	Charlie Brennan Show May 9, 2018 8:30 am – 11:00 am 10 minutes of a 2½-hour program
Host: Charlie Brennan – Guest: Keith Alper, founder and CEO of Creative Producers Group &amp; Nitrous Effect Host Charlie Brennan interviewed Keith Alper his company and what they do. Keith rang the closing bell on wall street a couple of days ago. Nitrous Effect is an agency collective that brings transformational results to top F500 companies, As well as Entrepreneurial owners and startups.Keith’s companies are able to set up meetings on skype for business. They will be able to set up meetings with skype where the presenter can see the audience and the audience can see the presenter. They also talked about the homeless in St. Louis and using business facilities and we need public facilities.
	Charlie Brennan Show June 4, 2018 8:30 am – 11:00 am 10 minutes of a 2½-hour program
Host: Charlie Brennan – Guest: Amy Marxkors Host Charlie Brennan and Amy Marxkors talked to listeners about the job report. The numbers showed that our jobless rate is 3.8% that is the lowest since April 2000. The last time that rate was lower was in 1969. Charlie notes this is the longest continued job expansion on record. 92 months, we have been adding jobs every month for 92 months. In addition, there are other great aspects to the numbers that came out on Friday. There should be no other stories. Earnings were up 2.7% last month; raises were actually stronger for the ranked file for managers. The money is going up for those at the bottom, than those at the top. Charlie read the breakdown of unemployment.
	Charlie Brennan Show June 6, 2018 8:30 am – 11:00 am 30 minutes of a 2½-hour program
Host: Charlie Brennan – Guest: Joan Bray, Former State Representative and Tom Sullivan, local watch dog Host Charlie Brennan interviewed Joan Ray and Tom Sullivan about the Pro and Cons of a Costco going to be built at 170 and Olive in St. Louis. Charlie gets both sides of the story. To start Charlie told a story about a previous guest of the show to lay out similarities for these happenings. Paulette Carr is councilwomen for University City and is for the development of a Costco development at 170 and Olive. Turns out that a Women Kathy Tripp works for a house cleaning service and works for Paulette. Kathy was on the show about another development by Jonathan Brown, Head of Novus development in Sunset Hills. Kathy was opposed about this development and wrote letters to the council of Sunset Hills about the development because of the use of eminent domain and other issues as well. Novus is the developer for Costco. Kathy wrote a letter criticizing the University City Development. At the same time she is working for a University City Councilman The letter was sent to local officials. She used a different name as Kathleen Russ. Well by text, she was fired by Paulette Carr. Due to the information that may be in her home office can be looked at. Charlie took listeners calls. Joan is for the development. She thinks this will not happen, without an investment tax increment financing, she said this city needs the reinvestment. Unfortunately our county has got in this use of TIF most of the time abusing. This TIF is so scrubbed the numbers have been looked at so differently and this TIF reinvests in the neighborhood. No other TIF has been proposed. Tom Sullivan is opposed for the development due to the fact they will tear down houses, possibly business. Homeowners in the redevelopment area seem eager to hear the commission's decision, with many waiting to see if they should make improvements to their houses or start packing up to leave, while business owners are less thrilled with the prospect of giving up their locations for a big-box retail store. Charlie took listeners calls

