Tonight on Praise: Israel Under Fire: We are on day four of Israel Under Fire. Over the next hour, Erick Stakelbeck reports LIVE with the inside story of what is happening right now in Israel as it wages war against the terror group Hamas. We hear from an Israeli father whose community was decimated as his teenage son hid from Hamas terrorists in his home while his friends and neighbors were murdered in cold blood. After days of running back and forth into bomb shelters with his family, Former U.S. Ambassador to Israel, David Friedman is here to share the latest updates from Jerusalem and what comes next. Joining Erick in studio LIVE throughout is Rabbi Jason Sobel with prophetic perspective. What does the Bible say about everything that's happening right now and why does it matter to you? All of that and much more on a very special edition of Praise LIVE.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: This was Israel's 9/11. On Saturday, October 7th, a Jewish Sabbath day, Hamas Terrorists launched a coordinated assault with multiple land and air attacks into numerous border areas of Israel. This was an unprovoked and unexpected attack. Catching Israel off guard, terrorists moved quickly, murdering men, women, and children, even the elderly with over 1,200 Israelis dead so far. Twenty-two Americans were killed and over twenty are missing. Over 130 hostages have been taken. Western countries led by the U.S. have denounced the Hamas terrorist attacks and pledged their support to Israel. However, Israel is at war. So what do we as the church say? How do we respond to this crisis? Sheila talks with Chaim Malespin, Soldier and Minister on the Front Line; Chris Mitchell, Reporter; and Yael Eckstein, International Fellowship of Christians & Jews.

TBN Special Report with Erick Stakelbeck: Israel Under Fire: It is day twelve of Israel's war against the terror group Hamas in Gaza. A war that Israel did not choose, but a war that Israel must win as it vows to decisively crush Hamas once and for all as any sort of threat to the world's one and only Jewish state. Erick talks with Former Israeli Ambassador Danny Danon, Member of Knesset, and Representative to the UN; and Adva Adar, the granddaughter of one of the hostages taken into Gaza by Hamas in that October 7th onslaught, the invasion of southern Israel.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: On October 7th Hamas Terrorists launched a coordinated assault with multiple land and air attacks into numerous border areas of Israel. Sadly, Israeli deaths now stand at 1,400 and hostage numbers stand at about 200, including Americans, and further, 32 Americans have been killed. Hamas seeks to murder the Jewish people. Now imminent is the ground war into Gaza. Israeli troops surround the border, and the U.S., in support, has fired its first shots at missiles potentially headed toward Israel from Yemen. The State Department has also issued worldwide caution to all traveling and at home U.S. citizens. Sheila Walsh receives live updates from on the ground in Israel and on the front lines from Chris Mitchell, Senior Reporter and Chaim Malespin, Israeli special Forces Officer. She also talks with Dr. Rober Jeffress, Pastor of First Baptist Dallas, and one of America's most loved and respected pastors, to discuss how these events fit into the prophetic timeline. Where are we now? We will find out.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: Still imminent is a ground war into Gaza. Israeli troops still surround the border. Israel is beginning the third week of war with Hamas after the firing of thousands of rockets and brutally killing civilians on October 7th, more than 1,400 Israeli civilians and soldiers have been killed as well as 32 Americans and thousands of Palestinians. Over 200 hostages are still being held by Hamas. Their families are still waiting and praying. No order has come yet for the ground invasion from Israel to begin. Over 120,000 Israelis are living away from their homes after evacuating in the North. Aid organizations from numerous groups in Israel, including our friends the International Fellowship of Christians and Jews, are providing food, shelter, and care to the wounded and displaced. Palestinians are beginning to get some aid through Egypt, but it's not enough to even touch the level of desperation for food, water, fuel, and medicine. There was some good news, two Americans, Judith and Natalie Raanan, after medication from Qatar were released on Friday, as well as two elderly Israeli women, Yocheved Lifshitz, who is 85 years old, and Nurit Cooper, who is 79, were just released. Their husbands are still being held by Hamas. Sheila reads Psalm 121 verses 3 and 4. Chaim Malespin, Israeli Special Forces Officer, reports from the frontlines. Sheila also talks with one of America's great beloved pastors, Dr. Jack Graham, to discuss how these events fit into the prophetic timeline and why it's so important that we pray for Israel.

TBN Special Report with Erick Stakelbeck: Israel Under Fire: As Israel's war with Hamas continues day 19, today, Wednesday, October 25th, here is the state of play right now. Over 1,400 Israelis, mostly civilians, were slaughtered by Hamas in an October 7th massacre, still over 200 hostages are in Hamas clutches in the bowels and tunnels beneath Gaza and Israel is striking back hard in preparation for what looks like a coming ground invasion. Israel has eliminated several top Hamas military commanders. But on the flip side, Hamas continues to fire rockets into Israel, reaching as far as Haifa. Secondly, leaders from Hamas, Palestinian Islamic Jihad and Hezbollah met today in Beirut, plotting their path forward and their masters in Tehran, the Iranian regime, are engineering attacks against U.S. forces in the region as well. We've seen a growing number of attacks against U.S. bases in Syria and Iraq. Lt. Col. Jonathan Conricus, International Spokesman for the Israel Defense Forces, gives an Israel-Hamas operational update. He talks about Israel's war on second front, that Iran backs terror groups, and Israeli forces stand ready to invade Gaza. Michal Uziyahu, Liaison to the Mayor of Eshkol, talks about the aftermath of the Hamas surprise attack. He recounts the October 7th terrorist attack, talks about Israeli families displaced by escalating conflict, and supporting Israeli families amidst conflict.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: Israel is beginning the third week of war with Hamas after the firing of thousands of rockets and brutally killing civilians on October 7th. No order has come yet for the ground invasion from Israel to begin. Though no invasion has begun, thousands of missiles have been fired at Hamas. Over 120,000 Israelis have been evacuated. Israel is dealing with threats from many fronts: Gaza on the southern border, on the norther border, Hezbollah, and the west bank, which is biblical Judea and Samaria. Iran, along with Lebanon and Hezbollah and others, have threatened to join the war. Organizations such as Veteran nonprofit SOAA are trying to help Americans trapped in Israel to get out of the country. Israeli Christians who are fighting the war are asking for prayer from around the world. TBN Reporter Yair Pinto gives an update on the ground. Yael Eckstein, President of International Fellowship of Christians and Jews, talks about the present situation and the great need of the people of Israel and how we can help her support and undergird their work.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: Israel is expanding ground operations into Gaza and tanks are nearing Gaza City. Sheila talks with Senior Pastor of Harvest Christian Fellowship and Founder of Harvest Crusades, Pastor Greg Laurie to discuss what is going on in the world and why the rapid rise in antisemitism. She also talks with CBN Bureau Chief and Senior Reporter in Israel, Chris Mitchell. Chaim Malespin, an Israel Special Forces Officer, reports on the ground from an undisclosed location. In breaking news, the Israeli army says it has rescued the first soldier from Hamas during its ground operation in the Gaza strip. Private Ori Mega Dish has been reunited with her family and her condition is good. Israel is beginning the fourth week of war after Hamas fired thousands of rockets and brutally killed civilians on October 7th. More than 1,400 Israeli civilians and soldiers have been killed, as well as 33 Americans and thousands of Palestinians. Now over 9,400 have been killed on both sides. Two hundred thirty-eight hostages are still being held by Hamas. Thirty-three are children under 18, 10 are children under the age of 5, only four have been released by Hamas. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu says Israel is moving into the second stage of the war. This is our second war of independence. Netanyahu repeated his warning to the civilian population to move away from Gaza to safe areas in the south. However, Hamas is preventing civilians from leaving the area. The pentagon announced over 23 attacks on American troops in Iraq and Syria. Destroy the Jewish state. A middle east expert, Avi Malamud, says this is all part of Iran's plan to surround and eliminate Israel through what they call the ring of fire, which is Hezbollah in Lebanon, Iraq, Afghan and Pakistani Shiite Militias, Hamas and Islamic Jihad in the Gaza strip. Israelis from around the world are asking for prayer.

