Dr. Tom Dekunder, of the Guadalupe County Historical Commission, joins us on the program today. Guadalupe County is one of the fastest growing counties in the nation. As new housing, commercial and industrial developments go up, what happens to the literally hundreds of cemeteries that dot various parts of the county. It's a real problem that has already occurred in the norther portion of the county. Bodies have been moved, and the history of some of those cemeteries may be getting lost. Dr. Dekunder is here today to talk about what they are doing to preserve the cemeteries, which include small family plots, slave cemeteries and large community cemeteries that have all but been abandoned. 38:15

The city of Seguin is working with a firm to develop both a comprehensive plan and a downtown master plan all at the same time. The concurrent and ambitious projects take a look at nearly every aspect of life in Seguin, and try to come up with vision for the city's future. Project Manager Chance Sparks, an urban planner at Freese and Nichols, provided an update on the work that the company has done up to this point. Sparks says they wanted to check-in with the council to make sure that they were on the right track. We'll present a portion of Sparks presentation, so that you can stay connected to this important work. 33:18

Today's Saturday Topic program on KWED features a look at the TLU's Community Music Academy. The CMA is bringing music into the lives of children here in Seguin, through it's strings and vocal programs. Kids are learning to play violin, cello, guitar and other string instruments. And they are also getting a chance to perform in the youth choir. The TLU Community Music Academy is doing all that and more. In fact, they have a number of special summer programs and academies being offered, and there's still time to get your kids signed up. CMA Director Shareen Vader (vah-duhr) and Summer Music Academy Camp Director Will Hayter (Hate-uhr) will join us on the program to discuss CMA's history, the many programs it offers, and provide a look at its plans for this summer. 27:28