	Mark Reardon Show June 25, 2018 2:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m. 6 minutes of a 4-hour program
	Host: Mark Reardon – Guest: Open line Host Mark Reardon talked to listeners about tweets he saw on twitter about the Red Hen Restaurant and Sarah Sanders. Mark played an audio of Rep. Maxine Waters claimed the favor of the Almighty during a speech at a Capitol Hill "Keep Families Together" rally on Saturday. She said cabinet members and highly visible Trump enablers should expect harassment at restaurants, gas stations, shopping places, and even their homes until they change their immigration policy. Several have already been confronted at public places. "If you see anybody from that cabinet in a restaurant, in a department store, at a gasoline station, you get out and you create a crowd. You push back on them. Tell them they're not welcome anymore, anywhere!" Is that where we are? Is this ok? This is disappointing. If you are an elected official and people don't agree with your politics they boot you out as with Sarah Sanders being kicked out of the Red Hen Restaurant. Mark played audio of Elise Jordan This goes back to the anger over, plenty of Americans know they are being lied to constantly and they want the truth. And should someone who lies constantly and enables the President lies be openly welcomed in society wherever they please. Should they face any social or societal pressure? She is waning towards yes. That Sarah has made her choices. Mark thinks if it were the Democrat President, it would be different. He also talked about the border situation. Mark took listeners calls.
	Charlie Brennan Show June 26, 2018 8:30 am – 11:00 am 10 minutes of a 2½-hour program
	Host: Charlie Brennan – Guest: Bill Adler, Stripmatic Products Inc., Cleveland Host Charlie Brennan interviewed Bill Adler who went to high school with Charlie they discussed his business that includes steel. Thanks to tariffs that have been levied on some foreign steel by our president the price of his steel has gone up by as much as 50%. Bill commented that we need a strong domestic steel supply base. The only problem is they can only provide for 70% of the US demand for steel so we need those extra imports.
	Charlie Brennan Show June 28, 2018 8:30 am – 11:00 am 10 minutes of a 2½-hour program
	Host: Charlie Brennan – Guest: Open Line Host Charlie Brennan talked to listeners about unions and the decision by the supreme court that said public sector employees should not be required to pay union dues. Charlie took listeners on the matter. The Union is required to represent those employees in the unit whether they pay the dues or not and that those employees enjoy the benefits of the collective bargaining.

Debbie moderates with Charlie Brennan and Scott Faughn of The Missouri Times. Ballpark Village Shooting Two innocent bystanders were shot, one fatally last night at Ballpark Village. This occurred at a private party with public and private security on site. Ballpark Village does not allow guns onsite. The public must go through metal detectors to attend Cardinal games, should you do the same to attend events at ballpark village? Shooting Bias? There were 6 other shootings yesterday and overnight in the St. Louis area but non received the media attention like the one at ballpark village. The post-dispatch sent out breaking news alerts on the shooting and all three local television stations had multiple updates on the story. Is there a media bias on shooting coverage depending on their locations?

Debbie moderates with Charlie Brennan and Mark Reardon  They discussed the recent shooting at Ballpark Village. They discussed what the situation was. Was there an angry fellow with too much to drink? They feel it was an isolated incident but they are occurring more and more. Mark brought up that we haven't heard from the new Police Chief and Mayor since they have taken office of what they're plans are for reducing crime.
	Mark Reardon Show  May 9, 2018  2:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.  20 minutes of a 4-hour program
Host: Mark Reardon – Guest: John Hayden, St. Louis Police Chief  Host Mark Reardon interviewed Chief John Hayden about his plans to fight crime. There have been 12 murders in the past 12 days in the city. They discussed what areas are experiencing these crimes. The Chief is keeping track of the homicides and according to the evidence, there are 58 ytd. 24 are drug related, 8 are domestic related and 16 are vendettas. That is 48 out of the 58 that are personal. Cocaine and heroin are the drugs of choice they are seeing at the scenes of these crimes most of the time. Chief Hayden explained that they are focusing on what is called an open-air drug market. What has been consistent over the years when you have a high drug or many drug sales on a block or an area also known for some prevalent shootings. The Chief feels they are making progress by spending dime in schools and attending community meetings. They talked about the ballpark village shooting.

Debbie moderates with Charlie Brennan and Amy Marxkors Debbie moderates the discussion about the National Rifle Association president Oliver North did not waste any time jumping into the gun control debate. On Sunday, two days after a 17-year-old killed 10 people at a Texas high school, the retired Marine blamed the violence on “youngsters who are steeped in a culture of violence” found on TV or movies. Any irony that Mr. North was the pitchman for “Call of Duty: Black Ops 2” the first person shooter video game that became the benchmark of the very “culture of violence” the new NRA head is now deploring? According to published reports, the 17-year-old shooter who killed 10 people at a Texas high school on Friday said he spared some because he wanted to “tell his story” about who and why he killed. Should the media give voice to this shooter by reporting his motives for the deadly shooting?