TBN Special Report with Erick Stakelbeck: Israel Under Fire: It is day 25 of Israel's war against Hamas terrorists in Gaza. Israeli forces say they are at the gates of Gaza City, which is the main stronghold of the Hamas terror group. The IDF Israeli Defense Forces have a paid a heavy price. At least 11 Israeli soldiers have been killed so far in this operation, which has really broadened over the past several days. Of course, Israel, in the immediate aftermath of that Hamas massacre perpetrated on October 7th, the worst massacre of the Jewish people since the Holocaust, Israel responded immediately with major air strikes throughout Gaza, weakening the Hamas terror infrastructure in the strip and now Israel has followed up with a ground invasion, air, land, and sea forces striking Hamas in Gaza. Hamas' elaborate underground tunnel network called the metro, is where Hamas' leadership and thousands of fighters have burrowed themselves in taking shelter from the storm above, but the Israel defense forces are now going into those tunnels to root out Hamas terror once and for all. Iran has a ring of fire that surrounds Israel on all sides. On the northern front, engagement between Israel IDF and Hezbollah terrorists along the Israel-Lebanon border continues. The Houthis, another Iran-backed terror proxy group, over the past few days, have fired rockets, missiles, and attacked drones in the direction of the Jewish state. A US destroyer stationed in the Red Sea shot down some and Israel also intercepted these projectiles coming from Yemen. What happens in the middle east does not stay in the middle east. If you need any more clear indication of that, testimony yesterday by the FBI director, Christopher Ray brought that home very starkly. Events unfolding right now in the middle east eventually will profoundly affect all of us no matter where we live. Guest: Avi Melamed, Middle East Geopolitical Expert, Former Israeli Intelligence Office and Senior Arab Affairs Advisor, and Founder of Inside the Middle East Intelligence Perspectives Institute, shares his insights on the current state of play in the world's most volatile and chaotic region. Eugene Kontrovich, Director of Center for the Middle East and International Law, talks about Israel's right to self-defense, international law, and Israel's right to protect its citizens.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: The ground war has begun. Today we'll discuss where we are in the timeline of biblical prophecy and what we as Christians can do. We'll be joined by New Testament scholar, Dr. Jeremiah Johnston. We'll also talk with CBN Bureau Chief and Senior Reporter Chris Mitchell. Plus we'll talk to Chaim Malespin, an Israel Special Forces Officer on the ground reporting from an undisclosed location. But first, in breaking news, the Israeli army said it has rescued the first soldier from Hamas during its ground operation in the Gaza strip. Private Ori Mega Dish has been reunited with her family and her condition is good. Israel is beginning its fourth week of war after Hamas fired thousands of rockets and brutally killed civilians on October 7th. More than 1400 Israeli civilians and soldiers have been killed, as well as 33 Americans and thousands of Palestinians. Now over 9,400 have been killed on both sides. 238 hostages are still being held by Hamas; 33 are children under 18, and 10 are children under the age of 5. Hamas has only released four hostages so far. According to sources, the terrorists being interrogated confessed that they were promised $10,000 and an apartment for hostages from the October 7th attack. Over 1.5 million rallied in Turkey to protest Israel, calling them terrorists and chanting Turkey military to Gaza. Putin invited senior Hamas and Iranian leaders to Russia giving legitimacy to the terror groups. An antisemitic mob stormed the airport in Russia storming onto the runway hunting and searching for Israelis and Jews on a flight coming from Tel Aviv. Fortunately, no passengers were injured. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu tells the families of hostages that Israel will exhaust every possibility to rescue loved ones and bring them home. He also confirmed that the hostages taken have largely dictated their current steps. Israelis from around the world are asking for prayer.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: Israeli forces have advanced further into Gaza and cut off the north splitting the territory into two. Israeli troops are preparing to enter Gaza City in hours encircling the area. In breaking news, Netanyahu says Israel will seek control of Gaza security indefinitely. Israeli forces have now cut off north Gaza as the Gaza strip has been pounded with intense airstrikes. Americans have been told to flee Lebanon now as Hezbollah targets Israel. Israeli media reports that their military expect to enter the city sometime this week. The US continues to bolster its forces in the Mediterranean Sea as tensions remain high with Iran. US Secretary of State Antony Blinken says the US is "ready" to get involved if a line is crossed. The US has deployed a nuclear-powered sub to the middle east. Israelis from around the world are asking for prayer. We discuss what is going on, what the Bible says about these events, and what we as Christians can do. TBN Special Report with Erick Stakelbeck: Israel Under Fire: Hostage Crisis Update: Sadly, far too many have already forgotten that some 240 people, including toddlers, the elderly and U.S. citizens are still being held captive by Hamas terrorists in Gaza. Two hundred forty people. Sons, daughters, grandparents, husbands, wives, who were violently separated from their families and quite literally dragged from their homes in southern Israel a little over one month ago on October 7th. Now we don't know much about their current whereabouts but what we do know is they were dragged into Gaza, where Hamas has a massive network of underground tunnels that stretches some 300 miles beneath the strip. It was described by one elderly hostage who was held in the tunnels and released as being like a spiderweb. Now, the Israel Defense Forces are working night and day to destroy these tunnels and to rescue the hostages. It's a fierce fight against an evil demonic foe, a death cult, folks, that's what Hamas is. Make no mistake these are modern day Nazis just in different uniforms. And as this fight rages, the loved ones of the captives are waiting and praying and dreaming of a day very soon when there will be a great and miraculous reunion. God's arm is not too short, and he can do this. And here at TBN we have not forgotten. And we will not forget those 240 souls, including 30 children, including Holocaust survivors who are being used as a bargaining chip by a vicious terror group that, God willing, is in the process of being crushed once and for all. Over the next hour, you'll hear from Israel's top diplomat Foreign Minister Elie Cohen, along with the families of some of the hostages who are being held in Gaza right now. You will hear their personal stories about how their lives were turned upside down on October 7th and why they will never give up hope. And you'll learn what you can do to help and to bless the people of Israel.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: Today we have breaking news about a possible hostage release and exchange and how its progressing. The update: While hundreds of families are awaiting the fate of their loved ones, sources say a possible deal to release some of the hostages including women and children could be imminent. This deal could include an exchange for a Palestinian prisoner and a short ceasefire. Details of this are changing by the minute but movement may happen as soon as today. From Al-Shifa, the largest hospital in Gaza, Israeli military has released a video of what it claims is an extended tunnel beneath the hospital and used as a command center. The footage, they say is "more proof" Hamas is using patients as "human shields." A UK doctor who worked at the hospital said there were areas in the hospital he was not allowed to go for fear of being shot. Iranian-backed militants hijacked a commercial cargo ship in the red sea, they are now holding 25 hostages. The ship is not Israeli owned but British-owned and Japanese run. Sheila talks with Tal Heinrich, Spokesperson for the Israeli Prime Minister's Office, Chaim Malespin, our friend on the ground and Israeli Special Forces Officer, and Chris Mitchell, Bureau Chief of CBN News Israel. Sheila ends the program with a discussion about giving thanks and how we move from this difficult and heartbreaking situation that's happening all around the world to a place of deep genuine gratitude as we remember to give thanks for all that God has made and continues to provide. It is her prayer that we would be encouraged as we move into this Thanksgiving and that whatever we're facing today, these words from God's word would bring us comfort and peace.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: The situation in Israel and the war with Hamas is constantly evolving even with the release of some hostages, the temporary ceasefire has ended, and fighting has resumed. The Update: The first American hostage, a four-year-old girl, Abigail Edan, was released as well as an American-Israeli woman with dual citizenship. There are over 1.7 million Palestinians displaced, antisemitism is on the rise in the U.S., and Israelis from around the world are asking for prayer. Sheila talks with Tal Heinrich, Spokesperson for the Israeli Prime Minister's office, Yair Pinto, an Israeli Special Forces Officer, from an undisclosed location, and from Jerusalem, Chris Mitchell, Bureau Chief of CBN News Israel. Finally, author and friend Rabbi Jason Sobel, unpacks the meaning of Hanukkah, the Jewish festival of lights. There's so much for us to remember about the promise of light shining in the midst of darkness.

TBN Special Report with Erick Stakelbeck: Israel Under Fire: Israel-Hamas War Update: The IDF has largely taken control in northern Gaza. Israel is also engaged in fierce fighting in southern Gaza, in particular Khan Yunis, and hundreds of Hamas fighters have surrendered in recent days. Eylon Levy, Israel Government Spokesperson talks about what is at stake, the ongoing hostage crisis, Israel's Hamas war strategies and end goals, media wars: how public opinion is shaping Israel war, and international pressure amplifies over Israel's Gaza campaign. Dr. Yechezkel Leiter, father of fallen soldier, shares stories of his son Moshe Yedidyah Leiter's legacy. It is Hannukah and Christmas is nearly upon us. To bring some light out of this darkness, Erick tells the story of how five-year-old Amelia Aloni, and her mother, Daniela, were ripped from their home on October 7th and taken hostage in Gaza, but thankfully were released. We see the reception Amelia received when she recently returned to her kindergarten class in Israel and was greeted by her teacher and her classmates.

