Lori Stokes, Award winning news anchor for WABC-TV News was featured on VVH-TV's "American Dreams Show" with Ingrid Lemme, host. Taped on December 6th, 2008 at Gurney's Inn, Montauk, New York.

As anchor of Eyewitness News This Morning and Eyewitness News at Noon, Lori Stokes has been an unflinching guide through everything from the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001 to the Northeastern Blackout of August 14, 2003. Along the way, Stokes has picked up Emmy and AP Awards for her reporting.

Prior to MSNBC/NBC Lori worked for ABC affiliate WJLA-TV in Washington, DC as evening anchor at six and 11 o'clock from 1992- 1996. While in the nation's capital, she also launched WJLA's Good Morning Washington.

She has received numerous awards for her reporting on social issues, in particular stories affecting women and children. As a street reporter from 1991-1992 for WBFF-TV in Baltimore, she received an Emmy Award for her in-depth coverage of children caught in the crossfire of local violence.

Her undercover journalistic work as a homeless person on the streets of Baltimore earned her an Associated Press Award. More recently, she received a 2006 Emmy nomination for a police chase on which she reported live in 2005.

Stokes is also the recipient of a George P. Foster Peabody Award for her September 11, 2001 coverage of the World Trade Center attack. On a national level, Stokes received the 2003 Congressional Black Caucus Celebration of Leadership Award for her civic service and her status as a role model.

This year, Stokes was named a "Woman of Influence" by Commerce magazine, placing her among the ranks of best-selling author Mary Higgins-Clark, philanthropist Deirdre Imus, and racecar driver Danica Patrick. Additionally, she is aiding the founding of a new charity, Supplies for Success, which aims to furnish underprivileged children with the tools they need, both tangible and intangible, to excel academically.

Stokes was just recognized in New York City by the Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence for her body of work and her extensive community outreach. "It may be difficult today to remember just how far we have come in 30 short years," Stokes said of the cause, "There were no emergency shelters for battered women and their children; there was no law against spousal rape; and, yes, it was against the law for an abused woman fleeing her abuser to take her children with her. In these 30 years, much has been accomplished and the Center Against Domestic Violence has led the way."

She is also now a proud member of Jack and Jill of America, an organization founded in 1938 under the leadership of Marion Stubbs Thomas with the idea of bringing together children in a social and cultural environment. The group primarily serves Black children from the ages of two to 19.

Stokes is one of the millions of people who live with potentially deadly food allergies and is passionately involved with the Food Allergy Initiative. She serves as a member of the board of trustees at Englewood Hospital and Medical Center Foundation, Bergen Performing Arts Center and St. Joseph's Regional Medical Center in Patterson, New Jersey.

Although born in Cleveland, Ohio, Stokes grew up Washington, D.C. She is daughter of former United States Congressman Louis Stokes and the niece of Carl Stokes, who made history as the first African American mayor of a major city, Cleveland. Stokes was crowned Miss Azalea in 1983, representing the NATO Alliance; she was the first African American to ever hold the title.

Stokes is an alumna of Howard University and Ohio State University. She resides in New Jersey with her children.

Tovah Feldshuh "Irena's Vow" on VVH-TV

by VVHTV 5,939 views

Tovah Feldshuh was interviewed by Ingrid Lemme host of the award winning program "American Dream Show on VVH-TV. "American Dream" is videotaped at Gurney's Inn in Montauk before a live studio audience.

Tovah Feldshuh (Irena Gut Opdyke). For her work on the New York stage, from Yentl to Sarav□! and from Lend Me A Tenor to Goldas Balcony, Tovah Feldshuh has earned four Tony nominations for Best Actress and won four Drama Desk Awards , four Outer Critics Circle Awards, the Obie, the Theatre World Award and the Lucille Lortel Award for Best Actress (Goldas Balcony). On October 3, 2004, Goldas Balcony became the longest-running one-woman show in Broadway history.

About Irena Gut Opdyke

Irena Gut Opdyke (May 15, 1918 - May 17, 2003) was born Irena Gut into a Catholic family in the town of Kozenice in Central Poland, and studied nursing. During the German occupation of western Poland and the Russian occupation in the east (both armies invaded in September 1939), Irena joined a Polish underground unit. She was spotted by Russian troops, beaten, raped, and forced to work in a Russian medical unit. She escaped, only to be captured later by the Germans and forced to work in a munitions plant. An elderly SS officer Eduard Rugemer arranged her transfer to lighter duties in an army mess hall, which happened to afford her both a direct view into a Jewish ghetto, and a chance to slip food under its fence. When Rugemer was re-assigned to Lvov and then Tarnopol (in what is now Ukraine), he requisitioned Irena as his housekeeper. There she supervised a laundry staffed by Jews, and when she heard that they were to be transported to a death camp, she undertook to hide 12 of them in Rugemer's own villa and provide them with food and clothing.

Irenas Vow Educational Fund

Irena Gut Opdykes mission in the later years of her life was to communicate her experiences first-hand to the younger generation. The telling of her story to youngsters was of the utmost importance to Irena, as she knew they would be the last generation of children able to hear a first-person eyewitness account of the horrors of the Holocaust. Irena was named by the Israeli Holocaust Commission one of the Righteous Among the Nations and was presented with the Israel Medal of Honor.

The Directors Company in association with Power Productions, NY and The Polish Cultural Institute in New York is presenting an Invictus Theater Company World Premiere of Irenas Vow in the hope of continuing Irenas mission and celebrating her legacy. It is the intention of this production to bring Irenas message once again to a new and younger generation by offering free seats to youths from various high schools and colleges in the New York City Area. With the proper support, we will be able to make this powerful story accessible to ALL audiences, especially young people who would never normally have the opportunity to experience the power of live theater.

How You Can Join Us:

Please consider helping us bring this moving educational theatre production to youth in one of the following ways:

- " Sponsor children to see Irenas Vow,
- " Bring a class of your own students at a reduced ticket price,
- " Make a contribution to the show.

Please note that sponsorships and contributions are tax-deductible through our tax-exempt 501 (c)(3) non-profit theatre company.

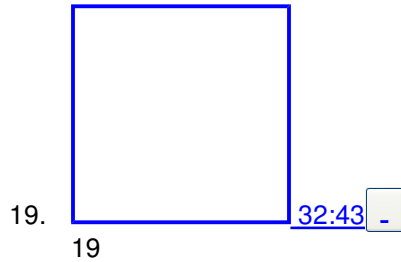

Of course, all donations large and small will be appreciated! You can make a donation to IRENAS VOW EDUCATIONAL FUND simply by mailing a check made out to
The Directors Company
311 W. 43rd Street, #409

New York, NY 10036.

The Directors Company is an IRS certified 501(c) (3) incorporated non-profit company. All contributions are tax-deductible to the fullest extent of the law.

Irenas Vow will enable students to learn about this righteous woman, the Holocaust, and the monumental impact that one ordinary person can make when they act in extraordinary ways.

Plum Island: "Even More Dangerous" VVH-TV News Special Report (Pt. 1)
 Department of Homeland Security is seriously considering approving a National Bio and Agro-Defense Facility on Plum Island in Eastern Long Island, NY. The facility would operate at what the government defines as BioSafety Level-4, which is the highest level of danger for biological research. The government defines BioSafety Level-4 as research involving "pathogens that pose a high risk of life-threatening disease in animals and humans through the aerosol route and for which there is no known vaccine or therapy." The Plum Island Animal Disease Center operates at BioSafety Level-3 -- only doing research on animal diseases. There are five other possible sites for the new facility. But the Department of Homeland Security, whose project this is -- and which also now manages Plum Island -- is bullish on Plum Island for it because the other locations on the U.S. mainland all have lots of livestock nearby and Plum Island doesn't. But, on the other hand, Plum Island is off the Boston-to-New York population center of the United States -- with lots of people. And BioSafety Level 4, importantly, involves life-threatening diseases for animals and people, and to top that off, for which there is no known vaccine or therapy. A public hearing was held in Greenport by the Department of Homeland Security on having the National Bio and Agro-Defense Facility sited on Plum Island. VVH-TV Chief Investigative Report Karl Grossman was on hand to give us an up close look at both sides of this very serious issue.

Tony Hawk Foundation takes signature Stand Up For Skateparks event to The Hamptons.