Eric Greitens. Wolff says that it would not be easy but references moral turpitude and reminds us that the issues should be from while in office. Mike explained why it is not easy to impeach because the constitutional provisions about impeachment has an ambiguity the questions is does it apply generally or does it apply in the conduct committed in office. Actually the words of it are your liable to impeachment if you are the Governor for crimes, misconduct, habitual drunken, will full neglect of duty, corruption in office, in competency or any offence involving moral turpitude or oppression in office. Therefore, does that mean the conduct he did while in office or not. Can he be impeached? Jamilah Nasheed feels that the Governor could be dangerous and wants security in the State Capitol. The governor accused of taking a donor list from The Mission Continues 501C3 organization that the governor started for Veterans and using it for his political campaign purposes. The charge is not stealing a donor list but it is felony computer tampering. How does tampering does it apply in this case? The charges are because he took the data form the 501C3 that he left a year earlier without permission. A 501C3 cannot support candidates that are running for office. They can support ideas in terms of lobbying. 501C3 can rent their lists at fair market value. Neil said if they make it available to everybody and they all have a shot with the list that is ok. However, when it is looks as though one person is getting favored treatment than that becomes problematic in turns of the list that is why the Executive Director of The Mission Continues is decrying this The Mission Continues can be in grave trouble and can lose their 501C3 status.

Debbie raised a question who gave fifty thousand dollars in cash to attorney Al Watkins office on behalf of what is yet to be an original source. That would be none other than Scott Faughn, publisher of the Missouri Times and Clayton times and our Monday panelist who sat in on Overtime yesterday. Mark was shocked and said it's no surprise where Scott falls on the topic of Eric Greitens that he has been on a mission to bring the Governor down with his opinions in his newspaper. Being a regular on KMOX there is questions of conflict of interest, about where the cash came from. Who pays their attorney fifty thousand dollars in cash? How do you get with today's banking requirements get fifty thousand dollars in cash because every withdrawal of over ten thousand has to be notified to regulators you have to disclose that the banks have to? Charlie is bothered by the fact that Scott is in the studio opining on affairs and he is not telling our listeners that he is actually being paid for his opinions. Mark said, he is against the Governor and Charlie said maybe he is being paid to be against the Governor. KMOX is disappointed in Scott Faughn. Mark will have Scott on his show later today.

The publisher of the Missouri Times continues to claim it was his $50,000 cash he gave to an attorney representing the ex-husband in the Greitens' affair. Scott Faughn spoke with KMOX's Mark Reardon yesterday and was asked why he paid cash. Mr. Faughn replied-- quote-- "how I pay an attorney is kind of my business. That's between me and him." What's the largest cash transaction you have ever done? Debbie raised a question do you believe this was Scott's personal money. Two years ago, Faughn apparently faced legal action of seventeen thousand dollars in unpaid taxes related to his newspapers. Still trying to figure out who anonymously sent fifty thousand came from that was delivered by courier to Al Watkins office. It is unusual to pay a lawyer that much cash. "No matter what the scandal is follow the money". Seems to be always the case. Here is another case involving financial backers, A construction company owned by one of Governor Greitens biggest financial backers spent nearly sixty thousand dollars last year to pay the Governor to travel across the country, according to the Missouri Ethics Commission.

On Friday, House bill 881 passed and signed by the Governor, which was the last thing he did before he packed up his bags and left prior to 5:00pm. How did Donna Baringer get a law about expired tags passed? Donna said, this will not solve the problem but, what it did do it says when you get your permanent license plates you must turn in the temporary tags and the department of revenue will destroy them. When you buy a new car, you are going to turn in the tag, proof of car insurance, pay the sales tax and get your permanent plates. For people that buy many used cars you have the temporary tags floating around. They discussed more about people driving with expired tags. This is a huge revenue hit.

Debbie moderates with Charlie Brennan and Charlie Brenna and Braxton Payne of Show Me Victories  Debbie discusses with Charlie Brennan and Braxton Payne about Democrats escalated their attacks on President Donald Trump’s policy of separating immigrant children from parents who illegally cross the Mexican border. First lady Melania Trump, in a rare foray into policy matters, said Sunday that the U.S. must be a country that “governs with heart.” President Trump blames the Democrats for the policy. Who is at fault for this policy? It's only been a weekend since President Trump imposed a 25-percent import tariff on goods from China, which responded with tariffs of its own, and Missouri farmers are feeling the pinch. The price of soybeans has already dropped 10-percent over the weekend. Area farmers are feeling it from both ends; because they also buy a lot of metal machinery and tanks. Will some of the farmers who supported President Trump in 2016 flip their votes in the mid-term elections because of his tariffs? Playing video games too much is now classified as a mental health disorder, does this seem right? GOP House leaders are threatening to use the "full arsenal of constitutional weapons" if the FBI and DOJ don't comply with its subpoenas over the Hillary Clinton email investigation. Rep. Trey Gowdy accuses both departments of stalling their investigation, and says Speaker Paul Ryan warned on Friday there would be "action on the floor of the House" if the subpoenas are ignored. Is this a diversion by Republicans ahead of the midterm elections? A political cartoonist says he got fired for criticizing President Trump. Rob Rogers has drawn cartoons for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette for 25 years before he was fired last week. He says the paper refused to publish his last six cartoons, all critical of Trump. An editor says Rogers was unwilling to "collaborate" with the paper on a new direction for his cartoons. Should a paper have editorial control over their cartoonist