TBN Special Report with Sheila Walsh: Israel Under Fire: The Update: More than 110 hostages remain in captivity. US support for the war in Israel is said by some to be waning as the Israeli campaign continues. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has said that Israel will continue its fight until absolute victory. The UK is to join a US-led naval force to fend off attacks in the Red Sea from groups who are allied with Hamas. Pockets of antisemitism are still on the rise in the US, especially on college campuses and against Jewish synagogues in some states. Israelis from around the world are asking for and need our prayers. TBN Special Report with Erick Stakelbeck: Israel Under Fire: Israel-Hamas War Update: Hamas declared war on Israel on October 7th, when some 3,000 Hamas terrorists invaded southern Israel and slaughtered 1,200, mostly civilian Israelis, women, children, and the elderly and carted off close to 300 more back to Gaza into captivity. They took them underground into the vast network of terror tunnels built by Hamas, that stretches some 300 miles throughout Gaza, which is one of the most persistent problems that the Israel Defense Forces have had to contend with. We see a video put together by the Israel Defense Forces summarizing who Hamas is. Erick talks with Rabbi Pesach Wolicki, Host of Should to Shoulder Podcast to discuss what is at stake, diplomatic heat rises on Israel's ongoing Gaza campaign, the dual rejection of two-state solution, Israel: the interplay of politics, spirituality, and war, and the global political landscape and Israel's influence.

Tonight a very Special Edition of Israel Under Fire: March for Israel. Erick Stakelbeck is in Dallas, but tonight he takes us to the nation's capital, Washington D.C., for a massive march for Israel. Over the past several weeks we've shown you the disturbing clips here on TBN of these massive pro-Hamas, anti-Israel, openly Anti-Semitic rallies. This massive rally today in D.C. is a much-needed response to that. Some estimates say at least 100,000 people are converging on the National Mall. Jews, Christians, united together in support of Israel, standing with the Jewish people for such a time as this. Again, a time when Anti-Semitism is skyrocketing to levels we haven't seen since World War II. There are several speakers, including Pastor John Hagee, a bi-partisan list, because support for Israel should be something that unites us across partisan lines in an increasingly polarized obviously political climate. We should all be able to agree that Israel is a rock-solid ally of the United States, a beacon for freedom and democracy in the heart of the middle east. The state of play: October 7th, over one month ago, that heinous massacre, the greatest massacre of the Jewish people since the holocaust. Well, right now, the Israel Defense Forces are in Gaza City, Hamas's main power base, and they are making major strides. It looks as if Hamas, this vicious Iran-backed terror group, really a death cult, is on the ropes right now as the IDF continues to push the offensive. Hundreds of thousands of Palestinian civilians are fleeing to the south. We've had persistent constant calls by the Israel Defense Forces to the Palestinian people to flee, to evacuate that Gaza City area. Again, hundreds of thousands of Palestinians are fleeing to the south because in essence, the IDF has cut Gaza in two. There is now southern Gaza and northern Gaza. The bulk of the fighting is taking place in the northern half of the strip, in particular, in and around Gaza City. Hamas is using hospitals, civilians, patients, doctors, and nurses, as human shields, throughout Gaza, as their main command and control centers. There is one hospital in particular, Al-Shifa Hospital, located in Gaza City and Hamas's main command control center is literally beneath this hospital including Hamas leaders. Keep an eye on the northern front. Hezbollah, another Iran-backed terror proxy, is a force that is much more powerful and well-equipped than Hamas. So it's become an unsustainable situation to Israel's north. Hezbollah perched on Israel's northern border some 150,000 rockets and missiles pointed at Israel at every inch of the world's one and only Jewish state. In recent days, we had major flare ups along that Lebanon border. Just on Sunday we saw 21 Israeli civilians wounded and one killed in a Hezbollah rocket attack. We are going to the March for Israel in Washington, D.C. Guest speakers include Tovah Feldshuh, Actress, Natan Sharansky, Former Soviet Dissident, Mijal Bitton, Shalom Hartman Institute, Julie Platt, Chair of Board at Jewish Federations of North America, Isaac Herzog, President of Israel, Chuck Schumer (D-NY) Senate Majority Leader, Mike Johnson (R-LA) House Speaker, Debra Messing, Actress, Orna Neutra, Mother of Hostage Omer Neutra, Alana Zeitichik, Cousin of 6 Hostages, Michael Herzog, Israeli Ambassador to the U.S., Pastor John Hagee, Founder and Senior Pastor of Cornerstone Church. The final tally was 290,000 people coming to the National Mall in D.C. standing with one voice for Israel and Jewish people. This was the largest pro-Israel rally in U.S. history.

War Between Good & Evil: A Christian Perspective #7145	55:30	55:30	REC	PA/O/E	10/26/2023	8:00 PM
					10/26/2023	11:00 PM

Tonight on a TBN Special: The War Between Good and Evil: A Christian Perspective. After the horrific acts against the Jewish people on October 7th, the world has been exposed to the barbaric tactics of the terrorist group Hamas. Tonight we are going to dive into who Hamas is and break apart why this is a war between good and evil. God is the giver of life, and he desires for those he loves to have life more abundant and to be free. Hamas on the other hand, values the opposite, death over life. We saw this play out in their satanic tactics to target and kill innocent Israelis, including beheading babies but also by sacrificing the safety of their own people in order to promote their cause. Hamas told Palestinians civilians in Gaza to stay put and not to flee south as Israel has warned. The reason the U.S. stands with Israel amongst many is because of our foundational beliefs that life is valuable and the reason we value life is because God is the creator of it. Hamas fights for the opposite of who God is, for the extinction of an entire people group. And that's why this is a war between good and evil. While we support Israel's right to defend itself against terrorism, we should also reflect on God's perspective. His heart breaks for the atrocities against innocent Jews who were slaughtered in their homes. But let us not forget, God cares about all life. And that means the innocent civilians in Gaza who are caught in the crosshairs. Hamas is holding the people of Gaza hostage. They seek the death of Israelis and Palestinians. This is a war against humanity, against God's creation. And so how should Christians respond in a time of war and death? Tonight we start with a brief overview of Hamas, followed a panel of experts who have spent decades in the middle east and understand the region, then close in prayer. Because above all, we ask that we speak about these things not with the wisdom of the world, but with the wisdom of God. Host Lyndsay Keith talks with Mark Dubowitz, CEO at The Foundation of Defense of Democracies; Johnnie Moore, President for The Congress of Christian Leaders; Joel Rosenberg, Editor and Chief of All Israel News and All Arab News; Reza Safa, Pastor, Founder and President of Nejat, a former radical Muslim now a Christian pastor; and Pastor D. Robinson, Vice President of Pastoral Relations at TBN, closes in prayer.

Tonight on a Hanukkah Special with Erick Stakelbeck: We share why Hanukkah, which is celebrated by Jews around the world, also matters for every Christian. The Gospel of John describes how Jesus celebrated Hanukkah. Our Savior observed a holiday that most Christians know very little about. Why does Hanukkah last for eight days? Why is the menorah lit? Who were the Maccabees, the legendary Jewish freedom fighters who inspired America's founding fathers? Hanukkah is a tribute to an uprising so inexplicable that it can only be called a miracle. It is a celebration of light overcoming darkness. With Israel at war right now, with evil forces that seek its destruction the message of Hanukkah has never been more timely. Join Danny "The Digger" Herman, Archaeological Expert; Ze'ev Orenstein, Director of International Affairs at the City of David Ancient Jerusalem; Rabbi Jason Sobel, Founder of Fusion Global; Dumisani Washington, Pastor, Composer, Teacher, Founder and CEO of the Institute for Black Solidarity with Israel, and author of "Zionism and The Black Church; and Dennis Prager, Columnist, Nationally Syndicated Radio Talk Show Host, Public Speaker, and Founder of Prager University; as we unpack the story and significance behind this miraculous Festival of Lights.