The August 10, 2008 Activision Presents Stand Up For Skateparks event at the Ross School (Lower Campus) in Bridgehampton, New York. The Benefit Committee includes Tony Hawk, Lance Armstrong, Andre Agassi, Russell Simmons, Rob Dyrdek, Christopher "Big Black" Boykin, Sean "Diddy" Combs, Jamie Lee Curtis, Mia Hamm, Dana White, Jr., Jon Favreau, Mat Hoffman, Shaun White, Bobby Kotick, Bob McKnight, Ron Burkle, and Scott Greenstein.

In addition to the Benefit Committee, past Celebrity attendees include Pam Anderson, Travis Barker, Benicio Del Toro, Fred Durst, Jakob Dylan, Rashad Evans, Flea (Red Hot Chili Peppers), John Fogerty, Patrick Fugit, Kenny G, Leeza Gibbons, Todd Glass, Tom Green, Arsenio Hall, Ed Helms, Kathy Ireland, Anthony Kiedis, Lisa Kudrow, Stefan Lessard, Chuck Liddell, Cindy Margolis, Sal Masekela, Marlee Matlin, B.J. Novak, Holly Robinson Peete, Rodney Peete, Michael Rapaport, Trent Reznor, Paul Rodriguez Sr., and David Spade.

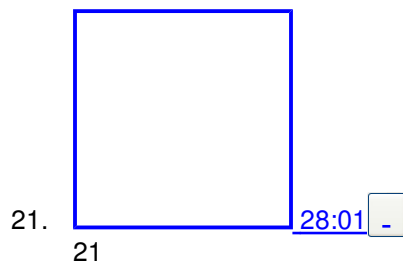

Activision Presents Stand Up For Skateparks is made possible through the support of event guests and sponsors, including Activision, Jeep, NetJets, T-Mobile Sidekick, UFC, Dynacraft, Quiksilver, Maverick Business Adventures, Guitar Hero, DUB, Wasserman Foundation, Kohl's, FIJI, Tech Deck, Got2b, Birdhouse, Nixon, D.M. Steele Printing, and Bell Helmets.

Through grants and technical assistance, the Tony Hawk Foundation helps communities across the U.S. build free, quality, public skateparks in low-income areas to give at-risk youth access to safe, sanctioned places to skate. With over 13-million skateboarders in the U.S. and only about 2,500 skateparks nationwide, most skateboarders are forced to skate in the streets, in parking lots, and other locations where they're often not welcome. Public skateparks provide not only a safe place for them to pursue their passion for this healthy, athletic, and creative activity, but also helps them build a sense of community.

The Bridgehampton event is in addition to the foundation's regular West Coast benefit, which will take place in Beverly Hills, California on November 9.

17th Annual East Hampton Sandcastle Contest 2008

With a concept formulated in 1991, by Rossetti Perchik, the 1st Annual East Hampton SandCastle Contest took place on August 26, 1992 at the Atlantic Avenue Beach in Amagansett. In September of 1993 we were approved as a NYS 501c3 Not-For-Profit Corporation under the name of the Clamshell Foundation. The SandCastle Contest has become one of the highlights of the Hampton summer.

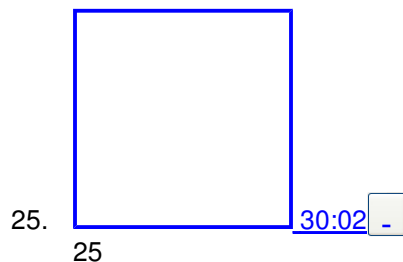

The name "Clamshell Foundation" was chosen in deference to those on the East End of Long Island who made a livelihood from the waters of Long Island Sound and the Atlantic Ocean. Clamshells can be found everywhere.

The purpose of the corporation, as stated in our charter, is to enrich the lives of others by fostering education in health, cultural, and environmental fields of endeavor. Currently, we are concentrating our efforts in the area of water quality projects here in the Town of East Hampton, as well as community based concerns such as local food pantries and educational projects.

The SandCastle Contest was created not only as a day of fun on the beach, but also to point out how important the waters are to all of us. Contributions to the Clamshell Foundation can help to bring about change, and protect the very reason that we are a resort community

by VVHTV 2,005 views

Regarded as the dean of the Washington, D.C., press corps, reporter Helen Thomas (born 1920) served as White House bureau chief for United Press International (UPI) from 1974 to 2000.

To those who regularly watch presidential press conferences, Helen Thomas was a familiar figure. Usually dressed in red (a tradition dating back to the administration of Ronald Reagan) and always seated in the front row, she was invariably the first or second reporter the president calls upon. It is an honor she earned by virtue of her long and distinguished career in Washington, and it was one she relished. Besides, it afforded her the perfect opportunity to do what she does best--bluntly challenge the president (and other public officials) to tell the plain, unvarnished truth. "We (reporters) are not there to curry presidential favor, nor can we respond to efforts at presidential intimidation," she asserted in her memoir, Dateline: White House.

Les Payne's Special Tribute to Newsday Legend Bob Greene

Journalist and author Les Payne was born on July 12, 1941 in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. As a child, Payne was always interested in writing. He graduated from the University of Connecticut in 1964 with B.A. degree in English. Serving six years in the United States Army, Payne worked as an Army journalist and wrote speeches for General William C. Westmoreland. While on assignment in Vietnam, he ran the Army's newspaper, and when he was discharged, he had attained the rank of captain.

Payne joined Newsday in the late 1960s, serving as the associate managing editor for the paper's national, science, and international news. In 1968, as an investigative reporter, Payne covered the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther, Jr., and in the 1970s, he covered the Black Panther Party. He won a Pulitzer Prize for The Heroin Trail in 1974, which was a Newsday series in 33 parts that traced the international flow of heroin from the poppy fields of Turkey to the veins of drug addicts in New York City. Later, it became a published book. He also covered the Symbionese Liberation Army and authored The Life and Death of the Symbionese Liberation Army. As a Newsday correspondent, Payne reported extensively from Africa, Europe, the Caribbean and the United Nations. During the 1976 Soweto uprising, he traveled throughout South Africa and wrote a series that was also nominated for a Pulitzer Prize in foreign reporting. Payne is also responsible for Newsday's Queens edition, whose news staffs have won every major award in journalism, including three Pulitzer Prizes. He is also a columnist for the Tribune Media Services.

As one of the founders and former presidents of the National Association of Black Journalists, Payne has worked to improve media fairness and employment practices. He is also the Inaugural Professor for the David Laventhol Chair at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism. Payne has received several awards including the United Nations' World Hunger Media Award, and three Unity Awards for investigative reporting. In 1990, he won cable television's highest honor, the Ace Award, for an interview with Mayor David Dinkins on Les Payne's New York Journal. In addition, he is a recipient of two honorary doctorate degrees from Medgar Evers College and Long Island University.

BOB GREENE

Bob Greene, the two-time Pulitzer Prize winner for public service and the founding father of investigative team journalism, died after a lengthy illness. He was 78.

From Newsday:

During a 37-year career at Newsday, first as a reporter and later as an editor, Greene pushed his reporters to dig out public corruption by aggressively covering their assigned beats, no matter how seemingly insignificant. In 1975, Greene helped form an organization for like-minded professionals, Investigative Reporters and Editors, and a year later, after the murder of Don Bolles, one of the group's founding reporters, in Phoenix, Ariz., he headed a team that wrote a series of stories about corruption in that state. The project brought Greene national attention and an enduring legacy.

Greene joined Newsday in 1955 as a reporter. Two years after his arrival, he took off a year at the request of Robert Kennedy to work as an investigator for the U.S. Senate Rackets Committee, Newsday wrote in its obituary.

He won his first Pulitzer Prize Gold Medal in 1970 for exposing land scandals. In 1974, along with a team of reporters, he won a second Gold Medal for a series that tracked heroin from Turkish poppy fields to Long Island neighborhoods.

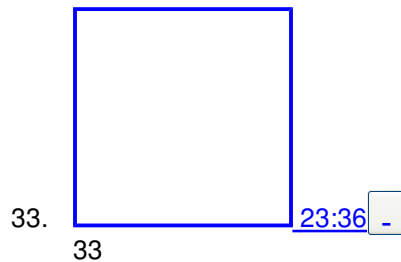

Greene is survived by his wife, Kathleen and his son, Robert Jr. Many of you remember back in 1989 that his daughter, Lea, was murdered during a home break in.

Greene worked closely with District Attorney James M. Catterson to prosecute and convict her two killers.

Long Island Business News extends its sympathies and warmest wishes to the Greene and Newsday families for their loss. Journalism has lost a giant.