Host: Mark Reardon Guest: Dave Ray, FAIR Federation for American Immigration Reform Host Mark Reardon interviewed Dave Ray about the immigration issue on family separation. The family separation issue has been going on for years. Linked to a decision called the Flores decision a ruling going back to the 1980's. This mandates that children cannot be held more than 20 days. Therefore when parents come in with their children if you are going to hold the parents and charge them if these are criminal aliens, then they have to be separated from the children because you cannot hold the children for more than 20 days. This entire story was based on this false premise that that little girl was separated from her mother and terrorized and that this is family separation. What appears to have happened according to the father that the little girl was kidnapped by the mother without having the approval of the father to take her to the United States. When she entered the US illegally for the second time because she's been deported once. The border patrol officer walked up to her and asked her to set her child down for a moment, long enough for the photographer (this according to the photographer) to snap 3 frames then the little girl was picked up and she and the mother are in detention together. The mother is being charged with a felony due to the second time crossing the border. When they take a camera down through a detention center with kids involved of the 12,000 kids who are being held 10,000 of them came here without their parents in the first place.

Host: Charlie Brennan Guest: Sheryl Crosier Host Charlie Brennan interviewed Sheryl Crosier about her son Simon who was born with a chromosome disorder. When Simon was three days old his parents were told that he has Trisomy 18 aka Edwards Syndrom and from that day forward his care and treatment changed dramatically. The health professionals told Sheryl and her husband that their son was incompatible with life yet he is a living breathing human being. They were not told that there were any survivors of this syndrome. One of the oldest survivors had just passed that was 37 yrs old with the same condition of their son. Putting aside the Trisomy 18 it was not just these kids being treated in a bias way. Simon's oxygen levels began to fall and they were told there was nothing they could do. They were in a hospital environment in a level 3 NIC U which should be well equipped to help Simon. The Hospital staff basically stood around and did nothing and their son died in their arms. Three weeks after Simon died Sheryl went through his medical records and she found a DNR place in his chart and on top of that they were giving him comfort feedings, which the least amount of food. They had also gave Simon a drug which was counter indicated to his condition. Three things without the parent's knowledge. This happens all across the United States. Crosier shared her story at a Missouri Right to Life event in Kansas City. There, she met Kidd, who was moved by her story. A bill proposed in the Missouri House would prohibit health care facilities and others from withholding life-sustaining procedures from a minor patient without the written consent of a parent or legal guardian.  Sponsored by Rep. Bill Kidd, R-Kansas City, HB 113 also would require health care facilities, nursing homes and physicians to disclose in writing any policies that relate to a patient's care, including life-sustaining or non-beneficial treatments. Charlie took listeners calls.

With the recent news of a chemical attack in Syria, does this change president Trump's plan to withdraw troops from the country? Tomorrow, April 10th is Equal Pay Day in Missouri, the day when women catch up to what men have made. With more women entering college and the workforce, will that have any impact on pay disparity? The Virginia cyclist, who gave the middle finger to President Trump's motorcade last October, is suing the government-contracting firm that fired her after the photo went viral. Her lawyer said the company violated her client's right to free expression. Trump will once again be boycotting the White House Correspondents Association Dinner. Do you think he could change the narrative if he would attend and fire a few jokes at the press? Over 2,200 juveniles are currently sentenced to life in prison without parole, should they be sentenced to life at that age no matter how terrible their crimes were? After several days of feuding back and forth on Twitter, Jimmy Kimmel attempted to defuse the situation with Sean Hannity over comments on Melania Trump's accent. Is this a good lesson for our country, to resolve the feud? Last week St. Louis Mayor Krewson and St. Louis County Executive Stenger sent a letter to Governor Greitens asking him to make appointments to the Bi-State Development Agency. Why is the governor not making appointments? A middle school student hired a stripper to come to his school, what is the proper punishment for this kid? 	Host: Mark Reardon Guest: Josh Hawley, Missouri Attorney General Host Mark Reardon interviewed Josh Hawley about the Supreme Court case between a gay couple and a baker. The situation is a violation of the first amendment to require business people to accept work that they believe implicates them in expression as contrary to their religious beliefs. This is a Supreme Court case of a couple of gay men going to a bakery where Jack Phillips works to order a wedding cake and Jack told the men that he cannot make it because of his religious views and the court rules that is right. Josh Hawley to talk about the case. Josh said this ruling was the right one. That person of faith cannot be treated as second-class citizens. You cannot just dismiss their faith beliefs as if they are a form of bigotry you have to take them seriously. The case was not about the people ordering the cake it was about the cake itself they wanted to order. The Colorado human rights commission were demeaning to Jack.