CBN Reporter Charlene Aaron Reports: Well-known Israeli-American activist Noa Tishby once served as her country's first envoy for combating antisemitism. While she no longer holds that official role, her advocacy for her homeland continues, especially after October 7. Tishby is no stranger to the fight against anti-Jewish hatred, something that has risen since Israel began fighting to end Hamas' stranglehold on Gaza. According to the Anti-Defamation League, following the October 7th massacre, a significant spike in antisemitic incidents has been reported across the U.S. Cases of harassment, vandalism, and assault have jumped by almost 400 percent. Tishby recently told the Friends of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) that underlying messaging paved the way for the Hamas attack and the atmosphere that has followed. Pro-Palestinian protests have broken out worldwide on college campuses and in major cities around the country and internationally. Countless protestors have gone around ripping down posters of Jewish hostages still held captive by Hamas. In September, Tishby reached out through the renowned entertainment magazine Variety to write about the dangers of antisemitism masquerading as anti-Zionism – the movement for the self-determination and statehood of the Jewish people in their ancestral homeland. Tishby, who is also the author of the book Israel: A Simple Guide to the Most Misunderstood Country on Earth, condemns the phrase "From the River to the Sea" which has become a rallying cry at many pro-Palestinian demonstrations. She also pushes back against those trying to equate the October 7 attack with Israel's military campaign in Gaza while also condemning the Hamas act of hiding behind innocent Palestinians. Meanwhile, the vocal activist warns that this entire moment should be seen as a wake-up call to the U.S. and other countries.

CBN News Senior Correspondent Wendy Griffith Reports: Officials continue to struggle with an overwhelming surge at the U.S. southern border. In response, the border patrol is shutting down crossings, and Texas Gov. Greg Abbott (R) is taking matters into his own hands. Abbott faces growing pushback for his new law allowing police to arrest people they suspect are crossing illegally. On Monday alone, the Border Patrol encountered more than 12,000 people crossing into the U.S. from Mexico. Hundreds were seen huddling in Eagle Pass, Texas. Some were wrapped in blankets as they awaited processing. Meanwhile, Abbott is going on the offensive. He sent more than 100 migrants to Chicago by plane after the city council targeted his busing mission. The governor signed a new law, empowering local and state police to arrest migrants suspected of crossing into the state illegally as well as letting judges send some back to Mexico. The Biden administration doesn't like it. Rev. Samuel Rodriguez of the National Hispanic Christian Leadership Conference said the White House could and should stop the flow of migrants from Mexico immediately. El Paso County and the ACLJ are suing Texas, claiming the federal government has exclusive power over immigration. They also claim the new law will overburden jails and deny migrants the chance to request asylum. Meanwhile, federal officials temporarily closed several border entry points, including some railway crossings. One freight company said that's costing as much as $200 million a day.

CBN Reporter Charlene Aaron Reports: After an urgent meeting with U.S. officials, Mexico has unveiled a new task force to stem the tide of migrants crossing the southern U.S. border. The country's leaders announced the step after meeting with Secretary of State Antony Blinkin and Homeland Security Alejandro Mayorkas in Mexico City on Wednesday. Mexico's government is agreeing to step up immigration enforcement within their country, help reopen key ports of entry, and encourage migrants to stay in Mexico. As part of the agreement, Mexico will regularly meet with officials from other countries in Central and Latin America. The action comes at a time of unprecedented surge of migrants crossing illegally in the U.S. According to U.S. Customs and Border Protection as many as 10,000 migrant arrests are made along the border each day. A caravan of some 6,000 migrants is currently heading to the U.S. U.S. cities are struggling to manage the growing problem as some border states are sending migrants to them by bus and plane. New York City Mayor Eric Adams (D) says his city can't handle the massive influx of migrants, and he's criticizing the governor of Texas while calling for the Biden administration to take action. Meanwhile, Mexico's president is calling for the U.S. to work more to strengthen its ties with Cuba and Venezuela, two of the top countries migrants are fleeing, while Mexico also promises to crack down on drug smugglers.

Matt and Laurie Crouch host Pastor Allen Jackson who shares the bold truth about leading with faith and the urgency for Christians to stand up and advocate for God's truth in the public square, on college campuses, in corporate boardrooms and in our homes. Pastor Allen encourages us stop raging against the darkness and turn up the light and celebrate what the Spirit of God is doing. Pastor Allen also shares his view on what is happening in Israel and talks about how the young people are returning to Israel from all around the world. Israelis are unified and mobilizing. He shares that we have to look at the difficulties and challenges that come with life, and in the midst of it we can always find the hand of God moving. He tells us there are 300 million Christians suffering persecution in the world today. Thousands being killed every year. He believes what we're watching in Israel is revelation of what is coming to all of us. Anti-Semitism and the hatred of Christians are both expressions of the spirit of anti-Christ. The only way to address it is with faith. We also hear current news updates from TBN Israel and Erick Stakelbeck concerning the Gaza Israel war.

This Month in Christian History: Artists. On today's episode Cody Crouch explores stories where faith and art have intersected throughout history. We learn about great Christian artists whose lives were a beautiful reflection of their faith in Christ such as Johann Sebastian Bach, Hildegard of Bingen, The Inklings: Warren Lewis, Clive Staples Lewis aka CS Lewis, Hugo Dyson, and J.R.R. Tolkien, Michelangelo, Edmund Campion, Matthew Brady, Timothy O'Sullivan, Julia Margaret Cameron, and Rembrandt Harmenszoon Van Rijn. Faith was a driving force in their work and art was a way to express their heartfelt convictions. Great Christian artists of all media types have played a significant role in demonstrating devotion and worship. This art does what it does best. It points us to God's magnificent creation. It leads people to truth and gives us the opportunity to deepen our own faith. You can find Edmund Campion's story, and hundreds of others like it, in the best-selling book, "Foxes Voices of the Martyrs," offered by our sponsor, Voice of the Martyrs, for free.

This Month in Christian History: Hymns. On this episode Cody Crouch takes us back before pop music, rock and roll, jazz, and blues, to discover some of the great composers and lyricists of hymns that people of faith have been singing for generations, even centuries, and continue to sing in churches and homes around the world today. We hear the stories behind some of the classic sacred hymns and songs Rock of Ages by Reverend Augustus Toplady, How Great Thou Art by Pastor Carl Boberg, Jesus Loves Me by Susan and Anna Warner along with Composer William Bradbury, I Need Thee Every Hour by Annie Sherwood Hawks, Nothing But the Blood by Dr. Robert Lowery in collaboration with William Doane, Nearer My God to Thee by Sarah and Eliza Adams and Legendary Composer Lowell Mason, Blessed Assurance by Fanny Crosby, Safe in the Arms of Jesus by William Doane and Fanny Crosby, I'll Fly Away by Albert Brumley, It Is Well With My Soul by Horatio G. Spanford, Amazing Grace by John Newton, In Jesus by James Proctor and Gospel Pianist Robert Harkness, What a Friend We Have in Jesus by Joseph Scriven, Take My Hand Precious Lord by Thomas A. Dorsey, who also published the first black gospel publishing company Dorsey House of Music where he began working with Mahalia Jackson. I'll Overcome Some Day by Charles Tinley became the foundation for another song written decades later, We Shall Overcome, which would serve as a key anthem of the American civil rights movement echoing Dr. Tinley's teachings of freedom, unity, and equality. We also learn about Reverend John Smith, the Martyr of Demerara, and his belief that the greatest freedom that anyone could experience is spiritual freedom that comes through Christ. His testimony and the many spiritual songs in this period still ring true today. You can find Reverend John Smith's inspiring story and hundreds of others like it in the best-selling book, "Foxes Voices of the Martyrs," offered by our sponsor, Voice of the Martyrs, for free.

This Month in Christian History: Christmas. On this episode Cody Crouch unwraps a few holiday theme stories that go beyond family squabbles and petty disagreements. These stories took place in the midst of some of the deadliest conflicts in human history. In the midst of all the chaos and suffering we find hope, and isn't that just like the original Christmas story itself? We learn about the Christmas Truce of World War I, the Civil War Truce on the Rappahannock in 1862, Fritz Vincken and his mother Elizabeth, the Christmas miracle of 1945 during the Battle of The Bulge, the 1950 Christmas miracle of American Captain Marious Leonard Larue and the Meredith Victory during the Korean war, and George Washington's Christmas prayer at Valley Forge. We also learn about the Octave Triduum, which you can find the stories of these accounts and hundreds of others like it in the best-selling book, "Foxes Voices of the Martyrs," offered by our sponsor, Voice of the Martyrs, for free. In all of these stories we see the Christmas Spirit transcend differences and even unite people in acts of kindness and compassion.