Craig Boyd "Back on Track" on VVH-TV

by VVHTV 3,012 views

VVH-TV was on hand at Craig Boyd's Westhampton Beach Theater performance. This is a edited version of the TV broadcast.

Craig Boyd is back with the release of his new smooth jazz CD, Back On Track. Over the years, Craig's musical talent has contributed to the success of many Pop, R & B, and Dance recordings in the U.S. and Europe. After working for many years as a composer, arranger, producer, and studio guitarist for name groups and solo artists, Craig took a leave from this line of work to further pursue a second career as an educator of music. Currently, he is the Academic Chair of Music at SUNY Suffolk, Long Island, NY.

Craig has teamed up with friend and engineer Paul Bagin, who co-produced and mixed the Back On Track CD. Paul currently works as a producer and engineer for Grammy Award winning Dave Holland, Pat Martino, Chris Potter, Billy Kilson, and many others. All selections on the CD were then placed in the superlative hands of Bob Ludwig to be mastered at Gateway Music.

Through family, relationships, friends, and life experiences, Craig became inspired to compose the music for the CD, Back On Track, a musical story, which features Craig Boyd as a smooth jazz guitarist.

Back On Track is smooth jazz with a new twist of style, uniqueness, and originality.

"Readiness Strengthens Liberty."

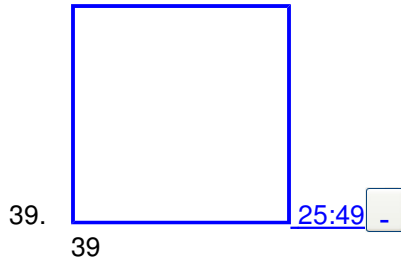

The 106th Rescue Wing, New York Air National Guard.

Welcome to the 106th Rescue Wing of the New York Air National Guard, located at Francis S.Gabreski ANGB in Westhampton Beach, New York. The 106th RQW is one of only three rescue units in the Air National Guard and also the home of the ANG's oldest flying unit, the 102nd Rescue Squadron. Today, the mission of the 106th is to provide combat search and rescue (CSAR). In peacetime, the wing performs search and rescue on behalf of the State of New York and the Federal Government. The 106th RQW performs long range over-water missions using the aerial refueling capabilities of the HC-130s and the wing's newest helicopter, the Sikorsky HH-60G "Pave Hawk".

On June 14, 1975 the 106th was redesignated an Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Group and assigned to Military Airlift Command. Its primary mission became one of saving lives and the mission change would have far reaching effects and a profound impact on the unit itself, Long island and the northeastern part of the United States. On October 1, 1989, the 106th was redesignated an Air Rescue Group. In the Fall of 1990, the 106th ARG turned in its well-worn HH-3s in exchange for brand new Sikorsky HH-60G "Pave Hawks". In 1993, the 106th Rescue Group was redesignated the 106th Rescue Wing, its current designation. In 2000, the 102nd Rescue Squadron, the wing's flying element, celebrated its 85th anniversary. The 102nd is the oldest flying unit in the Air National Guard and one of the oldest in the Air Force.

Roy Scheider's Anti-War Protest \(3/18/03\)

Roy Scheider, a two-time Oscar nominee best known for his role as a police chief in the blockbuster movie "Jaws," died Sunday, Feb 10, 2008. He was 75 and lived in Sag Harbor, N.Y.

On March 18, 2003 Roy Scheider took part in an anti-war protest. Scheider joined a dedicated group of protestors in laying down on the yellow line in the center of the Montauk Highway in Sagaponack - cars and trucks slowly driving by, some honking in support - to protest US entry into a war with Iraq. His interview gave us pause to think about what it means to go to war. He was a wonderful man who was not afraid to stand up for peace in a public way.

VVH-TV's Tribute to Nick Monte of Gurney's Inn

by VVHTV 3,742 views

VVH-TV's Tribute to Nick Monte of Gurney's Inn

Nick Monte (Montemarano), the adored Innkeeper of Long Island's most famous, historic beach resort, Gurney's Inn and founder of the American seawater spa passed away Saturday October 13th in Nevada. He was just a over a month shy of his 91st birthday.

Nick was born on November 26, 1916, the fifth of seven boys, in the apartment over their parents restaurant, Monte's Venetian Room on Carol Street.. Neither depressions nor recessions, mayor wars nor minor wars, prohibition nor epidemics ever disrupted the continuity of this tiny Italian restaurant and the love Nick had for his family.

In 1932, Nick, only 16 years old, took over the business after his father had an accident, and he had to drop out of Brooklyn Tech. From that moment on Nick Monte become the forever gracious host of Monte's Venetian Room until he acquired Gurney's Inn in 1956 and moved to Montauk.

As the story goes, one afternoon in the summer of 1955, a friend in Brooklyn who had a house in Montauk invited Nick to lunch in Montauk with the promise of the best linguini and clam sauce he'd ever tasted. For a man who owned one of the most successful Italian restaurants in Brooklyn, Monte's Venetian Room on Carroll Street, he had to admit he was intrigued. Upon arriving at his friend's home he was offered a glass of wine on the deck overlooking the ocean. The two men sat and talked for some time. They talked and then they talked some more...there they were sitting on the deck sipping wine jovially and languorously, when low and behold, the bottle was gone and lunch was nowhere to be found. So Nick thought it worth mentioning the promised lunch. Since neither of the men was in any condition to cook at that time, they decided to head over to Gurney's Inn for lunch.

At the time, Gurney's was owned by Mrs. Maude Gurney, who happened to be a Christian Scientist. Christian Scientists do not believe in the consumption of alcohol, therefore the restaurant carried no liquor whatsoever. Well, here he was in such a beautiful place, with good food and a divine view and the glass of wine Nick Monte would have loved to savor with his meal was nowhere to be found! It seemed he had no choice but to offer to buy the restaurant and hotel from Mrs. Gurney so that he could properly enjoy his meal. Initially, after accepting his card, she refused his offer. But several months later, after giving the offer careful consideration, she phoned Nick to say that she was interested. If you ask him today, he will tell you that he never expected to hear from her ever again. Well, in fairly short order, the deal was struck, and Gurney's Inn became the property of Nick Monte.

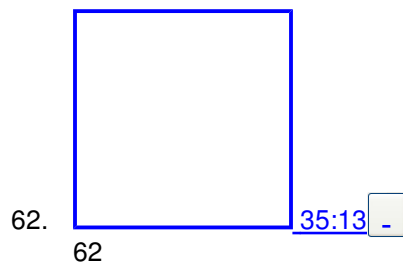

Always looking to preserve the best of what Montauk had to offer, Mr. Monte was very active and instrumental in having the Montauk Lighthouse designated as a National Historical Monument.

On April 17, 1979 when the International Health and Beauty Sea Water Spa was finished, it was officially opened by Mario Cuomo, then Lt. Governor of New York State. To this day it is still the only spa of its kind in the continental United States using healing Seawater in its Roman Baths, the heated indoor seawater pool, and the famous Thalasso-therapies.

Nick Monte's passion for Thalasso 'healing sea water' is passed on with the The Annual Nick Monte Lifetime Community Leadership Award which honors a person of the East End community. This individual demonstrates dedication, passion and creativity in preserving and supporting the Montauk community. The honoree has provided valuable service by contributing time and energy to improve the quality of life and preserving of the history of the community. The recipient receives a lifetime spa membership, a gift of health and well being.

He is survived by his loving wife of 17 years, Lola and his younger brother Angelo Monte. A memorial service and a celebration of his life are being planned for Sunday, November 18th at Gurney's Inn. Further details will be published when they are finalized. The family has asked that Memorial donations be made to the Edward S. Harkness Eye Institute at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. For more information contact Jane Heffner at 212-305-7827 or by email at jh2236@columbia.edu

Organic Farming: Can It Feed Us \(Part 1\)

by VVHTV 139,650 views

VVH-TV News Special
Organic Farming: Can It Feed Us? Part 1

Karl Grossman Chief Investigative Reporter examines Organic Farming on Eastern Long Island.

What is organic farming?

Organic farming can be defined as an approach to agriculture where the aim is to create integrated, humane, environmentally and economically sustainable agricultural production systems. Maximum reliance is placed on locally or farm-derived renewable resources and the management of self-regulating ecological and biological processes and interactions in order to provide acceptable levels of crop, livestock and human nutrition, protection from pests and diseases, and an appropriate return to the human and other resources employed. Reliance on external inputs, whether chemical or organic, is reduced as far as possible. In many European countries, organic agriculture is known as ecological agriculture, reflecting this reliance on ecosystem management rather than external inputs.

