Military, War and Veterans	Vital Voices	VV008	Fred Sauceman continues his interview with Doug Taylor, a veteran of the War in Vietnam. Here, Doug recounts more details of daily life during wartime. He also talks of his readjustment on returning home in November of 1970, the completion of his college degree, and the beginning of a long career as an employee of East Tennessee State University, where he still works today.	11/19/2023	2:00 PM	15:00
Arts and Entertainment	Vital Voices	VV009	Fred Sauceman interviews Sandra A. Gutierrez, a cookbook author, cooking instructor, journalist, and historian. Knopf in October of 2023. Sandra grew up in Guatemala and now lives in Cary, North Carolina.	11/26/2023	2:00 PM	15:00
Arts and Entertainment	Vital Voices	VV011	Fred Sauceman interviews writer Jim Minick who has chronicled the near destruction of Udall, Kansas, which was struck by a tornado on May 25, 1955. Minick's 2023 book is called Without Warning. Its title reflects the fact that the town's residents were given no advance notice by the weather bureau that a tornado was approaching. Over 80 people were killed, and nearly 200 buildings were destroyed or damaged.	12/10/2023	2:00 PM	15:00
Arts and Entertainment	Vital Voices	VV013	We go beyond the familiar Christmas carol to learn more about King Wenceslas, from George WB Scott. He is the author of a new historical novel, The Good King, that tells the story of King Wenceslas, his good works, and the intrigue that led to his assassination. The setting is Bohemia in the 10th century.	12/24/2023	2:00 PM	15:00