CBN News Senior Correspondent Dale Hurd Reports: Campus rallies celebrating the atrocities committed against Israel show just how deeply antisemitism has infected many of America's colleges and universities. After the horrific Hamas terrorist attack on Israel, students at the University of Wisconsin Madison chanted, "Glory to the martyrs." Cornell University Professor Russell Rickford called the Hamas killings "exhilarating." An instructor at Stanford has been suspended for allegedly making Jewish students stand in a corner while publicly referring to them as "colonizers." Critics call it a direct result of the Boycott, Divestments, and Sanctions (BDS) movement against Israel. Many colleges and universities have allowed and even promoted pro-Hamas anti-Jewish rhetoric for decades. The attack on Israel has shown just where that policy has led. The anti-Israel BDS movement has been allowed to flourish on campuses nationwide and uses the chant "from the river to the sea" in protests, calling for the destruction of Israel. After the Oct. 7 Hamas attack on Israel, the BDS movement's website posted and later deleted that it supported the slaughter of Israelis by Hamas calling it "heroic" and "justified." The BDS movement, which has long claimed to have originated from the Palestinian people, was, according to BDS historian Gerald Steinberg, created by the Soviet Union, the British Labor Party, and Muslim nations who oppose Israel. Dexter Van Zile, managing editor at Focus on Western Islamism, said the Hamas terror attack finally exposed the BDS movement for what it is really about, the destruction of the state of Israel. A major campus group behind the BDS movement is Students for Justice in Palestine (SJP). After the Hamas attack, Boston University's SJP chapter posted that "victory is ours." Universities like Harvard have been embarrassed and have also lost donations because of pro-Hamas support. It's gotten so bad that Ezekiel Emanuel, longtime Democrat and brother of Rahm (current United States ambassador to Japan) wrote an op-ed published in Wednesday's New York Times titled "The Moral Deficiencies of a Liberal Education."

Praise Presents Praying Grace: David Holland, Pastor of The Cup and Table Company – The Cup of Communion. The Table of Fellowship, and author of his new book, "Praying Grace" discusses grace, the person of Jesus, praying grace, and the declaration of grace. His book is about the finished work of Jesus Christ and how to pray from that finished work. Praying from victory instead of struggling for victory. Praying grace is designed to help us renew our mind, re-order our paradigms, into a declarative form of prayer. A confident, bold posture of sonship before Him; coming to Him as beloved sons and daughters, and boldly agreeing and partnering with Him and declaring in the earth what He has said He wants. It's a prayer of declaration and agreement in partnership with God. Pastor Holland shares that people all over the world are facing the biggest crisis since World War II and are seeking comfort and hope right now. He tells viewers that we have underestimated how much God loves us, how good He is, and the depth, breath, and the height of what Jesus has done for us and in us. The moment that light begins to come on for you, you will never ever be the same.

Tonight on Praise: Matt and Laurie Crouch are joined by Rabbi Jason Sobel and Pastor Jentezen Franklin as they tour Israel to explore the Holy Land. Along the way, Pastor Jentezen teaches us that the fact that Jesus bled from different parts of his body, and the fact that he bled from his head speaks especially to this generation after COVID. He bled for our mental health, he bled for the healing of our minds, healing from depression, hopelessness, mental illness, mental distress, trauma, pain, and sorrow. He tells us to keep our mind stayed on Jesus and no matter what's going on he can give us the perfect peace referenced in Isaiah. In the Old Testament, he had a temple for his people. Under the new covenant, he has people for his temple. We are the temple of the Holy Spirit. Rabbi Sobel teaches us that when Jesus died on that cross, he died that we might find spiritual, emotional, relational, and physical healing as a result of his death and resurrection. Pastor Jentezen and Rabbi Sobel pray prayers of peace for viewers.

Tonight on Praise: Matt & Laurie Crouch sit down with Max Lucado, Minister of Oak Hills Church, Gifted Speaker, and Best-Selling Author to talk about his latest book, "God Never Gives Up On You." Minister Lucado talks about the big promise of the life of Jacob and that God makes a covenant with us and He never gives up on us. The name "Jacob" means trickster, but God changed his name to "Israel" which can mean I fought with God, but it can also mean God fights for me. When Jacob wrestled with God, the Bible says Jacob prevailed, he stayed in the fight. Max Lucado shares his personal struggle battling stress and turning back to an old habit of drinking just a few beers every evening to take the edge off. He shares how God convicted him and kept him from going down a path that could have been devastating. His circumstances were circumvented by God's goodness because God didn't give up on him. Max Lucado believes the story of Jacob is in the Bible for those of us who continue to stumble our way through life. God's grace is all over the story of Jacob. It tells us we can come home to God.

She tells us that God really did enter into human history and that's what we celebrate at Christmas. She shares that we as believers need to look at what makes Jesus utterly unique and proclaim that into our culture, into our world. Jesus is the great healer. Carrie encourages people to spend time with Jesus. She believes one reason why it's particularly harmful this time of year is that we have all these expectations, and people and family let us down, but God never will. Over 80% of our world is gripped by loneliness. She tells us that just in DFW 38% of people are grieving, over 50% say they're depressed or anxious, and 78% of people purport to being stressed out. Carrie talks about the uniqueness of Jesus and why it is vital for us to see.

Today on the Eric Metaxas Show: Randy Sluder, CEO of Altrua HealthShare and Altrua Ministries explains the difference between Altrua Ministries and Altrua Healthcare. Altrua Ministries is the mothership of the organization. Everything under Altrua Ministries flows to HealthShare and other segments as well. The ministry side is the 501(c)3 that gives them the ability to do what they do on the HealthShare side as well. Altrua HealthShare handles all of the medical needs that come in for their members. Altrua Ministries has the ability to do all of the philanthropy work. Dr. Kevin Hull, Director of Altrua Ministries, shares that the idea of HealthShare began with Luke 6:38, that speaks of the importance of sowing seed. They believe if they are sowing seed through a philanthropic effort that they are going to be able to see a harvest as a result of that. HealthShare is an alternative to insurance where families come together under biblical belief, HealthShare chooses to put money into an escrow account, and when members go to a doctor or have a medical need that they need shared in, they submit it into the escrow account. HealthShare is an escrow agent for their members. Ultimately these two entities are working to accomplish the great commission.

Every year, more than a quarter of a million children come into foster care in this country. As a result of the nation's opioid epidemic, this number is growing faster than the system can accommodate. More and more often, there simply aren't enough families to meet the need, and these children must wait in a residential setting for a family to become available. Child welfare advocates are calling us all to learn more about how to help these children in need. Join us for this episode of Taking Care of Business and learn more about how foster care is a way of providing a family life for children who cannot live with their own parents, granting them a family life and a chance at stability that they desperately need.

CBN Reporter Abigail Robertson Reports: As former President Jimmy Carter celebrated his 99th birthday celebration, thousands of volunteers traveled to Charlotte, North Carolina, this week to carry on one of his greatest legacies: Habitat for Humanity's Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter Work Project. Throughout the years, the project has worked in 14 countries to build, renovate, and repair thousands of homes. For 35 years, the Carters have donated one week of their time each year to building safe and affordable homes as part of the Carter Work Project. Since this is the first year, they haven't been on-site, Country music superstars Garth Brooks and Trisha Yearwood are taking the reins. They are in Charlotte this week leading more than 3,000 volunteers in building 27 new homes. The Country music power couple has volunteered with Habitat for Humanity alongside the Carters for more than a decade. This year Brooks and Yearwood get the honor of handing the new homeowners their keys and a Bible, a longstanding tradition at Habitat for Humanity. With faith at the organization's core, volunteers begin each day with a morning devotional and along the way write scriptures and encouraging messages on homes as they build them. While the organization has been building homes since 1976, CEO Jonathan Reckford credits the Carters for turning the once small operation into what it is today. In order to qualify for a Habitat for Humanity home, homeowners must volunteer for almost 300 hours plus take classes on financial management and home maintenance. As part of the home purchasing process, Habitat works with the buyer to ensure the mortgage allows the family to spend no more than 30% of their income on housing. He says part of the reason Charlotte was selected for this year's Carter Work Project is because it's one of many cities nationwide dealing with an affordable housing crisis. For future homeowners like Brianna Sanford, Habitat for Humanity is a dream come true. Sanford helped design her home that she'll soon share with her two kids. While many first-time homeowners will receive their keys this week, Habitat for Humanity volunteers will continue working at the Charlotte Plato Price site until 39 homes in the community are completed.