The objective of sustainability lies at the heart of organic farming and is one of the major factors determining the acceptability or otherwise of specific production practices. The term 'sustainable' is used in its widest sense, to encompass not just conservation of non-renewable resources (soil, energy, minerals) but also issues of environmental, economic and social sustainability. The term 'organic' is best thought of as referring to the concept of the farm as an organism, in which all the component parts - the soil minerals, organic matter, micro-organisms, insects, plants, animals and humans - interact to create a coherent and stable whole.

The key characteristics of organic farming include:

protecting the long term fertility of soils by maintaining organic matter levels, encouraging soil biological activity, and careful mechanical intervention;

providing crop nutrients indirectly using relatively insoluble nutrient sources which are made available to the plant by the action of soil micro-organisms;

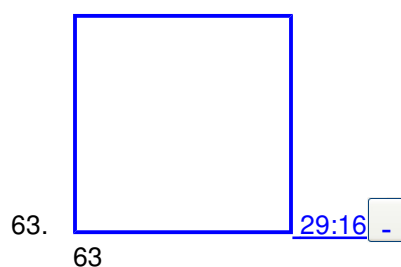

nitrogen self-sufficiency through the use of legumes and biological nitrogen fixation, as well as effective recycling of organic materials including crop residues and livestock manures;

weed, disease and pest control relying primarily on crop rotations, natural predators, diversity, organic manuring, resistant varieties and limited (preferably minimal) thermal, biological and chemical intervention;

the extensive management of livestock, paying full regard to their evolutionary adaptations, behavioural needs and animal welfare issues with respect to nutrition, housing, health, breeding and rearing;

careful attention to the impact of the farming system on the wider environment and the conservation of wildlife and natural habitats.

Bridgehampton Road Rallye 2007 \(Part 1\)

by VVHTV 2,930 views

Bridgehampton Road Rallye 2007

Racing History -Why We Rally in Bridgehampton.

As many autophyles know, the Bridgehampton area is steeped in racing history. Beginning in 1915, the Firemen sponsored street races as part of their summer carnival. Those races ran laps over a circular course that went east on Main Street, south on Halsey Lane, east on Paul's Lane, and back up Ocean Avenue to the monument. Homemade and modified cars piloted by local note-worthies like John Ambrose, Moosie Thompson, Court Rodgers and Norris Hopping put pressure on visiting racers as they reached speeds of up to 50mph. These early races continued through 1921. Racing revived in 1949 when Bruce Stevenson, inspired by the first Watkins Glen race in 1948, organized a similar event in Bridgehampton. Predominately European racing cars reached speeds in excess of 100mph on a 4.5 mile road course that ran clockwise up Ocean Avenue, across Sagaponac Road, down Sagg Main Street, and back along Bridge Lane. 1953 saw both the last Bridgehampton race and the end of open road racing in New York State. However, during those 5 years the likes of Briggs Cunningham, Tommy Cole, George Huntoon, Freddie Wacker, the Collier brothers, Bob Grossman, John Fitch, television personality Dave Garroway and many others raced at Bridgehampton in the greatest races of the era.

In 1957 the soon to be world famous Bridge Race Track opened on 500 acres of open land just north of the village. For over 35 years races of international importance took place on its winding course. Community pressure from new residents who objected to the noise of the races eventually led to the track closing. The land, atop an important aquifer, became the subject of considerable controversy, when purchasers of the old racetrack submitted plans for 'Golf at the Bridge'. Ironically, many maintain that the racecourse was a much better environmental use of the land.

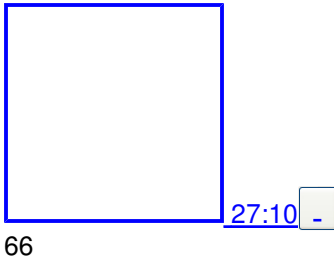

In 1993 the Jeffrey Vogel and the Bridgehampton Historical Society organized the first Vintage Sportscar Road Rally to commemorate and keep alive the hamlet's racing history. Although the high-speed thrills of the earlier races cannot be recreated, our rally follows the lead of the great street races of the world. Italy's Mille Miglia, the Tour de France, and Sicily's Targa Florio have all been reborn as timed rallies, featuring vintage cars.

For over a decade now, the Bridgehampton Rally has grown increasingly competitive. Our rally is a time and distance event. The course uses public roads complete with local traffic. Timing on each leg of the course is done to the 10th of each second. And often a few 10ths will decide the winner of a timing leg! Entrants must be skilled in driving, map reading and timekeeping to compete. The full rally regulations can be viewed in the Rules and Regulations section of this site.

Although initially only cars, which could have competed in the Bridgehampton road races, were eligible, this year the field will include sportscars made before 12-31-1969. If you are interested in participating, please Contact Us:

Homemade and modified cars piloted by local note-worthies like John Ambrose, Moosie Thompson, Court Rodgers and Norris Hopping put pressure on visiting racers as they reached speeds of up to 50mph. These early races continued through 1921.

Racing revived in 1949 when Bruce Stevenson, inspired by the first Watkins Glen race in 1948, organized a similar event in Bridgehampton. Predominately European racing cars reached speeds in excess of 100mph on a 4.5 mile road course that ran clockwise up Ocean Avenue, across Sagaponac Road, down Sagg Main Street, and back along Bridge Lane. 1953 saw both the last Bridgehampton race and the end of open road racing in New York State. However, during those 5 years the likes of Briggs Cunningham, Tommy Cole, George Huntoon, Freddie Wacker, the Collier brothers, Bob Grossman, John Fitch, television personality Dave Garroway and many others raced at Bridgehampton in the greatest races of the era.

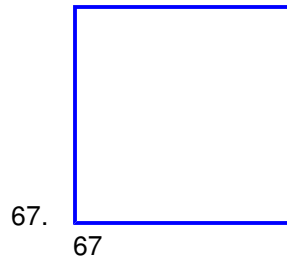

In 1957 the soon to be world famous Bridge Race Track opened on 500 acres of open land just north of the village. For over 35 years races of international importance took place on its winding course. Community pressure from new residents who objected to the noise of the races eventually led to the track closing. The land, atop an important aquifer, became the subject of considerable controversy, when purchasers of the old racetrack submitted plans for 'Golf at the Bridge'. Ironically, many maintain that the racecourse was a much better environmental use of the land.

In 1993 the Jeffrey Vogel and the Bridgehampton Historical Society organized the first Vintage Sportscar Road Rally to commemorate and keep alive the hamlet's racing history. Although the high-speed thrills of the earlier races cannot be recreated, our rally follows the lead of the great street races of the world. Italy's Mille Miglia, the Tour de France, and Sicily's Targa Florio have all been reborn as timed rallies, featuring vintage cars.

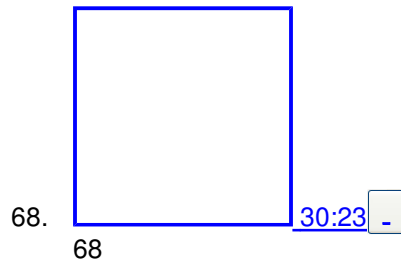

For over a decade now, the Bridgehampton Rally has grown increasingly competitive. Our rally is a time and distance event. The course uses public roads complete with local traffic. Timing on each leg of the course is done to the 10th of each second. And often a few 10ths will decide the winner of a timing leg! Entrants must be skilled in driving, map reading and timekeeping to compete. The full rally regulations can be viewed in the Rules and Regulations section of this site.

Although initially only cars, which could have competed in the Bridgehampton road races, were eligible, this year the field will include sportscars made before 12-31-1969. If you are interested in participating, please Contact Us:

Hampton Bays Lions Club "Tournament of the Clubs" 2007. Part One

Lions are an international network of 1.3 million men and women in 200 countries and geographic areas who work together to answer the needs that challenge communities around the world.

Known for working to end preventable blindness, Lions participate in a vast variety of projects important to their communities. These projects range from cleaning up local parks to providing supplies to victims of natural disasters.

Beginning in 1917, the association of Lions clubs has provided millions of people with the opportunity to give something back to their communities.

The Hampton Bays Lions Club is involved in a variety of activities to improve the communities of Hampton Bays and East Quogue. We strongly support local youth programs, such as scouting, sport or scholastic scholarships and our programs are continually changing to meet the ever-changing needs of the community.

