world.

Finally, this spring brings an historic event. For the first time in more than two centuries, two broods of cicadas will emerge at the same time. Soledad explains that while annoying and maybe a little unsettling, this massive influx of cicadas actually has environmental benefits.

Matter of Fact, March 10, 2024

Comedian and Alabama native Roy Wood Jr. joins Soledad in the studio to talk about the 2024 election, his passion for baseball and his commitment to his home state. He says, "a lot of people make a mistake of thinking that the news that comes out of Alabama represents all of the people that are in Alabama, and that's not the truth." Alabama is on the verge of making state history if it sends a second Black representative to the U.S. Congress. Roy Wood Jr. also digs into the role and responsibility of comedy in politics.

And we head to Virginia to meet a retired coal miner who suffers from black lung. The disease is caused by exposure to silica dust which, when inhaled, can damage and scar lungs. John Robinson is being treated in an Appalachian clinic that has seen a spike in cases. From 2013 to 2017, more than 400 people were diagnosed with black lung. Robinson, who started working underground when he was 20 years old, shares his story.

Plus, at least 10 million people around the world are considered stateless, someone who the UN defines as "not recognized as a national by any state under operation of its law." More than 200,000 of them live in the United States. Matter of Fact's special correspondent Joie Chen talked to two stateless people trying to navigate their unusual immigration situations.

Some U.S. cities are turning to zoning reform to try and mitigate the country's housing crisis. Strategies they're employing include allowing multifamily homes to be built in neighborhoods that traditionally only had single-family dwellings. Stephen Menendian, the University of California, Berkley's assistant director of the "Othering and Belonging Institute," tells us about an interactive map tracking these zoning reform efforts.

Finally, our Viewfinder segment features images from the annual Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. Houston Chronicle photographers give viewers a glimpse of the world's largest show and rodeo of its kind, with famous musicians, carnival rides and portraits of some of the more than two million people expected to attend this year's event.

With nearly 400,000 children in foster care, the system is strained. That means when kids turn 18, they're often pushed out of the system and on their own. Young people who age out of foster care are more likely to experience homelessness and incarceration. Correspondent Laura Chavez travels to Boulder County, Colorado where volunteers and non-profits are stepping in to make sure these young people land on their feet.

From work contracts to internships to grants, a series of lawsuits across the country is taking aim at programs that help minorities. One of the latest cases is against the Minority Business Development Agency (MBDA), a federal agency that's been around more than 50 years. A federal judge in Texas says it's violating the constitution by providing services based on race. Soledad speaks with civil rights attorney Alphonso David about the ruling's potential impact. David also represents the Fearless Fund, an organization that's being sued because it helps businesses run by women of color.

Plus, this winter didn't feel much like winter at all for most of the United States. According to NOAA, this was the warmest winter on record for the Lower 48. It's the latest indication of the impacts of climate change. The Environmental Protection Agency is seeking some fresh perspectives as it looks to address climate concerns. It's launched the first-ever federal advisory council comprised solely of young people. We meet a 25-year-old climate activist who now sits on that panel.

There's a national push to remove the lead service pipes still carrying water to millions of homes. This effort could be getting a little easier, thanks to researchers at Drexel University, who say that by pinging a pipe still buried underground and measuring the sound waves, they can determine whether it is made of lead.

Finally, the Smithsonian Women's History Museum is marking Women's History Month with an inaugural online exhibition. Digital curator Liz Harmon explains that the exhibit brings attention to some of history's hidden women.

Swatting is when someone calls 911 reporting an active attacker at a location. Law enforcement and SWAT teams race to the scene, weapons at the ready. But these calls are completely fabricated and that means an unsuspecting person and their family are shocked by an intense police response. Lawmakers are some of the most common targets, and with incidents rising, the FBI has launched a national database to track these calls. In Georgia, a rash of calls recently sent police rushing to several lawmakers' homes. Correspondent Dan Lieberman traveled to Atlanta where those representatives are now coming together across the aisle to stop swatting.

On Tuesday the Supreme Court takes up one of its biggest cases of the term. It involves mifepristone, one of the most used abortion pills. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved mifepristone in 2000. And then twice it expanded access to the drug, including allowing doctors to prescribe it via Telehealth appointment. Now, a group of anti-abortion doctors is challenging the FDA's expanded access to the drug. Amy Howe covers the Supreme Court and joins Soledad in the studio to discuss the potential impact this case could have on both access to mifepristone and the FDA's approval process.

Baseball season's opening day is March 28th, but one former player is trying for a different kind of win, one for his hometown. Cleon Jones was part of the "Mighty Mets", the team that won the 1969 World Series. Even though he retired from the game decades ago, Jones hasn't slowed down. For the last 40 years he has been revitalizing his hometown of Africatown. Alexis Clark visits the Mobile, Alabama neighborhood to see what Jones is doing to save the place that gave him his start.

New maps reveal several cities along the east coast are sinking at an alarming rate. New York City and Baltimore are dropping by an average of almost two millimeters a year. Charleston, South Carolina is one of the fastest-sinking cities; the downtown area is just ten feet above sea level. Soledad reports on the reasons and potential solutions to stop the sink.

Finally, a tiny fish is creating an underwater cacophony. Recently discovered in Myanmar, the Danionella Cerebrum lives in murky waters. German scientists discovered that the fish makes an incredibly loud noise, comparable to a jet engine. Soledad shares their findings.

Matter of Fact, March 31, 2024

From overseeing the election to the power of voters, this week Matter of Fact focuses on the foundations of democracy.

The presidential election is just months away but with high turnover in election offices, are states ready for voting day? According to a survey by the Brennan Center for Justice, this will be the first presidential election for one in five local election officials. Correspondent Dan Lieberman travels to Pennsylvania, one of the states looking to recruit and retain its election staff. Officials there tell him more security and support are needed to improve conditions for the people at the backbone of our democratic process.

Nearly 70 percent of U.S. adults say the political climate is a significant source of stress in their lives, according to the American Psychological Association. But a political cartoonist is hoping brevity, and some levity, can help people engage in politics. Soledad sits down with award-winning cartoonist Christopher Weyant who says his goal isn't to change minds but to make people think about important issues.

Every vote counts, but where you live can impact how your vote counts. In Ohio, advocates are concerned that current voting maps are gerrymandered to weaken the political power of minorities. Redistricting has been a long-running issue in the state, and a commission was founded to help draw fairer maps. But critics say the commission is making the situation worse. Correspondent Diane Roberts travels to Ohio and meets the people divided over the state's dividing lines.

During an election year, billions of dollars go to turning out the vote. The last three national general elections saw some of the highest voter turnout in decades. Still, less than 40% of Americans voted in all three elections. That's according to new numbers from the Pew Research Center. Soledad explains what the findings tell us about who is and who isn't heading to the polls.

Finally, we pivot from politics to astronomy. NASA is looking to build on research from the 1930s during April's solar eclipse. Soledad explains the project and why NASA is asking for your help to complete this mission.