Tonight on Praise: Confidence about the future slipped this past month. According to an index that measures both American's assessment of current economic conditions and their outlook for the next six months, most troubling was the decline in the index measuring future expectations which tumbled to a level that historically has signaled a recession within a year. Economists pay close attention to the mood of consumers to gauge how it may affect the broader economy. A recent CNBC survey found that 70% percent of Americans are feeling financially stressed. Nearly 60% of respondents cited inflation as the main contributor to their financial stress followed by economy-wide instability, rising interest rates, and a lack of savings. And what about the dream of home ownership? Last week the average long-term U.S. mortgage rate reached its highest point in nearly 23 years. A recent home affordability report showed homes are unaffordable in 99% of the nation for the average American. Anxiety about the future is growing. The Conference Board, a business research group, said that its consumer confidence index fell in September. The survey showed consumers are increasingly concerned about their family finances and consumers expressed concern about the political situation in the nation's capital. Dysfunction in DC. This week, the House made history. The house on Tuesday voted to remove Republican Kevin McCarthy as Speaker of the House. A never-before-seen historic vote that leaves Congress in chaos. According to an NBC news poll, three quarters of voters say they are concerned about President Joe Biden's age and mental fitness while nearly two-thirds have concerns about the multiple trials former President Donald Trump faces. A gloomy harbinger for the upcoming 2024 presidential election. No candidate is inspiring confidence across the political spectrum. Will the dysfunction in DC continue its downward spiral? Will America be at a better place four years from now? As Christians how do we discern the times? How are we to face the future while many are fearful of the future? How do we as Christians navigate this unsettling period? How can we as Christians bring hope and healing to those we influence? Join Bobby Schuller and Shawn Bolz as they discuss the pressing matters of our day from a Christian worldview.

CBN News Senior Correspondent Dale Hurd Reports: For those Americans wondering if they're safe from the kind of attack Hamas carried out against Israel, the answer from terrorism experts is not encouraging. Under questioning by FBI agents, New Yorker Ali Kourani admitted in 2017 to being a member of something called "Unit 910." It's the Black Ops unit of Hezbollah, controlled by Iran. Kourani told agents he was trained to be a suicide bomber and was scouting targets in New York City. He's now in prison. Another Unit 910 member imprisoned this year, 42-year-old New Jersey resident Alexei, alias Alex Saab, had also scouted potential targets around New York City. While the exact number of Hamas and Hezbollah sleeper cells operating within the United States is not known, a comprehensive study by George Washington University last year found the most Hezbollah activity in Michigan, New York, North Carolina, and California. So far this year, authorities have caught 151 people on the FBI's Terrorism Watch list trying to illegally enter the U.S. through the southern border, 50 times higher than two years ago. Most are coming through Panama's Darien Gap, where journalist Michael Yon says he's seeing 3-to-5,000 migrants pass through every day on their way to the U.S. CBN News correspondent Chuck Holton has also reported from the Darien Gap and says he has no doubt dangerous persons are headed for the U.S. border. Former FBI Special Agent Eric Caron, now a security and counter-terrorism consultant to governments, is especially concerned about America's ports where Customs and Border Protection says it scans every incoming container for radiation but physically inspects only three percent. Former House Speaker Kevin McCarthy warned this week that what happened in Israel could happen here.

CBN White House Correspondent Abigail Robertson Reports: There is a heightened sense of threats against the United States, and a sense of urgency to address them. That was the message from experts testifying Tuesday on Capitol Hill regarding threats to the homeland. Both the heads of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) acknowledged that given worldwide uncertainty combined with the war between Israel and Hamas, it is a time to be concerned about terrorist threats to the homeland. They added no threats we face are getting any easier and the chance of an incident on U.S. soil has increased. FBI Director Christopher Wray admitted the gaps in U.S. intelligence are real. Wray also acknowledged threats to the Jewish community are at historic levels. DHS Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas fielded questions on his agency's attempts to keep track of known terrorists crossing the U.S. southern border. Mayorkas was also questioned on the impact of the millions of people who have illegally crossed into the U.S. under President Biden's watch. One of Wray's major concerns was the number of terrorist organizations explicitly calling for attacks in the U.S., which bumps the current threat risk to a whole new level.

Few choices have as many dramatically positive outcomes as adoption. It increases the emotional, physical, and cognitive capacities of the children who are adopted. It improves the life chances of the biological mother. It saves vast amounts of money for the public. It brings much happiness, both to the adopting parents and to the adopted child. It is good for all involved and families are strengthened. Almost 25% of American households have adopted, and 135,000 children are adopted each year. But despite these impressive numbers, there's still a pressing need for greater awareness. Join us for this episode of Taking Care of Business and hear about how adoption changes lives for the better.

Tonight on Praise: Matt and Laurie Crouch host James E. Ward, Jr. and Sharon Ward, Co-Pastors of Insight Church. They tell us the big picture of Zero-Victim is Jesus Christ was not a victim. The only innocent man that ever lived suffered the greatest injustice, the greatest crime the world has ever known, being crucified for the sins of other people. While being crucified, Jesus is praying to his father for forgiveness for the people who are actively victimizing and crucifying him, releasing power and love and forgiveness over an unthinkable tragedy. Any lessor injustice in society is a forgivable issue. The power of Zero-Victim forgiveness and love overcoming victim thinking is a relationship between us and our heavenly father, more so than what people have done to us or that we experience in life. Pastor James believes that America is primed for this message, and by divine providence, black Christians are supposed to deliver it, model it, and something revolutionary can happen as a result. Pastor Sharon shares that we have to get back to the fundamentals to help America by getting families in church together. The number one thing they're hearing from Christian parents is that there's a separation with millennials and GenZ after they attend college and adopt another set of ideas and beliefs. One of the factors contributing to that separation is some of our children are dealing with real complexities in the world. Their friends that they care about are dealing with gender ideology, confusion, issues of racism, and discrimination. We talk so much about love and the love of God, but how do we apply that love to real issues their friends are facing with empathy and compassion? The love of God can change America. The white church has a part to play in this reconciliation bringing empathy and compassion. We all need to get free. The Zero-Victim message is necessary because victimization is universally a part of life and not limited to sociopolitical issues, or racial issues. Pastor James believes it begins with the Church of Jesus Christ with repentance and humility. They have started the National Prayer Altar at Museum of the Bible, building an altar to the Lord in Washington D.C. to pray and repent for this nation and for things done wrong.

Today on the Eric Metaxas Show: James E. Ward, Jr., Author of "Zero Victim: Overcoming Injustice with a New Attitude" and Pastor of Insight Church, talks about growing up in the south. Shortly after segregation was banned, it was a pivotal moment when James recognized that the white students were not against him and holding him back from being successful. The seed was planted in third grade that he stopped believing in white supremacy because he stopped believing in black inferiority, which changed the trajectory of his life. He talks about his faith journey. James shares that it is God's design for humanity to live life from the inside out, not the outside in. He believes the idea of zero victim thinking, coupled with faith, is the mind of Jesus Christ himself. Christians are called to be ambassadors for Christ and the church is the agent of change.

Today on It is Written with John Bradshaw: Jesus and Racism. Racism has become a big global issue in recent times. Of course, racism isn't a new issue. Although the deaths of African-Americans during interactions with law enforcement officials have shone a bright light on the much larger and wider problem of racism, in the United States racism goes back a long way, as do protests about racism. It is not simply a black-white issue. Immigrants from Ireland, Poland, Italy, Jews, and Native Americans were targets of racism in the United States. The vast majority of the racial problems in the United States today stem back to the national sin of slavery. We also learn about the existence of slavery in Great Britain and Brazil for hundreds of years, and the racist practices of the German Nazi Government, Australia, New Zealand, Fiji, India, and the Roman Empire. We look at what the Bible says about racism. We learn we're all descendants of Adam, actually, of Noah. Humanity is one. Hatred on racial grounds is senseless and it isn't Christian. Jesus says to love your neighbor as yourself. Racism is a spiritual problem and the solution for racism is Jesus.

Tonight on Praise: Matt and Laurie Crouch host Dr. Phil and Robin McGraw. Dr. Phil talks about the unconscionable attack on Israeli civilians by Hamas on October 7, 2023. He shares that sadly, many of America's most respected elite universities are indulging and endorsing sanctioned student organizations holding celebrations for the murders, which should raise concern, if not outrage. He shares the importance of bringing debate to these important issues. Dr. Phil talks about changing his focus and moving in a different direction, dealing with real people with real problems and seeking real solutions, but in a different place at a different time after the first of the year. He shares that at the time he wrote a book in 2004 called "Family First" the family was under attack. With the advent of the smart phone, today we are dealing with cyberbullying, online predators, scams, kids watching people live their lives instead of living their own lives, conspiracy theories, and different schools of thought now spread overnight on the internet and becomes prolific in society. We have these fringe groups that are tyrannically pushing ideas onto mainstream America. There has to be a rally of common sense in America. He also addresses immigration. He believes we need to return to some fundamental values that are key in supporting families in America and the values that have made this country such a great success over 250 years. Robin shares how she and Phil met and why they have a successful marriage. They also announce a Dr. Phil News Special "School Shooters: How to Stop the Madness" is coming soon to TBN. It's a reckoning about what we know about who does the shooting. We can identify it before it happens and institute programs nationwide to curtail this by using an anonymous reporting system where they can anonymously report someone, not to get them in trouble, but to get them help. Every one of these school shootings are violent suicides, none of them intend to get out alive, and this would be an act of compassion.