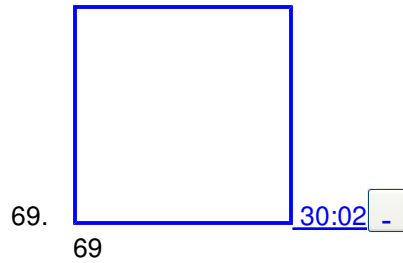

MISSION STATEMENT

To create and foster a spirit of understanding among all people for humanitarian needs by providing voluntary services through community involvement and international cooperation. The Lions motto is "We Serve."

VVH-TV News -- Lyme Disease: Medical Nightmare \(Part 1\)

by VVHTV 39,510 views

Lyme disease -- it has become epidemic on Long Island and much of the New York Metropolitan Area, indeed across the United States. But as bad as the illness has become, so has treatment for it -- health insurers have discouraged long-term treatment for what is often a long-term illness. Suffolk County Long Island Legislator Edward Romaine recently held a public meeting on Lyme disease.

Eva Haughie, President, Empire State Lyme Disease Association. She has had Lyme disease for nearly 20 years. Her association is based in Manorville. Dr. Joseph Burrascano, East Hampton, New York He is a pioneer in the treatment of Lyme disease. And because of the push by medical insurers to only cover short-term treatment -- two, three or four weeks of antibiotics -- and Dr. Burrascano having developed a protocol for treating the many people who are not cured in the short-term but have chronic Lyme disease, he ended up being attacked. But he came through it and is regarded as a major leader in the field. Staci Grodin, Co-Founder and President, Turn the Corner Foundation. A

Lyme Diseases victim, her Turn the Corner Foundation has raised over $2 million and funded important Lyme disease research. Sandy Berenbaum, Licensed Clinical Social Worker, Brewster, New York. She has specialized with working with those with chronic Lyme disease. Her accounts were most poignant, and her explanation of why health insurers balk at providing compensation for long-term treatment most illuminating. Diane Blanchard, President, Time for Lyme. A former resident of Westhampton, where she and members of her family contracted Lyme disease, she presently lives in Greenwich, Connecticut. Her organization, Time for Lyme, focuses on education and research. Suffolk County Health Commissioner Dr. Humayan Chaudhry. confirms how Lyme disease has become "endemic". Suffolk County Legislator Edward Romaine New York State Assemblyman Fred W. Thiele, Jr., Sag Harbor, New York who talks about the bill he has before the New York State Assembly requiring health insurers to provide compensation for long-term treatment of Lyme diseases -- a measure that has been bottled up in Albany. Shelter Island Town Supervisor Alfred Kilb, Jr. Shelter Island has long been a particular hotspot for Lyme disease and Kilb describes Shelter Islanders he knows with chronic cases of the disease.

Hampton Classic Horse Show 2007

by VVHTV 4,921 views

The Hampton Classic Horse Show (generally referred to as the "Hampton Classic") is a Grand Prix show jumping horse show in Bridgehampton, New York that is one of the biggest show jumping contests in the United States.

Held over Labor Day in Southampton (town), New York, it is one of the biggest social bashes in the Hamptons scene and signals the grand finale of the summer season.

The roots of the show go to the early 1900s in Southampton to a show that was discontinued during World War I. It was revived in the 1920's and then discontinued again in World War II. It was revived a third time in 1959 as the Southampton Horse Show which was discontinued in the mid-1960s.

The current show started in 1971 by the Topping Riding Club in Sagaponack, New York as a one-day show. In 1976 it became a five-day rated show held initially at Dune Alpin Farm in East Hampton (town), New York. In 1978, its name was formally changed to the Hampton Classic and in 1982 it moved to its present location on Snake Hollow Road Bridgehampton.

In 2006 its web site indicates it has 1,300 horses exhibited and over $500,000 in prize money.

Olympic Medalist Chris Kappler, aboard his mare, VDL Oranta, competing at the $150,000 Prudential Grand Prix at the 2006 Hampton Classic. The social scene that accompanies the show has led to its heavy upscale sponsorships. In 2006 its VIP Tent could house 3,000 served by white-coated waiters. Visitors promenaded the grounds often with dogs and showing off elaborate hats, which are commonly worn to the prestigious Grand Prix, held on the last Sunday of the show.

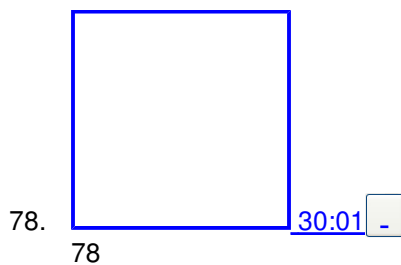

The show is held at the peak of Atlantic hurricane season and several shows have had to deal with hurricanes or the rains associated with them. In 1976 the tents were flattened in one storm just before the show. The jumping contests continue even in the rain and are discontinued only when real hazards are posed to horse and rider.

Profits from the show go to Southampton Hospital.

VVH-TV News Special Report: Broadwater on LI Sound \(Pt 2\)

by VVHTV 843 views

VVH-TV News Chief Investigative Reporter Karl Grossman interviews individuals on both sides of the Broadwater LNG Project on Long Island Sound.

Shell and TransCanada Energy, two of North America's largest energy companies, have proposed building a 10-story-high, four-football-field-long (about the size of the Queen Mary cruise liner) liquid natural gas storage facility in the middle of LIS.

The proposed facility would be 75 to 100 feet tall. It would be four football fields long and larger than the QE2. It would be anchored 10.5 miles from Cosey Beach Park in East Haven, about 17 miles from the Long Island Sound Ferry, and 18 miles from Hammonasset Beach.

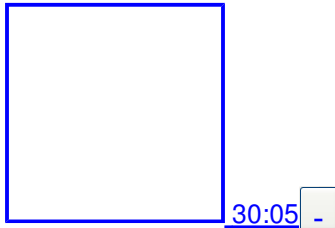

But, as most people know, the Sound is one of the most beautiful and significant bodies of water in the United States. In 1987, after Congress allocated funds for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to research, monitor, and assess the water quality of the Sound, it became an Estuary of National Significance. It contains thousands of species of wildlife, and is a vital part of our nation's environment. And, it provides employment and recreational opportunities for hundreds of thousands of people throughout our region.

Over the past ten years, the federal government, and the states of Connecticut and New York, have spent hundreds of millions of dollars to restore and protect the water quality of this national treasure.

TransCanada and Shell have also made it clear that the natural gas they would import to the factory-like facility they call "Broadwater" will be from sources outside of North America. The proposal for a natural gas storage facility in the middle of Long Island Sound is not environmentally sustainable. A sustainable project would have to incorporate both an aggressive energy efficiency and conservation effort.

VVH-TV News Special Report on PLUM ISLAND

by VVHTV 34,341 views

VVH-TV News Chief Investigative Reporter Karl Grossman interviews author Long Island native and lawyer Michael Christopher Carroll about his work "Lab 257". This work takes us on a shocking journey inside the notorious Plum Island biological research facility. Carroll spent five years researching this highly detailed and powerful account of the secretive government installation that sits just off the coast of some of New York's prime real estate, an installation that has had its share of meltdowns, mishaps and downright scary security breaches, including two known releases of deadly viruses into the air.

Owned by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Plum Island lies just off the coast of the North Fork of Long Island. This otherwise uninhabited, woodsy island has a long history of controversy and secrecy, as Carroll so intricately details, and just may have put the millions of residents of the Tri-State area in utter danger of exposure to fatal animal diseases, including Rift Valley fever, West Nile virus, and even anthrax, time and time again.

Lab 257 is a wake-up call to people to be more aware of what goes on in their own backyards. Labs like these exist all over the country, some more visible than others. Shoring up our crumbling biological research labs and accounting for the hundreds of vials of deadly viruses and microbes might be a better use of our time, our taxes and our energy. Plum Island, and its history of danger to millions of citizens, is proof of that indeed.

VVH-TV News attempted to have an interview with officials from the Department of Homeland Security but were denied.

Baby Swans' First Swim in East Hampton \(Town Pond\)

by VVHTV 11,550 views

Five baby swan (cygnets) were successfully hatched on the banks of Hook Pond today in East Hampton. Mother sat for nearly 35 days through all sorts of conditions guarding her eggs. Every egg hatched. It was a beautiful site to see these babies take to the water for the first time with their mom and dad proudly standing by.

Swans usually mate for life, though "divorce" does sometimes occur, particularly following nesting failure. The number of eggs in each clutch is between 3--8. If the mother is not present the male will sit on the eggs until they are hatched. These wonderful creatures are the personification of love and family.

