| I. Jaclyn Seymour Community Relations Specialist Community Blood Bank of NWP&WNY | North Coast Views Sunday, Oct 06, 2019 6:00am - 30 min | 1. HEALTH - Learned about how far the blood bank helps hospitals keep a safe supply readily available. Talked about that, when you donate – you save 3 lives, red blood cells help w/emergencies, platelets help w/ clotting – (fighting cancer or chronic illness) and plasma – (helps w/severe burns or chronic illness) We learned about double red cell donation. Heard about how blood does have a shelf life – and how only a small percentage of the population actually donates...that while we are moving into the holidays, it would be great if everyone brought another person with them. 29m57s |
| I. Sergeant Pete Mitchell, Criminal Intelligence Officer City of Erie Police Department Amy Eisert, Mercyhurst Civic Institute Director & Sheila Silman Program Manager at Erie Co Re- Entry Services & Support Alliance/GECAC | North Coast Views Sunday, Oct 13, 2019 6:00am - 30 min | 1. ANTI VIOLENCE – Learned that Unified Erie started around 2010 - originally with the enforcement aspect. After identifying efforts in other communities that were working – and using data to target efforts to make the most efficient and effective here, a 3 prong approach to addressing violence was implemented – Prevention, Enforcement & Reentry. Learned about each of those aspects, the challenges and headway being made. Also learned that help with funding is needed to continue the reentry portion. 29m47s |
| I. Daria Devlin, Executive Director, Erie Center for Arts & Technology (ECAT) | North Coast Views Sunday, Oct 20, 2019 6:00am - 30 min | 1. EDUCATION/JOB CREATION – Learned that the Center for Arts & Technology is the Erie replication of the Manchester Bidwell model, which was started by Bill Strickland in Pittsburgh in the 1960's. Mr Strickland felt that art saved his life & that his art teacher was instrumental in his success, by encouraging him, showing him that you can learn through the arts & have those experiences help shape your personality and career. He came to Erie to do a talk on the Manchester Bidwell model, which expanded into helping educate high school graduates for no cost – and helping them with life skills and partnering with local companies to help place the students, once they graduate. Some businessmen in Erie who heard the talk wanted to get it started here (like has been done both nationally and internationally) Learned how the plans are going to get Wayne School up and running by Oct of next year, details about financing and partners and heard how the art portion to help 9th – 12th graders has already began – and will continue with after school programming – making this a 2 generational approach to keeping youth in school and then helping with education and job placement after graduation. 29m53s |
| I. Bishop Brock, Founder & CEO, Eagle's Nest Leadership Corp. | North Coast Views Sunday, Oct 27, 2019 6:00am - 30 min | 1. EDUCATION/WORK-READINESS – Learned that, although the Eagle's Nest began as a program that partners with many businesses in the area (beginning with UPMC Hamot) to teach young adults about being productive members of the workforce and our community – it has grown into a campus, featuring the aforementioned Leadership Academy, the Program of Academic Distinction (through the Erie School System, after school financial literacy classes for Collegiate Academy students, & the African-American Boys Academy, a summer program. Learned that the idea for all of |

The Program of Academic Distinction teaches 5th & 6th grade scholars from the Erie School District civility, honor, & respect, as well as their academics. Heard about funding and plans to grow. 30m |