Tonight on Huckabee: Tom Burbage, Former Lockheed F-35 Program Vice President and General Manager, Retired U.S. Navy Captain, and Trustee of U.S. Naval Academy Foundation, tells us the F-35 is more than an airplane. It had a huge role in redefining the aerospace and defense industry and who the players were in that, as well as the global supply chain around the world bringing a lot of business and contracts. But more importantly, the F-35 has never fought in the last 30 or 40 years in a single service, which brought forward the opportunity to make war fighting, peacekeeping operation, and nation one to come together as one unit. He talks about the F-35's software and new technology, opposition to its creation, and reports from people who fly it.

CBN Reporter Gary Lane Reports: During the pandemic, Americans experienced food shortages due to the impact on the world's vulnerable supply chain. While that situation has somewhat recovered, another global event could make that recent experience the new normal. Two experts warn a brewing battle between the United States and China over control of the world's food supply could become such an event. This new war is happening right now – without armies or any shots being fired. It's a global struggle with deadly consequences. Who will dominate the world food supply? Kip Tom, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations for Food and Agriculture explained that China is determined to seize control of the African continent. Gatestone Institute's China analyst Gordon Chang agrees and believes China has a food problem. That's why this year, ports in Shanghai are reportedly on target to receive a quarter of a million tons of food from Africa, valued at more than half a billion dollars. The African Union wants to expand trade with Beijing and gain Chinese innovation to help expand long-term food production. Current agricultural technology has helped South Africa and Nigeria become the continent's largest food producers. Ambassador Tom suggested that led to an August visit by Chinese diplomats with Nigerian officials, followed by President Xi Jinping's trip to South Africa for the BRICS Conference. Chang warns people should be concerned about China's actions in Africa. A future conflict over Taiwan, or tariffs and trade battles, could place the U.S. food supply at risk. Threatened regimes often use food as a weapon against their opponents. During the 1990s, the people of South Sudan refused to embrace Islam, and the Khartoum government retaliated by denying them food, causing many to die from starvation. Chang warns Americans that they should have learned from the COVID-19 pandemic about food scarcity. At the same time U.S. consumers couldn't get meat at grocery stores, the world's top pork producer, Chinese-owned Smithfield Foods, shipped pork to China. Although Smithfield is not a state-owned company, Chang believes it operated at the behest of the Chinese Communist Party. China is also taking steps to lessen its reliance on U.S.-grown food. It has turned to Brazil, making it the top exporter of agricultural products to China, providing 20% of the country's food supply. So, what can be done in the short term to strengthen the food security of the United States? Ambassador Tom insists the country needs to increase domestic food production and manufacture critical agricultural products like fertilizers and others rather than getting them from adversaries like Russia, Belarus, and China. Chang contends China is motivated by the doctrine of Tianxia – the belief that the CCP has the right to rule all under heaven and is obligated to do so.

CBN Reporter Brody Carter Reports: As the world learns about the atrocities committed during the invasion of Israel, American cities are showing support for Israelis. At the United Jewish Federation of Tidewater (UJFT) in Virginia Beach, Virginia, the public was invited to grieve and begin the healing process at a rally represented by officials of all levels of government. In attendance, Attorney General Jason Miyares said his Christian faith is what drives him to stand with Israel, inviting America to do the same. Miyares is an outspoken ally of the Jewish people. In February, he helped create the state's antisemitism task force, aware it's more important than ever to protect American Jews from violence and hate. Israeli native Nofar Trem came to America five years ago. Her family remains in Israel and survived the attack. She manages Israeli education and engagement with the Jewish Federation of Tidewater. Betty Ann Levin, CEO of the UJFT, condemns the assault in the strongest possible terms. Her organization is desperate to restore peace to the region and its people. Support is growing nationwide with 18 rallies held in major cities, including New York, Boston, and Las Vegas – in conjunction with the Israeli-American Council. The Anti-Defamation League has scheduled another seven rallies through the weekend, serving the District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, and Virginia. And while the trauma will linger, the hope remains that hearts will begin to heal.

CBN National Security Correspondent Caitlin Burke Reports: A leader of Hamas is calling for a Global Day of Jihad, Friday, causing Jewish communities worldwide to brace for potential attacks far beyond Israel's borders. Here in the U.S. antisemitism has been a major concern long before the terrorist organization unleashed unspeakable atrocities upon Israel. Spurred on by the current conflict in the Middle East, a wave of anti-Israel protests is already spreading more hate against the Jewish community. This type of rhetoric can lead to violence, and sadly Deborah Halberstam, an activist against antisemitism knows that all too well. Her oldest son, Ari, was murdered back in 1994, simply for being Jewish. She calls the hate that fuels antisemitism a threat to all of civilization, not just the Jewish community. While state and local leaders see no current credible threats against their Jewish communities, they aren't taking any chances. In New York City, home to the world's largest Jewish population outside of Israel, the NYPD is under orders to make sure its Jewish community has the resources it needs to feel protected. Gov. Kathy Hochu reiterating that antisemitism will not be tolerated. Virginia Attorney General Jason Miyares tells CBN News state police have ramped up patrols of synagogues, Jewish day schools, and Jewish community centers. Meanwhile in Washington state, members of the Jewish community say their leaders have failed to follow through on promises of increased security. Seattle talk show host Jason Rantz, author of the book, "What's Killing America," says liberal policies in his state have created an environment that feeds antisemitism. He blames the lack of condemnation of the Hamas attacks for causing greater anxiety among the Jewish community rather than providing a sense of security. According to the Anti-Defamation League, a rise in antisemitic activity usually follows periods of increased hostilities between Israel and terrorist groups. The ADL is urging the Jewish community worldwide to remain vigilant.

CBN News Senior Correspondent Gary Lane Reports: A recent congressional hearing about antisemitism brought to the forefront the issue of foreign funding for U.S. universities. Billions in foreign cash are funding anti-Israel instruction and protests on college campuses. CBN News followed some of the money to reveal how various Islamist and left-wing sources are influencing young minds against the Jewish state. We discovered that U.S. colleges and universities are swimming in pro-Hamas, anti-Israel cash. Dr. Rachel Ehrenfeld is the founder and president of the American Center for Democracy and the Economic Warfare Institute. She contends Saudi Arabia and Qatar are buying influence by sending billions of dollars to American colleges and universities for research projects and Middle East studies programs. She believes this funding radicalizes young student minds through classroom instruction. Charles Asher Small of the Institute for the Study of Global Antisemitism and Policy (ISGAP) explains that 75 percent of Middle Eastern donations come through the Qatar Foundation. The Qatar Royal Family and foundation are closely allied with the Muslim Brotherhood, the movement that birthed Hamas. In a seven-year study of foreign funding to American universities, Small's group found that, in recent years, nearly $5 billion flowed from Qatar to American Institutions of higher learning. They include major universities like Texas A&M, Georgetown, Cornell, Carnegie Mellon, Northwestern, and Virginia Commonwealth. He believes the money specifically going to Texas A&M poses a national security threat to the United States. There's also the growth of antisemitism on campus coming from pro-Palestinian groups like Students for Justice in Palestine. According to the Anti-Defamation League (ADL), the SJP is a leading organizer of the Boycott, Divestment, and Sanctions movement. The group reportedly works closely with the Jewish Voice for Peace (JVP), which, according to the Washington Free Beacon, has received $650,000 since 2017 from the George Soros Open Society Foundations. Also, Soros has reportedly given California's Tides Foundation, a group advocating social change and immigrant children's rights, at least $3.5 million to support student protests similar to a recent demonstration at San Francisco's Balboa High School. So, what can people do to change the prevailing anti-Israel, antisemitic attitudes on U.S. college campuses?