In this latest installment of "Slaves of Fashion," Berlin's mostly black and white "cocktail party" paintings, the Artist delves into the hidden world of "what people are thinking." The paintings were inspired by an ongoing series of personal interviews to discover the secret motivations of fashionable friends, acquaintances and complete strangers. Featured works include: "The Age of Innocence," "The Costume Party," "The Happy Couple," "The Single Girl," and "The Last Cigarette." This exhibition will also feature a 240 pound bronze "inny," "The Colossal Bellybutton" from Berlin's innovative Bellybutton sculpture series.

"Sometimes people will tell their hairdresser, or a 'stranger on a train,' secrets that they wouldn't trust with their mother, lover or best friend. So much more is going on than first meets the eye..."

VERA WANG AND PAMELA FIORI
Discuss The Art of Fashion at Guild Hall

On Saturday morning, October 3, Pamela Fiori, co-guest curator of The Art of Fashion in the Hamptons and editor-in-chief of Town&Country will interview the noted designer Vera Wang in the John Drew Theater at Guild Hall. The discussion will explore Ms. Wang's impressive career, her current collection, as well as her vision for the vignette now currently on view as part of the fashion exhibition in the Guild Hall Museum.

Vera Wang is an icon in the fashion industry and I look forward to speaking with her about her design philosophy, said Pamela Fiori, This is a rare opportunity for those fascinated by fashion to hear one of the world's top designers discuss the art and business of design.

Vera Wang is one of nine esteemed designers, including Tory Burch, Betsey Johnson, Donna Karan, Calvin Klein, Reed Krakoff, Ralph Lauren, Nicole Miller, and Elie Tahari, showcased in The Art of Fashion in the Hamptons. The exhibition, on view through October 12, celebrates fashion, art and life on the East End of Long Island. The show is co-curated by Ms. Fiori and Stan Herman, designer and past president of the Council of Fashion Designers of America (CFDA).

Art on loan from Guild Halls permanent collection, as well as from local artists, are exhibited in vignettes created by each designer, all of whom have ties to the East End. This is the first collaboration of its kind and, as such, sparks with creativity. There is also a pictorial survey of fashions in the Hamptons ranging from 1907 until today.

Vera Wang Vignette Statement

For me, this exhibit is about the sensuality, charm, and simplicity of the Hamptons. The light, the air, the calm...it represents the other side of the New York lifestyle and a valuable respite from all the excitement and energy of the city. My personal process of creating garments is one that feels natural and organic and truly symbolic of my connection to the East End. The clothes I have chosen reflect the ease and artsy attitude of my design philosophy-texture and transparency mixed with different plays on proportion and fit. A playful yet edgy take on sophistication with an emphasis on detail.

Fiesta! at Guild Hall on VVH-TV

Celebrating Latino culture, Guild Hall will hosted Fiesta!, a free day of family fun for all ages This is the first time the venue is hosting the event since it began its renovation of the John Drew Theater last year. Typically, Fiesta! is held each spring, but with the recent completion of the theater, Guild Hall decided the fall would be a great time to once again celebrate the Latin American heritage that is so prevalent on the East End. "It's not just for the Latin American community out here," said Melissa Erb, associate for public programming at Guild Hall. "It's a great way to bring the entire community together."

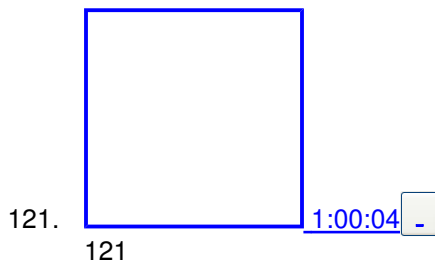

Dancers from New York City's Calpulli Mexican Dance Company were featured at the John Drew Theater. The group, which culls its name from the Nahuatl word that refers to Aztec clans that were organized by their trade, is committed to educational programming and performances touting Mexican dance, music and theatre. The performers dress in full native costume and take members from the audience on stage to learn the dances to make for a truly interactive afternoon, Erb said.

Art teachers and students from local schools will volunteer their time for the children's arts and craft workshop. Children will got a hands on look at traditional Latin American crafts, such as Mexican ornaments and Chilean rainsticks.

For older children and teenagers, as well as adults, the day was rounded out by a showcase of local musicians sponsored by Crossroads Music. Mr. No-Shame, a group that features musicians from different ethnic backgrounds, performed their eclectic sound, which mixes rock music with jazz, Latin music and funk. Raul Cardenas, a songwriter from Ecuador performed, as will Duo Sentimental: Rafael y Juan, who are from Colombia and part of the group Escola De Samba Boom.

"We're trying to tap into a wide range of audiences," Erb said. "It's a really full day and we're doing a lot of different things." Guild Hall is expecting several hundred people to turn out for the event, and already they're hoping to expand it to a week-long event next year, she added.

About the James Beard Foundation

Founded in 1986, the James Beard Foundation is dedicated to celebrating, nurturing, and preserving America's diverse culinary heritage and future. A cookbook author and teacher with an encyclopedic knowledge about food, James Beard, who died in 1985, was a champion of American cuisine. He helped educate and mentor generations of professional chefs and food enthusiasts. Today, the Beard Foundation continues in the same spirit by administering a number of diverse programs that include educational initiatives, food industry awards, scholarships to culinary schools, and publications, and by maintaining the historic James Beard House in New York City's Greenwich Village as a "performance space" for visiting chefs. Fisherman's Fair in the Springs - East Hampton

The 78th Annual Fisherman's Fair

East Hampton - The 78th annual Fisherman's Fair took place on Saturday, August 14 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. as always, a delight for children, gourmands, shoppers and art lovers alike. It filled the grounds at Ashawagh Hall and the Springs Library which you'll find at 780 Springs Fireplace Road in Springs (that's the village four miles northeast of Nick & Toni's). It's the event of the season for folks and fisherpersons who really want to have fun.

For the kids there was pony rides and games galore. For the kids in all of us the blacksmith shop was open and taking us back to horseshoe days. The food ran from clam chowder from heaven to hot dogs by the hundreds. The selection of plants and flowers promises to be the best ever. And there are fine crafts by artists from here and from afar of every kind for sale. The 43nd Annual Springs Invitational art show will be starting its second week and hopefully a few beauties will be left unsold. But if not there will be an exceptional selection of signed and numbered posters from previous years for sale and other limited editions, as well. You'll find signed posters by Elaine deKooning, Pearle Fine, Miriam Shapiro, Bill King, John Opper, Herman Cherry, Ibram Lassaw, John Little, Clause Hoie, Constantine Nivola, Ilya Bolotowsky, John Brooks, Arnold Hoffman, Robert Richenberg and Ray Parker. And limited edition posters by Willem de Kooning, Lee Krasner, Jackson Pollack and many others. You can become a Springs artists collector in just one day. The prices are more than reasonable and they all look great on the wall.

The Fisherman's Fair brings East Hampton to life every August come rain or shine. And just down the road you'll find the Pollack Krasner House and kind of around the corner the legendary Green River Cemetery. It's also the 101st Anniversary of the Springs Improvement Society which has brought the artists and craftsmen of the Springs together for more than a century.

62nd Annual Artists and Writers Charity Softball Game 2010

In the late 1940s, artists and others on the East End of Long Island would get together to play softball in Springs. These included Willem de Kooning and his wife, Jackson Pollock and more. Several writers joined them. Then in 1968, a group of artists and writers in the Hamptons challenged each other to a game of softball to raise money to cover the legal costs of two artists who had protested the Vietnam War. Since then, the event has been held each year in the summer. Today, the Artists & Writers Charity Softball Game takes place annually in East Hampton, NY and raises funds for charities like The East End Hampton Day Care Center, The Retreat (for battered women and abused children) and East End Hospice.

What makes this annual event so exciting are the celebrity players. In the past, team players have included Alec Baldwin, Christie Brinkley, Lori Singer, B. Smith, Donny Deutsch, Jay McInerney, Dustin Hoffman, Kurt Vonnegut, George Plimpton, John Irving, and many others who've tossed out softballs and swung bats for charity.

The event usually takes place on an August afternoon in Herrick Park in East Hampton, NY. visit the official charity softball site at Artists & Writers Charity Softball Game <http://www.artistswritersgame.org/>

Saving Nikola Tesla's Laboratory - Special Report VVH-TV News

by VVHTV 102,940 views

Wardencllyffe: Tesla's Only Remaining Laboratory with Karl Grossman, Chief Investigative Reporter, WVVH-TV News

In 1901, Tesla purchased 200 acres on Long Island's north shore from James Warden. These 200 acres were part of an 1,800 acre potato farm along what is today Route 25A in Shoreham, NY. The site became known as Wardencllyffe, after the former owner. Here, Tesla established what would become his only remaining laboratory building. Here, in Shoreham on Long Island that at the turn into the last century, the great inventor Nikola Tesla built a tower with which he hoped to transmit electric power through the air to anywhere in the world.