	Host: Charlie Brennan Guest: Attorney, Brad Young and Amy Marxkors Host Charlie Brennan discussed a Superme Court case with Brad Young and Amy Marxkors .The Supreme Court case between a gay couple and a Baker, Jack Phillips of Masterpiece Cakes. The supreme court decided that Masterpiece Cakes does not have to bake for at least one gay couple. Masterpiece Cakes said, they have religious views that frown upon gay marriage. The Supreme court said the Bakers did not get a fair shake in front of the Colorado discrimination commission, among other things they belittled the right to free religion in their remarks. They did not say bakers everywhere have to bake wedding cakes for gay couples; just this baker does not have to bake for this couple. There are other cases in the pipeline on similar cases. The commission said that the actions of the baker were like holocaust, that his actions were despicable, because he was acting in furtherance of his religious beliefs. He was not turning their business down but the artwork they wanted on the cake was against his religious beliefs. Charlie took listeners calls.

Hosts: Debbie Monterrey, Charlie Brennan and Michael Kelley  Overtime - Some Illinois lawmakers want to give extra money to schools that replace armed security officers with unarmed social workers and behavior therapists. It is an approach to safety that is far different from the national push to add police or arm teachers, following a mass shooting at a Parkland Florida high school. State Representative Emanuel "Chris" Welch says he proposed the bill after hearing from advocates who argue investing in mental health resources is the best way of treating the epidemic of violence. Host: Mark Reardon Guest: Carol Daniel, KMOX News Reporter Host Mark Reardon interviewed Carol Daniel about a fiery meeting last night with the O’Fallon School Board. Steve Springer school board member has said some controversial things in the past. Carol talked to Steve and his wife. They are equally angry and frustrated that they (the Springer’s) feel is fake news. Carol asked Mrs. Springer a question to please tell her what is fake, tell me what a lie is, and please tell me what is untrue in the coverage Springers wife said, all he talked about was the venue and the age of the children. This all started with woman at a book reading at the library. The book was about little girl, and telling the little girl she is a hero, she can be a hero, she can change the community by volunteering, by social justice. Springers told Carol that Steve felt that the venue was inappropriate, the age wasn’t appropriate, the kids that the women was reading to were 5-10 years old. Steve used the term indoctrination, and that a part of the conflict. People at the board meeting said that word was inappropriate, that he was attacking social justice. He thought that social justice was the indoctrination. He asked the board members what is next, he started talking about a transgender student, and about if “little Mohamad” wants prayer are we going to have to have a room for him and people took offence to that. A friend of Steve has said he was not a racist. He is defiance. He will not step down. Steve said, in no way attacking any child or any children.

Host: Mark Reardon Guest: Steve Springer, O’Fallon School Board Member Host Mark Reardon interviewed Steve Springer about his side of the story that Carol Daniel told yesterday. Steve and another person went to the city council since they fund the library. The point about it being too young for the kids and the other point was the public library is a taxpayer has funded entity and he did not feel that our tax dollars should be going toward social justice programs. There are several viewpoints on what social justice means. Steve feels social justice means connotation of politics and left landing progressive politics. This is separate from him being on the school board. After that there were people on social media unrestrained social media started saying because Steve objected to that program and because the book that was presented was about a young black child and her role in the world and what she wanted to do and accomplish. The fact that Steve objected to the Social Justice presentation at all that they decided that declared him a racist, bigot and a misogynist. That is how it got started. A board member and a teachers union rep. decided to continue to add to the social media tac. The Teacher forwarded e-mails from Steve’s account from the district 96 website. That is where they came across an e-mail on a transgender student. He was trying to get across they need policies in place to handle these issues.
