

QUARTERLY ISSUES REPORT
WHYY-91FM

FOR THE PERIOD OF APRIL 1, 2019 THROUGH JUNE 30, 2019

The license of station WHYY-91FM has determined that the following issues were of importance to the Delaware Valley community during the past three months and has aired the following programs to address the issues:

HEATH AND SCIENCE

The Pulse

June 6, 2019

60 Minutes

9:00 AM

Astrophysicist Federica Bianco explains how boxing makes her a better scientist, as both are problem-solving activities.

Radio Times

April 23, 2019

60 Minutes

10:00 AM

A Philadelphia Inquirer investigation revealed a shocking number of health hazards in Philadelphia public schools. Journalists Barbara Laker and Wendy Ruderman join the program to discuss their investigation and the updates that have taken place since the story first broke.

THE ENVIRONMENT

The Pulse

April 19, 2019

60 Minutes

9:00 AM

Amid challenges like pollution, deforestation and climate change, engaging with the environment can feel overwhelming. To mark Earth Day, the program explores some of the ways, big and small, people are working to do just that.

The Why

June 17, 2019

15 Minutes

5:45 PM

About one-third of Philadelphia's garbage goes to a facility in Chester, PA where the waste is burned and converted into energy. The incinerator also pollutes the air Chester residents breathe and researchers say it's one of the dirtiest cities in the U.S. The program explains why the city continues to send its trash there, and why many incinerators like this one are located in low-income communities of color.

EDUCATION

The Why

May 6, 2019

15 Minutes

5:45 PM

Philadelphia Inquirer reporter Alfred Lubrano joins the show to discuss why first generation students are at a disadvantage at elite institutions like the University of Pennsylvania and the unique challenges they face.

Fresh Air with Terry Gross

May 28, 2019

60 Minutes

3:00 PM

Students and parents discuss the mental health epidemic on college campuses.

POLITICS AND POLICY

Radio Times

April 26, 2019

60 Minutes

10:00 AM

Jeffrey Rosen, president and CEO of the National Constitution Center, and Molly Ball, national political correspondent for Time Magazine, join the program to discuss the fallout from the Mueller report.

1A

May 16, 2019

60 Minutes

11:00 AM

The program features an interview with Senator Bernie Sanders about why he is running for president.

ARTS AND CULTURE

Fresh Air with Terry Gross

April 23, 2019

60 Minutes

3:00 PM

The program features an interview with actress Glenda Jackson on playing King Lear.

Here & Now

June 26, 2019

60 Minutes

1:00 PM

It can be a struggle for Muslim women to find clothing that is both stylish and modest. The program looks at how some Muslim designers are trying to change that, especially as Muslims spend more and more on fashion.