The purpose of the Wardencllyffe laboratory was the establishment of a wireless telegraphy plant. The prestigious architectural firm of McKin, Mead, and White was contracted to design the laboratory and transmitter tower (187 feet high above ground and 120 feet deep below ground level). Stanford White became the architect for the building.

Tesla's plan had the initial backing of the financier J.P. Morgan. The red brick laboratory building can still be seen on the north side of Route 25A between the intersection of Randall Road and the Shoreham Fire Department. During the last week of July 1903, residents around the Shoreham site experienced what was to be the only testing of Tesla's equipment at this facility. Several days after these tests, his dream was destroyed when creditors from Westinghouse confiscated his heavier equipment for nonpayment for services rendered. In addition, James Warden sued Tesla for nonpayment of back taxes. In 1917, the 187-foot tower was destroyed by dynamite explosion as ordered by the U.S.

government. It was demolished the same year by the Smiley Steel Company.

Nikola Tesla was a giant -- the man behind the establishment of alternating current which is at the foundation of how the world became electrified, he invented much in the way of how radio signals are transmitted, and fluorescent lighting, and the bladeless turbine, and on and on.

The son of Serbian parents, he came to the United States in 1894 with four cents.

In 1939, the Peerless Photo Company purchased the property to manufacture emulsions for photographic film and paper. Additional buildings were constructed. In 1969, it became Agfa-Gevaert, Inc., at that time a division of the Bayer Corporation. In 1987, manufacturing ended, and the facility was closed down. Since then, the entire facility has remained dormant. It is noteworthy that, in 1967, the laboratory building was the first to be listed on the Town of Brookhaven registry of historic sites.

The Tesla Science Center has been established to preserve the land and laboratory, Nikola Tesla's last and only existing laboratory, in Shoreham, NY (USA) into a science and technology center and museum celebrating Tesla and his work.

The second interview is with: Dr. Christopher Wesselborg, Physicist, Associate Editor , Physical Review ,American Physical Society and Secretary ,Tesla Science Center at Wardencllyffe

The third interview is with Dr. Margaret C. Foster, Physicist, , Associate Editor , Physical Review, American Physical Society

The Friar's Club honored legendary comedian and humanitarian Jerry Lewis with a Lifetime Achievement Award. Quentin Tarantino was on hand to present Lewis with his honorary bust.

Jerry Lewis is best-known for his slapstick humor in stage, radio, screen, recording and television. He was originally paired up with Dean Martin in 1946, forming the comedy team of Martin and Lewis. In addition to the team's popular nightclub work, they starred in a successful series of comedy films for Paramount Pictures. As an innovative filmmaker, Lewis is credited with inventing the video assist system in cinematography. Lewis is also known for his charity fund-raising telethons and position as national chairman for the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA).

Lewis has won several awards for lifetime achievements from The American Comedy Awards, The Golden Camera, Los Angeles Film Critics Association, and The Venice Film Festival, and he has two stars on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. In 2005, he received the Governors Award of the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences Board of Governors, which is the highest Emmy Award presented. On February 22, 2009, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences awarded Jerry Lewis the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award.

James Beard Foundation Chefs & Champagne 2011 Honoring Emeril Lagasse

A beloved chef, Emeril Lagasse made cooking and good food fun with his popular TV show Emeril Live. In addition to this success, Lagasse is the chef/proprietor of 12 restaurants and the author of 15 cookbooks. We are thrilled to honor this talented culinarian at this year's Chefs & Champagne for his contributions not only to the world of food, but also for his dedication to educational programs that help young people discover the wonders of the culinary arts. "What an honor to be recognized by the James Beard Foundation," said Emeril Lagasse. "I am looking forward to being part of such an incredible event, among exceptional colleagues, and most importantly, where the fundraising will be dedicated to supporting students' culinary education."

Chefs & Champagne in New York is the James Beard Foundation's annual summer tasting party. It features flowing Champagne, the wines of Wolfers Estate Vineyard, Stella Artois beers, and culinary offerings from a select group of more than 30 fine chefs, many from JBF Award-winning restaurants. The 2011 recipient of the Christian Wolfers Scholarship for wine and food studies will also be announced.

by VVHTV 110 views

The 80th annual Springs Fisherman's Fair took place on Saturday, August 11th from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and was a delight for children, foodies, shoppers and art lovers alike. It fills the grounds at Ashawagh Hall and the Springs Library (780 Springs Fireplace Road) in Springs.

For the kids there was games galore a water-slide, fish painting and much more. The food ran from marvelous fresh shucked clams to chowder from heaven to hot dogs by the hundreds and mouthwatering clam pies. Plus, local corn on the cob, heirloom tomatoes and lots of beer and soda. A wide selection of local plants and flowers. As well as a fine crafts by artists from here and from afar of every kind for sale and the really big Springs Library book sale.

The Fisherman's Fair brings East Hampton to life every August come rain or shine. And just down the road you'll find the Pollack Krasner House this year celebrating Pollack's 100th Birthday. It's also the 102nd Anniversary of the Springs Improvement Society which has brought the artists and craftsmen of the Springs together for more than a century.

Frazer Dougherty Interview on VVH-TV's "American Dream Show" with host Ingrid Lemme filming before a live audience at Gurney's Inn in Montauk, NY.

Frazer Dougherty, a vigorous, fit-looking gentleman, has this thing about free speech and the First Amendment. What thrills him more than anything, he says, is witnessing democracy in action. Mr. Frazer Dougherty born in 1922 in Wyncote, PA, He served six years as a pilot flying B-25 planes in New Guinea during WWII. Founder of LTV, a public access station in East Hampton of which he hosted a daily talk show "Hello, Hello". Before then he was an industrial designer who in the 1940's helped design and build, with Robert Edison Fulton Jr., the Airphibian, a combination automobile and airplane that is now in the Smithsonian.

Dougherty's passion for participatory democracy produced its first offspring in 1983, when he and three democracy produced its first offspring in 1983, when he and three friends (Russell Stein, Jill Keefe and William King) formed LTV to provide public access television for the East End. by VVHTV 45 views

"On The Water & In The Field" Cornell Cooperative weekly show Every Saturday @2:30pm on VVH-TV

On The Water & In The Field is a half hour magazine format news show covering Cornell Cooperative Extension of Suffolk County's Marine Program & the Agriculture Stewardship Program projects and activities. Hosted by Kim Barbour a longtime advocate/educator of the Peconic Estuary Program and currently runs "Marine Meadows" an outreach of the Marine Programs eelgrass research & restoration projects. With 30 years of television experience the show is directed, shot & edited by Rory MacNish, Cornell Cooperative Extension of Suffolk Multimedia expert.

"On The Water & In The Field" is informative and entertaining as it discovers our local natural environment through the activities of the Marine Program, such topics as the Peconic Bay Scallop comeback or "How to Clam", Stormwater runoff issues are looked at. The producers at OTW&ITF know what happens on the land affects the water and we have included the Agriculture Stewardship Program to our roster and go out in the field and bring back to our viewers these important issues.

OTW&ITF is not all about research and education; we also like to have some fun! So included in the show is an entertaining segment on what to do in and around our waterways. Sailing, fishing, boating, restaurants and so much more will be included in each show. So we hope to see you out "On The Water & In The Field" on WVVH TV, FiOS 14, Cablevision 78.

Bennett "3 separate established musicians coming from 3 different backgrounds didn't mesh together right away...but you could hear potential." So says Nick Rolls, the 19-year-old violin/mandolin/vocalist for Bennett recalling their somewhat disastrous first band practice. However, his word choice is fitting. "Potential" is an accurate word for the band. The definition of potential lists one meaning as "unrealized ability and capacity." However, Bennett differs from this definition in the fact that their ability is quickly and strongly becoming realized, by many, many people.