CBN National Security Correspondent Caitlin Burke Reports: The U.S. military is experiencing one of the worst recruiting shortfalls in 50 years. In fiscal year 2023, the military branches collectively missed their recruiting goals by approximately 41,000 recruits. Earlier this week, representatives from each, testified before the House Armed Services Committee about the underlying causes behind the shortfall. While witnesses outlined challenges ranging from getting recruiters into schools during COVID, to decrease in eligibility, Republicans zeroed in on polling that suggests the problem is because the military has become, "the administration's next social justice project." Only two military branches met their active duty, enlisted, and recruiting goals for 2023 – the Marine Corps and the Space Force. Alex Wagner, Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Manpower and Reserve Affairs, credits the success to an Air Force pilot program which waives previous requirements on body composition, tattoo placement, and THC use. All branches admit it's critical to find ways to persuade Gen-Z to take an interest in military service. That's because as one of the most tech-savvy generations, their skill sets will likely be key to future military readiness.

Tonight on TBN Special: The Rise of Artificial Intelligence. Science fiction films have warned for years of a dark future with super intelligent computers and all-powerful robots developing minds of their own and overthrowing their creators, sinister machines in a technological dictatorship that enslaves humanity. It wasn't long ago that these scenarios seemed more suited to a summer blockbuster than to real life. But in recent years something has changed. It seems everyone is now talking about A.I. Artificial intelligence and its potential to radically transform the ways in which we live. In some ways it already has. Practically all of us have been using some form of A.I. for years. From recommendations on Amazon or Netflix, to Alexa or Siri, but with the onset of ChatGPT and systems like it, this technology has now reached a much more advanced level. In the process it raised some serious questions and concerns. Could A.I. eventually make some jobs obsolete? Could it further isolate people and limit human interaction. Could it be used to deceive, to even swing elections? Could A.I. be used to take away your privacy and create a surveillance state? Are we on the onset of an A.I. arms race with China and other American adversaries vying to master this powerful technology. For Christians the questions go even further. What if A.I. is controlled by forces that are hostile to a biblical worldview? On the other hand, could Christians use A.I. to advance the kingdom of God to spread the gospel in new and innovative ways? And could A.I. play a role in Bible prophecy? Over the next hour join Eric Stakelbeck as we explore all of these questions and more with our guests, including one of the world's leading tech experts Brian Roemmele, Dr. James Spencer, Theologian, Author, and President of D.L. Moody Center, Tennessee Senator Marsha Blackburn, and Pastor James Kaddis, Senior Pastor of Calvary Chapel Signal Hill, and Pastor Matthew Pollock, Founder and Lead Pastor of The Way Family Church, as we break down the rise of artificial intelligence and what it means for you.

CBN Reporter Charlene Aaron Reports: For more than a year, the Federal Reserve has raised interest rates to lower inflation. Prices are still high, however, especially when it comes to necessities like gas and groceries. With a growing number of Americans living paycheck to paycheck, many are struggling to make ends meet. Earling this year when food prices reached 4.7% higher than the year before, some took to social media to air their frustration. Amber Bergeron of Dutchtown, LA is a stay-at-home mother of four. Her husband works as a tankerman in the oil field. She recently shared how tough it is trying to keep up with rising monthly expenses. Amber is not alone. The standard of living for Americans has dropped in the last two to three years. And according to a recent CNBC survey, 52 percent of adults said they have felt more financially stressed since before the pandemic in 2020. Reasons for the economic stress include sticker shock for everyday goods and services. For example, according to Edmunds, new car costs have skyrocketed around 32 percent higher over the last five years. According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, auto insurance is also more expensive. In July, those figures jumped 16 percent more than the same time last year and have grown a whopping 70 percent in the last decade. And the list keeps growing. Car maintenance is up 13 percent since 2022, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. And median homes prices are up 31 percent since 2020. And because of these soaring prices Quicken found that 61 percent of Americans, even those bringing in $150,000 a year, live paycheck to paycheck. Mark Hamrick, Senior Economic Analyst for Bankrate, points to record inflation as the driving force. During the pandemic, inflation hit a 40-year high of 9.1 percent. It is currently rising by 3.7 percent. So, that means prices are still much higher than they used to be, and they're still rising, but not as fast. Hamrick also said the major issue is that prices are going up faster than incomes. That means the essentials like housing, gas, and groceries cost more although people have less money to pay for them. Dan Darling, Director of the Land Center for Cultural Engagement suggested that lawmakers fight inflation as a family value. Local food banks are also feeling the impact. Chris Tan, of the Foodbank of Southeastern Virginia and The Eastern Shore, also highlighted demand is higher today than when COVID-19 sent the economy reeling. He explained local food bank partners are feeling the pain. To cope, a growing number of Americans are turning to credit. Quicken also reports that 46 percent of consumers making more than $100,000 a year are more dependent on their credit cards than ever before. And about a third say they can't afford to pay off their balances by the end of the year. Financial Planner Robin Tull, of Tull Financial Group in Chesapeake, VA suggests ways to manage and save. Meanwhile, as inflation seems to be cooling, many say government policies remain out of touch with reality and the pain families are facing.

Tonight on Huckabee: As many as 5 billion people lack access to needed medical care and many people die of what would be treatable diseases. But nearly half the population lives near a coast, so since 1978 the ministry Mercy Ships has brought volunteer doctors, nurses, surgeons, physical therapists, chaplains, teachers and staff of the art medical care and equipment to people in need, and all over the world. Dr. Gary Brandenburg, Mercy Ships Ambassador, shares how he got involved with the ministry Mercy Ships. He tells us, now more than ever, volunteers are needed who can commit from two weeks to three months, and up to three years, and are housed on their ships. It's also an opportunity for young people if they want to take a gap year, to come and serve and see a different country and culture, and for those who may want to enter the health field. While we are told we have a doctor shortage in the U.S., with one doctor for every 333 people, Sierra Leone has only five surgeons in the entire country for 8 million people.

Today on Takeaways with Kirk Cameron: Well that's concerning. Each of us have had this thought in response to something that does not align with our beliefs, and then we'll talk about it, maybe share it with friends, it might even keep us up at night. But when and how do we move from a place of concern to a place of doing something about it, of creating a world that embraces the values we want to promote, that impacts the culture in a way that represents our faith and our beliefs? This is the back story of both of today's guests. Jonathan Isaac, NBA Player, Founder of Unitus Apparel Brand, tells us that if you can stand proudly for what it is that you believe in, understanding that we all fall short of God's glory, and if we could choose to love each other the way that God loves us, which is in spite of our sin, in spite of our shortcomings, then we could have true change and true progress. Dr. Trent Talbot, CEO and Founder of Brave Books, talks about books that reinforce and help instill a value, builds children up, instills solid morality, and solid character, with games and discussion questions in the back to help create those memories and conversations between parents and kids that will help parents transfer the beliefs and values they hold dear into their kids.

Today on Takeaways with Kirk Cameron: Family, each of us has a story to offer about the family that is in or absent from our lives and how this has uniquely impacted us. And then there are those that we choose to be our family or like family. Today we're going to hear two very personal stories about family. We'll hear from Steven Curtis Chapman about his chart-topping music career and how he navigated family life through it all, including becoming an adoptive father. And then, Torey Hope Peterson will share her journey of faith and family that were impacted by her times spent in the foster care system. You won't want to miss a minute of these great conversations.

700 Club CBN NewsWatch #10242023	52:30	5:00	REC	PA/O/E	10/24/2023	3:00 PM

CBN News Medical Reporter Lorie Johnson Reports: News of atrocities committed against Israelis this past weekend have saturated television, the internet, and social media. Psychiatrists say children and families who see these pictures and hear the stories can become traumatized. That's why mental health experts recommend parents try to limit their family's exposure to news programs and the web during events like we're experiencing this week. Taking that action can protect them from graphic images and other damaging information, according to psychiatrist Daniel Amen. Dr. Amen said parents can help frightened children by simply spending more time with them. Dr. Amen said since children usually don't have the perspective on news events that parents possess, they may think what they see and hear about might happen to them. Therefore, it can be helpful for parents to tell children the incidents are isolated and are taking place far away. Psychiatrist Stephen Grcevich told CBN News parents might want to keep their own emotions in check. Dr. Grcevich said children often learn from watching their parents how to behave in times of trouble. Instead of fostering fear in their children, parents can instead help their kids respond to trials in a proactive, positive manner. Now more than ever, parents should pray for their children, Sharon Jaynes, author of "Praying for Your Child from Head to Toe" told CBN News. Jaynes recommends praying the Word of God. Jaynes said no one will be a perfect parent, but we can be praying parents who confidently pray for God's protection and provision in the physical and spiritual realms.