Curated by professional filmmakers from the Suffolk County Film Commission, this is an hour-long exhibition of the "best of the best" high school short narrative, documentary, and animated films pulled from the Long Island Media Arts Showcase at Five Towns College in Dix Hills. Hundreds compete, but only a handful make the cut. Hal Hartley (Henry Fool, Trust, The Unbelievable Truth), Fred Carpenter (The Blue Lizard), Michael Cuesta (L.I.E., Roadie, Twelve and Holding, TV's Homeland), and Alexandra Brodsky (Bittersweet Place), to name a few, got inspired by their suburban environment and the films they saw at the Cinema Arts Centre. Perhaps one of these talented students will follow in their footsteps? Past winners have gone on to prestigious college film programs and are enjoying a career in film production. Films from the First Exposure Student Film Festival have been featured at the prestigious Hamptons Film Festival

Nile Rodgers Announces Special Guest AVICII for BNB Presents -- AFTEE Nile Rodgers Dance Party
The legendary Nile Rodgers today announced that his special guest for the inaugural BNB Presents, AFTEE Nile Rodgers Dance Party, is the multi-platinum and grammy nominated, young swedish EDM DJ, AVICII. On Monday, August 19, AVICII will join Nile Rodgers for an evening of cross generational dance music to benefit the new organization All For The East End (AFTEE), formed to raise funds that will support, through a grant process, the over 1,000 not-for-profits that make the East End of Long Island such a special place to live and visit. The concert will take place at Martha Clara Vineyards in Riverhead. Gates open at 5pm. VIP and General Admission Tickets are now available only on-line, at AFTEE.org.

Nile Rodgers says the AFTEE event will be the "greatest dance party the East End of Long Island has every seen. Dance Music unites, Dance Music is happy and the Nile Rodgers Dance Party will bring all ages to the dance floor."

Nile Rodgers is the dance music genius who founded the band CHIC and has brought us hits like Dance

Dance Dance, Everybody Dance, I Want Your Love, Le Freak (Aw Freak Out!), Good Times, Greatest Dancer, We Are Family, I'm Coming Out, Upside Down, Like A Virgin, Lets Dance, to name a few. Nile has produced some of the biggest hits in the careers of Madonna, David Bowie, Duran Duran and Diana Ross. He has co-written and plays his trusty Fender "THE HITMAKER" on the new Daft Punk's anthem of the summer "Get Lucky" which has broken records for being the first song in history to go # 1 in 79 countries and counting.

AVICII, at 22, the self-taught, fresh-faced Swede has had greater success than most could ever hope for in a lifetime. With chart-toppers as Seek Bromance, My Feelings For You, Fade into Darkness, Silhouettes and LE7ELS, Avicii has, since 2008, risen from bedroom music-maker to international superstar.

"We are very excited about this inaugural concert," says Myron Levine, AFTEE president and founder, "and we are very lucky to head out of the gate with such an amazing program produced by Nile Rodgers. We anticipate this will be the first annual AFTEE, Nile Rodgers Dance Party and the funds raised will help the not-for-profits here fulfill their missions."

AFTEE organizers have been working on the concert project for over a year. Bridgehampton National Bank, a 100 year old community bank rooted on the East End, committed almost immediately as the presenting sponsor. Fundraising has been in full swing with over $200,000 raised so far. Other major sponsors include Austin & Williams Advertising, Ben Krupinski Builders, Cablevision, Dan's Papers, Martha Clara Vineyards, Norsic and Sons, Pure Insurance, Sothebys, Tanger Outlets and Weber + Grahn. They are joined by the Eastern Long Island Hospital Foundation, Cook Maran Associates, Peconic Bay Medical Foundation, Riverhead Building Supply, the Long Island Community foundation and Southampton Hospital Foundation among others.

ALL FOR THE EAST END is a 501(c)(3) non-profit establishment whose primary purpose is to raise awareness of the role not-for-profit organizations play in making the east end of Long Island one of the most desirable places to live in the world and to establish a fund of new money that they will have access to through a grant process. The Long Island Community Foundation will manage and administer the disbursement of funds obtained through AFTEE's efforts. There are over 1,075 registered 501(c)(3) organizations in the east end towns.

Mission

LongHouse Reserve exemplifies living with art in all its forms. Founded by Jack Lenor Larsen, its collections, gardens, sculpture and programs, reflect world cultures and inspire a creative life.

Garden Focus

The gardens at LongHouse serve as a living case study of the interaction between plants and people in the 21st century. We not only create landscapes as an art form, we simultaneously demonstrate planting potentials in this climate ¶ with a wide variety of natural and cultivated species. Sharing these extensive plant collections, and experiencing them in relation to living spaces, over time, and with seasonal changes, is the chief pleasure for Mr. Larsen and the LHR staff. It is also the soundest learning experience.

Art Focus

LongHouse embraces a comprehensive view of art. Our goal is to expand the imagination and appeal to visitors of all ages and every level of appreciation. Ethnographic works and handcrafts share the spotlight with the best of modern art. One can view many of the 60 works in our gardens, along with those of visiting artists. Glass installations by Chihuly, ceramics by Takaezu, and bronzes by Barcel□ , Baechler, de Kooning, Voukos, Nivola, Hunt, and Benglis, as well as works by Masatoshi, Ossorio, Bury, Ono, Soga, Kraitz, LeWitt, Rosenthal, and Opocensky, while Buckminster Fuller's Fly's Eye Dome keeps watch over all.

Education Focus

Inspired by the natural beauty and sculptural aesthetic at LongHouse, the Education Committee seeks to empower visitors in a compelling and personal way. By providing a variety of resources to enhance one's experience, we strive to awaken the senses, deepen one's appreciation and empower the artist within. We provide docent-led school tours, curriculum and family-activity guides, on-line materials, and video. It is our intent that these resources along with our festivals, workshops, and invitational Student Annual will build strong lasting relationships between LongHouse and our students, educators, families and community.

VVH-TV News - "The \(Unusual\) Jewish History of Sag Harbor"

VVH-TV News - "The (Unusual) Jewish History of Sag Harbor"

Temple Adas Israel in Sag Harbor. The oldest synagogue on Long Island, it describes itself. Outside New York City that is. It began as Temple Mishican Israel, with its first services in 1898 for Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish new year. Legend has it that it received its first torah --the first five books of the Hebrew Bible -- from Teddy Roosevelt. The torah had been used when Roosevelt and his Rough Riders, after fighting in Cuba during the Spanish-American War, were quarantined for a time in Montauk.

Although Roosevelt was accepting, it was a time when Jews were not accepted on much of Long Island's South Fork. Sag Harbor's nearby villages of East Hampton and Southampton were basically off-limits to Jews. But Jews, unusually, were welcome here in Sag Harbor.. (I'm pretty sure I said this directly to the camera. Joseph Fahys built what became a watchcase factory in Sag Harbor. Fahys sought out Jewish engravers from Hungary, where engraving was a fine art among Jews. He or his representatives would meet them after they arrived on Ellis Island and bring them to Sag Harbor. This is why my grandfather and grandmother came to Sag Harbor.

Hungarian Jews -- like Hungarians in general -- have considered themselves special. Indeed, the language and food of Hungary are very unique. The Hungarian Jews who came to work at Fahys watchcase factory didn't get along with Jews already here, shopkeepers in the main, from Russia and Poland and other places where Jews had been dispersed. The Hungarian Jews prayed above the Engraver's Hall along Main Street.

In the 1920s there was a major fire in Sag Harbor and then and, of course, during the Depression, Sag Harbor was suffering with the rest of the nation economically. In the early 1940s, the temple was only open on High Holy days. Change occurred in 1948 as Sag Harbor was discovered by artists and writers and young professionals -- and the temple became Conservative, the middle branch between Orthodox and the most liberal Jewish branch, Reform. In 1938 its name was changed to Temple Adas Israel.

The congregation only met from the spring festival of Shavouth, commemorating Moses receiving the torah and also the festival of the harvest of the first fruits, to the high holy days, Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur, in the fall. Then, in 2010, Rabbi Morris, after 10 years at Adas Israel part-time, became full-time. He moved to Sag Harbor with his wife, Dasee Berkowitz, who became the temple's educational consultant. And the temple, as it says on its website, became "renewed and reinvigorated. There is now a thriving Hebrew School, all sorts of cultural activities and events -- many directed at young people.

Meanwhile, Sag Harbor itself is being renewed and reinvigorated, with that watchcase factory the centerpiece. After sitting, a big derelict building, for decades, it is being renovated as a apartment complex called The Watchcase.

What would my grandfather and grandmother say now? All their families who didn't leave Europe -- my family -- were murdered in the Holocaust. They would smile at Jews being accepted in this golden land-- especially in Sag Harbor.

I'm Karl Grossman Chief Investigative Reporter for WVVH-TV. Thank you for watching.
